Both drivers escaped unhurt but an estimated $20,000 damage was caused when two transports collided on No. 401 Highway, six miles east of the city shortly before noon today. An Arrow Transit transport was eastbound and is said to have swung across onto the left lane intending to make a U-turn as a Smith transport, carrying 14 tons of mixed freight, also eastbound, attempted to pass. Transport jackknifed on the centre boulevard.

Chiang Shocked At Dulles' Plan For Withdrawal

Wants Forces on Isles Cut After Cease-Fire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to put heavy pressure on Nationalist China to pull back forces from the offshore islands near Communist territory if the Reds accept a cease-fire in the Formosa area.

The line taken by State Secretary Dulles at his press conference Tuesday strongly indicated that the Eisenhower administration intends to exert maximum pressure and more restrictive influence on the Nationalists than it has in the past.

But on Formosa Chiang Kai-shek voiced disbelief that Dulles had said it would not be "wise or prudent" for the Nationalists to maintain a large force on the islands if a cease-fire can be arranged.

WISHFUL THINKING

"Mr. Dulles must know," Chiang said in an interview, "that it is only wishful thinking to ask the Chinese Communists for a cease-fire."

The Chinese leader said his government would be under no obligation to heed an American declaration of policy on Quemoy and the other islands.

Essentially Dulles held out to Red China, and the Soviet Union, the prospect of a deal to "settle" Formosa area. The first U.S. pronouncement of an end to the present heavy Communist artillery attacks on the islands of Quemoy.

He reiterated the announced U.S. determination not to retreat under fire but talked mostly about arrangements that might be made if the present limited combat could be stopped.

THREE MAIN POINTS

Dulles said:

1. The Chinese Nationalists as well as the Communists should agree to a renunciation of the use of force in their disputes.

2. The Nationalists could not return to the mainland "by their own strength" and the United States has no commitment of any kind to assist them.

3. The United States considered it "foolish" for the Nationalist government to put into the offshore islands as many troops as it has there now—estimated total well over 100,000. If a cease-fire could be arranged Dulles went on, "it would be our judgment, military judgment even, that it would not be wise or prudent to keep them there."

Arrested Man Unable to Make $1,000 Bond

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — A 32-year-old Canadian uranium prospector and promoter, arrested Monday in Galveston, was in jail here unable to make $1,000 bond.

Federal officials said they had been seeking Paul Joseph Lamothe since 1952 on charges of illegally transporting silver and tungsten ore into the United States at Niagara Falls.

"I did take it across the border and I'm not pleading guilty to the charge," Lamothe said during his arraignment.

He denied that he jumped a $1,000 bond in Buffalo in 1953 after being charged with illegally importing.

"I just went home to Toronto and waited two years," he said. "When I didn't hear any more from the charges I forgot them."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — The weather is still generally fine like over Ontario on this first day of October. Snow was reported in northern sections while scattered showers and snowflurries accompanied near-freezing temperatures in central sections.

The cool weather will continue over the province Thursday but diminishing winds and more sunshine are expected.

Spencer Moosa, Associated Press correspondent with many years experience in Formosa and the Far East, here reports as an exclusive interview with Nationalist Chinese President Chiang Kai-shek. The interview was obtained after State Secretary Dulles' statements Tuesday regarding the offshore islands.

KAOHSIUNG, Formosa (AP)— President Chiang Kai-shek said today in effect that he is opposed to a reduction of his armed forces on the offshore islands or any change in their status.

The Nationalist Chinese leader expressed incredulity over the reports from Washington that State Secretary Dulles had said it would not be "wise or prudent" to keep Chiang's large forces on the islands if a dependable cease-fire could be arranged.

"Mr. Dulles must know," Chiang said in an interview, "that it is only wishful thinking to ask the Chinese Communists for a cease-fire."

The Chinese leader said his government would be under no obligation to heed an American declaration of policy on Quemoy and the other islands.

CONFIDENCE IN DULLES

"We have confidence that Mr. Dulles is sincere toward us and that he has no evil intent," he said. Asked what he thought about the leaders of the Chinese Communists, who today were celebrating the ninth anniversary of the establishment of the Chinese Peoples Republic in Peiping, Chiang said:

"My belief is that it will not be very long before the Chinese Communist regime will come to the end of the road. How soon that will be only the future can tell. But it may come about sooner than expected."

Chiang said still right away, Chiang said, "whether Mr. Dulles has made the statement attributed to him. It would be only a matter of clarification, for my government would be under no obligation to heed it.

Pleads Guilty To Possessing Conacher's Cash

TORONTO (CP) — Radovan Markovic, 31, pleaded guilty Tuesday to illegal possession of $6,000 belonging to Charlie Conacher, widow of Maclaren Hockey League star and coach. He was remanded in custody to Oct. 8 for sentence.

The court was told the money was part of $40,000 stolen from Conacher last May by Patrick McKeefery, a long-time friend of Conacher's, and a former bus boy at a downtown Toronto cocktail bar.

Police said McKeefery went to the bar after stealing the money and negotiated with Markovic to make train reservations for McKeefery's wife and bus boy money to join him at a hotel there.

Sergeant of Detectives Charles Cook said "when they checked in at the hotel Markovic went to sleep after a heavy drinking bout. The black leather overnight bag containing the $45,000 was left unattended."

Cpl. Cook said McKeefery awoke the next day to find Markovic and $6,000 missing.

House Prices Would Fall $10,000 If He Bought Lot, Negro Is Told

TORONTO (CP) — Wilbert Richardson, 32, a bread and advertising firm here, said today he was rebuffed in efforts to buy property which he wanted to build a $45,000 house because he is a Negro.

Mr. Richardson said he was told by the builder if he were to buy a building lot in the suburban area of suburban Etobicoke Township, the prices of surrounding property would drop to $20,000 from $30,000.

Mr. Richardson, who came here in 1948 from Pennsylvania, said he was asked by the owner of the ravine lot whether he was a real estate agent.

"When I told him I was a buyer, he told me 'I wouldn't sell to you.' "

REPORT RUSSIA ENDS SUSPENSION OF ATOM TESTS

U.S. Still Willing To Observe Test Ban

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, chiding Russia for resuming nuclear weapons tests, says it is ready to begin talks Friday for a one-year U.S. test suspension if the Russians will follow suit.

The state department issued that statement Tuesday night a short time after the Atomic Energy Commission reported Russia had terminated its test suspension announced March 31 with at least two new blasts.

"It was suspected at the time that the Soviet announcement was primarily a propaganda exercise and that there was no real intention to suspend testing," the department said. "This now seems to be confirmed by the event."

The AEC announcement of the new tests backed up reports earlier in the day from Tokyo that blast waves had come from the direction of Russia.

"Two detonations were detected," the AEC said, "both took place north of the Arctic Circle and were of moderate to high yield."

In announcing hopes to adhere to suspension plans, the state department noted that talks initiated by the U.S. are scheduled to begin in Geneva Oct. 31 on means of reaching agreement on policing a worldwide test suspension.

The department said:

"The United States Union holds further tests after negotiations have begun, the United States remains prepared to withhold further testing of atomic and hydrogen weapons for a period of one year from the beginning of the negotiations Oct. 31."

The United States still is conducting a series of atomic tests in the Nevada proving grounds but these are expected to end before Oct. 31.

Union Man Says CNS Vessels To Fly Canadian Flag Again

HALIFAX (CP) — Nearly 15 months after it struck the Canadian flag from its vessels, the International Union (CLC) may have gotten what it wants.

Halifax business agent Stan Devine said Tuesday the eight former CNS ships now owned by Cuba will again fly the Canadian flag and be manned by Canadian seamen, earning 20 per cent more than they did when they struck in July, 1957.

"Now we're getting what we wanted in the first place," he said.

In Montreal, however, an SIU official declined comment on Devine's statement. Sherwood L. Hamilton of Halifax, another of the line's new owners, said "this is the first I have heard of it."

Devine said the Montreal SIU office notified him of the developments following a series of meetings there between union officials, the ships' new owners, Cuban government representa- Flota Maritime de Cuba.

In Ottawa, a transport department official said Canada's laws would prevent registry of the ships in this country if they were not owned by British subjects. Transport Minister Hees said he was glad to hear the ships may return to Canada but he knew nothing of such a move.

Mal Bashk, Canadian head of the SIU, could not be reached for comment.

Devine said it would take 300 men to fully man the ships. Crewmen at the time of the strike would get first preference, he said. When the union struck, eight ships were receiving $204 a month.

Seven of the eight ships are tied up here. The eighth is in a strikebound Baltimore dry dock for repairs.

The Cuban company bought the fleet for $2,800,000.

CNR President Does Not Approve of Federal Subsidy

WINNIPEG (CP)—The British Columbia government is suggesting federal subsidies as a means of further freight - rate increases, but Donald Gordon, president of Canadian National Railways, believes such a move would be a danger to the economy.

In an interview at Ottawa, B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett said Tuesday his province's plans would include $150,000,000 worth of federal subsidies to be paid to the railways over a four-year period beginning with $40,000,000 in long-term, low-interest loans for freight assistance.

He said the B.C. government will approach the other provinces for their support.

Mr. Gordon, however, said a subsidy doesn't meet the railroads' need for increased labor costs would carry more danger of inflation than the railways' proposed freight - rate increases.

Earlier this month, the railways asked for an immediate 18 per cent increase in freight rates to meet new labor costs and made an additional application to the board of transport commissioners for a further unspecified amount. The total was expected to be about 35 per cent.

The board agrees to a luncheon meeting here Tuesday marking the start of hearings on the rest of a $34,000,000 freight yard in St. Boniface, Mr. Gordon said since railways have proposed a federal subsidy as "a happy and easy solution" to a current wage dispute between the railways and their employees.

"In my view," he said, "such subsidies could result in an economic trap and, as well, incur the risk of an infectious inflation."

GENERAL STRIKE CYPRIOT ANSWER TO BRITISH PLAN

Bombs and Gunfire Mark Changed Rule

NICOSIA (Reuters) — A total strike gripped Cyprus today as Britain put per new formula for the island's future into operation from the Greek and Turkish governments are invited to assist the colonial governor in the separate legislative bodies.

The protest strike by the Greek population—about 80 per cent of the island's 500,000 people—appeared to be virtually total. Normal life in the island was at a standstill.

The Turkish minority were also away from work, celebrating a holiday honoring the appointment of the Turkish advisory representative.

The Greek-Cypriots had demanded political union with Greece. Archbishop Makarios leads, their exiled religious-political leader, has modified his views to the 36-hour strike to protest the appointment of a Turkish representative to advise the governor in matters of the plan. Greece refuses to name a representative.

Yearning for Woman to Call Own, Killed Boy to Make Love Potion

BRIDGETON, N.J. (AP) — Juan Rivera Aponte testified Tuesday how his yen for a woman he could call his own led him to murder a 13-year-old boy and then eat his skull in a love potion.

The 46-year-old farmhand took the stand at his own sanity hearing in the two-year-old slaying.

Aponte is charged with murdering Steven Catanzaro, Oct. 13, 1956. A jury will decide whether he goes on trial or is committed to the state hospital.

Four psychiatrists also testified, two of them claiming Aponte was sane and two insane at the time of the crime.

Aponte blamed his plight on alcohol his insatiable desire for women and the availability in the United States of evil books.

He told how he took a job on a poultry farm and ordered books on black magic through a catalogue.

They taught that one must detach oneself entirely from reality and everything sacred and, worst of all, they advise dope and human flesh, he said.

Aponte said he killed the Catanzaro boy with a series of blows with a hammer, garrotting him with a piece of string.

Later seven months, Aponte said, he dug up the body partially, removed the skull, dried it, and hid it in an old cabinet.

A power made from the dried skull was to be used in a mixture supposed to make him irresistible to women.

Geo. Doucett, MP Spent Night Lost In Dense Bush

Found by Forest Ranger Asleep on Shore of River

STONECLIFFE, Ont. (CP) — George Doucett, Progressive Conservative member of Parliament for Lanark, was found today after being exposed to freezing temperatures all night.

The 51-year-old politician, reported missing Tuesday night while on a hunting camp, was found asleep on the Ottawa River shore, about three miles downstream from the camp.

NO ILL EFFECTS

George Thomas, who operates a first aid post less than a mile from the hunting camp, said he was informed that Mr. Doucett was uninjured and suffered no serious ill effects except for exposure and scratches.

Mr. Thomas said he does not know how Mr. Doucett became lost in the woods.

Mr. Doucett, a bachelor, is an experienced woodsman. He spent the night in the cold and rain.

Mr. Tromas said he was to be taken to the lodge of Mr. Mitchell's Hunting Club, where Mr. Doucett had gone on Tuesday to join a party for the forthcoming deer season.

Mr. Doucett's disappearance from the camp was reported by a companion Tuesday night. The companion was identified at first only as a Mr. Bradley of Stittsville, a fellow-member of the hunting club.

TO WORK ON ROAD

They had driven to the camp Tuesday to do some road repair work on the camp road, and to get the lodge ready for the hunting season.

Mr. Bradley later was identified as J. E. Bradley who said he and Mr. Doucett became separated while clearing brush from a fallen tree. He said Mr. Doucett was carrying a 12-gauge shotgun and just before dark apparently fired several shots.

Although the shots were heard, a high wind made it impossible to tell from what direction the shots came.

STAYED NEAR RIVER

Mr. Doucett told rescuers he thought he would remain out on the night but he made sure not to stray far from the river.

Ranger Fraser reported the disappearance to Ontario Provincial Police at Carleton Place at 9 p.m. and a search was started immediately.

A small number of searchers looked for him until 3 a.m. and had called the search to a day break.

His home at Carleton Place, Ont., said Mr. Doucett took a gun along although the trip was primarily to work on the road and to hunt.

Mr. Doucett was first elected to the Commons by acclamation in August last year to fill the Lanark seat left vacant by the death of Dr. William G. Blair in that summer. He was re-elected at the March 31 general election.

Did Not Want Brother to Lose A Day's Pay

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP) Because he didn't want his brother to lose a day's work, Leonard McPeters appeared in court for him to answer a speeding charge.

A judge sentenced him to three days in jail. This was something Leonard hadn't anticipated. He told a deputy he had appeared for his brother.

Then the deputy took him back into court and he pleaded guilty to false representation and contempt of court.

The judge gave him the same sentence, three days in jail.

Later, brother Bernard showed up. He asked for a jury trial.

Stelco, Union Still Far Apart On Wage Issue

TORONTO (CP)—A meeting in Labor - Minister Daley's office Tuesday in the Stelco Company of Canada and its striking employees still far apart in terms for a settlement.

The wage strike by 8,000 members of the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) now is six weeks old.

The company held firm to its five-cents-an-hour offer on a two-year contract while the union suggested a 35-cent hourly package spread on a two-year contract. Originally the union asked for a 32-cent package. Average pay is $1.85 an hour.

Mr. Daley said afterwards he and chief conciliation officer Louis Fine made every effort to work for agreement.

"But the parties were too tightly drawn on both sides and we were unable to bring the parties to an agreement."

Eamon Park, assistant to the Canadian director of the steel union, said it asked the company to "make a reasonable offer but "the company declined."

Harold A. Clawson, Stelco's director of industrial relations, said that with the union holding firm to its demands acceptance of the minority conciliation board report would be futile for the company to make a new proposal.

The majority conciliation report recommended no wage increase while the minority report proposed a 25-cent hourly boost plus supplementary unemployment benefits in a two-year agreement.

The union proposal Tuesday was understood to include a 21-cent wage increase plus unemployment and other benefits.

Crowe Valley Conservation Authority Formed

Crowe Valley Municipalities Vote 7-1 for Establishment Of Conservation Authority

What will be the 24th river authority in the province was tentatively established at Marmora yesterday when representatives of seven out of eight municipalities voted to form the Crowe Valley Conservation Authority.

The Crowe River drains an area of 783 square miles in west central Hastings, Peterborough and Northumberland counties, before emptying into the Trent River north of Campbellford.

Hastings municipalities included in the watershed are nearly all the townships of Wollaston, Limerick and Lake, and large sections of the township of Marmora, Cashel and Faraday, while in Peterborough and Northumberland counties parts of the townships of Belmont, Methuen, Chandos and Cardiff are included.

The villages of Marmora and Havelock are also in the watershed.

Yesterday at Marmora eight of the 13 municipalities were represented at the meeting and voted 7-1 to form the river authority. Two thirds of the municipalities represented at the meeting were sufficient to make the vote binding.

EXPLAINS AIMS

Herbert Crown, representing Mr. A. H. Richardson, chief conservation engineer for the Department of Planning and Development, outlined the aims and purposes of a river authority to the meeting, noting that there were 23 other such authorities in the province at present.

He said a river authority was eligible for a 50 per cent grant from the department to assist in defraying the costs of any project which might be approved.

Balance of the cost of operating an authority is raised through a municipal levy against the ratepayers. The municipal levy could be raised either on the basis of population or on assessment.

He noted that 18 of the 23 authorities used population as their basis of municipal levy and said this was very fair way. However, he said there was little difference in the two methods where no large cegires of population were involved.

Mr. Crown went on to point out that only benefiting municipalities would be expected to contribute toward any authority flood control project. On the other hand projects such as reforestation would be a charge on the entire authority membership.

WOULD CONDUCT SURVEY

He said that if the Crowe River Authority was formed the Department would undertake a detailed survey of the watershed and in its report would make recommendations for projects to be carried out. The cost of these recommendations were acted upon would be a charge on the Authority to decide.

This survey could not be done until 1959, but in the meantime the Authority might want to start some project immediately. Such projects could be discussed at a future meeting when representatives to the Authority from each municipality were named.

Reeve Irwin McCoy, of Marmora and Lake township, spoke in favor of the formation of an authority, pointing to the gradual depletion of the water level. Conservation of water through construction of dams, reforestation and timber conservation would benefit the entire community, he said.

Mr. Olsen said that ore at the Marmora mines might be depleted in about 32 years but if the natural resources of the watershed were conserved there would be no necessity for mine workers to leave the area.

SIGN APPLICATION

Mr. Olsen and Tudor township Reeve James H. Sprackett signed the application to petition the Ontario Government to establish the Authority and seven of the eight municipalities represented voted in approval with Madoc township alone voting against.

One other matter decided at yesterday's meeting was that the "Crowe" should be spelled with an "e".

Reeve McCoy noted that old Indian families in the district with the Crowe surname spelled their name with an "E" and this spelling was generally accepted, although the name built with and without the "E" appeared in blankets and crops dealing with the Marmora area.

Biggest lakes in the northern section of the watershed drained by the Crowe River are Chandos Lake, Salmon and Bass Lakes.

In the south, nearer the Marmora area, Crowe Lake, Belmont Lake and Round Lake are drained by the same river system. A fish hatchery is maintained by the Ontario Government at Belmont Lake.

Taking a keen interest in yesterday's meeting was Reeve Harold Ketcheson of Belleville. Mr. Chubb will act as the Crowe Valley Authority chairman until a permanent slate of officers is named.

Pending the issuance of an Order-In-Council by the Ontario Provincial Government representatives from those municipalities affected by the Crowe River Authority will form the nucleus of the fourth Conservation Authority in the Province of Ontario. These Authorities are set up by two or more municipalities with assistance from the Department of Planning and Development of the Province of Ontario under the provisions of the Conservation Authorities Act.

Briefly this Act provides assistance for communities lying within a watershed, who wish to take action in conserving the natural resources, such as forests and wildlife, in their area. The establishment of an Authority depends upon the choice of two-thirds of the accredited representatives of the municipalities concerned approving of forming an Authority. The Provincial Government then provides technical assistance in the form of a survey to determine the condition of all phases of conservation, including water, land, forest, wildlife and recreation within the area concerned. Such assistance also includes recommendations for the activities of the Authority although the final decision as to what projects are undertaken rests with the Local Authority itself.

GOVT. PROVIDES FIELDMAN

The officers of an Authority consist of persons elected from the local members. If the Authority proves active enough the Provincial Government provides a technical fieldman to reside and work in the watershed concerned. His salary is paid by the Department of Planning and Development and his expenses are paid by the Authority. Projects which are approved by the Authority are forwarded to the Minister of Planning and Development for approval. The technical advice and assistance of his and other provincial departments at the service of the Authority to determine the feasibility of any proposed projects. Upon approval of all concerned the Provincial Government provides fifty percent of the money required for a scheme or project. The remaining money is raised by the Authority, usually by a population levy, from the municipalities which will benefit from the proposed scheme.

The scope of an Authority includes such projects as reforestation schemes, little water supply programs, flood control dams, river channel improvements and diversions, acquisition of conservation areas including recreation for public use, minor planning council, acquisition of buildings and properties of historical interest or conservation land, and stream improvement schemes. When an Authority purchases land for reforestation, it signs an agreement with the Department of Lands and Forests, who maintains the forest for a period of fifty years.

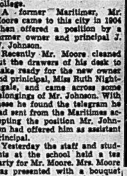
"Looking ahead it appears to be a long time — but looking back it all seems like yesterday" commented I. L. Moore upon his completion of 39 years as principal of the Ontario Business College.

A former Martimer, Mr. Moore came to this city in 1904 when offered a position by a former owner Hezzie Ketcheson of W. Johnson.



Recently Mr. Moore cleaned out the drawers of his desk to make ready for the new owner and principal, Miss Ruth Nightingale, and came across some belongings of Mr. Johnson. With these he found the telegram he had sent from the Maritimes accepting the position Mr. Johnson had offered him as assistant principal.

Yesterday the staff and students at the school held a tea party for Mr. Moore. Mrs. Moore was presented with a bouquet of pink roses while Mr. Moore was given a lazy-boy chair. Mr. Moore said he wished to thank the staff for their co-operation with the teachers, Miss Dorothy Grant assistant principal, Miss Mary Garvin and Miss Marian Cronk had been on the staff almost as long as he.

Mr. Moore has been principal of the Business College for 39 years and associated with the school for 54 years. For fifteen years he was manager for the owners, W. B. Robinson and J. W. Johnson.

The Ontario Business College was founded in 1863 by Samuel D. Hanley at Wallbridge Bridge. In 1871 Mr. Wallbridge retired and Mr. Beatty secured the business. Mr. Beatty's son who continued as principal until 1919 and was succeeded by Mr. Moore, who had been with the school since Mr. Robinson's retirement.

Ten years after the college was established, students began coming from the Far Canadian provinces as well as the United States and such tropical areas as the West Indies, Bermuda and most countries in Central America.

Mr. Moore attributed the large number of registrations from the West Indies to the men who once attended the O.B.C. back in 1890's, Hartley Wallington, who was in the shipping business in the Carribean Sea.

During the course of his travels from island to island he praised the excellence of the O.B.C. at every opportunity. As a result in the years to come dozens of students from every section of the West Indies came to Belleville to take instruction, in particular hundreds of students from Bermuda have graduated from the college.

Mr. Moore recalled the days when the college was printing text books and the fact that they were so widely-used. He said The Ontario Intelligencer printed the books and that he had to give up the task when it became too much for him.

Mr. Moore also served as the chairman and board of Trustees for St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church. He was also superintendent of the Sunday School from 1925 until 1934. He is also a member of the Kirk Session.

Hasty Pees to Present Color To Militia During Reunion

Eastern Ontario's famed, Plough Jockey Regiment will add another page to their already colorful history, on the afternoon of Sunday, October 12th, when the heroes of the Sicilian and Italian battlefronts will officially present the Regimental Color of their unit, with World War II Battle Honors emblazoned upon it, to the younger men who now comprise the Regiment, the Prince Edward Regiment (Militia).

The historic, ever ceremony will take place at 2.30 p.m. Sunday, October 12th, on the Bridge St. playground. The officiating chaplain will be Major Fred Goforth, M.C., "The Padre" to all who served with the unit in Italy. The veterans will be led by one of their famous wartime commanding officers, Lt.-Col. Jack Wilson (who served as RSM in Italy) will command the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (Militia.)

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, as it is presently name, is by army standards, a comparative newcomer, having been formed as a militia unit in 1930, by the unification of the Hastings Rifles and the 49th Battalion, Prince Edward County Militia. Through these units, the regiment's origin can be traced to the United Empire Loyalist Rangers battalions which were disbanded at the conclusion of the American Revolution on the shores of the Bay of Quinte.

The regiment, made famous by Farley Mowat's book, of that name, began mobilization as an active unit on September 2nd, 1939, one week and one day prior to Canada's declaration of war on Germany. The cries of the motley crew, who drilled in civilian clothes and parts of 1914 uniforms, in Picton, Trenton and Madoc are already legend, but so the regiment was born.

Due to their excellent showing as a militia unit, the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, was selected as the unit to represent Eastern Ontario in the 1st Canadian Division and were grouped with the 48th Highlanders of Toronto and the Royal Canadian Regiment, to form the 1st Canadian Infantry Brigade. Over a period of the next few days of 1940, in England, that battalion became known as "Farley" her slate: units "The Plough-Jockeys," the appelation, bitterly contested by the men, became time rolled by, a title of pride and distinction.

This famous unit, established a war record, during the years that followed, second to none in the Canadian Armed Forces. The battle honors awarded to them are listed below, the ten spelled in capitals, will appear on the regimental standard.

Dr. C. MacInnes Although Blind Is Happy Man

Professor Charles MacInnes, M.A., LL.D., is a happy man. Although he has been without sight since he was four years old he impresses one as a thoroughly fulfilled man, and he has a record of achievements that would put a sighted person to marvelling. When asked how he managed his studies the doctor replied that he took his notes briefly, while Braille is claimed was faster than typing, he had readers, and other students studied with him.

Dr. MacInnes is Professor Emeritus of Imperial History, University of Bristol, Dean of the Faculty of Arts, and received his honorary LL.D. from Dalhousie University in Nova Scotia. He was born in Calgary and was educated at the school for the blind in Halifax. His activities included editor of the university's Braille, founder-member of the Royal Commonwealth society for the blind, chairman of the Save-the-Children fund, Bristol branch. Many honours have come his way—from the Queen of Holland for services to the Dutch in the promotions of Anglo-Dutch relations, and from the French when he was awarded the Cravat and Cross of Commander de l'Etoile Noire for work on French educational establishments as well as many others.

Dr. MacInnes is married and has one son who is a teacher at Upper Canada College in Toronto. He is travelling across Canada under the auspices of the CNIB. In the position of Colonel Baker, and is speaking in all major cities from Halifax to Vancouver. After his stay in Belleville he is going to Kingston and then to Ottawa before starting for the west.

The whole problem of blindness, especially in the tropical countries of the British Commonwealth is the profession's concern. He has a theory that as the Commonwealth changes part of the new civilization will express itself in help rendered by advanced countries like Canada to the countries where the need is greatest.

Another interest which the professor is following up while in Canada is the situation which exists where British students have no difficulty in getting post graduate courses in the United States on scholarships, but have great difficulty in getting scholarships to study in Canada. He is trying to interest industrialists to implement the Rhodes trust to make it possible for British students to come here.

Dr. MacInnes enjoys rowing and riding. He has written many books on historical subjects. In answer to how he wrote his books the professor said he wrote them in Braille and then dictated them to his secretary who then read them back.

"Sometimes," the doctor said laughing, "I have a marvellous paragraph, and we work on it and clear the word here and there. Then I say let's leave it out and see how it sounds without it. And do you know we often find it doesn't make the least difference."

Officials Believe First Day's Headaches Will Prove Worst as Bridge Under Repair

TRENTON — Traffic in Trenton was never before the headache for some town officials that it was yesterday but most of the new wrinkles were ironed out and for the next 60 days Police Chief Jack Taylor feels everything will go along quite smoothly.

The traffic problem was brought around because of the closing of two-way traffic on the town bridge which will undergo repairs for the next two months at a cost of $106,000.

Yesterday was the first day. It had been announced that traffic on the bridge would begin then, but it was later revealed it was only a test run for the traffic problems which were expected.

"We had very good co-operation from all motorists," the police chief said, "and because of this we were able to get most of the situations which caused trouble cleared up and I feel traffic will be no further problem for the period of repairs."

Town engineer Eric Alderson had charge of the complaints on matters which the police department was unable to handle. He spent a good portion of his day on the phone, at times with the Highway Department in Kingston.

TRUCKS NOT DIVERTED

One of the big problems was that transports going west were not being diverted onto the 401 highway at Belleville and Marysville. According to the drivers of some of the trucks there were no signs directing them. One driver said he knew the signs were up but they were covered over and because they had not been unmasked he didn't know what he had to begin gun on the bridge. Most of the transports which came through were allowed to go over the bridge yesterday and on their way. This will not be so today.

Any vehicle over three tons will be turned away and the larger ones, with high loads will have to go back to Belleville and around the bay shore on the south side of the Bay of Quinte.

Trucks which require less than 12-foot clearance will be able to use the 401, onto Highway 33 to Trenton and out Highway 2 to western points. Trucks with loads over 12 feet high will not be able to do this because of a railway underpass on the outskirts of Trenton which gives only a 12-foot clearance.

For trucks going east the same applies. Large signs concerning this have been placed on the western approaches to Trenton and truck drivers wishing to get to Belleville and other points as quickly as possible should follow the instructions.

All through traffic, other than the high trucks, will be detoured to the 401 Highway along Division Street and out Highway 33. Through traffic from the east will take 401 either at Marysville or Belleville.

Yesterday rain did little to help the situation. It made life miserable for the local police-men on point duty, with the sudden showers catching them without raincoats on.

The installation of the gas pipe-line caused a one-way run on Division Street, one of the main detour arteries, and because of this much traffic was diverted around by Front Street or down Ford to Front Street. But a spokesman for the gas company officials said he always been ready to co-operate, they will be out of there today, leaving the road wide open for traffic.

However, all in all, few complaints were voiced from motorists who seemed to accept the conditions as "just one of those things." Many who know their way around the streets of Trenton avoided the main traffic routes and others who were forced to go across the bridge to reach their homes held off as long as they could.

A bus driver, coming from the east, stopped and scratched his head when he approached the bridge and saw the sign which states, "Danger, Vehicles Over Three Tons Keep Off." He backed his bus up, went north on Ontario Street and when he found it a dead-end street came back to Dundas East. He dropped the bus and was a complete loss as to what to do. Luckily a driver at Cassidy's Taxi noted his plight and told him he could cross Trenton Bridge safely but it would not be possible to do so in the future.

Police had a busy time, the barricades at the bridge were taken down and the speed limit cut to two-way traffic. The fact that one set of traffic lights was not working properly had a lot to do with this decision.

But officials feel that today and tomorrow will have all the bugs ironed out of traffic and will run smoothly again.

Bowling Notes

The Jack Fitzgerald trophy will be competed for on a local basis at the greens on Thursday evening. This will be mixed doubles event with the teams being drawn out of a hat. The skips will be chosen and the women partners will be drawn so that no packed rinks will be in competition. The entrance fee has been set at the nominal price of one buck and there will be three ten-end games played starting as soon after six-thirty as possible so as to complete the tourney before the middle of the hour. Valuable prizes will be given.

The trophy was made and presented by Jack Fitzgerald, a valued member of the club. It was generally competed for in club games but the directors decided to have an open competition this season. Every member of the club is invited to take part and it should be a gala night.

The last tournament of the season for the local greens will be held on Thanksgiving Day. Bruce Miller has qualified his interclub conducting this tourney and is working on something special for the day. The event will be played in the morning and two to the afternoon with a new trophy, donated by a prominent distillery firm, the winning rink being accompanied by suitable prizes.

7. A good heating plant properly installed and located. Many furnaces manufactured today are equipped with fire-preventing safeguards. However, they must be cleaned and inspected regularly.

8. Furnace smoke pipes should be of uncor- stairs or near an entrance where fire originating in the heater might block escape. A furnace pipe needs ample air for combustion and adequate clearance from walls and ceilings.

Fire Marshal's Office Sending Inspector Here

Mrs. Jane Forrester, a member of the advisory committee to the fire marshal's office, has been advised by the Hon. A. Kelso Roberts, Q.C., Attorney-General for Ontario that another employee of the Ontario Fire Marshal's office is moving to Belleville in the near future.

He is inspector A. C. Williams of the investigation division of the fire marshal's office, who has been located at headquarters in Toronto and who is being transferred on October 15th. He is replacing FMO inspector Frank Gardner who retired on September 1st.

Inspector Williams has been on the staff of the fire marshal's office for the past two years and prior to that was a member of the Ontario Provincial Police force. Inspector Williams is married with five small children.

This makes the second new officer from the fire marshal's office moving to the city within recent months, the other being fire services instructor Herbert Mallory who was from King-ston this past summer. Inspector Mallory is in charge of fire services instructor Herbert Mallory who was from King-ston this past summer. Inspector Williams will be dealing exclusively with fire investigations.

Landscaping Around Legion Hall Finished

Mr. Bert Boots, a member of the Branch and well known throughout the Quinte District as an expert gardener, arranged the planting design and did the actual planting himself.

Thirty two evergreens and 31 flowering shrubs were planted and all seem to be flourishing nicely. The evergreens and shrubs will be given protection against the winter cold with Mr. Boers also taking care of these arrangements.

In addition Mr. Boers will plant approximately one thousand bulbs in various colour beds and artistic arrangements around the building and next spring the Legion area will be transformed into one of the finest floral displays in the district.

The park area immediately south-east of the building, currently under construction of the Memorial Hall, has been levelled and sodded with grass seed and should be in fine shape by next spring.

Lt.-Col. "Harry" Devonshire, chairman of the committee responsible for the landscaping, stated that the entire operation has been accomplished by approximately one third of the anticipated cost.

Surprised by police officers in the office of the British American Oil Company on Herchimer at South Pinnacle Street where police say they were endeavoring to break open a safe, two Belleville men were apprehended early today and have been charged with breaking and entry with intent.

Police Inspector J. Clair Hayes said that Robert Mondeville, 25, of Dundas John St., and Clarence Edward Young, 29, also of Belleville were found on the oil company premises at 3.30 this morning and were taken into custody.

The pair had sledges and bars in their possession with which police said they were attempting to open the office safe.

A routine check by police during the night led to the suspicion by officers that intruders might be on the premises with result that P. C. Leo Kent called the police station for reinforcements. The oil company premises were surrounded and the two men were found in the office.

Police Inspector Hayes said Mondeville and Young would appear today for remand on charges of breaking and entering with intent.

After Recent Heavy Losses Trenton Putting Much Stress On Fire Prevention Week

TRENTON — "If you own a home or are planning to build or buy one, make fire safety a foremost thought," urges Acting Fire Chief Cecil Ellis in a statement in connection with Fire Prevention Week which begins next Monday.

Acting Chief Ellis feels that Trentonians, because of the over $1,000,000 (estimated) total fire loss in Trenton this year, should go all out during the week to check and remove any fire hazard on their property.

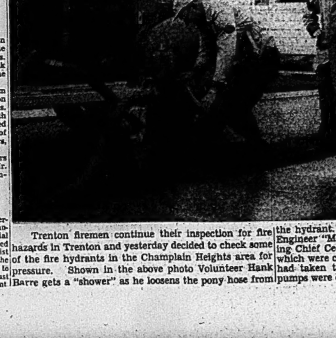
"Few things can take your home, business and one or more of your loved ones away from you more quickly than a fire," Acting Chief Ella warns. "and one of the hardest things you'd ever have to live down would be the knowledge that the fire probably could have been prevented."

The fire safe home, the chief points out, has two important factors: good family habits about fire and its dangers, and good construction.

Under good habits include such things as care with matches and smoking, good housekeeping and get rid of rubbish, proper use of electrical fuses, appliances and heating equipment and a sound general awareness of the ways fires start and how to prevent them.

"Good construction for a fire safe home, according to the National Fire Protection Association, includes:

1. Brick fire stops. These are barriers of wood and masonry between walls, floors, ceilings, or stringers that serve to prevent the spread of smoke and fire. In old homes, when open channels can be seen from the basement to the attic, they should be blocked off by the homeowner with 2-inch lumber nailed into place and filled in with bricks or mortar.



2. Solid doors on every room. An ordinary wooden door can keep smoke and fire out of a room for as long as 30 minutes. Ideally, bedroom doors should be kept closed at night. An intercom system can be installed so that parents can hear children.

3. Good escape routes. Best rule is to plan two routes out through other rooms. Windows should be large enough and low enough to climb through, and operate easily enough for the youngest member of the family.

4. Interior finish of materials with low flame-spread characteristics. Wallboards made of gypsum, cement, asbestos and similar materials are nonburning and resist the spread of flame. On the other hand, flame spread is a measure learned with certain other types of wallboard.

5. Fire-retardant roofing material. The National Fire Protection Association says that wood shingles must not be used as a roof covering. Inflammable wood shingles can ignite easily from sparks and big fires often spread from them with burning brands. The NFPA recommends a fire-resistant roofing material, such as asphalt shingles, slate, asbestos, or metal.

6. Proper wiring. Qualified electricians observe the provisions of the National Electrical Code when

Wilson must now serve a sentence of "life imprisonment," and will not be eligible for parole for 15 years.

Feeling has run high regarding the sentence imposed on Wilson, but there are some facts which should be recognized by both sides in the controversy.

Firstly, Folsom has done all he can for Wilson. He has no authority to reduce his sentence below life imprisonment.

Secondly, there is every reason to believe that Folsom would have commuted the sentence in any case, even had there not been a flood of protests against the death sentence as the result of publicity given the case.

Thirdly, those who contend that the amount of money involved in the robbery was irrelevant have some grounds for this view. If an armed man holds up a bank and gets only a cent, he is still guilty of armed robbery, a serious crime.

On the other side of the ledger, though, there are also facts.

A jury providing death for robbery is a harsh law, out of keeping with the spirit of the times.

The contention that Wilson attempted to rape his victim is irrelevant. He was not charged with attempted rape, he was not tried for attempted rape and certainly the attempt to rape was not proven.

By far the most shocking aspect of the whole case was the evident feeling, not only on the part of the prosecutor but also on the part of the white lawyer who defended Wilson, that his fate was of little importance and that the State of Alabama and those responsible for the administration of justice in that state should not be bothered by such technical trivialities as to whether Wilson had been condemned to die for robbery or whether the death sentence had really been imposed as punishment for attempted rape, with which he had not been charged for the self-evident reason that the charge could not be proven in any court of justice worthy of the name.

CHILDREN TAKE THINGS FOR GRANTED

"Children take many things for granted," says the Royal Bank of Canada in a recent monthly letter devoted to the value of a knowledge of history.

Adults here have an excellent opportunity to experience the glow of intellectual superiority, if they can still that small inner voice demanding when they last marvelled over automobiles, airplanes, radios, television and the telephone and if they have not had the humbling experience of a weekend excursion into the innards of an electric iron.

An electric iron. Son, is a relatively simple device which is heated by running an electric current through it. The heating is the result of the resistance of the wires in the iron to the passage of the current. A more detailed explanation is denied, consult an electrical engineer. He will be able to explain everything. Well, almost everything. There are still rumors around that electricity is a little difficult to explain, even for an engineer.

But never mind the technicalities. Let's look at the iron, Son, and find out why it isn't working. No loose screws and no broken wires. Loose screws and broken wires are always helpful in situations like these. They mean that the electricity cannot complete its journey through the iron. Does it always travel in the one direction? Oh, no, it reverses its field; at least Hydro does, it's alternating current. Why, then, will the electricity not heat the iron if it can still race up to both ends of that broken wire and back again? Ummm - - ask an electrical engineer; we are sure he can answer that one.

Now, Son, this gadget here must be what works the thermostat which controls the heat of the iron. See, this thingamajig moves. How does that shut the electricity off and turn it on again? Hmmm - - ask an electrician. No, never mind bothering the electrical engineer. You've troubled him enough.

Hey, what are you going, son? Don't you want to see Dad put this together again? You don't? You are sure Dad can do it. Hmmm - - that's a child for you. No real intrest in how things work. Always taking things for granted. Not at all like an adult.

YOUNG FATHER'S BOAST

I'm not a boaster in the sense
That I am proud of what I do;
I never brag of the expense
When I appear in garments new;
In humbleness I take my way,
But searching east and searching west
Of all the babes on earth today,
I'm sure that mine is far the best.

A million little ones or more
There are today from sea to sea,
That play upon the carpeted floor
Or hobby horse on daddy's knee.
A million little ones at night
In mother's loving arms may rest;
But this I know, and I am right,
Of all, my baby is the best.

I'm not a braggart of my worth,
I never boast of common things;
I do not wish to share the earth
Or wield the mighty power of kings;
I'm happier by far than they,
I'm prouder, too, for I am blest;
It is not boasting when I say
My baby, bless him, is the best.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article forty-nine contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society)

THE ENRAGED ELEPHANT AND THE COUNTY SHERIFF

Although Dunbar Moodie's "Scenes and Adventures as a Soldier and Settler," (1866) was the first book he published in Canada, it was not always the first work he had published.

His literary career had begun thirty-five years earlier in 1831, when he published a narrative of the 1814 Napoleonic campaign in Holland, which campaign he had participated in.

Then in 1832 Moodie had published a "Narrative of Years in South Africa," the story of his stay in that country at the conclusion of the Napoleonic Wars. This book was favourably received by the critics.

Material from these two earlier works formed the basis for his subsequent publication as a Soldier and Settler". In addition, two other short sketches were added from the Victoria Magazine, edited by Dunbar and Susanna Moodie's brother-in-law, Mr. Bellville. At though this magazine had obtained a fairly large list of subscribers, it had brought no financial remuneration to the Moodies.

One of the most exciting passages in Moodie's 1866 volume (appearing under the title "Ten Years in South Africa") was a description of an elephant hunt in South Africa.

"Immediately a large female accompanied by four others of a smaller size, issued from the jungle about a hundred yards to my left. As they were not more than two hundred yards off, and were coming directly towards me, I had not much time to decide on my conduct.

"Being alone, and in the middle of an open plain, I saw that I must either remain perfectly still, for I fire in this position, and my shot not take effect, I should be instantly trampled out of their direct path, thinking that they would see me, and run off, until I should find a better opportunity to attack them. But in that I was mistaken. On looking back, I perceived to my dismay, that they had halted within forty yards of me, and were rapidly pursuing and gaining ground on me."

"Under these circumstances - - I made a hasty retreat to the small river, with the view to take refuge among the rocks on the other side, where I thought I should be safe. Before I got within fifty yards of the river, the animals neared within twenty paces of me - - all of them screaming so tremendously that I was almost deafened with the noise. I immediately turned round, cocked my gun, and aimed at the head of the largest - - the female. But the gun unfortunately only flashed in the pan. I then grazed the side of her head."

"Halting only for an instant, the animal again rushed furiously forward. I fell - - I cannot say whether struck down by the trunk or not. She then made a thrust at me which her trunk. Fortunately for me, she had not time, which still saved my life. I then, instead of feeling me with her trunk by the head, as I imagined, turned them for a little space, was scarcely in a condition to consider myself as accurately."

"Once she pressed her foot on my shoulder, I felt a horrible pain, I felt the bones bending under her weight; and then she trod on the whole of my body, which I expected as it may appear, during this moment, I recollect nothing, but my recollection, but owing to the roundness of her foot, I gently slipped from her weight, my head and limbs, to escape her, direct injury."

Thanks to the arrival of his companions, Moodie lived to hunt another day, and to pen this exciting passage.

He also had many other interesting experiences with elephants, lions, tigers, and buffaloes, while settling in South Africa in the 1830's.

Thus Belleville can count, among its literary antecedents, not a, but a man whose reminiscences - read like an adventure story.

No Place For Galahad

By Pembroke Observer

Sir Galahad would find modern city streets a frustrating experience. There just isn't much room for heroic rescues of damsels in distress any more.

Claude Caffee of Detroit proved this recently. He was walking past a dark alley one night when he saw a young woman being dragged into it. He ran into the alley and started wrestling with the assailant. Passerby James Lilly with dreams of knightly valor joined in the fray, armed only with a three-pound hammer.

The young lady's would-be assailant pulled a gun and fired four times, hitting Caffee once in the stomach. He then ran and chased the "assailant" out of the alley.

Shortly after the police arrived, Lilly was in jail, Caffee was in hospital and both were charged with felonious assault. The assailant turned out to be a plainclothes policeman. He had been trying to arrest the young lady, who had accosted him on the street.

Chivalry is surely dead.

Soviet Film Of 1925 Best

Hamilton Spectator

When 117 motion picture historians from 26 countries voted for what they considered the twelve best films of all time, a Soviet production, "The Battleship Potemkin," made in 1925, headed the list.

Those who know "Potemkin" will recall its revolutionary theme. It was propaganda related by a high level of visual art by the genius of its director, S. M. Eisenstein.

This was the heyday of the motion picture in the Soviet Union. Eisenstein was only one of several brilliant directors. Pudovkin might cover the Russian's opportunities dwindled. As an artist he could not toe the party line. He could dedicate his cessant official interference.

Thus Pudovkin, and Eisenstein made the first part of his monster film "Ivan the Terrible." Perhaps because it was too close to contemporary tyranny; suddenly ceased. The second part was never made. Eisenstein died in 1948, "Potemkin" had made him internationally famous. At the time of his death his was only 49.

Letter To The Editor

Asks Assistance In Learning Trade

The Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer:

I have been a patient at the Mt. Sinai Sanatorium for tuberculosis for the past four years and I expect to be here for two more.

After I have been discharged I will not be able to do any heavy work, due to my injuries, it will be necessary for me to learn a trade, such as this I am very anxious to learn the trade of watch repairing. For this I will need watches, tools and books.

Could any of your readers send me old watches, tools and books at this address? This would be a great assistance to me in learning a trade which would make me self-supporting and not dependent on charity.

Thanking you for your kindness,

Yours truly,

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

OUR BELIEVE-INS

We would not go far in life if we didn't keep adding to our friendships. I wonder if I can't call a friend a "believe-in". This is a person who believes in us. As a boy I lost out of school to get a job in Chicago distributing bills to residents. I didn't waste a single day. When I returned and report to the Minister who had engaged me he raised me into a dollar — my wage, and said: "Good luck to you, George. We believe in you."

Time and again I have thought of that simple experience, but it has had its good influence. It is a wonderful thing to have people believe in you. Were it not for this most of us would be very unhappy. It is the people who believe in us who do so much to assure us success and happiness in this world.

It's our believe-ins who are our refuge when all others have faded away. A man may well state that he is a wreck when he sees only one friend and true friend. But, of course, the more such friends you can gather to your side, the better — and happier. These believe-ins are not flatterers. They see us as we are, too, may give ourselves to the happy occupation of believing in others and be happy over the fact.

Read history. Read the story of those who have achieved greatly and left their words and personalities behind them for succeeding generations. Read about such figures and emulate them. Just having someone near and dear who will believe in us when loneliness — discouragement occurs is bound to assure us of faithfulness. It will turn on the lights ahead.

Greeks Have A Solution

Milwaukee Journal

Athens, like nearly another city large and small, has been beset by youthful hoodlums of the sort the British call "Teddy boys." They go in for the exhibitionist style of dress, long hair cuts and tight pants.

The police have acted recently for pelting figs and yoghurt at women in that Greek city they met in consequence, however. Without formality, their hair was cut and the tops of their pants sheared off; then they were paraded through the streets bearing signs reading "These are the Teddy boys who pelted a lady of quality with fig and woman."

So the Greeks not only had a word for it — they had severe words that could be understood, plus some action that should impress any young hooligan sensitive at all to derision and disgrace.

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

BEYOND RICHES

Bramwell Booth, son of the founder of the Salvation Army tells the story of an interesting conversation he had one day with Cecil Rhodes, the man who acquired wealth and fame for himself and glory for England by developing the natural resources of Africa.

Booth and Rhodes were travelling by train. Noticing that Rhodes was downcast, young Booth asked him: "Are you a happy man, Mr. Rhodes?" "Happy?" said Rhodes, "I happy? Good God, no." Then he continued: "I would give everything I possess if I had the religious faith your father has. I could believe what he believes." Rhodes died a few years later one of the richest men in the world.

To Your Good Health

ALKALI HELPS IN CASES OF BEE STING

A bee sting isn't the same for all of us. Nobody likes being stung, but it doesn't bother some people much. Here's a case in point:

"Dear Doctor: Living away from the city and having many flowers, I am frequently stung by bees. But I am allergic to bee sting and my swollen hand one is usually five inches in diameter, very hot and the surface is hard. — W.D."

The venoms of the bee are a combination, a form of poison acid. Separate the venoms and they are relatively mild, but in the combination as used by the bee — ouch!

For all, whether allergic, like Mrs. W.D., or not, the simple immediate remedy is to apply some alkali. The venom is acid; therefore an alkali will counteract it to some extent if you can apply it quickly enough. We always have alkalis around - the house. Weak ammonia is one. Soap is on the alkaline side, so if you have none else soap is good. A bit of paste made of baking soda and water is also good.

People working with bees usually get enough bee stings and they become desensitized, and ultimately a sting is not bothersome.

Even persons, that are rare contact with bees, it may be well to have desensitized so that they will sensitize the person, and subsequent stings may be annoying but not be worse than the first. This is not unusual at all, where allergy is involved. This matter of sensitization, in fact, crops up again and again in various medical problems, from Rh negative blood to penicillin sensitivity.

Now what about a person who is strongly allergic to bee venom? Desensitization is the way we help some. But perhaps not enough.

ANTIDOTAL TROUBLE POSSIBLE

Hypersensitive, the victim not only has trouble with reactions to the sting itself, but may, perhaps develop some of the other allergic reactions — hives, asthma or worse — to be involved, just as it is to some of the bee stings (asthma).

Such a person may be helped by careful desensitization to bee venom, which is now commercially as used in hay fever or other allergies — if you can give a thoughtful dose of the offending material, whether pollen, bee venom, ragweed, protein, that somehow the patient is able to build up a tissue resistance to the material. This is the process that allergy specialists use time after time.

If that does not prove enough protection, it may at least reduce the suffering. Quick application of alkali after a sting is also going to help. Numerous ointments are on the market afterwards, as well as antihistamine lotions and salves. In severe cases doctor's use of intradermal derivatives may be necessary — even lifesaving in such a case, of course.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is the cause of tartar collecting on the teeth? What can be done to remove it, and prevent it returning? — P.M.H."

Some people acquire tartar more rapidly than others, probably at least in part because of variations in the saliva. Tartar is retained on moldy alkaline, and some on the acid side. Anyway, the tartar hardens and provides a good lodged for bacteria. Once it forms, the only way to remove it is by having the dentist scrape and polish it off. Careful brushing will lessen the tendency to tartar, but won't prevent it entirely.

Finally, a question worth asking, when you've had the mumps on either side, you've had orchitis. Occasionally someone will have a second attack of mumps, but very rarely.

Hemorrhoids can be cured! If troubled with fissures, fistules, itching and other rectal problems, write to me in care of this newspaper enclosing a copy of my booklet, "The Real Cure For Hemorrhoids," describing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to cover handling.

Puts Canada To the Test

Vancouver Sun

The sun was privileged on Saturday to publish a letter from an American citizen announcing his decision to emigrate to Canada. This letter was heart-warming in the tribute it paid to Canada. But it also, in those very tributes, implied an almost frightening obligation upon us.

The writer, Marvin Honore, an operator of motels is coming to Canada, in his words, to "take a vacation from the kind of world we freely in joy, knowing that I have not been contaminated by the cynicism of hate."

Mr. Honore knows us, right here in our homes. He knows that he is undoubtedly knows all about the everyday living of Canadians. Nation or still practise. He'll discover them soon enough, in any case.

He obviously doesn't consider that unpardonable sin. He knows. His coming here, just as obviously, must stiffen our resolve to maintain that decency.

Mr. Honore also said: "I recognize how as a nation you opened your hearts and arms to the Hungarians and others." A remarkable instance of reaping what we have sown.

If this is truly the picture Canada presents abroad, we have indeed much to be proud of, and grateful for.

Thanks to Mr. Honore, the magnitude of that duty has been seen from outside, is mirrored back for us to look upon it. And it makes us realize the immensity of the obligation we now have. The obligation to live up to that picture millions around the world must hold for Canada as a symbol of opportunity, tolerance and good will.

There could be no better picture of any land. We must constantly strive to make and keep it a true one of our own.

Mr. Honore has done us great service in showing it to us in this personal way. He has set a task: "Will you extend to me the same hospitality?"

We hope we will, Mr. Honore. We'll try. We'll put your picture to the test.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

An ex-prize fighter of my acquaintance stopped me on the street, borrowed a cigar and said he was going to commence training our young people watch the prize fights on the TV.

"They are a wrong impression," he said. "They see guys like Basilio, Patterson and Durelle jack solution waddling in and hammering the daylights out of their opponents. And they think that's the way to fight. If they do, they are going to get a lot of bloody noses."

"The first thing you have got to learn in boxing is to protect yourself from the other fellow's punches. In fact, if you spent the first two years of training in learning how to avoid being hit you could not do better. Master the art of covering up and ducking blows left and right, and then start punching. Since about a hundred per cent of TV viewers will never be in a fight except a fist fight, tell them how to cover up until their opponent gets winded from slugging. And then, all nice and fresh, lay him out on the chin."

I lit my friend's cigar for him. "Tell them how to do that," he said. "That Basilio, Fullmer Jackson and so on are clever champs."

My friend, of course, was never a former champ.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT

Model T Ford Heralded New Way Of Life In 1908

Forerunner of fifteen million of its kind, the first Model T Ford began to chug its way down the highway of history on October 1, 1908.

This was the "universal" car that would take you anywhere and bring you back. It was the power, the lizzy, the puddle-jumper, the Tin Lizzie. It was the car that became a world institution, a personality, a member of the family. People loved it, laughed at it, swore at it, tussled with it, and lavished upon it an affection rarely accorded an inanimate thing. It was the central character in a million human dramas and the butt of countless jokes.

Model T was the herald and the symbol of a new way of life. It brought social progress, new freedom, new prosperity. The chatter and sputter of its sturdy little engine were to be echoed in years to come by the thunderous symphony of a vast industry that is a cornerstone of the North American economy.

WELL BUILT CAR

When the Model T made its appearance 50 years ago, Henry Ford admitted it was not the best car he knew how to design. He merely said the roads of 1908 were bad. He was going to build a car that would run through anything. He did.

The essence of the Model T was its simplicity and dependability. Basic production made it possible for almost anyone to own one. At one time the Model T sold in the United States for $290, without extras.

The Model T popularized the left-hand steering wheel. It was the first car to use vanadium steel, first to have its motor block cast as a single unit, first to have a removable head for easy access to pistons and cylinders.

From its introduction in October, 1908, until it gave way to the equally beloved Model A in 1927, more than 15,000,000 Model T's were built, of which 255,000 came from the plants of Ford Motor Co. of Canada. It is estimated that some 85,000 Model T's are still in service in Canada and the world, of which about 12,000 are believed to be in Canada.

Most people of generational contemporary with Model T have a mental image of a touring car with a bunty black body and a flapping fabric top. There were many such, but through the years the Model T took a dozen forms. It went through almost constant evolution in styling and mechanical improvement, but in basic concept the last one off the line was not too dissimilar from the first.

Henry Ford, "the man who put the world on wheels," was born on a Michigan farm in 1863, the year in which the Civil War came to an end. As a boy he "liked machines better than anything." At 11 he blew up his mother's teapot in an experiment to satisfy his curiosity about the power of steam. At 12 he built a water wheel to turn the family coffee grinder. At 15 he was known throughout his home district for his skill in repairing watches. And a year later he left home to learn his trade as a machinist. At 20 he built a steam-powered "farm locomotive" that was to be the ancestor of the modern tractor.

Mr. Ford was a prosperous newly-married farmer when he chanced upon certain hints in a magazine that fired his imagination. It told how a German inventor (Otto) had built a gas engine on a new principle. Later he saw one of the engines in Detroit.

"I have been on the wrong track," he told his wife. "What I would like to do is make an engine that will run by gasoline and have it do the work of a horse."

He gave up his farm and moved to Detroit, EarnIng his living as an engineer at the Detroit Edison Illuminating Co. plant. Ford worked nights and weekends in a shed behind his home. On June 4, 1896, he completed his third car, and took it for a spin on the streets of Detroit at 4 a.m. It was the "999", with Barney Oldfield at the wheel, established a mark in 1903 that was to stand for many years — 91.37 miles per hour.

It was not until 1903, after two unsuccessful experiences, that Ford was able to form the Ford Motor Company. It was incorporated on June 16.

From the beginning Ford was determined to build an automobile so simple that anyone could drive it, so rugged that it would stand up under the roughest use. "I will build a car, for the multitude," he said prophetically. "It will be large enough for the family, but small enough for individuals to run and care for. It will be constructed of the best materials, by the best men to be hired, after the simplest designs that modern engineering can devise. But it will be so low in price that no man making a good salary will be unable to own one — and enjoy with his family the blessing of hours of pleasure in God's great open spaces."

Ford of Canada came into existence in August, 1904, just 17 months after the parent firm. Production by both companies was largely concentrated in two models, a 2-cylinder Model C that sold for $900, and a Model B described as a "deluxe model touring car with more power for its weight than any other car in the world." It developed 22 h.p. and weighed 1,710 pounds, a ratio of 85.5 pounds per horsepower. The price was $2,000.

SEVERAL NEW MODELS

Ford of Canada built 107 Model C's and ten Model B's in its first year in business. In 1906 Ford brought out the Model K, and Canadian production in 1907 the output jumped to 321 and the line included Models F, R, S and K. The latter was the aristocrat, a 40 h.p. 6-cylinder car that weighed a ton, could travel 50 miles per hour, and sold for $2,800.

The popular car, however, and the one that was to set Ford on the road to success, was the light, 15 h.p. 4-cylinder Model N that could travel 40 miles an hour and weighed only 1,050 pounds. It was shown for the first time in the New York Motor Show early in 1907, featuring a price tag that produced more wonderment than the car itself — $500. There were scores of makes of automobiles available at the time, but the average price was $2,137. No other car up to that time had made a bid for the popular trade. A flood of orders poured in both to the U.S. and Canadian companies and demand was such they could not meet it.

The Model N came close to Henry Ford's dream of a durable, powerful, economical car that anyone could drive. He had aimed for simplicity in design. Few moving parts, strength with light weight. The success of Model N shaped the future of Ford, but even while it was making history Mr. Ford was at work on the design of the Model T. He and a group of associates worked day and night to perfect their plans and bring it into production by October 1, 1908.

It was a year in which several hundred car cars were brought out by other manufacturers. None, however, combined anything like so many new features as the rather prim looking, noisy, tough, and endlessly useful Model T.

No Beauty Contest Winner

The shining trademark of the earlier Model T's was the squarish brass radiator. The brass was removed in 1913 and a Model T could be bought in any color so long as it was black.

There was nothing handsome about the Model T, even by the standards of motordom a half-century ago. In its early years it was seven feet high with the top up, and the bunty little body perched precariously on two transverse springs. Rods and straps, anchored to the frame, helped to support the divided windshield and the flapping top.

It took a little time to iron out the "bugs" of the earliest models. At first the bearings in the rear wheels were made of Babbitt metal; pounding on the road elongated them, requiring frequent replacement. Roller bearings were introduced after a few months. The transmission bands gave owners frequent trouble until a better fabric was discovered. Complaint arose over the fact the front and rear wheels were of different sizes, necessitating double sets of spare tires and tubes, so the wheels were standardized. The rear seat of the touring car was too narrow, so several inches were added to provide seating for three.

UNMINDFUL OF FAULTS

These were minor things, in the minds of most Model T buyers, and proved no deterrent to a torrent of sales. There were so many things the owners could boast about. The left-hand drive was a good example, for virtually all cars of the day were still right-hand drive. It was the Model T that brought about standardization of driving on the right side of the road in North America, although in Canada some Model T's were built with right-hand drives for a number of years to meet the laws of certain provinces.

Owners were proud of the simple lever under the steering wheel that controlled the flow of gasoline to the carburetor; the double system of braking, hand and foot; the extra-long springs of vanadium steel; the good leather upholstery. Above all, they boasted of the power and the speediest acceleration of any car of the period.

Legend has it that Mr. Ford had picked up a valve stem from a wrecked French racing car at Daytona Beach in 1905, and marvelled at its comparative lightness and strength. He put him on the trail of vanadium steel, which became the all important element of the Model T — to which it owed its' dainty front axle, valve stems, ring gear, camshaft, steering knuckles, and other critical components. Ford also contributed the idea of a cast-in-block 4-cylinder engine, and Charlie Sorensen developed a machine that could drill and machine the block in a single operation. Ford, as the old fable has, probably also supplied the idea for the ingeniously simple flywheel magneto with its series of self-contained magnets.

UNIQUE TRANSMISSION

Perhaps the most memorable feature of all was the planetary transmission (a basic principle employed in some of the most efficient automatic transmissions of today). The ignition system was unique. Included in it were four spark plugs, a distributor attached to the front of the engine, the flywheel magneto, and a set of spark coils conveniently mounted in a box attached to the dashboard. The float type carburetor, baffling in its simplicity, was fed by gravity from a ten gallon (U.S.) tank beneath the driver's seat. Splash-and-gravity lubrication slopped oil around to keep the engine functioning, but there was no oil stick, no pressure gauge, and, of course, no way to measure engine temperature. A penny ruler served as a gasoline gauge, and front seat passengers had to alight when the tank was being filled.

Small by present day standards, but a mighty midget in its day, the engine was a 4-cylinder, 4-cycle unit delivering 20 h.p. The water-jacketed head was removable for easy access to pistons and cylinders.

Under the heading of vital statistics, the basic Model T weighed 1,250 pounds, had a wheelbase of 100 inches, a tread of 56 inches, with 30-inch artillery wood wheels with pneumatic tires (3-inch in front, 3½ inches rear). All steel wheels came about 1922, and wire wheels were available as an accessory a few years later.

Blindness Said Most Common In Tropics

The blindness problem in tropical Commonwealth countries was the subject of an address by Professor Charles MacInnes, M.A., LL.D, at the Kiwanis Club's dinner meeting yesterday.

Throughout the talk Mr. MacInnes injected flashes of humor which were greatly appreciated by the Kiwanians present.

In the tropics, the Professor contended, blindness is very common. Many of the simple natives there are suffering from blindness, caused by one thing or another. He told of the work being done by the Society, of which he is a member, to destroy the causes of blindness in the tropical countries.

He said that the main cure for blindness there would simply be to get the natives to wash their faces. The Professor also said that the greatest enemy that must be contended with is the witch doctor of the various tribes. The confidence and fear in which the natives hold these men must be destroyed or else they can't start to help them.

The speaker also praised the Kiwanis and other service clubs for contributing to the Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

He also told the members of the communist's activities in the tropics, such as the propaganda lies that are consistently being spread in an attempt to poison the minds of the people against us.

The ballots for next year's election of Kiwanis officers were collected. It was also announced that the sales of the travelogue tickets being sold by the Kiwanis had now reached $1,115.

Holloway St. W.A. Holds Sept. Meet

The evening group of the W.A. of Holloway St. United Church met in the church parlors last Tuesday evening for the first meeting of the season.

The president, Mrs. Helen Jolliet, welcomed everyone present and opened the meeting with prayer.

A short business meeting was held. Mrs. Joblin then turned the meeting over to Mrs. Ethel Knight whose group took charge of the World Service for that evening.

The main theme for the evening was centred around the "Parable of the Talents." Mrs. Joblin read the Scripture reading; Mrs. Eleanor Revoy gave a short reading, and Mrs. Carolyn Cone spoke on the theme from the general service worship book of the W.A. Mrs. Ethel Knight then closed the meeting with prayer.

A social hour then followed with the showing of color slides. Mrs. Ethel Knight and her husband took many of these pictures of nature-study around the Bay of Quinte area. They were most informative and everyone enjoyed them.

EVENING COMFORT

WEDDINGS

BONNEAU — TEMPLE

A lovely wedding was solemnized in the Church of St. Michael the Archangel, Belleville, on August 16, when Dorothy Joan, daughter of Mrs. Temple and the late Frederick Josiah Temple, became the bride of Mr. Rolland Thomas Bonneau, of Brighton, Ont., son of Mrs. Bonneau and the late Alexandre Bonneau, of Farnham, Quebec. Rev. Father McGee officiated.

Wedding music was played by Miss Dorothy Grant. The soloist, Mr. Robert Burke, sang "Panis Angelicus," and "Ave Maria."

The bride, entering the church on the arm of her brother, Robert Temple, looked radiant in a floor-length gown of Swiss embroidered white organza over taffeta, with scooped neckline edged with Swiss guipure lace, and bouffant skirt. Her shoulder-length veil of French illusion was caught by orange blossoms, and she carried a cascade bouquet of Happiness roses and red rosette Sweetheart roses with ivy.

The bride was attended by Miss Cleiss Pearce, as maid-of-honour, and Misses Barbara Chapelle and Carolyn Parker, all of Belleville, as bridesmaids. The three attendants were gowned alike in white impressed accordion pleated taffeta over rose taffeta, with scatter-cushion appliques of pink roses and green leaves, and velvet sashes. They wore matching rose-colored taffeta picture hats, and carried bouquets of pink rosette Sweetheart roses and Gypsophilia.

The groomsman was Mr. Francis Bonneau, of Ottawa, Ont., a brother of the groom. Ushers were Mr. Francis Weaver, and Mr. Paul Temple, both of Belleville.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing an original gown of French blue silk organza over taffeta, with sheath-like skirt and matching back panel. She also wore a hat of rose-colored velvet and blue-coloured fox, and Belleville roses.

The groom's mother assisted, wearing a gown of gold embroidered grey taffeta, with matching accessories and a corsage of Bettertime roses.

NEARS CENTENARY

HERSKOW — McCOY

Glowing autumn colors of chrysanthemums in tall standards flanked the altar on Saturday, September 27th, when Evelyn, daughter of Mrs. Jean McCoy, younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Adams McCoy of Madoc, was united in marriage to Wagner Herskow of Temple, son of Mrs. Jens Peter Herskow and the late Mr. Herskow in a double ring ceremony.

The wedding took place in St. Peter's Presbyterian Church in Madoc, where the maternal grandfather of the bride, the late Rev. Dr. W. S. MacTavish was a former pastor. The Rev. Gerend W. Giovetti was the officiating clergyman.

With Mrs. Lois Miller, of Belleville, presiding at the organ, the bride who entered the church on her father's arm to the strains of "Praise Ye the Lord, the King of Heaven," looked charming in a floor length dress of lace over eggshell satin, fashioned with a square cut neckline in front and a deep "v" at the back, the overskirt in balloon style gathered in, and the underskirt with a deeply scalloped hemline in the shorter length. With this the bride wore a matching headdress and carried a cascade bouquet of yellow roses centred with a rust colored chrysanthemum.

Mrs. W. J. Murphy of Kingston, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in a pink champagne shade of pau de soie, styled with a draped bodice and full skirt, and wearing a ribbon headdress of the same color. The bridesmaids were Miss Elizabeth Bailey of Hamilton, cousin of the bride, and Miss Margaret Girvan of Jamaica. The attendants were dressed alike with the bridesmaids wearing tiny bandeaux of pale green feathers. They carried bouquets of 'mums tinted from gold to apricot.

Mr. Stewart Elliott of Madoc was groomsman, and the ushers were Mr. Robert McCoy and Mr. Carl McCoy, the brothers of the bride.

Prior to the service and during the signing of the register, Mrs. Walter Armstrong of Madoc sang "The Wedding Prayer," "O Perfect Love" and "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden" and the recessional music was Mendelssohn's Wedding March.

The wedding reception was held at the summer home of the bride's parents at Moira Lake, where the bride's mother received in a gown of delphinium blue and hat of the same shade with a draped feather. The mantel above the glowing fireplace was centred with an artistic arrangements of russet and gold 'mums and marsh cattails. Baskets of many-colored gladioli were spaced around the room. The bride's table was arranged with a three-tiered wedding cake flanked by flowers. The catering was done by the ladies of St. Peter's Church.

For the wedding trip through Indiana to Chicago, the bride wore an apple green knitted suit, with dark green feathered cloche, and matching shoes, bag and gloves. Her corsage was of yellow roses.

Guests were present from Montreal, Sudbury, Hamilton, Kingston, Brooklin, Lakefield, Toronto and Belleville.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Herskow will take up residence in Toronto in the Lambton suburbs.

HARRIS — KELLY

An archway of cedar boughs with pink and white streamers and bells, and cut flowers, decorated the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Kelly, Foxboro, Ont., for the marriage on September 20 of their daughter, Marion Doreen, to Donald Carl Harris, Halloway, son of Mr. James Harris and the late Mrs. Harris, of Toronto. Rev. R. F. Darke, of Foxboro, officiated.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride looked lovely in a gown of white embroidered nylon over satin, with fitted bodice, high neckline, and long sleeves coming to points at the finger tips. A shoulder length veil was held in place by a white pearl headdress. She carried a bouquet of red baby roses.

Miss Helen Kelly, of Foxboro, was bridesmaid, and she wore a street-length dress of yellow nylon with fitted bodice. She wore matching headdress and gloves and carried a nosegay of white and mauve baby 'mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Harold Kelly, of Foxboro.

Reception was held at Halloway United Church. The bride's table was decorated with a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake flanked by silver candelabra and cut flowers.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a blue dress, with accessories, and a corsage of pink roses. She was assisted by Mrs. Sayers, of Halloway, who wore a black dress, with lime green accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

For a wedding trip to Toronto, Niagara Falls, Rochester, Syracuse and Watertown, the bride chose a royal blue suit with pink Elecsorries, and corsage of red roses.

The couple will reside at Halloway.

Guests were present from Toronto, Belleville, Stirling, Roslin, Halloway, and Foxboro.

Going Shopping?

When the weather begins to turn and the first sharpness comes into the air, it is time to think of getting out heavy garments, or purchasing new ones if needed.

A prompter to delight any woman would be the purchase of a new fur coat. If that is your present circumstance, we were informed of some new trends in fur styling. The tailored style of back is at an end, except when specially ordered. Backs are now what is called "casual"—that is straight, but not full. Collars are softly rolled, sleeves are tapered with narrow cuffs.

One further said "This style is sensible; it is slimming, it takes less fur so that it costs less."

Gray lamb is still the best seller. Black lamb is the choice of the conservative buyer who will be satisfied with her purchase for a long time.

The jacket is more popular than other styles by a wide margin, but the fur car coat or dagger is bought a few. You will see more trimming on fur coats with the favorite trim being mink.

There are all kinds of accessories in mink — wraps for suits, sweaters or dresses, ornaments for hats and lapels.

Speaking of hats there seems to be something for everyone. But, to be in the latest mode, you will wear a high deep crown, or a deep cloche. The general outline seems to be tailey and irregular. Satin is very good for formal wear, with velvet and bulky brushed felt prominent.

Furs for another use are in the news, for fur rugs are on the way back. Beauskins, which haven't been seen on hearths for twenty-five years, are returning in favor. Big brown, even pelts and wall hangings are all part of the trend.

During our meanderings in Belleville shops, we learned that Penny's had put every shoud something useful to buy the man in your life. Sweaters continue to be popular.

If he likes a pullover, you can secure serviceable and attractive pullovers in banyon or nylon. The cardigan, low buttoned, three to five buttons is still a favorite. This is the sweater that Perry Como made popular. T & T was told that the Como style sleeveless vest outsells all others and although a vest isn't a sweater it is a knitted garment and continues very popular with the men.

We are all aware of the tremendous effort being taking place throughout the province in the suburban expansion of our urban centres. There are changes occurring on the land of which we may not be aware. Our farms are being transformed in some degree. Last Sunday we visited friends about two miles north of Number Two Highway near Colborne. We saw new silos, or whatever they are called, for drying tobacco leaf. Farms are becoming increasingly used in this district for the purpose of growing tobacco leaf and there are indications that large plantations for tobacco are coming into being along the southern tip of the neighboring county of Northumberland. This is indeed a departure from the mixed farming that has made our district famous for its farm produce. It is almost a foreign intrusion. The thought of tobacco made us think in terms of Sir Walter Raleigh when he brought the tobacco leaf back to England from Virginia. Times are changing and we are changing with them.

Massive figures always overwhelm us because the household budget is the limit of our comprehension. We used to wonder just what was meant by Gross Farm or World Bank. This week we read some overwhelming figures in the UNESCO Courier for August.

"All told, the World Bank has made 204 loans to 47 countries in the past twelve years for a grand total of just under $4,000,000,000." This money is being used to develop irrigation, power, industry and transportation in underdeveloped nations in Africa, Asia, South America and Europe. When international co-operation reaches such magnitude and staggering proportions in the world money marts it is difficult to fathom why peace and war, hatred and understanding are separated by tissue paper barriers, but they are.

Bancroft Woman in Dancing in Canada

BANCROFT, Ont. (CP)—Classical Indian dancing may be presented in Canada by a young bride who has settled with her husband in this growing uranium mining community, 50 miles northeast of Peterborough.

Mrs. Sharan has passed the highest examinations in the country in Indian classical dancing and has often appeared at theatres there.

"It is my ambition to present these traditional dances to Canadian audiences," she said.

She is also an artist who has won gold medals for portraits and landscape paintings.

This year has been one of achievement for her. She married in April and graduated from the University of Agra with a degree in literature. She taught at college she was a member of the National Cadet Corps, a woman's military training organization.

Her next achievement is to learn housekeeping.

"If I had stayed in India I would never have had the opportunity to learn cooking, cleaning and marketing for back home these tasks are performed by servants," she said.

She wears a sari from time to time but says she will put on a dress in slacks and blouse as it was the official uniform of the cadet corps.

Mr. Sharan graduated in mining engineering from the South Dakota School of Mining in 1952.

Mrs. Sharan has a brother, Dr. D. P. Goel in Montreal, doing post - graduate work at Queen Elizabeth Hospital after obtaining a master of surgery degree at McGill University, and a sister, Prem Goel, who is studying for a doctor 'of' philosophy degree in English at the University of Nebraska.

Marie Curtis, Long Branch Reeve, Saves a Million In New Financing Method

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—A housewife's work on the family budget is just the training needed for handling a community's finances, says Mrs. Marie Curtis, housewife-reeve of the lakeshore community of Long Branch.

In the last five years, she says, she has evolved some economical budgeting changes for the community of 19,000 persons, which has village status but is part of Metropolitan Toronto.

A three-year road construction and storm-sewer program now is complete. It cost the community $1,247,000.

SAVED MONEY

"But it saved us $1,000,000, too," said Mrs. Curtis, whose blue-grey eyes glinted like those of a housekeeper who has found a real bargain in sheets.

"We bought graders and other equipment and rented them to ourselves. We shall sell them for cash. Next we provided 15 local men with work.

Long Branch, just west of the city of Toronto, is reclaiming swampy land on the shore of Lake Ontario by charging $2 a load to garbage dumpers.

"We've made money on far on the deal, and when the land level has been raised it will be the dumping of small have a 35-acre park," she said.

That part of the park which is already opened is named after her.

Mrs. Curtis has a long - term plan for Long Branch.

"With the help and our stretch of lake shore we can be a tourist resort — Long Branch could be the Coney Island of Canada— and we can be a commuters' centre for Toronto," she said.

"The important thing is that we must not be swallowed by Toronto. We can contribute to, and benefit from, old folks' homes which we could not afford to build for ourselves. But voters lose control of council in a big city.

"If men erupt you on council and speak harshly to you, it's no good bursting into tears. I've felt like it sometimes, but if I believe something is right I get up and say so just the same."

She entered politics because of her children. When she first went to Long Branch from the city of Toronto 23 years ago, it had only about 2,000 inhabitants. There was no kindergarten for her children, Joan and Bill, now 18 and 15 years old respectively.

HOUSEWIFE REEVE

Marie Curtis, reeve of suburban Long Branch, Toronto's smallest suburb, says women can't be cry-babies in municipal life. Mrs. Curtis, who was elected deputy reeve in 1950 and reeve in 1953, began her career in politics 23 years ago when she and 100 housewives organized a protest concerning the lack of a local kindergarten. She is president of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves and an executive of the Metropolitan Council in Toronto. — (CP Photo) 1958 (Star).

"I asked the school board for a kindergarten and they said 'no,' so 100 of us mothers got together and attended a school board meeting. We got our kindergarten."

She became president of the Long Branch home and school association and again crossed swords with the school board, complaining more pay for teachers. "They were poorly paid then; now maybe the pendulum has swung the other way," said Mrs. Curtis.

She is president of the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves, an executive member of the Metropolitan Toronto council, and a member of the Canadian Legion women's auxiliary and of the Business and Professional Women's Association.

Women, she says, must be more active in local affairs.

"They have to work twice as hard as men and be more on top of the job. The men may try to get around sometimes, but you can always push back. On behalf of Long Branch, I always have."

PROPER FOR THESE GUESTS TO BRING WINE TO HOSTS?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I are quite often invited to spend the weekend with very dear friends of ours who live in the country. We have brought them presents you've suggested (special foods, gourmet foods you've mentioned, household gadgets, particularly ones for buffet parties which they often give, and for cook-outs, and so forth). We've also taken them records of the classical music they enjoy, and books that are being discussed. At dinner our hosts sometimes serve wine, and we're wondering if it would be proper for us to take them a bottle or two of wine of the kind they usually serve, or do you think this might seem (my husband thinks it might) like a hint that they should serve that wine while we are there? — E. L.

It's a delightful idea for you and your husband to take your hosts as a guest-gift, one of the wines of the kind of wine you know they particularly enjoy. And possibly you know you brand they serve wine and drink it themselves. A good wine from the other presents you've given them. As you hand the gift-wrapped (it should be) package to the hosts on your arrival, you might tactfully suggest, "Here's for a very special toast we'd like to propose tonight to the very wonderful friendship of us four!"

SHE WANTS TO KNOW THE TECHNIQUE OF EATING SOFT-SHELL CRABS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I've never eaten a soft-shell crab, but my fiance says he's particularly fond of them, and has invited me to go to a certain restaurant here, which he says is famous for them. How do I eat a soft-shell crab? Are there any parts that are not edible? I want to appear as if I am entirely familiar with the technique for eating these critters! — Wondering.

You'll like these "critters." I'm sure. They are completely edible, the shell, the claws and all. With your knife and fork cut out a mouthful and eat that before you cut the next mouthful, just as you would a piece of meat.

HER TWIN NEPHEWS AS PAGES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My only sister, whom I dearly love, is to be my matron of honor, and I would like to have her attractive little twin boys as pages. I don't at all like the idea of having ring-bearers (they look "hick" to me). Do you approve of this plan of having two pages? If so, where would they walk in the Processional? C.

I most enthusiastically approve of your charming plan to have two pages, and how fortunate you are to be able to have your sister's little twin boys serve as pages. They should walk together in the Processional, after their mother, the matron of honor, walks directly before you and you our father, or whoever is to escort you up the aisle.

Fashionable Fall Coats

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Cashmere and wool blends are encountered frequently in the new fall coat offerings. This blend is used for a smartly attractive coat in putty beige with a brown satin lining or in black with a dashing lining of bright green satin. The silhouette flows away from the body, narrow under the arms and billowing out towards the hem, with sides marked by princess - line seaming.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of a real-life case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Mr. M. T. — Our son is "beat."

Rudy T. — They are phonies.

• • •

Mr. M. T. — My wife and I are heartbroken and do not know what to do about our only son, Rudy, who has become a member of the "beat generation."

Rudy is nearly 30 and has never yet settled down to a real job. He has travelled all over Europe and this country living like a hobo and picking up handouts. He says he is an artist, writer and philosopher, but we've never seen any of the things he has done.

His mother has been very ill recently and wants him to live with us again. I say okay if he shaves off his beard and settles down to a real job. I want to make my wife happy, but I really feel there is nothing to do about him but to wash our hands of him complete-ly.

• • •

Rudy T. — Ever since I've come home all I've heard is "Shave off your beard. Take a bath. Get some good clothes. Get a job. Settle down with a nice girl." What I'd like to know is where did all these things get my parents and everyone else around here?

My father has a house and a car and everyone respects him and says "Sir" to him. But he is happy Man, he doesn't know the first thing about happiness or even living. He is a phony through and through and everything he has is phony.

When I came home from the Korean War I suddenly saw all the phoniness around me and decided not to be part of it. If my parents want me home, they'll just have to take me as I am.

The Council: We don't think there is any point in the M. T.'s trying to do anything to change Rudy's living habits. He has gone too far into a rather indifferent life for their arguments to carry any weight with him. As a matter of fact, their comments tend his prejudices and help him to bolster his own position.

If the M. T.'s decide that they want to have Rudy with them for some time, they must accept him as he is and try to show others in their community that they accept him. If his conduct causes them too much shame and they f e e l they cannot face their friends and neighbors because of him, they will have to make a choice between him and them and we believe they will be far happier if they choose in favor of their community.

We certainly wouldn't try to argue Rudy out of his beliefs, but we would urge him to go no further -in his questioning and seeking. He seems to have satisfied himself with a few very simple, pat answers to life. Clothes, baths, shaves, jobs, cars a r e phony — therefore do without these things and you are not phony. But what are you? A guy with a beard and old clothes who claims to be "living."

We doubt whether Rudy can settle on this as a permanent answer to all the issues in life. We think his "philosophy" will fall, little more "beating" and if he is as non-phony and honest as he wants to be, he won't be afraid to apply the same harsh questions and answers to himself that he does to his parents.

Saladry — A Creative Art

Dinner Menus

WEDNESDAY

Baked Back Bacon with Broiled Peach Halves; Green Peas; Baked Sweet Potatoes in Jackets; Fresh Pear and Cheese Ball Individual Fruit Salads; Date Bread; Coffee.

If we are going to hang on to the summer atmosphere on our dinner tables we must make the best of the salad vegetables that are available — and serve one every day during the fall and winter.

A new crop of tender young spinach is showing its tender leaves on our home market and my sister made a spinach salad that was delicious for us rabbit food eaters, and darkly beautiful in a wooden bowl against the white damask cloth. Are you vegetarians enough to try it? Will your family go along with everything you dish up? Go ahead and try this on them.

PEADY'S SPINACH SALAD

To serve four people you will need 1-3 lb. fresh young raw spinach leaves (no stems), about small tomatoes cut into eighths, about 1-4 cucumber cut into wafer thin crescents, about 1-4 cup Swiss or cellar cheese cut into shoestring strips 1" long, 1 tablespoon finely chopped chives, shake of MSG, about 1-4 cup Italian dressing. Toss all lightly, adding dressing just before serving. We had this with a roast-beef-Yorkshire pudding summer-succotash main course and the salad stole the show. Note: If desired use only half as much spinach and make up the remainder with torn garden or Bibb lettuce.

STUFFED TOMATO SALADS

Here's where the artist in you can find expression. For all of these stuffed tomato salads start by cutting each peeled tomato into 5 sections, leaving them attached at the stem end. Spread them slightly apart and place on individual salad plates or on large chop plate, on lettuce. (1) dumburst: To fill 4 medium-large tomatoes mix together 4 hard-cooked eggs, 1-4 cup mayonnaise, 2 tablespoons each finely-chopped celery and sweet green pepper, 1-2 teaspoon salt, shake of pepper and onion salt and paprika. Fill the spread apart tomatoes with this egg salad. Top with a little additional mayonnaise. (2) Tuna or Salmon: To fill 4 medium-large tomatoes mix together 1 7-oz. can well-drained flaked tuna or salmon, 2 tablespoons each chopped sweet pickle and celery, 1-2 cup mayonnaise or salad dressing, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, salt and pepper to taste. Fill spread apart tomatoes with tuna salad filling and top each with tiny gherkin-fan, (3) Cottage Cheese: To fill 3 medium-large tomatoes mix with 1-2 lb cottage cheese, 2 tablespoons each finely chopped chives, 4 tablespoons mayonnaise. Pile in spread apart tomatoes and garnish top with fine sprinkling of chopped chives.

TOMATO ROSE

For parties chill firm peeled small tomatoes. For 3, soften 1 3-oz. package cream cheese with a little milk. Form 2 rows of "petals" by pressing level silver teaspoons against sides of tomato, and drawing teaspoon down with a curving motion. Top with sieved hard-cooked egg yolks.

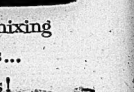
The Badge of Fashion

By ALICE ALDEN



If ever fashion's silhouette called for accents, it is now. Necklaces draw attention to higher necklines of brief bodices. Pins—large, lavish pins—mark high waistlines or indicate that a line if it is not defined. The big pin, to place where you will, certainly is the badge of fashion this fall.

Pins and centre on an easy over-blouse is a huge heraldic pin of gleaming gold touched with bright white and colored enamel. Varied heraldic charms clustered on a bracelet or golden links and button earrings repeat the pin's motif.

New Coat

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Take New Look At Education

VANCOUVER (CP)—England, including Oxford University, is taking a new look at its education system, says Dr. Lucy Sutherland, principal of Lady Margaret Hall at Oxford.

Dr. Sutherland was the only woman delegate with the (falling administrators of Commonwealth universities) who were recent guests of the University of British Columbia here.

"Even before the first sputnik went into orbit last fall, our scientists had been to Geneva and had been impressed with Russian accomplishments in the scientific field," she said in an interview.

"They came back to England and impressed on educators the need for greater stress on physics and chemistry. So we were already heading in that direction by the time the earth satellites rode into space.

"Since then the accent has been even greater."

But this leaning towards the sciences has not yet greatly affected her woman students, who naturally are inclined toward the arts, she said.

"About 20 per cent of the 200 women at Lady Margaret Hall are studying one aspect or other of the sciences, which is a fairly high proportion."

Nurse Retires After 30 Years With V.O.N.

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Grace Verney is retiring as London district director of the Victorian Order of Nurses after 30 years' work with the organization.

She took her initial training at Cheltenham, England, graduated from Cook County Hospital in Chicago and then took a public health nursing course at the University of Western Ontario here.

She joined the VON in 1928, working for 10 years in London before going to Ontario, Ont., and then to East York. She became district director here in 1948.

"The young nurse now does not have to work 30 hours straight on a case, as we used to do," she recalls. "But she still has a great deal to do."

Among other posts she held were terms as president of the public health alumnae of the University of Western Ontario, president of the local Soroptimists branch and membership in the IODE. She is also on the part-time staff of the University's school of nursing.

Her assistant director, Vera Sloan, is also retiring, after 30 years with the VON.

Fashion endorses leather for some of its most beautiful creations, as well as for more practical application. In the latter category, we submit something especially right for the months ahead — a luscious suede cardigan, cut to approximate the relaxed lines of a sweater. Holiday From Civilization Best Cure Says Brunette

By SYLVANIA HACK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LOSSON (CP) — A pretty 26-year-old brunette who was unsure whether she preferred civilization or not, has decided after a trek across the Himalayas that she has grown to like it some more.

Ruth Lewis, the London - born daughter of an arts and travel lecturer, Dr. Morris Lewis, says she "found peace within" when she accompanied her father on a three-month tour of the Himalayas.

"I learned what quiet hills and solitude can mean and the pleasure one can find in natural surroundings without artificial aids."

A holiday away from civilization is the best cure for anyone going through a "rejection" phase, says Miss Lewis. "It gives one a sense of perspective so that you are able to accept things more easily when you come back."

FAMILY TRADITION

Miss Lewis is the third generation of her family to trek across the Himalayas. "It's a sort of family tradition with us. My father went 30 years ago and actually went into Tibet, and his father went 30 years before that.

"Last year it was my turn and I went along as my father's companion."

Trekking and touring by jeep weren't the only objects of the trip. Dr. Lewis collected material and photographs for future lectures, while his daughter went around with a tape recorder gathering specimens of tribal music.

"It was a most enlightening and wonderful tour," says Miss Lewis who is hoping to make a career in radio work.

FRIENDLY PEOPLE

The trip took them from the northeast corner of the Himalayas to the northwest. They trekked through the Kangra, Kulu and Lahoul valleys, over the Rhotang Pass more than 13,000 feet high, and also to Darjeeling, where they climbed so high they were able to see the Everest range on a clear day.

The going was rough. At one time, Miss Lewis didn't have a bath for a fortnight and she often slept on hut floors. "You really have to be in good health to undertake these trips. Climatic conditions varied so much I was alternately changing from slacks and sweaters into light summer dresses."

The friendliness and honesty of the local people impressed her. "There is no crime among them at all."

Since returning, Miss Lewis has been teaching English at a Middlesex school. She plans to join the BBC in January.

Harts-Riggs W.I. Holds Sept. Meet

MADOC — The September meeting of Harts Riggs Women's Institute was held in the evening at the home of Mrs. Earl Sexsmith with an excellent attendance. Citizenship and education was the theme of the meeting.

Th secretary was instructed to extend an invitation to Madoc branch for the October meeting to be held at Mrs. Dan Fleming's home on October 16. Mrs. Allan Pigden reviewed the current events of the month. The motto was given by Mrs. Allan Franke, based on the third sentence of the Mary Stewart collect.

One of the highlights of the evening followed when the awards to the pupils of Harts and Riggs Schools who had shown the greatest improvement during the last school year were presented. Master Charles Cassidy and Miss Leona Woods both of Riggs school, each received a gift of $5 from the Institute, presented by their own teachers, Mrs. Glovetti and Mrs. Woods.

The program was prepared jointly by Mrs. Cecil Woods and Mrs. W. Bateman. Mrs. Woods read a poem entitled, "It's a Pretty Good Land After All." Mrs. Bateman gave an excellent paper on "Citizenship."

Mrs. Woods further discussed changes that are appearing in our educational system in Ontario and elsewhere.

Mrs. Glovetti, the guest speaker, gave a comprehensive talk on the educational system of British Columbia — past and present.

Mrs. A. Wood moved the stories of the trip taken by Mr. Woods and herself to the west coast.

Mrs. Bateman extended thanks to all who assisted with the program. A hymn was sung and Rev. Glovetti closed the meeting with prayer.

Expect Douks Will Be Given More Time to Make Decision

OTTAWA (CP) — Members of the turbulent Sons of Freedom Doukhobor sect were expected today to receive federal - British Columbia approval for an extra a move back to Russia.

three weeks in which to ponder

Sect leaders put the request to Justice Minister Fulton Tuesday and he promised a reply today as soon as he had conferred with Attorney-General Bonner of B.C. He indicated the federal government is agreeable.

Sect secretary William Moojelsky of Krestova, B.C., presented the request and told reporters that there is still no Soviet answer to the sect's "official, formal and final" immigration application.

SAYS HALS SIGNED

However, 50 per cent of the 3,000 Freedomite members were signed up, he contended, and he had reason to believe "high level" talks have been conducted between Canada and Russia about the proposed move.

Mr. Fulton said there has been no such discussion. Canada had offered assistance to the sect from the beginning and had made only the first approach to Russia.

WOULD MEET COST

The federal government would meet transport costs and the provincial government would give resettlement assistance. The original deadline was Tuesday.

The condition attached to the joint offer is that all emigrating Doukhobors must sign away their Canadian citizenship, thus precluding any possibility of their return.

Mr. Moojelsky expressed confidence that all the sect members eventually will sign up. His discounted reports that rank-and-file members are not enthusiastic about the project despite what they consider to be the high-handed action of the B.C. government in forcing Doukhobor children to comply with education laws.

Living alone and liking it, calves are housed in individual "calfloos" at a research farm at Elk River, Minn. The calfloos, flat-roofed weather-tight wooden structures, are the chief feature of a new calf-raising system based on principles of isolation and disease prevention. Each "calfloo," spaced at least eight feet apart to help prevent transmission of airborne disease germs from one unit to the next, is four feet high, four feet wide and six feet long. A calf is placed in a unit shortly after birth and has no physical contact with other animals.

WHITE'S DISTRICT

Whites Church Observes 117th Anniversary

WHITE'S DISTRICT — On September 28th the 117th anniversary was observed at Whites' Church with a morning and evening service conducted by the pastor, Rev. Roy Rickard, B.A., M.R.E. He was assisted in the morning by the Rev. A. C. McCallum, a former pastor, of Trenton.

The choir rendered "Sunshine of the Soul," and "O, That Will be Glory," accompanied by the pianist, Mrs. W. Jeffery.

The theme of the morning sermon was, "The Courts of the Lord." Mr. Rickard said that church attendance was an opportunity to meet God and satisfy spiritual hunger.

"We must not neglect the church for things such as TV, and we must safeguard against empty pews," he said. "Three reasons for attending the courts of the Lord are fellowship, witness and worship. However, there must be a friendly spirit amongst all members and gossip must be shunned."

The evening service, under the heading "Treasures in Earthen Vessels," was taken from 2nd Corinthians 4:2.

The choir assisted with two anthems, "Love, Wonderful Love," and "He Lives."

The altar was enhanced with baskets of lovely autumn flowers. A memorial basket of gladioli was placed in memory of Mr. Seldon and Mr. Ritchie Ketcheson.

The transplant was accomplished by Soviet Surgeon Vladimir Demikhov at the Moscow Medical institute. The experiment is part of a research project, the ultimate purpose of which is to transplant vital human organs to replace those that are hopelessly affected.

Wheat and Rye Being Crossed Experimentally in Attempt To Produce New Cereal

WINNIPEG (CP) — Durum wheat and rye are being crossed experimentally here in an attempt to produce a new cereal grain that may actually say could be successful some day rival wheat as Canada's main grain crop.

The experiment was described in an interview by Prof. L. H. Shebeski, head of the University of Manitoba's plant science department.

A vigorous supporter of wider and extended programs of plant research, Prof. Shebeski said "we must remember wheat has been a food crop since prehistoric times and as a result most of our research in cereal crops has been aimed at producing better wheat varieties.

WHEAT RESEARCH

"Each country has fanselled research in wheat into programs aimed at producing specific qualities in Canada, as an example. This task has been to produce hardy varieties which can ward off rust attacks and yet are of a high enough quality to meet the requirements of our customers abroad.

"As a result studies into new grains have suffered," he said.

Prof. Shebeski said much of the hope now held for the new cereal is speculation.

"The two grains have been combined and grown. As a potential crop it has all the appearances of being a far more productive starch producing plant factory than the best of the present bread wheats.

"The growth is vigorous, the plant is about twice as high as either of the parents, he said. "The kernels are more plentiful and larger.

"First studies indicate it is capable of withstanding most of the diseases which habitually attack present bread wheats," he said.

MAY BE DECEPTIVE

"However, visual impressions may be deceiving. We have no idea whether the grain will shatter, be of good quality or even perpetuate itself."

Prof. E. Jenkins, directing much of the research here further cautioned that the new wheat - rye cross may prove worthless.

"We are not the first to attempt this," he said. "Dr. E. Sanchez-Monge of Madrid has done so during the last 10 years."

In Spain wheat and rye are mixed and then ground into flour for bread. Dr. Sanches - Monge hoped a combination of bread wheat and rye would result in nature doing the task.

"It has not proven successful in Spain," Prof. Jenkins said.

The new plant has been given the scientific name of triticale, a combination of genetic classification of wheat and rye—triticum and secale.

GROWN THIS YEAR

It was grown here this summer and the best heads will be selected, tested and planted again.

The road still may be bogged with crosses and backcrosses of the hardy plants, Prof. Jenkins said. There can be no date set for the completion of this work.

"But new methods and equipment can hasten the job. Similar problems were faced in wheat and we can see the rapid development there in the last 50 years.

"A method of juggling chromosomes developed by Dr. Sears of the University of Missouri will be a great help.

"In this way we can inject characteristics needed but lacking from one plant," he said.

NEW DIFFERENCE

Wheat and rye are derived from the same primitive plant, the bunch grass. Bread wheats have 21 pairs of chromosomes, the tiny part of a cell that determines plant characteristics, and has seven and durum wheat 14. Rye has seven but has 21 pairs also, 14 from durum wheat and seven from rye.

MEANS DIFFERENCE

The chromosomes are in series of seven pairs called genomes and the basic difference between bread wheat and triticale is the combinations of these genomes.

Durum wheat and goat grass combine to form bread wheat and durum wheat and rye make triticale.

Durum now is the largest single crop produced annually in the world. Production averages for the past five years is 47,000,000 tons annually and makes up 29,000,000.

Prof. Shebeski said once the new plant is perfected human whims can further delay and even halt production. The use of weed through the years has developed tastes, color and baking qualities. If triticale does not meet them people just won't use it.

Only a few years ago Canadian firms have already asked for large samples of new rye strains.

"But we can not yet meet the seed requirements of our own tests and even if we could it will be a few years before manufacturers can obtain the new plant for baking and quality tests," he said.

NEW GRAIN SOUGHT

A new grain that some scientists say could some-day rival wheat as Canada's main grain crop is being sought in experiments at the University of Manitoba. Here Dr. B. C. Jenkins of the university's plant science department holds a few stalks of an experimental grain alongside a few stalks of wheat. The big heads (top) result from crossing durum wheat with rye. The result is called triticale which has some qualities superior to wheat. Scientists say further tests may prove it is worthless (CP Photo).

World Finance Ministers Meet In New Delhi

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—World finance ministers meet in New Delhi next Monday to discuss means of promoting trade and financing economic development.

They will be attending a joint meeting of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development, and the International Finance Corporation. Prime Minister Nehru will inaugurate the session. Canada's representative is Finance Minister Fleming.

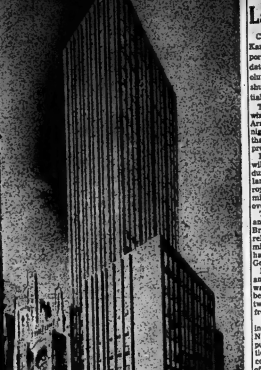
The principal result of the meetings is expected to be an increase in the resources of the fund and the bank to enable them to extend their activities.

President Eisenhower already has announced that the United States delegation will propose an increase in the quotas of member governments of the fund; an increase in the authorized capital of the bank, with member governments subscribing to the increase, and the bank to the establishment of an international development association as an affiliate of the bank.

SEE WIDE SUPPORT

These proposals are expected to get wide support from Britain and the sterling area countries already have complained the need for increased international liquidity to remove impediments to freer world trade such as recurrent shortages of various foreign currencies in buyer countries.

More capital for the World Bank would enable it to extend its work of financing economic development, which itself is a powerful factor in increasing world trade.



Underdeveloped countries, such as India, also are likely to favor an increase in the resources available to them for development.

Such move for more resources has political overtones in that many countries see it as an effective means of combating the economic offensive launched by communists countries whose political and economic systems attempt to manipulate underlying relations for political purposes.

URGE DEEPER HARBORS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The board of army engineers for rivers and harbors recommended deepening the Duluth - Superior harbors in Minnesota at an estimated cost of $2,364,000. The work would include dredging the inner harbor to a depth of 27 or 28 feet and the outer harbors to 32 feet.

CANADA HOUSE OPENS IN NEW YORK

Canada House in New York City, a subject of controversy for several years, opened its doors officially on Sept. 30. The 10-storey building, built of limestone to blend with other structures around it and has a patch of flower garden in front. Though originally planned as an all-Canadian venture, costs rose evidently too high and a U.S. firm took a 50 per cent interest, but in 25 or 30 years will turn it over to Canada debt free. Builders report that there has been no rush of Canadian firms anxious to establish their headquarters in the building.

Canada's Cheddar Stockpile Largest in Years Despite Efforts to Nibble It Down

MONTREAL (CP) — The National Dairy Council of Canada says the country's stockpile of cheddar cheese is at its highest level in years, despite efforts of Canadians to nibble it down.

Domestic consumption so far this year has been 5,000,000 pounds greater, than in the same period last year, the council said in a report issued Tuesday night. Production has declined by 11 per cent, or 7,000,000 pounds since last year.

But stocks have increased because less than 120,000,000 pounds have been sold abroad, out of a total production expected to reach 119,000,000 pounds.

The council predicted a record year for milk production with the total expected to top 18,000,000,000 pounds.

Surpluses were also mounting in butter and skim milk powder, and a federal official said there appears to be little that can be done about disposing of the stocks.

SOLUTION NOT EVIDENT

L.W. Fenwick, chairman of the federal agricultural stabilization board, told the council's annual meeting that neither disposal in the export market nor give-away programs offered a solution.

"Prices for Canadian dairy products are probably the highest in the world, higher than the United States, and twice what might be considered the value for dairy products in international trade.

"Any export sales that might be made would have to be heavily subsidized which would undoubtedly bring strong protests from other producing countries. There is also the complication with the United States, where we have strongly protested against their subsidized sales of wheat, and the serious appraisal of the problems will be needed.

DECLINING

The council said in its report that butter output has increased 27,000,000 pounds since last year and stocks have increased as consumption fell off by 2,000,000 pounds.

Butter, enjoying a support price of 64 cents a pound, was having difficulty competing with margarine which in certain instances in chain-store promotion sold for as little as three pounds for 55 cents.

Cheddar cheese, with a support price of 34 cents a pound, was available for export at 29 to 30 cents, and this was expected to increase demand. Canadian cheddar sold in the United Kingdom at 32½ cents a pound.

PHENOMENAL RISE

Skim milk production was up a "phenomenal" 63 per cent over last year's comparable period, and totalled nearly 124,000,000 pounds. Support price is 15 cents for spray manufactured powder and 13 cents for powder produced by the roller method.

Slaughtering Tuesday included John Fisher, executive director of the Canadian Cheese Association, and outgoing president F.J. Reynolds.

E. A. Lewis of Calgary was chosen president of the council. Directors elected include R. Gildner, New Dundee ;J. M. Hartwick, Wellington and J. E. Pinsonneault, C. E. Richardson St. Mary's, was appointed a director at large.

Cattle Rustlers Steal Entire Holstein Herd

HAMILTON (CP) — Cattle rustlers made off with an entire herd of purebred holsteins in a raid on a farm eight miles south of this industrial city.

Police said they were checking slaughterhouses for the 11 animals, all in calf, which averaged approximately 800 pounds and were valued at more than $3,000.

Owner Wilhelm de Boer reported Saturday Alberbell said he checked them in their rented pasture at midnight Monday. The animals were gone when he checked back Tuesday.

Chief Constable Doug Mitchell of Ancaster Township said it was the largest cattle theft in the township's history. He notified police in Toronto, Hamilton and other centres to check all abattoirs in their areas. The animals were registered and carried identification masks.

The theft may be linked to a series of cattle rustling incidents in the district southeast of Hamilton over the last few months. In most cases, single animals were slaughtered in the field and the meat removed by truck.

Iraq's Premier Moves to Divide Large Estates

CAIRO (AP)—Premier Abdel Karim Kassem of Iraq is reported to have moved to consolidate peasant backing for his revolutionary regime with a land reshuffle while removing a potential rival.

The Middle East News Agency, which is controlled by the United Arab Republic, said Tuesday night in a dispatch from Baghdad that Kassem announced the land program in a broadcast.

Kassem said the government will break up big land holdings starting the next five years. Big landlords were a bulwark of the royal government of the late Premier Nuri Said which Kassem overthrew July 14.

The Iraq man in the revolt and the new republican regime, Brig. Abdul Salam Arif, has been relieved of his post as deputy premier, the news agency said, and has been named ambassador to Germany.

No reason for the demotion and, in effect, banishment of Arif was given. But observers have been rumors of difference between him and Kassem. News from Baghdad is censored.

Arif has been believed advocating closer unity with President Nasser's U.A.R. while Kassem's public actions have been interpreted to maintain a separate course within the over-all pattern of Arab unity.

British to Begin Leaving Jordan On October 20

AMMAN, Jordan (AP) — King Hussein announced today that British troops will begin withdrawing from Jordan Oct. 20.

In a speech from the throne at the opening of a session of parliament the youthful monarch declared that the U.S. navy has been reached between Jordan "and our friend the British government."

British troops began flying into Jordan July 17 at the request of the Jordan government. This was at the height of the crisis in the Middle East three days after a coup in Iraq had overthrown the royal government there.

In his speech prepared by Premier Sulei Rifai Hussein said King Hussein promised Jordan would "do its utmost to promote unity of the Arab world."

The king blamed the "atheist" Soviet Union for "the present international communism for much of the chaos in the Arab world.

Supreme Court Having Last Say in Integration Issue

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The struggle over integration in Arkansas has aspects of a free-for-all wrestling match in which several bouts are being staged at once and every ever seems to win.

The new statement by the United States Supreme Court may at last brush away some of the legal confusion over the issue of whether black and white children should go to school in southern schools.

Simplicity ends as soon as the principle of the problem is stated. Only recently, for instance, had President Eisenhower felt free to speak out on the question, in these words:

"Most of us believe that all men are equal in the sight of God."

Probably few Americans would argue with that statement—or not loud at least—but its practical application is a matter of debate. It has been the crux of legal warfare since the Supreme Court in 1954 ordered integration in southern schools "with all deliberate speed."

Court actions at various levels now are coming to a climax. A judge circuit court of appeals hears the case for a temporary injunction.

The unhappy education board had tried earlier—without success —to avoid all this by asking a judge whether its contemplated course of action was legal. The judge replied that he had no legal authority to give advice—"that is something for which you will have to depend on your counsel."

State Secretary Dulles Said 'Milestone Around the Neck Of Western Foreign Policy'

TORONTO (CP) — Hazen Argue, CCF house leader in the Commons, says U.S. State Secretary Dulles is "a millstone around the neck of Western foreign policy."

"He is really a better ally for the victory of Soviet policy and the enhacing of Soviet influence than any dedicated Communist possibly could be," Mr. Argue said.

Although the Canadian government could not ask for Mr. Dulles' removal, "at least we should stop this policy of swallowing our words and our pride and following along for frustrating trail that is littered with the debris of Mr. Dulles' failures."

Mr. Argue's strong criticism of U.S. foreign policy was made at a provincial CCF nominating convention in York South, a constituency held in Ontario Legislature by provincial CCF Leader Donald C. MacDonald.

BRINKMANSHIP

He said Mr. Dulles' "burning zeal for brinkmanship and his mania for military pacts . . . has led the Western world into more impasses and into more dead-end streets than we can any longer afford.

"It might be said indeed that he is a kind of King Midas in reverse . . . it seems that everything Mr. Dulles touches turns to crumbling clay."

The Dulles policy on Quemoy and Matsu had strengthened, not weakened, the Communist world.

"It has entrenched the Communist government in China more securely in office and has, indeed, driven China more and more firmly into the Soviet orbit."

MIDDLE EAST FAILURE

In the Middle East it had been the Dulles more than anyone else who had been responsible for creating the "power vacuum" in the Middle East that Nasser was able to exploit to his own prestige. Instead it brought about events that made Nasser stronger than ever.

The Baghdad Pact had been "converted from a defence pact to Arab nations" but instead of strengthening the Western position it had weakened it and enhanced the appeal of Russia and of Nasser. "It is seen as the instrument imposed from the outside smacking of the Anglo Nasser 'Western' colonialism."

The statements were included in a CCF news brough issued to the press before delivery.

Stone's daughter Ellen, a student at Queen's University in Kingston, was informed of the attack.

New Country, Guinea, Takes Place on Map

PARIS (AP) — Another new country took its place on the map today as French sovereignty officially passed into the hands of the cabinet in Guinea, a West African Negro nation.

Guinea became independent at the stroke of midnight Tuesday night. But no new flag flies in Conakry, the capital on a coastal island about half way between West Africa's Dakar and Liberia.

The swift consequences of last Sunday's constitutional referendum caught Guinea Premier Sekou Toure's regime flatfooted—it hasn't got a flag or an anthem or any of the other outward symbols of nationhood.

LAUNCH REPUBLIC SUNDAY

In Paris, Premier de Gaulle and his cabinet worked to launch on Sunday the Fifth French Republic under the constitution approved everywhere in the French empire except Guinea. De Gaulle had said rejection of the constitution by a French territory would bring it immediate independence.

Toure said in Conakry that his new country did not intend to cut completely adrift.

"In every sphere Guinea will turn first of all to France," he said. "We want to remain in the French family. To end we are not accepted that we will turn elsewhere."

ASK DOMINION STATUS

The premier said his government will ask de Gaulle for a series of dominion status under article 86 of the new constitution. Guinea's request will be just such a case in mind, the article says a territory which chooses independence can be associated with France in the extent spelled out in a treaty.

Toure said the Guinea constituent assembly, which he has called for Thursday, will adopt a democratic constitution. It will include a declaration of human rights and express support for the UN charter.

There are about 2,125,000 people in 97,000-square-mile area. Its present capital is Labe in treaty. Now it must readjust its economy to the loss of French financial aid.

Pledge New Plan To Open Schools At Little Rock

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — The head of the Little Rock private school Corporation promised a new plan today for the city's high schools, closed nearly five weeks because of integration strife.

Dr. T. J. Dodley said "we will announce a plan" but did not specify at what time it would be revealed. He is president of the corporation formed to open the schools on a private, segregated basis that would prevent Negroes from attending classes with Whites.

Others, however, cast doubt on the private school plan.

COURT NULLIFIES LEASE

But a private group sought to open the schools on Tuesday but had not do so after receiving court orders nullifying a lease of school properties by the corporation.

The restraining order blocked plans to open the high schools to a token enrollment of 3,200 students. Two Justices of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued the order at Omaha.

The Justices, joined by a third, will decide next Monday on when they to issue a temporary injunction or next step after a restraining order.

Speculation here was that the private corporation might seek to hold classes in churches and public buildings.

Rainsforced concrete boxes, the size of five-story apartment houses, are being floated down the St. Lawrence river to be used as foundations for docks and wharfs. In Montreal alone there are almost 12 miles of continuous wharfs, most of which have as foundation the pre-cast concrete boxes, towed to the exact location and sunk. Five of the structures, each 112 feet long, 46 feet wide and weighing 4,000 tons, were towed to Three Rivers, 66 miles away, and used in wharf construction there. This photo shows the open constructions of the crib boxes which, heavy as they are, allow them to be floated, but once sunk form a firm underwater base for all types of docks. In the past five years nearly 100 such cribs have been constructed by the Foundation Co. of Quebec.

BRITISH PLANE WILL CHALLENGE U.S. AIRLINE SUPREMACY

Britain's rear-engine jet liner, the Vickers VC-10, will be the first British effort to challenge American super liners. Shown in drawing by British artist G. H. Davis, VC-10 is designed for speeds in excess of 600 mph. Absence of wing engines allows maximum space for landing and take-off surfaces, enabling plane to use high-altitude airfield in tropical climates. VC-10 will use four Rolls-Royce Conway jet motors, each giving approximately 20,000-lb. static thrust at take-off. Placing of engines near tail aids passenger comfort by decreasing noise. Proposed passenger load is 106 to 135; length of fuselage, 158 feet; total height 41 ft., 2 in.; wing span, 140 feet. British Overseas Airways Corp. has ordered 35 VC-10's, with option for additional 20.

Bobbie Adams and Chard were the big hitters. Adams got a homer with bases loaded. Chard had a triple, a double and a single.

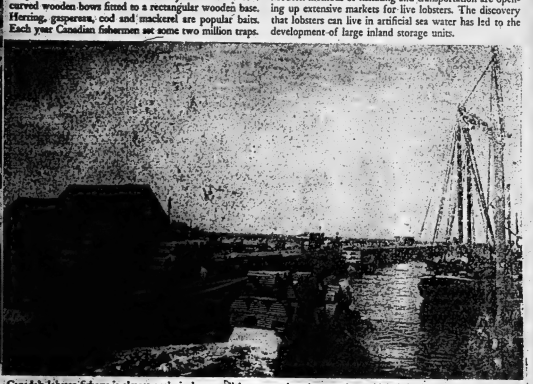
Atlantic Lobster Reigns Supreme

Canada's five Atlantic provinces have built a multi-million dollar industry out of the lobster, the peculiar stalk-eyed creature which most inland people associate with luxurious living. Lobster traps and markers spread out on the shore beneath Yarmouth Light, in Nova Scotia, present a picturesque scene which is repeated in hundreds of little harbours and fishing villages throughout the Maritimes. Annual lobster catch averages about 48 million pounds, worth over $15 million to the fishermen and $30 million on the markets.



National Film Board of Canada photos

Traps are built in the form of a half cylinder with 3 or 4 curved wooden bows fitted to a rectangular wooden base. Herring, gaspereau, cod and mackerel are popular baits. Each year Canadian fishermen set some two million traps.

Modern methods of handling and transportation are opening up extensive markets for live lobsters. The discovery that lobsters can live in artificial sea water has led to the development of large inland storage units.

Canada's lobster fishery is almost exclusively a small boat operation. Most of the high-speed, open motor boats are fitted with power-driven haulers to lighten the task of hauling hundreds of traps. Some are equipped with electronic echo sounders which help locate lobster grounds quickly. At the beginning of the season individual boats may bring in 1,000 pounds a day, and 2,000 pounds a day have been known, but such events are rare.

During the past century the inshore fishermen of Canada's five Atlantic provinces have built a multi-million dollar industry out of the lobster, the peculiar, stalk-eyed creature which most inland people associate with luxurious living.

The lobster fishery as a whole is big business, but the primary producers work as independent individuals; often it is a family operation. About 3,000,000 traps are spread around the shorelines of the Maritime Provinces, Quebec and Newfoundland, so that thousands of people are directly involved.

Canada's lobster fishery is exclusively a small boat operation. Each day from hundreds of harbors scattered along the coast, thousands of fishermen, some in punts, skiffs and dories but more in trim, often brightly colored motor boats, set out to harvest their share of our Atlantic coast's most valuable inshore crop. The smoothly-powered open motor boats, up to forty-five feet in length, are well designed and equipped for the job at hand. Most are fitted with power-driven haulers to lighten the back-breaking task of hauling hundreds of traps. Some are equipped with electronic echo sounders which help fishermen locate good lobster grounds quickly.

TWO COMPARTMENTS

The most popular trap is in the form of a half cylinder with three or four curved wooden bows fitted into a rectangular wooden base. The bottom, sides and top of the trap are closed in with laths. One or both ends of the trap are closed in with laths or hand-knitted cotton or nylon netting. The trap is usually divided into two compartments, the "kitchen," where the bait is fastened to a cord or wooden spindle, and the "parlor" or "bedroom." Usually two but sometimes three mesh funnels ending in 4 to 6 inch diameter rings lead to the kitchen. A similar, single funnel leads from the kitchen to the parlor from which escape is more difficult. The bottom of the trap is ballasted with flat stones.

In most areas single traps are fastened to a cedar buoy with 50 to 250-foot manila lines for fishing in depths up to 150 feet. The cedar buoys are brightly painted in various color combinations for ready identification. Some fishermen fish two or three traps from each buoy whereas others prefer a trawl of ten to fifteen traps fastened to a heavy ground line. Most fishermen build their own traps between fishing seasons.

FISH BAIT USED

The traps are baited with readily available fresh or salt fish which are skewered whole on the bait spindle or placed in mesh bait bags or wooden bait boxes. Herring, gaspereau, flounders, cod, and mackerel are popular baits but each fisherman has his own ideas as to the best bait for his particular area. Weather permitting, the traps are normally hauled, baited, and reset each day. The number of traps set by each boat varies greatly from place to place. Along certain sections of the coast 200 traps are considered a large fleet of gear, but in other areas 400 traps are only a moderated fleet. A few boats fish as many as 800 traps. Each year Canadian fishermen set a total of two million traps.

Almost anywhere along the coast a season's catch of 10,000 pounds is considered good fishing and in some sections the catches are much smaller. In the best areas at the beginning of the season a few boats catch about 1,000 pounds in a day. Under exceptional conditions a boat will catch up to 2,000 pounds in a day but such events are rare.

Pearson Takes Critical Swing At Government

CALGARY (CP) — Liberal leader Lester Pearson took a roundhouse swing at the government Tuesday night, sniping at Prime Minister Diefenbaker over the draft bill of rights and blasting Progressive Conservative policies.

The party leader, on a tour of Western Canada, made his criticism during a busy day of press conferences and meetings that included a $10-a-plate fund raising banquet.

He accused the government of being hypocritical in its attitude toward freer trade with Britain.

He said Canada might have been able to propose mediation of the Quemoy-Matsu crisis had it told the United States it was not committed to U.S. action in the Formosa area.

Mr. Pearson said Mr. Diefenbaker had exposed himself as a "phony" over the proposed bill of rights which will "have little practical use."

He described the customs bill, introduced at the last session of Parliament, as "one of the most reactionary pieces of legislation since the days of R. B. Bennett." The bill increased tariffs on British imports.

At a party meeting of about 100 persons, he suggested the draft bill of rights introduced by the government would not have the slightest effect in stopping Premier Duplessis of Quebec from "dishking" the pachuck law.

Mr. Pearson described the prime minister as a "very smart politician trying to exploit the idea he's the sole defender of rights."

Calls Stand On Liquor Laws 'Irresponsible'

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Rev. W. G. Berry, director of the United Church's mission to the nation, says Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer's stand on liquor advertising laws was "irresponsible."

Mr. Wintermeyer last week said there should be a change in the present liquor laws to permit advertising of liquor and beer through the press, radio and television.

Dr. Berry told the Middlesex presbytery of the United Church at nearby Byron it is the responsibility of the government to control the sale of liquor and one way to do it is to prohibit advertising.

He urged the provincial government to find a way to banish all liquor advertisement and called "unrealistic, illogical and hypocritical" reasoning.

USED SAME WORDS

The Liberal leader used the same words to criticize the present advertising set-up. He told a press conference here: "No one wants free and easy liquor laws in this province but the government should act to strip the laws of the hypocrisy which exists at present."

The United Church minister said liquor "is a dangerous substance against the misuse of which the public has continually to be protected."

Dr. Berry also forecast a greater emphasis on social or "collective" redemption.

Speaking on the future of evangelism in the United Church, he saw the need for "bold and daring experimentation" in the use of the laity and modern communication techniques.

The appeal must be in terms of self-sacrifice "for the sake of the salvation of the world. The symbol of the gospel for the mid-20th century ought to be the person dedicated to the total discipleship to the salvation of all mankind."

Hill Boosts Scoring Lead

WINNIPEG (CP) — Saskatchewan halfback Jack Hill boosted his lead in the individual scoring race in the Western Interprovincial Football Union with a 27-point weekend performance.

Hill scored a touchdown Saturday and collected three more touchdowns and three converts Monday.

Statistics compiled by The Canadian Press showed that Hill, second-year import from Utah State, has eight touchdowns and 39 converts for 88 points.

Hill's 21 - point effort Monday night overshadowed the 19 points in the game by Winnipeg fullback Charlie Shepard as the Blue Bombers walloped Edmonton Eskimos. Shepard moved into second place in the scoring race with 56 points.

Edmonton quarterback Jackie Parker, deadlocked in third spot with Shepard last week, remained alone in third position with 49 points. Teammate Joe Mobra dropped to fourth from second with a total of 45 points.

Bomber quarterback Jimmy Van Pelt was in fifth place with 38 points.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

Twenty-two sweat-streaked McFarlands trooped off Memorial Arena ice last night with a taste of what's to come under their heaving belts.

Playing coach Tim Hildebrand, looking "in the pink" after a summer of "golf and work", confined his charges' to skating, exercises and shooting in the preliminary stage of getting the summer wrinkles out of hockey bone and muscle.

But it will be tougher from here in. Starting tonight and every night at 8:45 sharp, Hildebrand will give the Maes the training "works" to get them into shape for the tough exhibition grind and the tougher schedule just ahead.

A large crowd of the faithful was on hand, the majority through curiosity to get a glimpse of the newcomers. And the most of them liked what they saw.

Big Al Dewsbury, some 215 pounds of him, took the initial skating workout easy. "I'm about ten pounds overweight," he said, "but it won't take too much of this to work it off." The Maes' management is negotiating for the former Black Hawk's reinstatement.

Tough Flori Georgas, former North Bay, Trapper and last season playing coach of Louisville Rebels who was sought by three other senior "A" clubs, sweated out some of his excess poundage. "I'm almost 190 now," Flori said, "and I'll get down to between 175 and 180." Flori, a defenceman, had a record of 21 goals and 32 assists in an abbreviated season last year.

Frank Baltgaste, second highest scorer in the OHA-NONA last year, who says the only hockey he will play this year will be in the Eastern League, also took the initial workout easy. The blonde centre-winger will be a fine asset for the Maes.

Tall, slim Andy Milne, last year with the Windsor Bulldogs, recalled his old days with the Peterborough senior "B" club. He doesn't carry much excess weight on his slim frame and will get down to playing weight very quickly. In case you're interested Andy plays the piano as well as he plays hockey.

Johnny McLellan, former Cleveland Baron, who tips the scales at 180, got rid of his quota of sweat as did Gerald Gravelle, who starred with the Levis, Quebec, club last year, and Hughie Riopelle from down east.

Gordie Bell, down seventeen pounds from summer activities, was his old familiar self in the nets. Gordie "was the first casualty of the camp stopping a puck with his head that necessitated three stitches. It was not serious, and "Doc" Walters did a neat hemstitching job.

Ken "Truck" Wheeling like a professional accordeon, went out for the ride inside a goalie gear, and paid for the exercise with four gallons of sweat.

Bert Bradley, a trifle overweight, hit his familiar skating stride. Bert played baseball all summer in his home-of-the-Yankees home town and starved as a second baseman. His batting average is a secret.

Keith MacDonald, favoring a knee that had a cartilege removed last summer took matters easy, skating and shooting but taking no chances on injuring the member.

Minnie Menard, looking in fine shape, skated at top speed and came off the ice dripping wet. Minnie says he has kept in shape all summer and is looking forward to a fine season. Eddie Marineau, who lost a lot of avoirdupois during the summer, will take off a few more pounds, but was skating in his last-season form.

Jean Paul Payette, and "Wiener" Brown appeared to have lost none of their ability and should be a powerhouse layoff. Jerry Frizzelle, of Peterborough, was also on hand.

He will put his Maes through stiff practice grinds tonight and Thursday nights, and on Friday night the squad will be divided into "team" and will engage in a two-play a full game. Admission price of fifty cents will be charged adults while the kids will be admitted free.

"It is going to be a tough season," Coach Hildebrand said after the practice. "Last season we set the group standing as our goal. We played hard and well, and went on to win the Allan Cup. This season as the national champions and Canada's representative, we have a lot to uphold. Every team will try to beat us. We have to prove we are of championship calibre. The fans have got to play hockey all the time. I had faith in the Maes last year, and I have faith in them this year. I believe the team, with the same fine spirit and many added strength, can go on to bring Canada her second consecutive world championship."

SOFTBALL

OAHA vice-president Don Lee said last night that the postponed Feltz Anne-Amherstburg second intermediate "A" game has been scheduled for Feltz Anne on Saturday starting at two o'clock. Amherstburg won the first game 3-0 and were ruled out down here last Saturday. The arrangements for the third game, if necessary, will be made later.

Would Not Swap Argonauts for Larks, Riders

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts are in last place in the Big Four football league with one victory in seven games.

It might be (and has been) inferred that Argos are the fourth-best team in the league. Or that they have the fourth-best coach. Or that there is nothing wrong that couldn't be put right with new players.

Hayman said flatly that (1) he hasn't fire coach Hampton Pool and (2) Argos could finish third in the Eastern schedule.

As a matter of fact, Hayman said in an interview, he would not trade his 30 players for the whole of Ottawa Rough Riders or Montreal Alouettes.

HARDLY UNANIMOUS

Frank Clair, who coaches Ottawa, rejoined that Argos are a good club. But he drew the line at Hayman's claim that Argos were superior over his outfit.

It's particularly nice, said Clair with no show of emotion, that Hayman has confidence in his coach and his players.

He hastened to agree with Hayman that firing Pool halfway through the season wouldn't solve anything.

At Montreal, Alouettes' managing director Gorman Kennedy retorted: "The Alouettes will not comment on (Hayman's) statement with another statement."

Precedent Governs Odds; Yankees Are Favorites

Braves Rated 7-5 Underdogs As Boys in the Back Room Bow to American Loop Mark

By JOE REICHLER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — In spite of the wintry football weather, a thoroughly enthusiastic standing room-only crowd of 47,300 was expected in County Stadium today in anticipation of a sizzling pitching duel between two of baseball's greatest lefthanders. — Milwaukee's Warren Spahn and New York's Whitey Ford — in the opener of the 1958 world series.

Despite the fact that the series was opening in Milwaukee and that Ford had not won a single one of his five series triumphs away from Yankee Stadium, the Yankees ruled 5½ to 5 to win the first game and 7 to 5 to capture the series.

Precedent was against the Braves, because no National League champion has been able to win two October classics in succession since New York Giants middle-aged Hubbell won Yankees in 1931 and 1932.

Since then the Yankees have won 19 world championships in 21 tries. They bowed to the Braves last year in seven games.

BLAMES BAD ADVICE

Yankee manager Casey Stengel, still convinced that Ian Braves blamed it Tuesday night on some bum advice he had received from National League pals. He avowed this time to follow his own judgment.

"Them fellers sure gave me a bum steer," he said. "They told me (Eddie) Mathews couldn't field and that he was just a fair runner. They said that Ian Crandette couldn't beat us. Well, you know what I did against Ian last year and he won 20 games this year."

Stengel must have done a great deal of thinking between the Yankees' Tuesday workout morning and 8 o'clock in the evening. In the afternoon he told the press, "Sorry, we can't work until tomorrow." Later, he notified the reporters he had changed his mind. The lineup read:

Earlier he had hinted strongly that Elston Howard would be in right field in place of Hank Bauer who had a sore left wrist. Then Stengel switched Bauer slam several line drives in batting practice.

SIEBERN BENCHED

Inserting Howard in left field and Kubek at second, with Norm Siebern was a surprise. Siebern has been one of the most consistent of Yankee hitters, finishing with a .300 average. Howard, who did most of duty in Casey's wash basin the plate, not only was in left field but occupied the cleanup batting spot.

"I had to find a place for him to play," Stengel said. "He can play first base, left field, right field, catch and pitch. He's been a much better this year."

Howard, of course, bats right handed and Siebern lefthanded. The fact a southpaw was to pitch for Milwaukee undoubtedly dictated Casey's thinking. But then after hinting strongly that he might keep the right-handed-batting Yogi Berra on the bench, he decided to put him behind the plate.

Manager Fred Haney of the Braves played his cards close. He said he wasn't going to name his starting lineup until just before the game and he didn't.

COVINGTON IN LEFT

It was virtually certain, however, that he would cling to the lineup he used going down the stretch with Bill Covington in left field, Felix Mantilla in center and Joe Adcock at first base because of southpaw pitching. Covington, although still hobbled by bad legs, insisted he was ready to play.

The Spahn-Ford duel was a rematch of last year's opener, won by the 22-year-old Yankee 3-1. The two didn't meet again although Spahn won his next start and Ford lost his, a 1-0 heartbreaker, to Burdette.

Gordie Howe Scores Five In 10-3 Win

SASKATOON (CP) — Gordie Howe scored five goals to lead Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League to a 10-3 victory over Saskatoon Quakers of the Western Hockey League in an exhibition game Tuesday night before a capacity crowd of 4,000.

Did Not Call Casey Clown Says Spahn

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's brilliant pitcher, has denied that he had ever referred to manager Casey Stengel of New York Yankees as a "clown."

"I want you to know," Spahn said to Stengel, "that a reporter named Warren when he was with Boston Braves in 1942, "that I did not call you a clown. The fellow who wrote that misinterpreted my remarks."

Stengel accepted the apology and said Spahn was indeed listed as one of the finest gentlemen in baseball as well as one of the greatest pitchers he had ever seen.

But Homers Will Help

Casey Discards Hit Factor Says Series Pitchers' Show

By ED WILKS

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Yankees figures the 1958 world series will be decided here today will be a pitchers' series.

"That Spahn wins 20 games for 12 years," he said, "and Ford who's going to tell me how to beat him? Who knows how?

"A man wins 20 for nine years has to be a great pitcher and one who knows how to pitch to right-handers and left-banders. So what good is it if you put in all right-handed batters against him or not?"

Warren Spahn the Braves' ace who won 22 this season was Milwaukee's choice to start against Whitey Ford (14-7) was Stengel's choice, making it an all - southpaw opener. Lew Burdette starts for Braves in the second game.

MANAGERS CHOICE

"Take Burdette," Stengel added. "He makes everybody but his manager look good because he wins 30 games over in that league this year, and he's only three shy of the all-star game.

"A lotta people tell you Burdette wasn't really a great pitcher and the way to beat him is don't put any left-banders against him. Say Burdette pitches him three times in the series, say one side it is who beats us? Burdette. Beats us three times and we get beat.

"All those people tell me how Burdette can be beat, but I notice nobody's been able to do it yet over in that league."

On Yankees he said: "Musial put 10 years on me because I sorta thought we should have won the pennant last year and then we did.

"You won the pennant because early in the season we get some rain and you think that might help us, but it helps us because I can pitch my two best, Ford and Turley, in almost all of those early games.

"And while I'm at it, Turley is my pitcher tomorrow in the second game. He won 21 for us and he was great."

Turley, a right - hander was Yankees' only consistent pitcher, but went into a long slump with the team. Ford began strong but of late has been hampered by a sore elbow.

Brass Backs Eskimo Coach After 'Riding'

EDMONTON (CP)—There are signs that the gap flame beneath the coach-roasting ones has been turned up following Edmonton Eskimos' 43-13 loss to Winnipeg Blue Bombers Monday.

The reactions were brought out not only from the score—worst beating Eskimos have taken in at least five years in the Western Interprovincial Football Union—but from a bit of strategy employed by rookie coach Malvern (Sam) Lyle, former Oklahoma University Assistant who succeeded Frank (Pop) Ivy here.

Lyle sent an all-Canadian backfield against the Bombers for most of the first half of the ball game in Winnipeg, and they didn't score. The much heralded as some fall the regulars might have.

FANS RIDICULE

One broadcaster preceded a comment on the game with a recording of an aircraft hurtling to earth and exploding as it crashed, then played Taps.

Another linked Lyle's position might become insecure if Eskimos' success did not improve, starting this coming Saturday when they are at home meeting the Bombers who have been in their fourth meeting of the season. Bombers have won the first three.

"We hire a coach to handle his club as he sees fit. We pay him (using the Canadian backfield frequently) . . . and it wasn't the coaches' fault the ball game for us—it was the defence."

Leaf Coaches Told to 'Get Tougher'

PETERBOROUGH (CP)—Stafford Smythe told his Toronto Maple Leaf boss Tuesday to adopt a tougher policy at the National Hockey League club's training camp here.

Smythe, chairman of the committee running the Leafs, said he wanted tougher workouts to get players in better shape and correct mistakes.

Coach Billy Reay and assistant general manager George Imlach were told to put the new policy into effect immediately.

"Certain players are not in the shape they should be to start the season," Smythe said. "Mistakes are being made that were made last year and I haven't noticed any attempt to correct them."

Leafs announced that centre Dave Creighton, acquired recently from Montreal Canadiens, has agreed to contract terms. Centre Rudy Migay is the only unsigned player.

Petes Open Training Camp

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —Peterborough Petes of the Ontario Hockey Association junior A series began training camp tonight with 13 of last year's playing back for the 1958-59 season.

A few days ago Jack Dempsey said that George Chuvalo was the best Canadian heavyweight fighter he had seen in years. The former world champion had been saying that for two years, since the Toronto battler knocked out four men in one night.

Dempsey was the third man in the ring at Toronto that evening in April, 1956. He was co-sponsor with Promoter Frank Tunney of a white hope tournament.

After Chuvalo's performance, Dempsey said:

"By golly I'd been thinking that we'd have to go into the wilderness to get a white hope. The bushes must be full of 'em, but here's a kid from the streets of Toronto who one day could be champion if handled properly.

"PLENTY" ASSETS

"He's got a lot of rough spots, but there can be smoothed out. There's plenty there to make him a real good fighter."

Included in the "plenty" was a cramodity known as the killer instinct, something that Dempsey possessed in great gobs. That, more than anything else, sold Dempsey on Chuvalo, then 19 years old.

Chuvalo thinks he may have it. "I know I get in the ring it's me or the other guy, so my whole idea is to try to get the other guy out of there in a hurry," he said in an interview the other day.

"He may be a nice guy outside the ring but when he steps under the ropes I've got no love for him. My idea is to lay him out if I can with one punch or a hundred."

Keep Your Yachting Trophy And Send Us Your Fighters

By JOHN GALE

LONDON (AP)—Strange things are happening to American heavyweight contenders on this side of the Atlantic.

They are finding this once happy hunting ground for a fast win and a quick buck loaded with booby traps.

CALLED FOR CUT

Only last Sept. 16, Zora Machen, unbeaten and No. 3 contender from Redding, Calif., was flattened in the first round by European champion Ingemar Johansson of Sweden.

Next to visit London will be Zora Folley, Uncle Sam's No. 1 contender from Chandler, Ariz. He fights Henry Cooper on Oct. 14.

Pastrano and his manager, Angelo Dundee, still are moaning over the technical knockout. But whether the cut came from a butt or a punch, the result still goes into the book as a fifth round TKO.

NO BOOTING

"Why did the referee stop the fight?" argued Dundee. "Why didn't he call in a doctor? Willie wasn't even breathing hard. He was just getting into his stride.

"That cut! It meant nothing. The referee seized the grease off, looked at it and stopped the fight. It was a disgrace. Willie was ahead all the time."

The Associated Press card had London ahead, 3-2, giving the Britton the first three and Willie the last two.

Willie, who had cried bitterly after referee Jack Hart raised London's right hand in triumph, said "if I putt a guy, I would say so. He was butting all night —no punches."

London, a strapping, 24-year-old 207-pounder, dropped a close 10-round decision to Pastrano last Feb. 25. He was an unknown then. On the strength of his showing against Willie he earned a crack at British champion Joe Erskine and flattened him in eight rounds.

Big and strong and fighting aggressively like an American, London pressed the 187½-pound Pastrano through the first three rounds.

Pastrano, who never had been stopped before, toned his foe's arm off in the fourth round and through most of the fifth. But late in the fifth, blood began streaming down Willie's face.

The opening crowd of 11,000 at Harringay arena first was stunned. Then most of the fans cheered at the surprise ending. Pastrano had been the 3-1 favorite.

The loss was Willie's sixth against 46 victories and snapped his latest winning streak at seven. London now has a 32-3 record, including 18 knockouts. His father and manager, Jack London, once held the British heavyweight title himself.

PURCHASE BELLA

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kansas City Athletics have announced the purchase for an undisclosed sum of heavy-hitting John (Zeke) Bella from the New York Yankees. Bella played with Denver Bears of the American Association the last three years, hitting .327 this season, .317 last year and .320 in 1955. The Bears and the Yankees ended a working agreement last week.

Canadiens Whip Rochester 6-2

SUDBURY (CP)—Stanley Cup champion Montreal Canadiens scored three goals in the first period Tuesday night, then coasted to a 6-3 win over Rochester Americans of the American Hockey League.

The exhibition victory, however, may have been costly to the National Hockey League club.

The team lost rookie defence star Junior Langlois with dislocated shoulder late in the second period. Earlier, he scored the opening goal of the game. Montreal Manager Frank Dubois said he likely would be sidelined for three weeks.

Six players shared in the scoring for Montreal. Langlois, Maurice Richard and Bernie Geoffrion gave Canadiens a 3-0 lead in the first period. Tom Johnson pushed in the second and Henri Richard and Andre Procovent in the third. Bob Nevin and Ballard scored for Rochester.

Six Teams Form New District Int. A. League

A new OHA Intermediate "A" hockey league came into being at a meeting in Cobourg last night when teams from last year's Lakeshore and Eastern Intermediate leagues formed a six-team group-ing.

The loop will officially be known as the Eastern Ontario Intermediate "A" Hockey League. Six entries are Cobourg-Port Hope, Bowmanville-Orono Combines, Newcastle Comets, Trenton, Minden Monarchs and Kingston.

The teams will play a 30-game schedule with the leading four clubs taking part in the spring playoffs. The top team will be allowed to pick the opposition in the semi-finals. Playoffs will be best-of-seven affairs.

The schedule will be drawn up by the league convenor Matt Leyden of Oshawa.

Canadiens Name New Regulars

MONTREAL (CP) — Managing director Frank Selke says Albert (Junior) Langlois, Alvin McDonald and Ralph Backstrom definitely will be into their new members of the team when Montreal Canadiens open their National Hockey League schedule.

There had been general expectation, even before the training camp opened Sept. 15, that Langlois and McDonald would get the nod among a swarm of rookies.

It was no secret that Backstrom was tentatively tabbed for assignment to Rochester of the American Hockey League.

But the 20-year-old forward, who played with Junior Canadiens from first season, from first scrimmages and on through exhibition games became the outstanding player in camp day in and day out.

When the club wound up its string of exhibition games last Saturday, Backstrom was the leading goal scorer and top point-getter, outdistancing such stars as Dickie Moore, Maurice Richard, Bernie Geoffrion, Henri Richard and Jean Beliveau.

Langlois will take over the defence job formerly held by Dollard St. Laurent, now with the Black Hawks. McDonald and Backstrom have been candidates for the jobs handed rookies, but when Bert Olmstead moved to Toronto Maple Leafs.

Bathgate Goal Beats Hershey

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— A low shot from close in by Andy Bathgate bounced off goalie Gil Mayer and barely trickled over the line to give New York Rangers a 4-3 exhibition hockey victory over the surprising Hershey Bears Tuesday night.

Bathgate's winner came after Eastern Hockey League Bears had rallied from a 3-1 deficit with a second period surge. That goal was followed by a late wave of penalties in a fight which cost top rookie Eddie Shack of the National Hockey League Rangers.

Hershey got off to a quick lead in the first period when Ron Stewart passed to Jackie Price's long shot past goalie Gump Worsley. Les Costello got the Rangers' equalizer and Jim Bartlett made it 2-1 for New York.

TAKE EXARGO

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Alouettes announced Tuesday night they have acquired Henry (Zeke) Hair, an end who has been playing this season with Toronto Argonauts. Managing director Gordon Kennedy said Hair will report immediately for a tryout. He becomes available when Argos decided to go along with Pete D'Grazia. Hair will fill in for Hal Patterson, out of action with a leg injury.

Pilous said his three forward combinations were working better than he had anticipated "but we need one more up front for insurance." He indicated the team was dickering now for an additional player.

British Will Be Back for America Cup

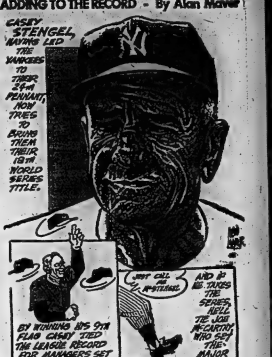
NEW YORK (AP) — Are the British discouraged by their one-sided defeat in the America's Cup?

Not on your life, old boy.

Hugh Goodson, head of the 13-man British syndicate that financed the building of Sceptre, the unsuccessful challenger said today the setback would spur the British to even more intensive efforts to win back yachting's most coveted prize.

"There will be a rallying of forces in England such as we did not have this time," he said before sailing for home. "I am convinced that as a result of our defeat, we shall, perhaps sooner than expected, make a much more successful challenge."

No challenge may be issued again for two years, according to international rules.



MIGHT WIDEN EFFORT

Further, Goodson said, there might be an appreciable effort to provide a challenger, involving, among others, Australia.

Goodson said an invitation to test Sceptre's model against that of Columbia in the Stevens Institutes of Technology tank in Hoboken, N.J., would be accepted.

"We must find out why she did not make a better showing," he said. "It refuse to believe that there is as bad a boat as she appeared to be in the races.

FISHERMAN'S LUCK

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, warmly dressed against the chilly northern air, holds a lake trout he landed at Kathleen Lake on a short trip to the Yukon Territory. After more than three hours of fishing on the windswept shore of the lake at the foot of St. Elias Mountain, the prime minister was about ready to quit without a strike. He decided on three more casts and landed this trout. (CP Wirephoto).

CHIANG

vited to him for diplomatic reasons or with other purposes in mind.

"What he is quoted as having said seems completely inconsistent with our stand and does not sound like him.

NOT LIKE DULLES

"There seems to be implications at variance with his own earlier utterances on the subject.

"Mr. Dulles must know that wishes for a cease-fire will never materialize and he knows the serious misgivings in his own mind about the subject."

"Mr. Dulles has always stood on the side of justice and righteousness and it is inconceivable that he now might have new thoughts on the matter."

Chiang said the determination of his government to hold on to Quemoy and the other offshore islands has been made so amply evident that it is now necessary to cover the same ground again.

LACK OF UNDERSTANDING

He said he was less worried about the situation itself than about the lack of understanding in many places on the issues involved.

"I hope," he said, "that efforts will be made to enable the American people to understand what the Communist attacks on Kinmen (Quemoy) mean.

"While confident they are directed against the territory of the republic of China, they are acts deliberately intended to undermine America's first line of defence in Asia.

"The objectives of the Chinese Communists are to weaken (Free) world, to expel American influence from the Formosa Strait and the whole Western Pacific and to strike a severe blow to free world prestige in Asia."

RED OBJECTIVES PLAIN

Chiang said Communist objectives have been made plain by two letters sent by Soviet Premier Khrushchev to President Eisenhower, as well as in statements by the Chinese Communist leaders and in editorials in the Peiping Peoples Daily.

"All this makes it evident that the International Communist is launching a two-front campaign, one in the east and the other in the west, both directed against a common enemy—and this enemy is none other than the free world imperialists."

"Surely it should be evident," Chiang said, "that the Chinese troops defending Kinmen are also safeguarding America's defences in the East."

He reiterated his arguments that "if you ask the Communists for a cease-fire they will use it to blackmail you."

"Likewise," he said, "if you show them you are afraid of war, they will use your fear for purposes of extortion. The more you are afraid, the more they will exploit you."

BURMA PREMIER GIVES OFFICE TO ARMY CHIEF

Premier U Nu (top) of Burma announced in Rangoon that he would resign next month in favor of Gen. Ne Win (bottom), commander in chief of the country's armed forces. The bloodless coup was apparently designed to prevent Burma's shaky government from drifting into Red hands.

Marlon Brando's Wife Will Seek Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Marlon Brando's wife said Tuesday she will seek a divorce.

"This is final and conclusive," actress Anna Kashfi, 24, told a reporter. "I can no longer take his indifference and neglect and his strange way of living."

They were married Oct. 11, 1957. They have a four-month-old son, Christian Devi Brando.

Mrs. Brando said she has lost weight and is under a doctor's care for a possible heart condition.

"Normally in my present condition I'm frightened," she said. "To whom should I turn but my husband for comfort. But how can I—he is never there."

Steel Demand Is on Increase

NEW YORK (AP)—Auto manufacturers are showing signs of rebuilding steel inventories after months of cutting back, Iron Age said today.

The trade weekly said there is increasing optimism over the outlook for auto demand. It added "there's a growing conviction that steelmakers will sell more 1959 models than 1958's."

"Application of the publication said, are becoming a stronger factor in the market. It is a case of an end to inventory cutbacks plus a pickup in appliance sales."

The publication said a continued pick up in steel demand is looked for over the balance of the year, although there could be a seasonal levelling off at the year-end.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Amazing relief is now available with this impressive substance right in the privacy of your home without pain or discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvements" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

"Pain was promptly relieved. And while getting relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as: "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And sufferers were showered with a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of even 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue in all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Thomas G. Wrightmeyer (centre) chairman of the Price Area Advisory Board, goes over plans for the area with Moira Conservation Authority chairman Bruce H. Smith (right), and Warden Lloyd Price (left) at yesterday's Authority meeting at Actinolite. Approval of the plan by the Authority will be subject to development and maintenance by historical society of historical aspects of plan.

Moira Authority Urged to Put Emphasis On Reforestation, Soil and Water Projects

Greater emphasis on reforestation and soil and water projects rather than on conservation areas which might run high on maintenance costs, was urged at the annual fall meeting of the Moira Conservation Authority, held Wednesday afternoon at Actinolite.

Mr. Herbert Crown, supervisor of field officers for the Ontario Department of Planning and Development, told the meeting that his department paid no grant on maintenance costs and said that Authority projects could get top heavy in conservation area costs at the expense of reforestation and other phases of the program which mean dollars and cents in the pockets of area residents.

He suggested that the $8,000 per year spent on reforestation by the Moira Authority meant slow progress in this important work. In contrast the Saugeen Authority in Western Ontario spent about $14,000 annually and planted upwards of 1,900 acres per year.

A run down of the year's Authority activities was given to members by the chairmen of the various committees.

BUYING MORE PROPERTIES

In the absence of reforestation chairman T. C. Graham, Authority field officer Michael Chaulo noted that final arrangements were being made to purchase properties which would bring the area of reforestation to well over 6,500 acres.

However, although stepping up of the reforestation program was suggested by Mr. Crown, the feeling was expressed at the meeting that it did not pay to plant saplings "for the woodberry rock" type for replanting.

It was stated this type of land was not suitable for reforestation and that nature itself could do a better job of replanting.

The year's financial statement presented by Mr. Chubb showed that of a budget of $8,884 for general conservation a total of $7,403 had been expended to date. With expenditures still to be made it was expected there would be a deficit of about $349 in this phase of operations.

This over-expenditure would be caused principally by higher than expected costs of work done on the Price Conservation Area at Actinolite. The property here had been cleaned up and entrance ways, parking lot and picnic tables provided.

RUSSIAN PLAN FOR MEETING COOLLY RECEIVED

Reds Want Foreign Ministers to Act

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States was reported today to Russia's proposal that foreign ministers not ambassadors — meet in secret to seek agreement on ending nuclear weapons tests. But the proposal was promised careful study.

Russia dispatched a note only a day after the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission reported detection of two new Soviet nuclear tests. These ended Russia's voluntary test suspension, and prompted the question concerning the present Soviet attitude toward the Oct. 31 talks.

Both the United States and Britain let it be known, however that they were ready to go ahead if Russia halted testing by Oct. 31.

Russia Wednesday professed a desire to proceed if it was not immediately clear what effect her newest proposal might have.

The Soviet proposition was made in notes to the U.S. and British embassies in Moscow. The three governments had agreed earlier to negotiate for a temporary suspension at Geneva Oct. 31 but the expectation had been that they would be represented by ambassadors.

The Russian move is expected to be discussed by Britain and the U.S. before a final decision is made. It may be a week or so before the Western powers can reply.

Initial reaction here was that much detailed work remains to be done before a test ban can be brought to the point of agreement and this work could better be carried on by special ambassadors than by foreign ministers.

Conversations in Western scientists agreed in Geneva Aug. 21 that it would be useful to set up a workable and effective control system to enforce a nuclear ban.

MISSED BEST BOTTLE

KITCHENER (CP) — A thief who entered the home of hotel proprietor Joseph Zober, Sr., helped himself to between six and 10 bottles of liquor, but overlooked a 100-year-old bottle of spirits.

Zober, Canada's biggest nickel producer, estimates it has lost close to 4,000,000 pounds of production since the strike began. But before the walkout is estimated the stockpile of unsold nickel at 150,000,000 pounds. Employees have been on strike since July.

Lost wages amount to about $1,000,000. Inco supplies the main payroll for this city of 47,000.

Inco has offered a 10-per-cent wage increase plus five cents an hour Tuesday over two years. The union says average pay is $1.80/h an hour; the company estimates it at $2.00.

MORE POLIO IN WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP) — Two new cases of polio were reported Wednesday in the Greater Winnipeg area, bringing Manitoba's total for the year to 107.

Nicosia Under House Curfew As Violence Greets Program

Trouble flared for the second straight day over the seven-year partnership plan, which went into effect on Wednesday.

The plan started with a general strike by Greek Cypriots which paralyzed the island. Troops clashed in past days with terrorists, bombs were hurled at army trucks and police broke up demonstrations with tear gas.

Most Greek Cypriots oppose the plan, under which Britain, Greece and Turkey would share administration of the island for seven years. A government observer appointed by Turkey took up his post here Wednesday.

Today a long procession of school children with Greek flags walked through Nicosia streets shouting anti-British slogans and supported Greek Cypriot leader Archbishop Makarios and the EOKA terrorist organization.

Schoolgirls marched into the streets and clapped as the children shouted "we don't want Britain's beastly plan."

Then authorities slapped on the curfew as air raid sirens wailed shrouding throughout the city. Officials said it was done so that any demonstrations would be "nipped in the bud."

There was a tremendous rush to get home and cars on their way out of the old walled part of the city tied up in traffic jams.

Meanwhile, two British soldiers were wounded when bombs were thrown at an army truck in Platres village, northwest Cyprus.

In Athens, diplomatic sources said today Greece might join a proposed three-power conference on Cyprus if Britain agreed in principle to internal jurisdiction to the Turkish representative under the Zurich agreement.

The government announced that Premier Konstantine Karamanlis has received a personal message from NATO Secretary-General Paul-Henri Spaak outlining views exchanged on the Cyprus problem at the recent Paris NATO council meeting.

The Greek government appears to be keeping its future policy on the Cyprus dependent on the outcome of NATO mediation.

Chinese Nationalists Fear U.S. May Not Honor Pledge

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Chinese Nationalist official said today Red Secretary Khrushchev has created misgivings that the United States might compromise Nationalist rights on Quemoy.

Dulles indicated at a press conference in Washington Tuesday that the United States would be willing to negotiate over the offshore islands if the Communists would stop shelling the Quemoy group.

President Chiang Kai-shek and other Nationalist leaders have rejected Dulles' suggestions that Nationalist forces on the islands be reduced if Reds agree to cease fire.

The responsible Nationalist official, who declined to be identified, said Dulles created misgivings that the United States would fail to honor its pledge. Washington, he said, should not to prejudice Nationalist rights at the talks of the U.S. and Red China ambassadors in Warsaw, Poland.

The Nationalist foreign ministry declined immediate comment on President Eisenhower's statements at his Wednesday press conference. Eisenhower agreed that Red China probably would not have concentrated 100,000 troops on the offshore islands. He said Secretary John Foster Dulles is no tighter U.S. control over Chiang's military is keeping the United States into war with China.

American officials in Taipei said Wednesday that the less explicit tone of Eisenhower's answers at his press conference and the sharp reaction here to what he said, show the president stressed that the policy of retaining retreat in the face of force is unchanged.

The Communists bombarded Quemoy with 27,273 shells between midnight and noon today, the 41st day of their artillery assault on the offshore islands.

American C-119 Flying Boxcar transports flew 2,000 tons of supplies at a southern Formosa air base for use in dropping supplies to the Nationalist garrison expected to be delivered Nationalist crews flying a green plane with the planes can replace smaller C-46s on supply drops.

Another Nickel Mine Affected By Wage Talks

SUDBURY (CP) — A total of 6,000 employees of International Nickel Mines is affected by contract discussions in progress since the company's contract with the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) expired Sept. 12.

No date has been set for resumption of contract discussions between the union and Falconbridge Nickel Mines, largest employer. More than 13,000 of the union's members have been involved in a strike and lockout in a wage dispute at International Nickel Company.

Both Inco and the union have indicated they would like to see them broke off in Ontario Labor Minister Daley's office the first week in October. There is still no sign of settlement.

Two district lowns Wednesday endorsed a resolution asking Prime Minister Diefenbaker and federal Labor Minister Starr to intervene in the dispute. Councils of Coniston, whose six councillors are all striking mine-mill members, and Chelmsford supported an earlier appeal by Neelon-Garson Township. All three municipalities are within 10 miles of Sudbury.

Inco, Canada's biggest nickel producer, estimates it has lost close to 4,000,000 pounds of production since the strike began. But before the walkout is estimated the stockpile of unsold nickel at 150,000,000 pounds. Employees have been on strike since July.

Officers' Strike Already Ties up 40 Ocean Ships

NEW YORK (AP)—Talks have broken off between striking union ship officers and ship operators in a dispute affecting passenger and dry cargo vessels in ports from New England to the Gulf coast.

Contract negotiations recessed indefinitely Wednesday in the dispute between the Masters, Mates and Pilots and the Maritime Administration when they would be resumed.

About 40 ships already have been tied up by the strike.

The number could grow to 300 by Oct. 7 the union has said.

The old contract between the union and the employer group, the Committee of American Steamship Institute, expired at midnight on Tuesday. The union announced a strike an hour later.

MEDIATION OFFERED

Federal conciliation mediators set to enter the dispute was received somewhere today by both sides.

The disagreement are over education, pension and welfare benefits. Wages are not involved.

Ships at sea operated by the employer group will be allowed when they reach their American home ports.

Without the big passenger liners already made idle by the strike are the Santa Rosa of Grace Line, America of the United States Lines and the Santa Rosa of the Grace Line.

C. A. DUNNING, FORMER FINANCE MINISTER, DIES

Was Also Liberal Premier of Sask.

MONTREAL (CP) — Hon. Charles Avery Dunning, former Liberal premier of Saskatchewan and federal finance minister, died in hospital late Wednesday night. He was 73.

Mr. Dunning, the son of a British immigrant farmer, retired from politics in 1939 because of ill health, but he remained active as a businessman and held executive positions with many of Canada's largest companies.

He entered the Royal Victoria Hospital last week. His death occurred shortly before midnight. Cause was not immediately available.

A mainly self-educated man, he had been chancellor of Queen's University at Kingston since 1940, receiving an honorary doctor of laws degree from the institution a year after accepting the post.

YOUNGEST PREMIER

He became premier of Saskatchewan in 1922 at the age of 36—Canada's youngest provincial premier at the time — and held the post until 1929 when he resigned to organize a trust firm and canals in the federal cabinet of his prime minister Mackenzie King.

In 1929, he was appointed finance minister three months before the Liberal government was defeated. He remained prominent in a general election and he lost his Regina seat.

Mr. Dunning returned from politics and five years later returned to the cabinet as minister portfolio in Mackenzie King's third administration.

He suffered a heart attack during the 1938 parliamentary session and was able to resume his duties only under severe strain the next year before leaving the political field.

BUSINESS CAREER

At various stages of his career, he was chairman of the Canada Starch Company, Mills Company and Canadian Investment Trust, director and principal owner of the Ontario Equitable Life Assurance Company.

He also held directorships in many other companies including Canadian Pacific Railway, Sun Life Assurance Company, Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Goldfield Consolidated Mines Company and Bell Telephone Company.

After leaving politics, he had two farms in Saskatchewan and maintained a residence in Ottawa.

In his later years he made his home in Montreal's fashionable Westmount Heights district.

A boyhood romance took him to England in 1913 after he won success in public life in his native province under Arthur Rowlatt. The couple's two children, Katherine and Charles survive.

He was named director of food production for Canada in 1916, a First World War post. And at the start of the Second World War he became chairman of a national subscription committee to assist the National War Loan

Says Canadian Farmer Now Given Bare Minimum Protection He Needs

MONTREAL (CP)—The farm-price support principles all political forces has been recognized and now has "bare minimum" protection whether it wants him to plan his operations with more confidence, farm economist-broadcaster executive said today.

W. H. Hutton, Fergus, Ont., president of the Dairy Farmers of Canada, said some persons—"not farmers"—have suggested "producers' problems"—have suggested "producers' problems" should compete with artificial spreads or imported butter.

"If these views were adopted," he told the closing session of the Canadian Dairy Council's annual meeting, "they would be not only illogical but they would produce milk . . . should sell their cows and seek their bread and butter in the cities, where the worker is guaranteed a minimum wage, a short work week, holidays with pay and unemployment insurance."

"To ask agriculture to supply Canadians with their daily fare at world prices and buy their supplies under the protected conditions under which the other branches of the economy operate, is rank discrimination."

Mr. Rettie said other sections of the economy are supported or protected by production quotas. The workers collect unemployment insurance and are bailed out of work by production cuts.

In farming . . . "it is not possible for us to turn off the production line as it is in industry. In fact this is the reason supported by Canadian governments for more than a decade.

Harold Morrison, member of the Canadian Press parliamentary staff at Ottawa, also in an address that consumers' questions about prices perhaps might be answered by an industrial price institute.

Mr. Morrison said few consumers are familiar either with the principles of support system provided by "middlemen" in trade and commerce.

"To ask agriculture to supply Canadians with their daily fare at world prices and buy their supplies under the protected conditions under which the other branches of the economy operate, is rank discrimination."

250,000 GM Auto Workers Walk Away From Jobs

Company Will Not Add Anything to Its Offer

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers today called a strike against General Motors after a final 20-hour bargaining session failed to bring contract agreement covering 250,000 workers.

Thousands of GM workers across the United States walked off their jobs well in advance of the official strike deadline of 11 a.m. EST.

UAW Vice-President Louis Seaton, head of the company bargaining team, conceded defeat an hour before the deadline in his efforts to reach settlement.

"The strike is on," he told reporters before entering the room for final pre-strike talks with the union.

CALLS IT USELESS THING

Seaton termed the strike "a useless type of thing which will result in loss of wages, losses to our suppliers and dealers, and to everyone from the baker to the butcher."

UAW President Walter Reuther, who Wednesday reached contract agreement with Chrysler Corporation, expressed disappointment at failure to achieve the same result with GM.

The UAW reached agreement with Chrysler only two months before Ford on Sept. 17 and Wednesday's pact with Ford nearly duplicated the Ford pattern.

FIRST SINCE 1945

It was the first national strike at GM since 1945 when the nation's largest automobile manufacturer was idled for 113 days in a dispute over wages.

Reuther, however, had planned any move, said, "we see no necessity for a new offer when we've already made one exactly like that of Ford and Chrysler, which the union said was good for the UAW and good for the country."

Seaton said that if the union had any hopes of hearing additional proposals from GM, "it is going to be a rough affair." Reuther insisted, "we are not asking anything beyond the Ford pattern. But there are some special items that the General Motors workers have — problems that were settled at Ford and Chrysler in years past."

He cited these as wage inequities

Parole Officer Gets Probation On Retirement

WOONSOCKET, R.I. (AP) — A state probation officer, charged with being an idle person, pleaded not guilty in district court Wednesday but was put on probation for life.

The officer was Enoz Emmett and the occasion was his last day of work after 30 years of service with the division of parole and probation.

Emmett was standing near the bench as he has for years when Judge Edward F. Dwyer picked up the last warrant and read aloud: "The state vs. Enoz Emmett."

With surprise in his eyes, Emmett was hustled before the bench and there he was charged "with being an idle person."

Judge Dwyer sentenced the accused to lifetime probation and ordered him to report once a month to the court-room to visit his old friends.

Picton Judge Unable to Settle Hydro Dispute

TORONTO (CP) — A conciliation board hearing to settle a wage dispute between the Ontario Hydro Electric Power Commission and the Ontario Hydro employees union has reached a stalemate.

The board, headed by Judge W. J. Lane of Picton, has adjourned until Oct. 27, if neither side comes up with alternative proposals by that time. There will be no further hearing and a report will then be due by mid-November.

The 10,000-member union is asking for a nine per cent increase for the 4,500 weekly-salaried employees. The commission has offered a six per cent increase for tradesmen and other technical groups, a five per cent for office staff and improved hospital and medical coverage.

The commission also offered a one-per-cent increase for salaried employees and two cents an hour for others.

LILAC TREES, BOSE BUSHES IN BLOOM

Old Mother Nature is a little mixed up this year. Not only Easter lilies, but lilac trees and rose bushes are blooming despite the calendar.

Mrs. A. Francis, of 47 Hillside Drive, whose husband works at Trenton Airport, informed the Ontario Intelligencer she has three double sprigs of purple lilacs in blossom.

The lilac sprigs were brought home by her husband who found the tree in full bloom inside the airport grounds. An underground steampipe running near the tree is believed responsible for the unusual fall blooming.

Mrs. Francis' neighbors, on Ridley Street, reports her rose bush, which bloomed as usual in July, now appears ready to burst into blossom again. The bush recently pruned six inches or two of which are almost in bloom.

In addition, Mrs. Fitzgibbons also has a rose bush in bloom which burst into bloom Tuesday.

Poppy Wreaths Ready for Sale Within Week

The final meeting of the Belleville poppy committee prior to the opening of the 1958 campaign was held on Tuesday evening at the Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans' Club. Committee chairman Les Digby presided.

Representatives were present from the 20 Canadian Legion and their Ladies' Auxiliary, Unit 30, Army, Navy and Air Force Veterans in Canada and their Ladies' Auxiliary, No. 418 Wing Royal Canadian Air Force Association and the Red Cross Society.

Regarding the annual meeting, secretary Ed. Smith, reported the initial order of wreaths and supplies had been received from Vetcraft Industries; 500 copies of campaign literature would be mailed this week; and the wreath sale campaign would be ready to roll this weekend.

Orville Ash, chairman of the publicity and information committee, reported his committee would be ready to get out by this weekend after the literature had been distributed. The Canadian Legion would be the west side of Front Street and the West Hill.

Bert Hutchinson, chairman of the Army and Navy Veterans territory, comprising the south side of Front Street and the East Hill said his committee would also be ready to commence by Saturday.

Henry Drury is chairman of the committee responsible for contacting industries and organizations.

Les Digby, chairman of poppy parade committee announced that for 1958 Poppy Day which will be held on Saturday, Nov. 8th, . Advance sales will be made on the previous Friday evening for the benefit of those citizens, who are downtown on Friday evening. Poppy Day headquarters will, as in previous years, be in the Armouries.

The chairman stressed the need for each organization to see that as many of their members as possible make themselves available for this essential job on either Friday or Saturday.

Because winter employment prospects are no brighter this year, than last, it is likely to be more so on the Poppy Fund for emergency assistance. If the Poppy Fund is to be able to meet all of these calls, each organization must ensure its maximum effort in their part in helping to raise sufficient funds during the campaign.

War Buddies Meet Again After 30 Years

For the first time in over thirty years two campaigners from the Flint Sitdown War are in downtown Belleville yesterday.

Cpl. A. B. Newman and Sapper Ernie Roberts met in the Belleville Armouries at 11th Dundas Street for the first time since the days of 1918.

The old soldiers' reunion was a talk about "old times." The two men forgotten about the men faded into a world of their own—one only with their comrades.

The World Series blared on the radio had no affect as the years rolled back and their old days lived again.

Mr. Roberts is a retiring bakelite engineer, formerly working for the government, while Mr. Newman was a railroad engineer. Both served with the 3rd Canadian Tunnelling Company in France.

Both men wish that anyone reading this who belonged to the 3rd Canadian Tunnelling Company please contact them.

After every subject was exhausted the boys fixed their attention on the World Series.

Permits Show $202,900 Total For September

TRENTON — Permits for new buildings and repairs amounted to a total of $202,900 for this month of September, Jack Anderson, building inspector, revealed.

Twelve permits were issued for 14 new dwellings totalling $115,600, during the month and $50,000 permit was issued for the building of a new church.

Another 18 permits were issued for $16,300 worth of repairs to home owners and five permits were issued for commercial building repairs to total $4,000.

The number of permits makes September one of the best months building-wise for the year and indicates the usual upward trend in building during the fall months.

However, total for 1958 up to the end of September failed to be higher than last year. In 1957 at the end of the nine-month period the total was $1,202,051 with the total for the same period this year being $1,225,619.

Special Plaque Will Be Prize For Attendance

TRENTON — A special plaque, in memory of the late Fire Chief Clarence Orser, of Trenton, will be presented each year to the fire department having the largest total attendance at Mutual Aid meetings during the year.

This was decided when about 40 members of the Mutual Aid met in the Frankford hall last night under the chairmanship of Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville.

The plaque will be up for competition each year and will perpetuate the memory of the late chief. The meeting also observed a one minute's silence in memory of Fire Chief Orser.

The meeting also discussed the coming Fire Prevention Week which starts next Monday and the different departments disclosed the various programs they have for the week.

Four members of the Trenton fire department attended the meeting last night. They were acting Chief Orrell Ellis, Volunteer fireman Bob Haker, Bob Mills and Clarence Pickle.

Two Inches Rain Above Average In September

While possibly not the wettest September on record, the past month has almost two inches of rainfall above the average recorded for September.

During the month the Bay of Quinte district saw 5.16 inches of rain, as compared with 3.28 inches last year and an average rainfall of 3.36 inches for September over the past ten years.

Maximum temperature for the month was 79 degrees with the minimum of 40 and a mean reading for the month 60.2 degrees. The ten-year average maximum mean reading of 82.9 and a minimum of 54.5 with a mean average of 5887 degrees for the month.

Civic Leaders Pay Friendly Visit to Legion

TRENTON — A special meeting of the Branch 109 Executive Committee was held in the Trenton Legion Memorial Hall recently with the Branch president in the chair and fourteen members of the committee in attendance.

The Mayor, both Councillors and Assessor Smith all spoke briefly and complimented the Legion on their new premises and the general operation of the Branch.

Items of mutual interests were discussed with the civic leaders and several minor questions amicably settled.

Following a briefing of the circumstances involved by Director of Guidance of the Trenton High School, Kenneth Ferren, a small group of members of the executive of the education of a local lad was unanimously approved.

Comrade James Patterson was authorized to proceed with the purchasing of markers to properly identify the graves of veterans.

Committee reports were again encouraging and optimistic and a further fifty applications for membership are being processed.

Millbrook Man Dies Suddenly

TRENTON — Mr. R. Prichard, 86, died suddenly at the home of his daughter, Mrs. R. A. Hutchinson, 147 Dundas Street last night at about 8.00 p.m. His home is in Millbrook and he had been visiting at the home of his daughter.

It was reported Mr. Prichard had choked on some food during his meal and this may have brought on the heart attack. Dr. D. E. Campbell, was called immediately but the elderly man died at the home.

The doctor called the Trenton Fire department to bring the resuscitator but it was only necessary for the firemen, Elmer Stacey, to stand by and the machine was not needed.

Funeral arrangements have not been announced.

Senior Citizens Enjoy Program By Dancing Class

The Senior Citizens of Belleville held their regular meeting at the Kiwanis Centre on Wednesday evening with a good attendance.

President J. Brennan opened the meeting with the singing of the National Anthem, followed by the birthday song for four having birthdays in October, Mrs. Drummond, secretary, gave a glowing account of the Senior Citizens of Brantford, now visiting in that city.

The entertainment was provided by the pupils of The Dionne Dancing Class. The second group of the pupil was made with the production in operation.

Highlight of the afternoon's activities included: the loading by votes normal quarterly of one of the firm's prestressed double-T concrete beams to demonstrate its resiliency; the pouring of one of these beams; and an examination of the firm's 100-ton crane — a concrete arch, the form for which Hollow-Core completed. Mr. Wilson stated that this new product was being used in the construction of the new churches, one in Redendale and the other in Adanac.

PLANT RECOMMENDED

These field tours of graduating engineering classes are arranged so that the students may see at first hand the role of engineers in industry and many processes which cannot be covered in the lecture room or laboratory according to Professor Huggins. Last year's graduating class from U. of T. visited the Wilson Concrete Products plant on the recommendation of Professor Huggins because he considered the Wilson firm to be one of the pioneer organizations in the field of prestressed concrete products. The excellence of their engineering methods was another very good reason for choosing them for a visit by the students.

According to one of the students, John Toye of Toronto, "we have never seen anything like it before. Quite ingenious some of the methods they use." Apparently this year's graduating class had asked for a tour through the Wilson plant especially, due to the favorable comment they had heard from the students who has visited the plant last year.

Mr. I. Holubeck, chairman of the engineering students' Civil Club, thanked Mr. Wilson and his staff members for the tour and luncheon. The students then departed by bus for Kingston. Thursday they will take a tour of the St. Lawrence Seaway project, then moving on to Montreal, they will tour the plants of the Dominion Bridge Company and the Canada Cement Co. on Friday.

Sports Car Rally Course Will Run Through District

Final plans for the sixth annual Thousand Islands Rally were decided upon at the organizing body, the St. Lawrence Automobile Club, at a meeting held in Kingston Tuesday evening. This event, sponsored by the Canadian Automobile Sport Club, the national ruling body for sports car activities in Canada, will have a section of its course, which is laid over country and quieter highways, laid through Belleville and district roads. Until the participants in the event start out on their journeys on the evening of October 10th the exact location of the route is kept secret.

Mr. James Graham of Belleville, a director of the Canadian Automobile Sport Club, is in charge of activities at the final rallying point for the competitors, who will be led to this location via various routes from starting points in Toronto, Kingston, Ottawa and Montreal. Also acting as officials for the event will be Mr. and Mrs. Graham of Belleville, who will be control marshals along several points in the route to ensure that competitors are not deviating from the course nor illegally shortening the average speed for the various sections.

The competitors are required to keep to certain prescribed roads during the event, while maintaining an average speed predetermined by the rally organizers in accordance with the speed limit over a particular route sections and the traffic conditions most likely to be encountered in the section concerned. The competitors are expected to arrive at the various control points exactly on the minute and penalized for arriving too early or too late. Emphasis is placed on safety and good driving habits with competitors being penalized if their performances are not in perfect operating condition. Competitors who are found violating the Safety Traffic Act are automatically disqualified from the event.

It is expected that there will be a large turnout for this sports event; as many as 105 vehicles have competed in previous years and the event has been finding increasing favor amongst motoring enthusiasts in Ontario, Quebec and New York State. The event is divided into a Concours d'Elegance, with awards for the vehicle in best condition and appearance; a driving skill test, with an award for the most perfect driver; and a banquet and social evening topping off the two and one-half day affair. These are held at the final rallying point after the two sections have been completed. This location is kept secret until the competitors reach the final section of a course usually about 500 miles in length.

City Taxes Due Tomorrow

Tomorrow, Friday, is the last day for the payment of the fourth and final installment of city taxes, without penalty. Those citizens who have not already made their final payments for this year's taxes would be well advised to do so early in the morning as it is likely that the tax collection office will be very busy later in the day.

Mr. Jack Ellis (on left) of the Wilson Concrete Products Ltd. is explaining the procedure of preparing the mould for pouring a pre-stressed concrete beam to a group of University of Toronto graduating year civil engineering students. Approximately sixty students toured the Wilson plant yesterday afternoon.

Civil Engineering Students Tour Wilson Concrete Plant

Wednesday afternoon the members of the civil engineering graduating class from the University of Toronto were taken on a tour of the plant of Wilson Concrete Products Ltd., following a dinner held at the Bay of Quinte Golf Club. At the dinner, hosted by D. K. Black, C. D. Landy and Charles E. Wilson of the Belleville firm, the U. of T. students were accompanied by Belleville by His Worship, Mayor Gerald B. Hyde. Approximately sixty students were present, accompanied by Professors M. Huggins and C. Heiwig of the university.

Prior to going through the Wilson Concrete Products plant, Mr. Wilson gave a short history of the firm, covering its inception about nine to ten years ago as a concrete block manufacturing company through to its present development as one of the pioneer manufacturers of precast and prestressed concrete products. The initial tour of the plant was made with the equipment shut down so that all could hear the explanation of the different stages of processing and the functions carried out by the various pieces of equipment.

The students were accompanied by Professor Huggins, Mr. Landy, D. M. Curzon, J. L. Acton, Jack Ellis, and Dave Davey who answered individual questions from the students relating to the various phases of processing. The second tour of the plant was made with the production in operation.

Highlight of the afternoon's activities included: the loading by votes normal quarterly of one of the firm's prestressed double-T concrete beams to demonstrate its resiliency; the pouring of one of these beams; and an examination of the firm's 100-ton crane — a concrete arch, the form for which Hollow-Core completed. DE GAULLE SHOWS COURAGE

Opinions of General Charles de Gaulle may vary. On one point, though, there ought to be unanimity. He is a courageous man.

Some may say that was amply proved during the war years, when his clarion call summoned freedom-loving Frenchmen to fight on against the Nazis, at a time when other, better-known Frenchmen were prepared to accept defeat and bow to what they regarded as the inevitable.

Courage of this kind, though, is probably more common than that which the General has now shown to his effort to make France's restored freedom mean something worth while to the average Frenchman.

It took courage of the highest order to declare that French colonies which did not approve of the new constitution he proposed would be considered to be voting against continued ties with France - - to say this and then to promptly lit the blood to the word, and hand over sovereignty to the assembly of Guinea, the only colony which failed to ratify the constitution.

It may be argued by de Gaulle's foes, with considerable logic, that his stand was not free of the taint of blackmail. There were other, legitimate, reasons for objecting to the constitution he proposed besides the desire for self-government. De Gaulle made continuance in the French Union, with the accompanying financial aid these colonies receive from France, dependent upon accepting the plan for the Fifth Republic which he had drafted.

His foes may contend that those colonies which approved the constitution did so not so much because they approved the form of government which de Gaulle has proposed as because they desired to retain their link with France.

Only time will tell, it is doubtful whether this argument carries much weight. From this distance, at least, it would appear likely that most of the native inhabitants of the colonies had scanty interest, and perhaps equally scanty knowledge, of the finer constitutional points which perturbed the inhabitants of Metropolitan France. De Gaulle, wishing to emphasize the unity of all French domains, had to make the plebiscite meaningful to the peoples of the colonies, as well as to those of France itself. He did so by making it, in practice if not in theory, a double-barrelled referendum, with the colonies voting on the question of continuing within the French union, while the French themselves decided on the form of government to be followed in the Mother Country.

The result has been to give France and her colonies at least an appearance of unity which provides a striking contrast with the disunity which prevails between most other lands and their dependencies.

It is doubtful whether even Britain could equal this record if a plebiscite were taken in her colonial possessions on continuance within the Commonwealth.

And yet while de Gaulle has exhibited courage, he has also shown ruthlessness. Tru, Guinea gets from what it asked, but this sudden severance of ties with France, though it meets the inhabitants' ardent wishes, will probably be found in the long run to be far from as kind to them as the more cautious, carefully controlled loosening of the apron strings which has been the key to British policy in colonial affairs during recent years.

THOSE "CRIMINAL" MISSILES

Communist China says that Chiang's planes have been using U.S. Sidewinder guided missiles to attack Red planes.

This may provide a partial explanation for the statistics on plane kills issued by the Nationalists, although we suspect that the greater part of the disparity between Communist and Nationalist losses is the product of the Nationalists' propaganda machine, rather than of the Sidewinders' deadliness.

What intrigues us, though, is Peiping's threat of punitive blows on China's Black Sea air force for this criminal action."

If the Sidewinder had a nuclear warhead, we could understand Peiping's indignation. But this missile does its work with a conventional explosive. We are at a loss to explain why a guided missile is a more "criminal" weapon than an unguided one.

Surely the Communists are not laboring under the delusion that modern war is a sporting proposition, in which the enemy must be accorded an even chance?

If so, they have had a queer way of showing it in a number of occasions.

THE OCTOBER GROOM

Behold him in the corner where he stands,
Biting his finger nails in nervous way,
Adjusting now his necktie with his hands
And pulling at his collar for more play.
Just take a look at him and note his face,
As red as though some foe had roused his ire;
There is a man that surely feels his place
And goodness, gracious! How he does perspire!

List! Strain your ears a moment for he tries
The words that bind him to her by vows;
His voice into a gurgle slowly dies,
And all the time he's gazing at his feet.
But, later, if you speak to him of fright
And say that he was rooted to the spot,
He'll say: "I haven't turned a hair tonight.
In fact, I was the coolest of the lot."

Superstition in Sports

New York Times.

A recent news article reports that in Southern Rhodesia, African football teams are turning toward the magic of the witch doctor to insure victory in their games. For league games the entire squad of players are given amulets that are worn on the arm, and a powder rubbed onto the body. Before a cup final, charms are buried beneath the playing field at midnight. The article adds, however, "Teams invariably employ one witch doctor to use his skill exactly, unless the team finds itself losing after matches and then feels it should. Then the magician gets the blame and engages at losing teams in big league baseball in the United States."

Fortunately the practice of black magic in new remains the only a scattering of superstitions, as salt over the shoulder, throwing a mirror, and certain actions and charms in the sports world in this connection, however, for many professionals are under the spell of superstition.

• • •

Only a year ago a stable attendant, grooming Needles, a horse owner at a spring meeting at a local race track. Since then the attendant wears a bag of voodoo material over the left shoulder, and certain incantations are muttered. By coincidence this attendant has never missed a stake at any track where the offended attendant has appeared. Or, as in the case of Mr. Jones, a baseball fan, Mrs. Jones refused to use them. He explained that when he was winning he had to be the same United States Open and Amateur golf champion. As a amateur — he preferred a black marking on the ball. "For some unknown reason, I always insisted on playing a ball with black markings."

Major league baseball, too, has felt the intrusion of mystic influences. One of the most colorful and out-spoken men of baseball, Leo Durocher, not only made an umpire's duties trying but was born superstitious. When coaching at third base he would completely blot out the chalk outline of the coaching box. Many took the opinion that this was not merely superstition. Many times during a game Durocher would go beyond the coaching lines which was an infraction of the rules. The absence of boundaries made such action difficult to detect.

Last season a Washington Senator pitcher, Chuck Stobbs, had a phenomenal record before winning one. The loyal Senator fans, not giving up on their pitcher during his unfortunate streak, came to his support by, bringing good luck charms to the stadium. The Washington ball team has been further involved in matters of charms and magic. A few years ago, a Yankee Year Book carried a story, "Break Up the Yankees," has often been heard. This season the Yankees are succeeding in a rule change was introduced, during the season, at reducing Yankee efficiency. It was suggested that players who were batting .300 or better be allowed to re-enter the same game in which they batted. But blinded by his enthusiasm for this unlimited substitution, the sponsor failed to see that this benefits that the Yankees, too, would enjoy. Quickly the rule was announced that if Mantle, Berra, Skowron and Duren and the rest of that lineup were inserted in the line-up at will, they would give the opposition to the Yankees than they have already.

That teams playing the Yankees would change their batting orders to aid them is doubtful, though in baseball no change or method was quite successful. It is improbable, too, that baseball men will program a wearn, image of Casey Stengel to jab at. Of course, the sensational Milwaukee Braves have been different.

Sports writers, saying, "If they were in on the secret," ask at this point, however, their concern is limited to an objective viewpoint. They have only "Yankee" problem in October — World Series time.

Letter To The Editor

Dislikes Council's Idea of Progress

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer.

I am all for progress. Believe with society should change to number our wards, number our streets, and number our out buildings and do a few other things in the name of progress.

I think we should be so modern we should be real missionaries, and help our neighbors who are with our superior knowledge and knowhow. Why not send a recommendation to the City Council of London, England, and suggest that Piccadilly Circus could be 1B, this would save ignoramuses, like myself, a lot of trouble. I can't even spell it. Trafalgar Square could be 2M, and as for Nelson's monument, it is not functional and probably would cause confusion for foreigners in London don't know (or care) who Nelson might have been, tear it down and think of all the extra parking space, it'd be for Bulls.

It is strictly too old, tear it down and put up one of those concrete, steel and glass horror structures, to remind us of the modern buildings we used to make as youngsters.

I am sure that the fertile brains of our city fathers could come up with many other suggestions for the modernization of our old London and show them the way to a more 'progressive city,' than to have a public house is to be sandblasted. That would be something all one of our few fine buildings.

When they get around to putting an addition to our public library, I hope it will not look like some of the wartime jobs one can see about town added to public buildings.

Yours for Progress,
A city taxpayer, who will have to help pay the shot.

Reason Irag Backed Irish

Irish Times, Dublin

A young Irishman, who for some years past has been on the staff of the United Nations, tells a story which illustrates what goes on "backstage" in the "chancelleries of the world."

Some time during a visit to Baghdad, he paid an official call on the foreign minister of Iraq. When he explained that he came from Ireland, the minister said: "As a matter of fact, we are supporting the case for Irish-Iraq's admission to the United Nations."

When my friend asked what were the practical reasons for mutual links between this country and Iraq the foreign minister explained forthrightly: "It's really nothing like that. But we had finished a three hour delegation would not have to sit beside Israel in the General Assembly."

GOD AND MAMMON

In the Sermon on the Mount, Jesus said, "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." He did not say, "It is difficult to serve successfully both God and riches." He said, "Ye cannot." It is impossible.

Money is something that concerns all of us. From the time we are old enough to go to school, or even before, we are getting used to spending money. Nobody in our modern world, lives without using it.

Money, or wealth, or mammon, to give it the Biblical term, always stands in one of two relations to man — servant or master. For people who deal w i t h money — and who does not? — there is really no neutral ground. Either mammon serves us, or we serve mammon. And while it can make a good servant, it always makes a dreadful master.

Our country is full of symbols of money and mammon. We have ancient schools, colleges, churches, hospitals, and many other buildings and institutions. Behind many of these has been spent in the name of mammon. Unfortunately we have plenty of examples where money has been a bad master, too — prisons full of men and women who have stolen or killed for gain, and slums where the poverty-stricken are forced to live by attempting to enrich an unscrupulous landlord.

Ye cannot serve God and mammon. Which one will you serve? Let mammon serve you.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Oct. 2nd., 1938

The tag day conducted by the Women's Auxiliary of the Army was very successful and the sum of $437.00 was collected.

The Rev. A. G. Sinclair, pastor of Victoria Avenue Baptist Church for the past four years, has accepted a call to a large Baptist Church in Saskatoon, Sask., and will leave here for that city the first week in November. He has been very successful in his work here and many friends regret his departure from the city. He was president of the Ministerial Association last year.

Reports on Corundum Mine. From our file copy at this time in 1918: Sir Donald Mine of the Provincial Bureau of Mines, after inspecting the recent corundum finds in Hastings County reports that there are large quantities of corundum and that the deposits can be followed over fifty miles across Hastings County and part of Renfrew County. They occur in pockets some of them of great extent. Corundum is the richest of all the ores in aluminum and manufacture of which bids fair to rank among the greatest of industries in no distant daje.

R. Ross Smith, has already held before representatives of laymen of all denominations a suggestion that church services be curtailed to a minimum in a way that will effect a saving of 50 per cent in the amount of the consumption of coal. The controller believes that three churches can arrange to hold their services in the one building and what union services are not favored the congregations can meet at different hours in the one building. Suggestion is meeting with approval.

Man's Esteem Of Gold Old

Saint John Telegraph-Journal

Man's esteem of gold is of very ancient origin. Archaeologists have identified in the ruins of the Iron Age city of Hasanlu in Northwest Iran the 2,500-year-old skeleton of a man, identified as a warrior, clutching an object described as a buckler. A member of the expedition making this discovery says the vessel, though encrusted by the weight of the earth, was still "shining in golden splendor as only gold, the most corroding metal, can do." Also: "The vessel is covered with mythological figures, the details and composition of which are completely new to us."

So two and one-half thousand years ago men worshipped and sold gold. Today is little different. Georgia is renovating her Capitol in Atlanta and the entire dome will be gold plated. A despatch tells: "A new dome is included in current renovation work and first glance called for gold plating. Corupola dome and ridges of the dome. But others argued that Fulton County — an old gold mining site — donated forty-three ounces of gold for the project." That, with appropriations allotted and gold in hand, will enable the re-attire dome to be coated with gold.

Such is the enduring fascination of gold for men — of gold in its substance, quite aside from its use as a medium of exchange or the power it confers on its possessors. Its very sheen seems to be magic. There are indeed craftier metals, but none seems to exert the same influence on the imagination of man — today as it was thousands of years ago.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LIFE'S LITTLE EXTRAS

What a lebt in our heart do we owe to an endless number of Life's Extras that keep falling upon us, like silent snowflakes. These are God's extras — not to be our debt. But this debt that we owe can be fully paid merely by appreciating Life's Little Extras.

And what are these extras? They spring from every ray of sunshine, and from every dewdrop. All nature is lavish with her gifts. Most of them are free, and you can own them "without money without price."

Who ever thought that a summer shower could be purchased, and yet it is one of those extras that comes to millions on all parts of the earth — a free gift to the garden and forests. We accept the sunshine and the rains. They are two of the essential extras. And the singing birds are the finest, our delightful songsters that radiate joy and happiness and then disappear. Extras. What would we do without them?

The unexpected letter, encouragement from a total stranger, the joy that is found in genuinely lucked away in the heart, these are a multitude of unbought Life's extras. We are all so very rich, but there extras are negotiable only in terms of kindness, sympathy and love.

It's the useful things that we are not asked to do, but which we do, that bring the greatest joy. There are many extras that we all might enjoy and which we might multiply to the happiness of others, if we would but grasp each opportunity that is presented to us.

The sunrise, the sunset, the beauty of earth outside my library window, and the towering trees loss their golden foliage all about, including I s a s in intimate shadows. All these are life's extras. I couldn't live in a place where no trees grew or new day after day. You remember "Only God can make a tree!"

FUNNEL CHEST CAN BE CORRECTED BY SURGERY

"Dear Dr. Molner: Our son, aged 9½, has been with a funnel chest. We have had him to many surgeons. The said we should wait until he is 16 and to see how he progresses, and the other feels an immediate operation is necessary as the condition will not improve. Can this condition retard him mentally as well as physically? Can he, though training and exercise, overcome it? Mr. and Mrs. S. H."

Some of the older textbooks on pediatrics used to say that nothing could be done about a funnel chest — that is, a depression because the breast bone is depressed, (it used to be a commoner thing, or at least more often noticed, because rickets accentuated the faulty shaping of the chest. Today, rickets is rare in America.)

Modern thoracic (chest) surgery can do something. The breast bone, or sternum, can be raised, bringing it back to normal position, or in all events much more nearly normal position. Individual cases, naturally, vary.

The condition does not improve with age. If the chest is severely depressed it may interfere with the chest, including the heart, will be crowded and thus embarrassed.

I've known of heart murmurs in adults who were born with funnel chests and did not have them later corrected, or, in some cases, were born 10 or 20 years too soon. As soon before the technique for correcting the faulty chest was known. It is also possible for a curvature of the spine to be caused as the child grows and the bones and cartilage become more rigid.

NOT AFFECTED MENTALLY

As to being affected mentally, I should say no. But we do not know how there can be a psychological, or emotional effect, since the child is quite unaware of it in childhood games.

At 1 very close do, I took the above problem to a thoracic surgeon, one for whom I have the highest regard. He said that now is the best time for such an operation to be performed — at the age of 9 years. Usually the condition will have been noticed and recognized by the age of 5 years, and by this age involves dealing with bony structures which have become more fixed. Likewise having it done before adolescence beats the psychological problem that would become serious until the child is of high school age.

For other readers, I do not mean to imply that 15 or 16 is too late for such surgery. It is not. I want to give the idea that hopeless damage will not have darkened relative powers hitherto unknown.

Indian Tea Wonder Drug?

St. Thomas Times-Journal

Because of so many experiments being conducted in the field of medicine, it is no surprise to hear that an ancient Indian medicine man's secret may prove a new weapon against mental illness. As a matter of fact, some of the old remedies may be better than modern ones and could be revived with good results. The medicine man's story comes from the Harvard Botanical Laboratory, Fla., (Big Darvis), where Josie Billy, 74, medicine man, claims Indians have used the herb for treating mental illness for many years.

That his theory is being taken seriously is revealed by the fact that samples of the herb were sent to the Upjohn Pharmaceutical Company in Kalamazoo, Mich., for tests. Dr. Jack Hinman, who is supervising tests for Upjohn, admitted that "we have been interested in Josie Billy's herb tea." It would be interesting to hear the results expected, if something comes of the study. Anyhow, darkened every type of tea has a soothing quality and it is possible that the medicine man's variety might have latent powers hitherto unknown.

By GREGORY CLARK

Having reached the age at which I think I have now seen all the movies that ever will be made, and that no matter how evil-doers I go to the cinema I invariably feel I have seen it before, I went to see "Gigi" not to enjoy the story, which, of course, was just the same old story but to see dear old Maurice Chevalier, who never would age, but who sings better than anybody I know.

And who do you suppose came on in and sat in the very next seat to me? A man I have revered and admired for thirty years. He is a famously successful and popular businessman. He has been honored by universities. Time and again he has been chosen by his city to head this campaign and that. Though I have never had the honor of meeting the gentleman, I felt a curious sense of honor in that he was sitting beside me in a theatre right beside him. It was a distinction.

Well, now a seat in the movies has two elbow rests. Do you know, I had either elbow on mine and I plumped his big fat elbow on both elbow rests, one side and b i both. I leaned out to make sure that he was using the far one too. Every time he leaned to the right, I nimbly got mine on the arm rest. But without as much as a please or thank you, he promptly shoved my elbow off.

I had to go back to "Gigi" the next night in order to get a better look at Chevalier.

Film Council Elects Officers, New Committees

The Belleville and District Film Council held an executive meeting in the Public Library on Tuesday evening. The new officers for the forthcoming year were announced and they include: Mr. J. Musgrove, president; Mr. H. R. Frink, past president; Mr. A. Cummins, first vice-president; Mr. R. Hamilton, second vice-president; Miss Olive Delaney, secretary-treasurer; Miss Wilma Durie, assistant-secretary-treasurer; Sister Mary Timothy, recording secretary; directors — Miss Olive Elson, Miss Hazel Thompson; Mrs. W. Sine, Rev. R. S. Sherwin, Mr. L. A. Kelly, Mr. C. L. Hyde, Mr. R. K. McCoy, Mr. R. H. Moorcroft.

With the installation of new officers new members were introduced and plans for the October meeting on the 28th, a Tuesday, were made. Tentative plans for a film festival in November of this year were discussed as well as plans for the purchasing of new equipment and the maintenance of old units for the next year.

Several committees and an advisory board were formed. The advisory board includes: Messrs. Reid, Chard, M. H. Hackett, and D. I. MacKinnon, Miss Vera Risto, and two as yet unappointed representatives from Albert College and the Y.M.C.A. The program committee consists of Messrs. M. Hackett and D. Maddocks; membership committee — Mrs. C. Powell, convenor, Mr. E. J. Chard, and Miss H. Thompson; projectionist and maintenance committee — Messrs. C. Faulkner, S. Else, and D. Group Chairmen, Team Captains Hold Meeting

Frank Domenico, chairman of the Bellevue "B" Division, called a campaign meeting last night at the YMCA of all group chairmen and team captains to complete their plans for October 16th when the United Appeal campaign officially opens.

This division is divided into three main groups with Mr. Shoe David heading up the printing and publicity group; Mr. J. G. Demess heading up the large food group, and Mr. H. R. Parsons heading up the hotels and restaurants group.

Team captains for the various categories are as follows: Office equipment and supplies, Mr. E. Dickey; milling and cereals, Mr. C. R. MacKenzie; dairy products, Mr. Lee Grills, M.P.; confectionery and bakers, Mr. W. Holway; refrigeration, Mr. W. H. Hurst. The large group of grocery stores, meats and poultry will be handled by Mr. F. Domenico as team captain with the assistance of several canvassers. Hotels will be handled by Mr. Walter Allore; restaurants by Messrs. Ben Yzsover, George Haggis, Murray Hunter, Art Black and Al Hardy. Shoeries will be covered by Mr. Frank Jones; theatres by Mr. Don Thomas; motels by Mr. Abe Tobe; poolrooms by Mr. Al Hargood; soft drinks and tobacco by Messrs. Joe Burke, Frank Burns and Dick Beare.

Mr. Domenico outlined the campaign and welcomed Dr. Jack Guilridge, chairman of the public service division, and Archie Lewis, campaign chairman, who attended the meeting. Many interesting questions were raised and lively interest shown in the open discussion period.

As several team captains were unable to attend the meeting it was decided that each group chairman hold a separate meeting of all his team captains as well as canvassers for instruction before the campaign opens. During the evening canvassers and team captains' kit were distributed by Mr. Frank Domenico to his group chairmen.

District Pharmacists Hear Talk on Flashbulb Industry

The members of the Quinte District Pharmacists Association assembled last night for one of their twice-yearly dinner meetings held at the Shrine Club. Guest speaker for the night was Arthur A. Keymer, sales manager of the Photolamp division of the Sylvania Company of Canada, who spoke of the flashbulb industry and its various potentials.

Mr. Keymer, who happily confesses to the nickname "Superflash", spoke on the ways and means the druggist can increase his sales and profits. And what the industry is doing to help him.

In the speech, which at times sparkled with humor, Mr. Keymer stressed the importance of proper display, without which he contended, "your sales will not improve".

Accompanied by a charming and beautiful young lady, who received hearty applause at the end of the evening, he explained to the druggists what steps the photographic industry was taking to help the retailers to improve their sales. He referred to various TV and Radio programs and publicity campaigns to put across the point that industry is doing something to help sales figures.

He presented various ways in which the retailer can increase his sales from a film to a member of pieces of photographic equipment.

Highlight of the evening was three lovely dancing girls, who tapped their way into the hearts of the druggists, with gracefully executed dance steps.

The girls, ranging in age from 11 to 13, were Judy McKnight, Jackie Cook and Iris Lohnes. All are Belleville girls who were trained at the Diment School of Dancing.

A raffle was held during the course of the evening with the two surprise packages going to the hosts. They declined the prizes so they were auctioned off, with the profits going to the Shrine Club's Crippled Children Fund.

Other entertainment consisted of the piano artistry of Jimmy Conrad. All present burst into song when Jimmy started to play in his own indelible style.

The associations business was then gone into with Harold Selden reported on the OPDA hospitalization plan, and then discussing a plan under consideration that would be to advertise the pharmicists as a whole.

Mr. Selden said that he had seen some ideas offered by a public relations organization and that he didn't approve of them at the stage they were presented in.

The plan in one case was described by Mr. Seldon as a comic book type of thing that would tell the story of Pharmacy, and another the good to be done by the druggist in the community.

Mr. Seldon expressed a dislike for the program because, as he said, it was not properly developed. He said the scale model shown for consideration was not of pharmacists but of the shoe building trade.

He went on to say that subscribing to a plan in this stage would be somewhat like "buying a pig in a poke."

An appeal for the raising of funds for the new pharmacy building to be built in Toronto was made at the meeting. It was decided that a committee would be formed to handle the drive.

Inspector Greenfield reported on the technical details concerning the sales of Vitamins in places other than drug stores.

He said that the laws state that "no person may sell drugs or poisons other than a pharmacist—it was found that the bill did not apply to companies in court. It was motioned that an appeal for revision of the bill be considered.

President Jim Inrig declared the meeting adjourned.

Wedding

MOORE — GORDON

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Norwood, was the scene of a pretty fall wedding on Saturday, September 27th, when Leona Margaret, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gordon, of Norwood, became the bride of William H. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Moore.

The church was decorated for the occasion with fall flowers and Barbara Bitten played the wedding music. During the signing of the register, Miss Shirley McCracken sang "The Wedding Prayer".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length gown of nylon chiffon. The bodice of the gown was styled with a Sabrina neckline and trimmed with seed pearls and sequins and nylon lace. The bouffant skirt of nylon chiffon was gathered to the sides with flowers. Her headdress was plateau style of pleated tulle and lace trimmed with seed pearls and caught to a circular chapel length veil of illusion trimmed with silk embroidery. She carried a white Bible with streamers hung from the top of a white over-skirt and white streamers hung from the top of a white over-skirt and white streamers hung from the top of a white over-skirt and white

Rarebit for Press Girls

by Mary Moore

Th press club girls have an exhilarating effect, on one another and when we have an executive meeting it is more like a party.

Their praise and appreciation of the food spur us on to new efforts. So last night I polished up the copper chafing dish, bought a new tin of canned meat (Spam) and Peady and I made nojiac like cookes.

I made a double batch of Tea Biscuits Supreme (see below), rolling them thin and cutting them out with my 1 3-4-inch cutter. On these, split, we served a Mushroom and Cheese Rarebit. Taste and see. The girls came back for "seconds" and hovered over the chafing dish until it was gone to the last lick. Of course the chafing dish it not necessary — just handy.

MUSHROOM AND CHEESE RAREBIT

Six tablespoons each butter and flour, 2 cups hot whole milk, 1 generous 1-2 lb. grated old Cheddar cheese, 2 egg yolks, 1 teaspoon each salt and dry mustard, shake of pepper, 1 lb. can button mushrooms.

Make a sauce by heating butter with flour and blending, then stir in salt, mustard and pepper and milk not too thick. Add cheese, transfer to double boiler and cook until cheese melts. A few minutes before serving time stir in drained mushrooms (reserve liquid for your soup pot) and the beaten yolks. Heat through, stirring, for a couple of minutes and it is ready. Transfer to chafing dish if you have such a gadget, light the burner and tell the folks to come running.

Do you want me to repeat the ever-popular Tea Biscuit Supreme recipe? You do?

TEA BISCUITS SUPREME

(I doubled these amounts to serve 6 hungry women.) Two and one-eighth cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1-3 teaspoon each salt and cream of tartar, 3 teaspoons sugar, 3-3 less 1 tablespoon milk, 1-3 cup butter or shortening. (With milk and butter should be at room temperature. Sift together the 5 dry ingredients.

Dinner Menus

THURSDAY

SUNDAY

Pot Roast of Beef; Horseradish; Scalloped Corn (see Monday); Brussels Sprouts; Peady's Spinach Salad (see Wednesday); Fresh Orange Jelly (see Friday) with Custard Sauce; Spice Cake; Coffee.

Cut in butter with pastry blender until it is crumbly. Add milk all at once. Quickly stir to barely blend. Pat out on floured board to 1-3-inch thickness. Bake on ungreased baking sheet at 467 deg. Fahr. about 12 minutes. Note: These are good too when rolled out to one inch thickness, cut out with three-inch cutter, baked, split and served around edge of platterful of chicken stew. I'm serving that on Sunday next.

With the Rarebit we served celery hearts, sliced cucumbers, ripe olives, a big bowl of fall fresh fruits and plenty of coffee.

It was all wonderfully simple to prepare and made a memorable party meal.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura M. — I don't want to share with my sisters.

Mrs. K. M. — She is selfish and domineering.

* * * *

Laura M. — I am a 14-year-old girl and I am having a lot of trouble at home because of my mother and my two younger sisters.

My sisters are very nosey about my things and they keep going to my drawers to get my lipstick and nail polish. When I am not home they "borrow" my sweaters and blouses and other things. My mother backs them up in this and calls me selfish for wanting to keep my things to myself.

My mother says I am supposed to share with my sisters, but other girls of my age don't have to share their clothing with their sisters. It is bad enough that we all have to share one room.

* * * *

Mrs. K. M. — I come of a family of five girls so I know what it is to have to share things. But my sisters and I were very fully and good-natured and we never minded. We also had lots of fun together and were really good friends in spite of our spats.

I wanted to see my girls have the same kind of relationship, but Laura makes it impossible. She has a terrible temper and beats up the younger girls unmercifully when they touch her things.

I am afraid that Laura will never be able to get along in life because she is so selfish and domineering. Our income is not enough to supply three girls with good wardrobes.

* * * *

The Council: It is rather harsh to refer to Laura's conduct as selfish and domineering. It seems obvious that she is trying to defend an area of personal privacy for herself. For some individuals this area may be a small one, reaching only to a diary or some cherished piece of jewelry. For others, it is larger, extending beyond clothing to a large assortment of property.

At Laura's age, her personal property has a great deal of significance. It is bound up with her growing appreciation of her own unique personality and with her hopes and dreams about the woman she will become. It is natural for her to defend all of this violently from the curious eyes and prying hands of two younger sisters.

We don't think Mrs. K. M. ought to judge Laura's conduct in the light of her own girlhood experience. Probably there were many factors of which she is unaware, that made communal living satisfactory for her and her sisters.

The problem of financing "good wardrobes" for three girls is no small one, we'll agree. It would be a good idea to start tackling this problem on a more realistic basis before the girls get much older. Laura may find that sewing her own clothing makes it even more personal than owning it all to herself. Her sisters may find it more satisfactory to imitate her in this constructive way than to borrow articles that don't belong to them. Or, Laura and her sisters may be willing to accept small, inexpensive wardrobes that are uniquely their own.

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP. . . "TAKE IT EASY"

These are days when heated discussions and arguments are apt to flare up at any moment. So you'd better watch your words . . . watch your reactions . . . watch your step. Better keep the friends you have!

COLOR SCHEME FOR GOLDEN WEDDING CELEBRATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband and I will be celebrating our Fiftieth Wedding Anniversary before long, and we would like to know what color the centerpiece, the candles and the Anniversary Cake should be. Some relatives and friends tell us they should be all-white, and some say the Anniversary Cake should be iced in gold, but the centerpiece should be yellow flowers, and there should be no candles. Which is proper? — S.

Customarily a rich golden shade is featured in the decorations for the Golden Wedding Anniversary . . . but there is no rule about this, and you may use all-white if you prefer. Or you may combine gold or yellow and white. For example, the Anniversary Cake often is iced in white, with the edge, the flower-decorations, the dates (1908-1958), initials, and so forth accented in gold or yellow icing.

The centerpiece may be of dark-yellow flowers (such as Talisman roses) combined with delicate white flowers baby's breath for example. And generally the candles are golden-color or yellow. The table-covering too may be dark-yellow damask or you may make it in an interesting material of the desired shade. Also very often the bride's dress is of a golden shade of silk or damask or light-weight satin.

TABLE ETIQUET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When olives, radishes, celery and such are passed at table, should one put them on the dinner plate or on the bread-and-butter plate? — L.

On the bread-and-butter plate.

Rev., Mrs. W.H.V. Walker Mark Fortieth Anniversary

By MRS. PERCY MacMULLEN

STIRLING—Dr. John Walker, Mrs. Walker and daughter Susan, of Hamilton; Dr. Rowan Walker, Mrs. Walker, Sharon and Mark, Toronto, arrived on Friday, September 26th at the home of their parents at the Presbyterian Manse, Stirling.

On their arrival they informed Rev. and Mrs. W. H. V. Walker that plans were laid for an "open house" on Saturday evening and Sunday afternoon, when a delightful surprise reception was planned with the family in charge. The occasion was their parents' 40th wedding anniversary.

Over 150 relatives, friends, neighbors and members of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, and the sister appointment, West Huntingdon Presbyterian congregation attended this delightful "at home" and wished the honored couple many more years of happiness.

HOME DECORATED

Mrs. Walker, the bride of 40 years, was lovely in a gown of flower colored rayon tissue crepe with lace yoke over taffeta and she wore a beautiful white orchid with ruby throated centre, the gift of their family; they also provided a matching ruby boutonniere for their father.

The wedding was held on October 2nd, 1918, in Bethany Presbyterian Church with Dr E. A. Thompson, of Toronto, officiating. He was unable to attend the reception as he is engaged as secretary of the Board of Administration of the Presbyterian Church of Canada.

The bride was formerly Alice Mae Rowan, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Rowan, of Bethany, and the groom is the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Walker, Port Hope, Ont.

The bridesmaid was Miss Alice Ryley, of Bethany, now Mrs. James Turnbull, of Peterborough, and the groomsman was Rev. W. A. Wescott, B.A., who now resides at Malton, R. R. 1, Ont.

FIRST CHARGE

Their first charge was Janetville, and their second at Stirling, where they have served since 1938 and have made many warm friends in this area.

Neighbors and friends assisted the family in making this anniversary a memorable one.

Guests were in attendance from Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Peterborough, Springville, Trenton, Campbellford, West Huntingdon and Stirling.

It was also the occasion of Dr. and Mrs. John Walker's wedding anniversary.

During the festivities Rev. Walker received a telephone message of congratulations from his sister, Mrs. R. E. Pipher, of Trenton, New Jersey, U.S.A., and the group enjoyed a brief chat.

The dining table was laid with a snowy linen cloth appliqued with cut-work, centred with a white tiered anniversary cake with ruby trim. It was flanked with silver candelabra with pink and white tapers, and low bowls of chrysanthemums. A special cake-cutting ceremony was enacted with the three grandchildren assisting.

Those who poured were each presented with a lovely rose corsage and they were two sisters-in-law, Mrs. James R. Carr, Port Hope, and Mrs. Harold Rowan, Springville; Miss Maycie Lang, Toronto; Miss Margaret Reid, Peterborough; Mrs. John Walker, Hamilton, and Mrs. Rowan Walker, Toronto. Several of the neighbors were in charge of kitchen duties and replenishing of plates.

RECEIVE GIFTS AND CARDS

The honored couple were the recipients of a large array of congratulatory cards, and individual gifts. The congregation of St. Andrew's and West Huntingdon each made the presentation of a lovely gift on behalf of each group. The family presented their parents with an electric range.

Among the guests were Col. and Mrs. James Turnbull, of Peterborough.

At noon on Sunday a family turkey dinner was held at the Manse and besides the immediate family the guests included Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Lang, Lindsay; Miss Maycie Lang, Toronto; Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Carr, Port Hope; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Rowan and son Ivan, of Springville, and Miss Margaret Reid, Peterborough.

The festivities ended on Sunday evening and the sons and their families returned to their homes on Monday.

The many friends of Rev. and Mrs. Walker sincerely wish for them many more years of happiness and successful ministry.

Canadians May Soon Tempt Guests With Arctic Tidbits

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Officials of the northern affairs department are hoping that up-to-date Canadian hostesses soon will be able—and willing — to tempt their guests with a helping of muktuk.

Muktuk, or pickled white whale, is one of the features in a current drive calculated to provide more stable supplies of Eskimo food plus money — making Arctic titbit specialities for commercial sale in city stores.

Dried seal and seal liver are two other possibilities. Arctic char, the rosy - fleshed northern of the lake trout, already is being shipped south.

PICKLED BATCHES

Muktuk is the layer of tissue under the outer skin of the white whale or beluga. Pickled batches now are being tested here. Later its hoped samples will be circulated to food brokers.

"The first batch was excellent," said one taster after smacking his lips. "The flavor's hard to describe—sort of a cross between pickled herring and a good liverwurst."

He thought it would measure up to anything on the cocktail-canape circuit.

He described seal liver as "just as good as calf liver," but he warned that the supply of Arctic specialties is not expected ever to be large.

"The idea behind various experiments with potential commercial items is that "if Japan can market a tin of whale meat in this country for 75 cents, we should be able to put out something of the same sort ourselves at a comparable or lower price."

CANADA LAGS

The Arctic division of the department of northern affairs feels that Canada lags badly behind Japan, Russia and Norway among others in exploiting Arctic food resources. Dried seal meat is another experiment which it is hoped will steady the fluctuating supplies of food for the Eskimo and his dog.

The same processing technique may well apply to fish, aiding northern residents over from periods of ample hunting or fishing through less productive spells.

A heat drying machine may be on the way and it is possible they may be located strategically through the North in the future.

GROUND SEAL

One seal was brought down last winter to the defence research medical laboratory at Toronto.

It was cut into chunks, stewed, finely ground and then placed under the hot air blasts of the machine.

"Frankly, it isn't too palatable," one official conceded. But the weight has been reduced by two-thirds, facilitating packing on the Arctic trail, and it keeps for a year without refrigeration.

More seal will be tested this winter. One of the drying machines is scheduled to operate at Whale Cove on the western shore of Hudson Bay.

There, a special survival school is going for about 25 families of the inland Keewatin Eskimo, most primitive of the Canadian race and threatened with starvation as the caribou herds continue to decline.

ANCIENT FRUITS

Apples, pears and cherries were grown around the Black Sea and the Caspian Sea centuries before Columbus discovered America.

Many Pioneers of District Buried in Moira Cemetery

By E. CLAUD YOUNG
Charter President, Bay of Quinte Branch, U.E.L. Association

A recent visit to the Moira cemetery, back in Huntingdon township, reminded me of a letter received early this summer from Dr. C. C. Burleigh, of Bath, genealogist of the Bay of Quinte Branch, U.E.L. Association, who had by chance looked the old Quaker Meeting House and cemetery near Moira.

Asking a cousin who accompanied me to Moira that afternoon whether he knew of this historic old spot, he thought awhile before recalling the approximate location. Well he might, for one could drive along that road many times before the ruins of that old stone House of God would be seen.

Working our way through the heavy growth of trees, brush, briers and weeds we came to the front of the old building almost covered with ivy and other vines. While most of the front wall stood as of old, the other three walls are in ruins and one could hardly venture inside what more than a century ago was a popular meeting house for members of the Society of Friends who pioneered settlement in that district.

While gazing at those ruins a flashback of remembrance bridged fifty-three years to the summer of 1905, part of which I spent holidaying with my maternal grandparents on the 7th concession of Thurlow about six or seven miles to the south. Recollection of two or three visits to the old Meeting House with my younger uncle, enabled me to view those ruins as something of the past which should have been preserved.

Keeping in mind Dr. Burleigh's letter in which he listed names from a number of tombstones in the nearby cemetery, spurred us on to work our way through the heavy undergrowth until we reached that sacred ground. As the names of those resting there are a part of the history of Canada as well as of Hastings county, I believe they should be written here.

From two of the pioneer families who early in the year 1800 left their native Bristol in Gloucestershire, England, for Canada, Jerome Sweitman and William Mullett, we found:

Margaret T. Sweitman 1830-1889, wife of E. B. Sweitman, and evidently their daughters Libby 1857-1882 and Mary 1860-1885.

William Mullett Jr., 1800-1885, and the wife of Arthur Mullett who was Jane Baker, 1814-1891.

Samuel Howe 1774-1856 and his wife Jane Denyke 1818-1888. Samuel was a son of William Howe of of the Loyalist refugees who came to Kingston in 1784 with the Captain Michael Grass party from New York. Jane Denyke was of a Huguenot family which came to America before the Revolutionary War and to Canada after the peace.

A daughter of Samuel and Jane Howe, who became the second wife of Nicholas Ketcheson, was Sarah B. Howe who died October 3rd, 1870, and was laid to rest beside her parents.

There is every reason to believe there are many more Friends resting in this sacred, neglected, and almost forgotten spot. It is most regrettable to have to record that the remains of those who came more than a century ago to reclaim from the primeval forests the excellent farms of today should be so neglected by their descendants. It would take so little time and effort to clear up and make this historic spot a shrine of beauty and remembrance.

4th Sidney

4TH SIDNEY — Mrs. W. J. Tufts accompanied by Mrs. A. Vanderwater, of Foxboro, attended the fowl supper at Halowsy on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. T. Jeffrey and Mr. C. R. Fisher were guests at the wedding of the former's nephew in Cobourg on Saturday afternoon.

Weddings and showers are the main item of interest in this community this fall. On Saturday, September 20th, a lovely autumn wedding took place in Stone United Church when Miss Anna G. Gray and Mr. Richard Moore were married. Previous to the marriage a "nick-knack" shower was held at the home of Mrs. Glenn Lane, with Mrs. O. Chisholm as co-hostess. The girls spent the evening compiling a "bride's book." After Anna had opened the lovely gifts she thanked all present and the girls sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow." The hostess served a delicious lunch.

Mrs. W. J. Tufts accompanied by Mrs. W. H. Lee and Mr. Borden Lee, of Belleville, and Mrs. Blake Sharpe, of Mount Pleasant, attended the funeral of Mrs. Jack Rodgers in Norwood on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Turkey, of Stirling, spent Monday with Mr. and Mrs. O. Chisholm.

Misses Marlene and Jeanette Twiddy were hostesses for a miscellaneous shower at their home in honor of Miss Shirley Foster, a bride-to-be, on Wednesday night.

Mr. and Mrs. O. Chisholm and family attended Wallbridge anniversary service on Sunday and were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. S. Nicholson.

A rousing charivari was held on Thursday evening for the newlyweds, Mr. and Mrs. R. Moore, (nee Anna Gray), at the home of the bride's parents. Mr. and Mrs. Gray invited the noisemakers into the home and the groom treated everyone to ice cream, cookies and soft drinks.

Mrs. O. Chisholm, with Mrs. G. Lane as co-hostess, held a miscellaneous shower for Miss Marlene Twiddy, a bride-to-be of this week. A number of girl friends of the bride were present and during the evening a "bride's book" was made. Marlene opened the lovely gifts and thanked all. "For she's a Jolly Good Fellow" was sung, and the hostesses served a delicious lunch.

Mr. and Mrs. G. Post and Ellen, of Chicago, Ill.; Mrs. Lorne Brough and Mrs. Vanderwater, of Foxboro, were dinner guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Tufts last Thursday.

Rev. and Mrs. McMullin entertained Rev. and Mrs. Spurrell, of Bloomfield, and Mr. and Mrs. F. Taylor, of Albert College, on Sunday.

On Monday morning Mr. Horace Knight slipped while getting on the tractor and received a severe gash in his leg. Friends hope he will soon be able to be at his farm duties again.

Modern equipment and trained workmen are at your service. WATCHES — CLOCKS RINGS — BRACELETS — SILVERWARE . . . all deserve the finest treatment. The best service costs no more . . .

If Arrow Dead, It Won't Lie Down; Still Subject of Work and Debate

OTTAWA (CP)—If the Arrow is dead, it won't lie down.

The government announced last week postponement of a final decision on whether to put the supersonic Arrow interceptor into limited production.

But it left the clear impression that the project would be scrapped, even though this might mean payment of a cancellation fee of as much as $100,000,000 to the designer and builder, Avro Aircraft Limited.

However, it was disclosed Wednesday that a team comprising RCAF and defence production department personnel now is in California investigating the possibility of obtaining a new flight and armament control system for the Arrow. The group is headed by Air Vice - Marshal John Easton, chief of RCAF technical services.

The government said last week it was cancelling the project for development in Canada of the Astra flight and armament control system. Production of the Astra system had been about to start.

MONTREAL (CP) — The government's decision to scrap the guidance and missile systems for the Avro Arrow jet fighter may mean the loss to Canada of a valuable pool of engineering and scientific talent, says the president of one of the companies involved.

W. H. Evans, president of Minneapolis - Honeywell of Toronto, said in an interview that some 700 specialists would be affected by the government's decision.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced last week the government has postponed until next March final decision on whether to order the supersonic Arrow interceptor into production. At the same time, he announced cancellation of two programs: The Sparrow air-to-air missile and the Astra armament control system for the Arrow.

Mr. Diefenbaker said reduction of the Arrow program—six prototypes are scheduled to have been flown by the end of next March —would not result in much dislocation at Avro Aircraft Limited before next March.

"I am fearful that Canada as a nation will lose them (the scientists) to other countries," Mr. Evans said.

"It's not that there are so many people involved as that it takes a long time to train engineers of this calibre."

Stirling

STIRLING — A large number of relatives and friends in the Rives Valley community have visited Mr. John Kane who is a patient in the Belleville General Hospital. John had a very painful accident last week while operating his tractor and plow on a nearby farm. The one foot is badly bruised and the muscles of his legs are dislocated. It will be some time before he is fully recovered.

A successful tag day was held on Saturday in aid of The Canadian National Institute for the Blind.

Staff Sergeant Orville Westcott, Camp Borden, spent a few days with his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman, North Street.

Mr. Ernest Munroe spent a few days with his cousin, Mr. James Barber, Carleton Place.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Carr are holidaying with relatives in Michigan, U.S.A.

P. 2. P.W. 3. Robert Bateman, Hamilton, spent a couple of weeks with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Bateman. Bob is severing his connections with the Canadian Navy after 10 years of service. He will retire from his job as pay writer on November 22nd.

Miss Linda Sine has won a bursary of $100 for her grade 13 work at King George High School. This is a student-aid bursary provided by the Dominion and Provincial governments.

INDUSTRIAL CITY

Industrial Conference Told Lower Taxes and Adequate Tariffs Great Need in Ont.

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario government opened a giant industrial development conference today and was promptly told it should work for lower taxes, adequate tariffs and increased immigration, if it wants more industry.

"Neither government policy nor public attitudes now are as favorable as they should be if industrial growth is to continue in Ontario," said Stuart D. Armour of Hamilton, economic adviser to the Steel Company of Canada.

The two - day conference was organized by the province's trade and industry branch with the aim of sharing special knowledge to further industrial development. A registration of more than 1,000 municipal officials and industrialists is expected.

Mr. Armour, speaking after an opening address by branch director A. V. Crane, said high taxes are hurting Ontario manufacturers. They were financing "socialistic" welfare measures and such projects as the $100,000,000 highway extension program announced by the Ontario government to develop traffic from the United States.

"Surely it is not seriously contended that tourists make as great a contribution to Ontario's welfare as does her manufacturing industry," he said.

A taxation system was needed which would encourage rather than inhibit capital investment by manufacturers.

As for tariffs, the Ontario government should take the initiative to bring about a realistic tariff policy geared to the needs of the unique Canadian economy and not framed to suit the doctrinaire notions of some group of economic or political theorists."

Without tariffs to offer protection against low-wage, European competition, Canadians were in danger of reverting to European standards of living.

Immigration was needed to provide markets, but Ontario was doing little about restrictions imposed by the federal government.

Mr. Armour said the six American states along Ontario's land and lake border — New York, Michigan, Ohio, Minnesota, Wisconsin and Pennsylvania — have an area three-quarters of Ontario's, but a population eight times as great. Average personal income was $2,145 compared to $1,610 in Ontario.

"While we have been indulging in more and more costly excursions into welfarism and other so-called progress, the states" have named in the main show a greater adherence to free enterprise.

"What we people of Ontario seem to have forgotten, despite our reputation for conservatism and hard-headedness, is that whenever we neglect or fail to permit the state to do something for us we are imposing another burden on our production."

Mr. Crane in his opening speech emphasized the need for expanding existing industries as well as encouraging new ones. He said municipalities must offer adequate services, continuity in planning and industrial promotion to further expansion.

Pope Fully Recovered From Loss of Voice

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The Pope, apparently fully recovered from a slight loss of voice, held a special audience today and spoke a full 15-minutes in Latin.

The informant was one of a group of 100 members of the religious congregation of the Institute of the Oratory of Saint Filippo Neri, now holding its world congress in Rome.

Vatican sources, as well as Rome's Il Quotidiano, official organ of Italian—Catholic Action, said the pontiff's brief ailment was a temporary loss of voice due to fatigue.

INTENSIVE WORK

The fatigue resulted from two months of intensive work during which the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic church held audiences almost daily and addressed more than a score of gatherings.

At his weekly general audience on Wednesday which was so big that it had to be held in two sections to accommodate the some 10,000 pilgrims and tourists, the Pope was advised by doctors not to speak. He limited himself to giving his blessing.

The precaution also was taken because of stormy wet weather that has prevailed in Rome during the last two days, Vatican informants said.

Lord Mayor of Ireland Coming to Canada to Sell Beautiful Country to Tourists

BELFAST (CP)—With an eye on a virtually untapped market, a civic salesman from Northern Ireland has been sent to Canada to sell his country to Canadian tourists.

Northern Ireland, says Lord Mayor Cecil McKee of Belfast, has as much, if not more, to offer than the better-known European pleasure spots. The sights are among the prettiest and the living among the pleasantest.

Furthermore, he says, there are "none of the agonies of attempting to learn a new language.

BUSY CAPITAL

Belfast the capital on the east shore facing the English mainland, was little more than a village when first settled by immigrants in the 17th century. Now, one-third of Northern Ireland's 1,250,000 population live in or around the city. Settlers from England and exiled Huguenots from France and Belgium intermarried with the Irish already there and the result is a variety of customs, traditions and ways of speech.

The name Belfast derives from it being the site of a ford—or "bel"—which was crossed on a "farset" — or sandbank — on the River Lagan.

Among the city's attractions are the parliament buildings, museum, art gallery, library and university, a zoo, botanical gardens and Belfast Castle.

In size, the country Mayor McKee is selling is "rather small." It is a mere 5,000 square miles in area and from there to there is 95 miles in either length or breadth, from the Atlantic west to the Irish Sea, or from the Republic of Ireland north to the Atlantic.

HOME OF WITCHES

Among the legendary spots there's the isle of Magee, it is said in County Antrim still held to be the home of witches.

One of the country's most famous sites is the Giant's Causeway with its basalt cliffs and curious six-sided red and yellow column tossed up by a volcanic upheaval.

The most well-known spot is Downpatrick, county town of Down and burial place of St. Patrick.

For the active sportsmen there are golf courses, sailing and swimming. For the more intellectually minded there are stretches of sands for sunbathing.

The mayor's month-long trip was scheduled to take in Winnipeg and five Canadian and five Ontario cities. After leaving Canada he will tour the United States.

Ontario May Use Plastic Bags in Testing Breath

MONTREAL (CP) — Topics as varied as highway accident prevention and the effects of frost on roads highlighted sessions Wednesday of the annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

The 1,500 road builders and government representatives were told they must know more about frost before they can successfully combat its "disastrous effects" on the country's highways.

Other speakers stressed the importance of safety campaigns.

The Ontario government is considering asking motorists involved in accidents to blow into plastic bags to obtain breath samples for tests of the alcohol content of their blood.

Lawyer Lorne Wilson of the Ontario attorney - general's department, said consideration is being given to the collection of breath samples to make better use of the province's 16 breath analysers.

WOULD EXTEND USE

Most of these machines are located where traffic is heavy. The idea of plastic bags would extend their usefulness to more remote areas.

"During 1957, 15.4 per cent of the Ontario drivers involved in fatal accidents showed impairment of ability," said Mr. Wilson.

Edward Penner of the National Research Council said frost damage is caused by heaving and thawing which causes loss of bearing strength.

Now that the frost problem was being attacked, new and much more realistic solutions can be expected, he said.

President Ernest Cohler of the Montreal - Laurentian Autoroute Authority told delegates the toll road leading north from the heart of Montreal will likely be completed on schedule and be open for traffic by Nov. 1, 1959.

UNDERWATER RECORD

WASHINGTON (AP)—The U.S. nuclear submarine Seawolf has smashed the underwater record and now is aiming at staying down 60 days, almost double the previous record, President Eisenhower said Wednesday the Seawolf had been submerged 54 days and still is going strong. The atomic submarine's mate held the previous submerged record — 31 days, 5½ hours.

Top Foxhounds Compete in Field Trials

They will be in the Canadian national field trials, which spell headaches for foxes and glory for the finest hounds of this country and the United States.

A total of 150 dogs will take off at the end of "tally ho" is heard on this island across from Kingston at the entrance to the St. Lawrence River, more or less transformed for three days into a 21-mile-long hunt club.

Eager is what the dogs are supposed to be but one of the main reasons for disqualifications and eliminations in the days ahead will be loafing. Now and again dogs get confused and chase rabbits or the scent of other dogs. It's the end of the contest for the ones that do.

The field trials and the bench show at the same time are sponsored by the Frontenac District Fox Hunters' Association. The master of hounds is John Tripp of Fall River, Mass. The entries come from points as widely-separated as Manitoba and Kentucky.

FIVE-HOUR QUEST

Each morning the dogs will be given five hours to roam the island hunting for a fox. When the hunters raise their quarry the five hours begins. If a fox is caught by a hound the fugitive may be destroyed by the dog's owner but not by the handlers.

Handlers are also forbidden to approach the dogs or signal them while the chase is on.

Twelve judges will be at strategic positions to evaluate the hounds on the basis of endurance, speed in locating the scent and ability to follow the fox after it is raised.

Also the master of hounds releases the dogs the animals must stay in the field for five hours of hunting. Any that come wandering back to the starting line are disqualified.

ACCIDENTAL POISONING

MONTREAL (CP)—Police said accidental poisoning is believed to be the cause of the death of Gerard Rousseau, 16, of Cap de la Madeleine, Que., a novice at Les Freres de Ste. Gabriel Monastery in nearby St. Bruno. Police said the youth apparently drank from a bottle containing a poisonous mixture for spraying apple trees, thinking it was apple cider.

JAIL RC PRIEST

VIENNA (AP)—A Czechoslovak court sentenced a 39 - year - old Roman Catholic priest, Rev. Karel Bartak, to 15 years at hard labor on charges of anti - state activity, the Prague Communist newspaper Rude Pravo reported today. Bartak allegedly had warned his people not to believe Communist propaganda.

Bank of Nova Scotia Makes Aggressive Move in Loan Field

TORONTO (CP)—The Bank of Nova Scotia has announced an aggressive move into the personal loan field.

It says, starting Oct. 15, it will introduce "a complete consumer loan and instalment credit service, to be known as Scotia Plan Loans.

The loans will be repayable by monthly instalments and will be at a flat service interest rate nearly double those of ordinary bank interest, but at most lower rates than is generally available for consumer financing.

The bank says the move will defend on these three factors:

The increasing ability of banks, in practice, will find itself able to extend its loans into fields which have, up to now, have generally regarded as too risky bank activities.

The extent to which the public which has tended to think of banks as a place to go beyond their ken for loan purposes, takes advantage of the banking facilities.

The extent to which other banks will also widen activities in the personal loan field.

The Canadian Bank of Commerce in 1936 first took a personal loan department much along the same lines, but the Scotia announcement seems to indicate a broader field of operations.

All Canadian banks have made loans for consumer purposes to people who have established credit with them.

But they have not met the public's credit needs—as is indicated by the growth of personal-loan finance companies; of acceptance finance companies which finance credit for most automobile purchases and also for a considerable amount of consumer goods; and of credit unions.

The Scotia plan will offer competition to these financing institutions.

Three types of loans will be available—on signature alone, on automobiles and on home furnishings. Loans are expected to run between $250 and $5,000—though no ceiling has been set. Automobile financing will extend to dealers as well as individuals.

The Scotia plan will charge "interest" for a loan repayable monthly over a year. This means the bank will get 11.11 per cent on the money "lent" because the borrower doesn't get the use of a full $100 for a year. As he is paying the amount off by the month he has, in effect, an average of about $50 for the year.

Finance companies, under the Small Loans Act, are allowed to make the following interest charges:

Two per cent $300 loan—two per cent a month on unpaid balances, or an effective yearly rate of 24 per cent; on a $1,000 loan—1.48 per cent a month, or an effective yearly rate of 18 per cent; on a $1,500 loan—1.25 per cent, or an effective yearly rate of 15 per cent.

BATTLE NEVER ENDS

A giant microscope in the plant science laboratory at the University of Manitoba helps unlock the secrets of a fungal as scientists wage a never-ending war with the enemies that attack Canadian grain crops. Working here is Prof. B. C. Jenkins, one of those seeking new wheat varieties that will resist rust, and wind-borne fungus that withers growing grain. (CP Photo).

Scientists Trying to Breed Into Thatcher Wheat Coat Of Armor Against Enemies

WINNIPEG (CP) — Plant scientists here are seeking to breed into Thatcher wheat, the variety most widely grown on the Prairies, a new coat of armor against its worst enemies.

In 1954 a severe attack of stem rust reduced western crops by 130,000,000 bushels. Thatcher suffered heavily and appeared headed for the scrap heap like so many of its predecessors.

Its scope was further limited by its susceptibility to the saw-fly.

IMPORTANT WORK

Prof. B. C. Jenkins of the University of Manitoba's plant science department said, if the work is successful Thatcher will again dominate most wheat areas, including the rust area of Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan where Selkirk now are seeded to 80 per cent of the wheat acreage.

Researchers at the Cereal Breeding Laboratory, Winnipeg, and the Experimental Station, Lethbridge, Alta., are carrying out the work, he said.

Developed at the University of Minnesota and first distributed in Western Canada in 1938, Thatcher quickly gained popularity because of its resistance to then-prevalent races of rust and smuts, its high quality, excellent yield, early maturity and wide-growing scope.

By 1939 it became the dominant variety seeded in Western Canada, a position it still holds despite the 1954 attack by Race 15B rust. In all but three years since 1948, it has accounted for more wheat acreage than all other varieties combined. In 1957 Thatcher was sown to 9,981,000 acres, 43.3 per cent of Western Canada's wheat acreage.

AFFECTED AREA

In 1954 Race 15B rust was most serious in Manitoba and eastern Saskatchewan. The sawfly is found in southern Saskatchewan and southern and central Alberta.

Rust—a wind-borne fungus—affects the wheat plant by attaching itself to the stem and sucking in the nutrition that otherwise would reach and develop kernels.

The sawfly lays eggs in the wheat stems. When the grub hatches it feeds on the plant and finally travels down the stem and cuts it off near the roots. Varieties such as Thatcher, which have a hollow stem, are particularly susceptible to the sawfly.

In an interview, Prof. Jenkins said, pathologists at Winnipeg and Lethbridge are attempting to cross Thatcher with rust-resistant and sawfly-resistant varieties.

HALF THE BATTLE

"If they are successful, half the battle is won. Farmers will then have to decide whether or not to use Thatcher, and considering its good reputation there is little doubt they will," he said.

Thatcher now is most popular in northern Alberta and Saskatchewan where frost is a bigger problem than either rust or sawfly, he said. If Thatcher is given rust and sawfly protection it may well extend its dominance to the remainder of the Prairies because it out-yields all other varieties.

The appearance of Thatcher was as great a milestone in western Canadian wheat production as the introduction of Marquis wheat, Prof. Jenkins said.

"It matured earlier and even in rust - free areas out - yielded Marquis; the variety which made widespread production of wheat possible in Western Canada."

New races capable of attacking Selkirk have been discovered but their incidence has been low.

Tests by the Cereal Breeding Laboratory also revealed Thatcher will out-yield Selkirk in all areas in dry years and in all but the rust areas in wet years.

Prof. Jenkins said this is one reason why farmers have continued to use Thatcher and will do so to a greater extent if a variety is produced that will resist rust and the sawfly.

SELL TO SOVIET

TOKYO (AP) — A Tokyo firm announced today it has signed a contract for the sale of an electronic microscope to the Soviet Union. The microscope, with 100,000 times magnifying power, is worth about $28,000 and is the fourth to be exported by the Tokyo Trading Company to the Soviet Union since the West agreed to remove the item from the embargo list for Communist countries.

German Whips Randy Sandy

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — German champion Franz Szuszina outpointed Randy Sandy of New York in a bloody 10-round middleweight bout here Wednesday night. Szuszina weighed 163¾ pounds to Sandy's 157.

The decision was unanimous. Szuszina bled freely after the first round from a deep forehead cut, but the injury didn't impair his effectiveness.

There was only one knockdown. At the end of the fifth round Szuszina caught Sandy off balance and floored him with a hard right to the jaw. The bell rang as Sandy bounced up, and referee Merle Allu ruled that he was down for a count of three.

REFUND DIFFICULT

VANCOUVER (CP) — Harry Watson, Vancouver city tax collector, said the $28 provincial tax refund for homeowners is making extra work for his department. Some people forget to deduct the grant, others forget to sign the tax forms, and others signed the form but forgot to enclose their cheques.

Reay Likes To Think Leafs Playing Possum

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —Coach Billy Reay has defended his Toronto Maple Leaf hockey players on charges they haven't shown much aggressiveness in training camp here.

"I prefer to think our fellows are saving it for the opposition," Reay said Wednesday.

Stafford Smythe, head of the seven - man committee handling the National Hockey League club Tuesday ordered Reay and George Imlach, assistant general manager, to institute tougher scrimmaging.

Reay said he is completely satisfied with the team's showing. "What's all the shouting about?" he asked. "You can't expect these fellows to keep hacking their teammates around for three weeks. That's impossible."

OTHER LINES

Reay completed a second Leaf line, moving centre Billy Harris between left winger Dick Duff, the team's leading scorer of last season, and right winger Ron Stewart. He expects a game of at least 55 goals from them.

The team's third line will be left winger Bobby Pulford and the Cullens (Brian and Barry) when the Cullens return from the injured list.

Tim Horton picked up a charley horse and Dave Creighton a gashed head in Wednesday's scrimmage, won by the Blues 2-1. Reay hoped both will be back in action today.

The first line dominated play. Mahovlich took an Olmstead pass for a Blue's goal and then they moved over to the White with Armstrong beating Johnny Bower on a triple-passing play with his linemates. Rudy Migay, only unsigned player in the camp, fired the other goal past Ed Chadwick in the White's net, on a pass from Gary Aldcorn.

ASTON COACHES

LONDON (CP) — Jack Aston, the former Manchester United fullback, has been appointed coach of the soccer club. He succeeds Bert Whalley who was killed in a Feb. 6 plane crash at Munich.

Swedish Champ Signs to Meet British Heavy

There was one condition to the agreement, however. If Johansson can get a crack at world champion Floyd Patterson of New York in the spring, he will be released from the London bout.

Johansson's manager, Edwin Ahlquist asked for the exception and Solomons agreed.

The Johansson-London bout is a natural for London. Both have stopped leading American contenders within the past few weeks. Johansson, 25 - year - old 198-pounder, knocked out Eddie Machen of Redding, Calif., in the first round at Gotebory, Sweden, Sept. 14.

Machen then was undefeated and the No. 2 heavyweight contender of the world. Johansson's record is 21-0, including 13 knockouts.

SIGNS 10TH CONTRACT

MONTREAL (CP) — Veteran centre Ken Mosdell Wednesday signed for his second season with the Montreal Royals of the Quebec Hockey League—his 16th pro hockey contract. He played one season with the old Brooklyn Americans of the National Hockey League, 12 with the NHL Montreal Canadiens and was with Chicago Black Hawks as part of the 1958-57 season. Royals announced goalie Lynn Davis has been returned to Kingston of the Ontario senior league.

Wings Defeat Edmonton 6-1

EDMONTON (CP) — Detroit Red Wings of the National League defeated Edmonton Flyers of the Western League 6-1 Wednesday night in an exhibition hockey game.

Gordie Howe scored two goals for the Red Wings and Norm Ullman, Alex Delvecchio, Warren Godfrey and Dunc Fisher once each.

Wings play tonight in Calgary against the WHL Stampeders, then leave for the east.

Moira Authority Is Urged To Emphasize Reforestation

The budget of $7,956 for reforestation would be fully spent, while a balance of about $5,250 was expected to be left of a budget of $7,185 for the pool, Roscoe Vanderwater Conservation Area in the Thomasburg district.

FLINTON DAM REPAIRED

Residents of the Flinton area, alarmed over possible water shortage, had obtained a grant of $500 from the municipality and with the donation of local labor had effected temporary repairs at the Flinton dam on the Skootenatta River. Mr. Chubb said the repairs done could not be expected to last as an engineer's estimate of the cost of a permanent job is $25,000.

Mr. Crown told members that a survey of northern lakes, to determine the feasibility of using them as water storage, had indicated such a project would be costly for the benefits that could be expected. Owing to the small drainage area there was no guarantee the lakes could be filled and even then increased summer flows could not be expected below Flinton.

On the other hand Mr. Crown felt the Authority should keep the Big Bend Bay dam on the Moira west of Moira Lake in mind as a possible water storage project. The cost of this dam would be greater but the results would be more beneficial. Cost of this dam, exclusive of acquisition of property, was estimated at about $800,000.

Whether the reforestation budget next year will be increased will rest with next year's Authority executive. In the meantime this year's committee chairman will be asked to submit figures on what they think should be spent in their respective departments.

The Authority is financed by way of a levy against member municipalities and projects are assisted by a 50 percent, grant from the province.

TRENT CONSERVATION AREA

Prior to yesterday's general meeting, Authority members visited the Trent Conservation Area where an extensive four stage program of development is suggested, including provision of a picnic area and ultimate development of a pioneer village and construction of a pavilion to provide administration, recreational and exhibit storage space.

Plans for the area are being developed by the Price Area Advisory Board headed by T. G. Wrightmeyer of Belleville. The Board's brief covering plans for the area was expected to be submitted to yesterday's meeting of the Authority but will now be deferred binding drawing of an agreement.

The Authority yesterday ratified an executive recommendation approving of the Price Area pioneer village and museum project, subject to a suitable agreement being drawn between the Hastings County Historical Society and the Moira River Conservation Authority whereby the Society would undertake administration maintenance and development costs.

REVIEWS PROJECT

In reviewing the progress of the Price Area Advisory Board, Mr. Wrightmeyer said plans had been motivated by the apparent and increasing need for some organized means to perpetuate and preserve local history. He said the Hastings County Historical Society had made this their aim but the problems of finances and location had slowed their work.

At this junction fate had stepped in and with the co-operation of the Moira River Authority and the generosity of the Price family the present site of the pioneer village at the junction of highways 7 and 37 has been acquired. He said from the standpoint of accessibility and location the area had many advantages.

A provisional advisory board has been named and authorization for drawing of agreement was given. A long term scheme was devised and broken down into four distinct phases, and was now ready for presentation to the Authority.

Mr. Wrightmeyer expressed appreciation to the many people who had spent much time, thought and effort in preparing plans for the Price area and had a special thanks for Mr. Paul Weigand for his specialized efforts in drafting plans for the proposed area pavilion.

RECOVER BODY

COURTRIGHT, Que. (CP)—The body of James Terrance Johnston, 23, of Port Lambton, drowned after a motorboat capsized off a dock a week ago, was recovered from the river Wednesday.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Grey Monarch, a stakes winner which will be pointed for the $50,000 Canadian championship, is to arrive from New York's Belmont park today at New Woodbine in Toronto.

The grey three-year-old colt, winner of $46,401 so far this season, will represent Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor of Toronto in the Canadian racing classic Saturday, Oct. 23.

TORONTO (CP)—Slow as he is to get untracked at the start, Pot Hunter, owned by Coy, racing partnership of Larkin Maloney and Conn Smythe of Toronto, Wednesday reared the last part to win the featured Brantville plate before 6,000 at New Woodbine park.

Pot Hunter trailed the last horse by about three lengths at one time in the featured mile event while his rivals for the lead went on between Golden Jubilee, last starting for the first time here after coming in from Western Canada, Faultless Maid and O'Morrissey. They were fighting the M and D stable of Winnipeg, finished four, two and a-half, Ace second and O'Morrissey third.

ELMONT, N.Y. (AP) — With Greentree Farms retaining 15 stakes, the $750,000 syndicate of Tom Fool for breeding purposes has been completed and five stallion ownership of the thoroughbred who won 21 of 30 races during a three-year-old career that ended in 1953.

John H. Graver, manager of the Greentree establishment, said the remaining 20 shares were sold for $40,000 each. The 25 share syndicate becomes effective July 1, next year. Only the breeding rights to Tom Fool were involved in the sale.

Boys Charged With Killing Water Fowl

GUELPH (CP)—Three 15-year-old Guelph high school boys, charged with killing water fowl in a Guelph city sanctuary, were placed on a month's probation Wednesday by Judge C. L. Austen and ordered to undergo psychiatric examination.

Two of the boys pleaded guilty to killing and wounding some birds. The third pleaded not guilty but all admitted stealing birds.

The incident took place Aug. 15 on the game preserve farm of Horace G. Mack. The parents of the boys agreed to pay $450 for the loss. One of the birds was reported irreplaceable.

The boys gained entrance by slipping under electric fence. Many mandarine ducks, four Canada geese and one baby branded gosse were stolen. Three other birds were badly crippled. A hand-made spear, an axe and a hunting knife were found in the area.

Movie Column

Every Studio in Hollywood Has One Picture Shooting

By BOB THOMAS

You'd never know there was a movie depression. Every studio in town has at least one picture shooting, and that's not bad these days.

Universal-International is stirring back to life after a long slumber. Even the so - called beached whale — MGM — is in high gear with pictures budgeted at $2 million and more.

Universal-International is shooting "Written on the Wind" starring Cary Grant, Frank Sinatra, Deborah Kerr, Rossano Brazzi, Audrey Hepburn, Tony Perkins and Debbie Reynolds.

STILL KICKING

Meanwhile, back in the swamps . . . Bill Holden is just see to coming. Pending court approval, he'll play in The Horse Soldiers with John Wayne. John Ford directing. It is a Civil War saga and will be shot largely on location in the South.

"I can just see Jack Ford telling me to get into the swamp and start sloshing," Bill sighed. "I haven't worn a buckskin suit or worked in a Hollywood studio for three years. I left just as the five-day week went into effect." /So he's been working six and seven days a week on locations all over the world, and making millions . . .

DEAN MARTIN BUSY

Herd - working Dean Martin says you read that right — has only five pictures lined up for himself. They include Who was that lady I saw you with? with Tony Curtis, Oceans 11, with Frank Sinatra and The Bells are Ringing with Judy Holliday.

Sinatra's new album, only thing Lonely, indicates there must be a lot of torch-bearers in the land. It may be his biggest seller to date . . . Nice to see Richard Long doing well again. He had some rough times after the death of his wife, Susan Ball. Now he and Mara Corday are happy with their new baby and he's getting some parts. He just finished a movie, The House on Haunted Hill. . .

Harness Racing

MONTREAL (CP) — Andrew Patch, a 10-year-old pony gelding from Toronto, did the mile in 2:05 3-4 Wednesday night to win the feature $1,700 purse, A and B pace race at Richelieu Park.

In a dead heat for second place were Misty Hayes and Victory Parade.

DISCUSS- SEWAGE NEEDS

WINDSOR (CP) — A long-sought meeting between Premier Frost and border municipalities aimed at getting financial assistance for a $66,000,000 sewage program has been set for Oct. 8 in Toronto. The meeting will be attended by officials from all border municipalities.

"I've torn up our contract, kid. My advice is—take this and go back to the farm!"

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVEN, Sports Editor

The battle for senior "A" players which at one time threatened to become a coast-to-coast book-up, goes on merrily.

However, the long arm of the Kelowna Packers which stretched as far east as Cornwall, has been pulled back into its Okanagan Valley shirt by an official edict of the CAHA.

The Packers, who had already secured Gerry Goyer and Ross Kowalchuk from the Belleville McFarlands, dangled tempting offers under the noses of Orval Tessier, ai present at his seawuy home, and various players of the OHA-NOHA group, have been halted in their forseeing tracks by C.A.H.A. secretary-manager George Dudley.

Dudley has told Kelowna they are out of line recruiting players from other clubs to move to the western town. "The players who move without a release won't be able to play anywcre," Dudley said, "because we won't give them permiss'on."

The Sudbury star columnist told the other day, "Unless a last-minute hitch turns up, the Wolves appear to have landed Frank Bathgate, the high scoring centre from Windsor. In exchange the Wolves have shipped defenceman Jackie Smith, a player always coveted by Windsor coach Murray Chamberlain."

We have news for the Star scribe. The other morning Mr. O'Flaherty phoned young Mr. Bathgate in Belleville and told him Sudbury had decided not to report there for their training camp on October 8th.

We cannot mention all that Frank told the Sudbury coach. But he did say that he was not reporting to Sudbury, Windsor or any other club in the OHA-NOHA. "Any hockey played I do this winter will be played in the Eastern Ontario League," he said.

Another centre of frenzied managerial activity was Flori Gregan. We say "was" because the ex-North Bay Trapper-Louisville Rebel has signed with the McFarlands.

That will be jolt number two for Coach O'Flaherty since, as the Sudbury newspaper reported the other day, "There is a good chance that the Wolves will close its deal with Flori Gregan in the matter of days." Team officials have been working on this trade for better than a month now."

And North Bay's Mr. Hockey Pete Palangio got in his say the other day regarding Gregan. According to television's Max Jookson, who appeared delighted with the news, Palangio phoned him to say that Flori was North Bay property and he would play for the Trappers this season—or nobody. The least concerned in all this verbal fandango is Flori.

With the McFarlands settling down to serious training, the camp will resolve itself into competitive hockey tomorrow night when Coach Ike Hildebrand sends his "White" squad against the "Reds". The tilt will get under way at eight o'clock and there will be an admission charge of fifty cents for adults. The kids will get in for free.

HODGE PODGE

Another Eddie Marineau fan arrived in the city this week. She's a bouncing baby girl. Both mother and daughter are doing fine, thank you. The old man is still up in the clouds. Congrats . . . Coach Hildebrand worked out his Red and White squads last night preparatory to tomorrow night's "no-fun" tilt. The lineups will be published in tomorrow's editions. The Macs management announced today that adults will be charged fifty cents and youngsters a quarter. Game gets under way at eight o'clock. . . . Macs start practice tonight at 6.45. Some of the boys want to catch part of the NHL All-Star game on television . . . Picton turned out of intermediate hockey but might field a junior "B" club if a district loop is organized . . . The soccer boys of the district are holding their annual banquet and entertainment at Bayview tomorrow night. Five cups, medals and tankards will be presented to champions and others . . . The bantam baseballers trek to Dundas Saturday for the third game of their OHA final series. . . . The youngsters won it here last Saturday and are confident they can come home with the titular becon. Russ Soules' kids deserve a lot of credit and if they do win the Ontario title some sort of official recognition should be given them. After all, they're the city's last hope for a diamond championship . . . The OHA is conducting a referees' clinic here in the near future. Date to be announced. All officials of the district are invited to attend. Teddy Batchelor is a student at Western. He is taking a phys-ed course and hopes to make a basketball squad.

In The Dressing Rooms

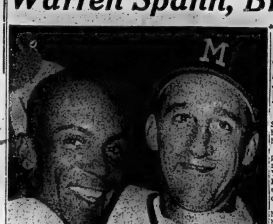
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Casey Stengel is really concerned about pulling his yellow silk shorts over his bandie legs while talking to a blue streak to a dwindling group of newspapermen.

He had just come from the showers, where he had carried on an animated, vociferous discussion of the game with Yogi Berra. Long after the game, which New York lost 4-3 in 10 innings, Stengel's voice floated through the Yankee dressing room.

"They only got two good hits all day," he said as he continued dressing, "and they were Hank Aaron's double that backed (Hank) Bauer against the fence in the eighth and (Bill) Bruton's smack in the 10th that beat us. Their other stuff wasn't hit too hard.

"Course I'll say (Warren) Spahn hit a couple of pretty good outs, and he really pitched a fine game—six innings we couldn't hit him, and that, plus the fact we didn't run the bases too good, beat us."

Stengel said:



"Now our pitching was all right too, (Whitey) Ford and (Ryne) Duren, they fanned 12. There were nothing wrong with it except allowing too many runs."

"I've never seen anyone faster than Duren," said Andy Pafko. "And I wasn't even at the plate to feel him. Bruton had pinch hit for me. But I could tell from the bench—I nearly could feel the force of his fast ball. Any guy who it seemed to rise as it came in."

Catcher Crandall said Spahn had a better controlled fast ball and used fast balls more after Duren's two-run homer in the fifth.

But he also got some big outs on his change of pace," he said, and he really pitched a good game. Duren has that Spahn got endurance! I've never seen him stronger. He had tired by my life."

BILL BRUTON — WARREN SPAHN

Fielder's 10th Inning Smash Gives Starry Southpaw Win; Burdette, Turley Duel Today

MILWAUKEE (AP) — New York Yankees were in a world of hurt today, down one game to Milwaukee Braves, their best pitcher already cussed from the mound and Lefty Warren killer Lew Burdette waiting to take them on.

Burdette, who beat the Yanks three times in last year's classic, was confident of still another victory following the Braves' 10-inning 4-3 triumph in the opener Wednesday.

Righthander Bob Turley, who won 21 games and lost seven during the regular American League season, was called on by the Yankees to deadlock the best-of-seven series. He started twice in 1957. He was routed the first time but came back to beat the Braves 3-2 in the sixth game.

SPAHN, BRUTON HEROES

Most of the glory around here Wednesday belonged to Warren Spahn, 37-year-old lefthander who lost last year's opener to Ford, and plump-hitter Billy Bruton. Spahn tossed a great eight-hitter and got stronger as the game progressed.

Bruton sent the crowd of 46,367 at Milwaukee County Stadium into near-hysteria by belting a line drive single to right field against Ryne Duren in the 10th inning. The Braves had pulled even with an eighth-inning rally.

Wes Covington sent Elston Howard deep to left. Then the wind helping the ball but the Yankee outfielder caught the long drive. Del Crandall, Duren strikeout victim on three pitches in the eighth, slammed a high bopper to short centre for a single.

HIT WITH AUTHORITY

That brought up Bruton. Duren threw a strike and then two balls before Bruton lined the game-winning hit to the fence. Nobody got close to it.

It was a happy ending for the customers who watched the opening game on a chill, sunny afternoon.

Burdette vowed to duplicate Spahn's performance.

"It would be nice if we could win all four between us just as we did a year ago," the 31-year-old West Virginian said. "But we're not going to let perhaps one or Elston Howard . . . 314 game determine the series. Andy Carey 2b . . . 286 Andy Carey 2b . . . 286 Bobby Lumpe . . . 000 Bob Turley p . . . 21- 7

Spahn's Hitting Kept Him In the Game

The Milwaukee lefthander proved it again in the world series opener when he shaded New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings. If Spahn weren't a reliable batsman he would not have gone the distance.

Manager Fred Haney would have taken him out for a pinch-hitter in the seventh inning with the Braves trailing 3-2 or again in the eighth with the score tied 3-3.

"I was surprised when Fred let me hit, so long as I'm batting 2-7," Spahn said. "But that's the sort of confidence that helps a pitcher. He stands his neck way out."

Spahn filled out as the leadoff batter in the seventh but he contributed two singles to the Braves' attack and drove in their second run.

BATTED .333 IN YEAR

The 37-year-old ace said there were many times this season when his hitting kept him in the game. He won 22 games and batted .333 in 69 games during the regular campaign.

Spahn threw many fast balls, mixing in curves and change-ups.

"I had a little trouble at the start," he said. "But I don't think I had it after Yankee pitcher Bobby Shantz opened the fifth inning with a single. I'm not sure that there is always something you might do different when you face the same club a third time."

Series Notes

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Hank Bauer, 37-year-old Marine flyhawk, added to his reputation as his own record as he hit safely Wednesday in his 13th consecutive world series game. Bauer has played a Warren Spahn pitch when he led off in the first inning. But a minute later he was out, caught by Spahn's quick pickoff move as he roamed too far off first.

The first two Yankee batters singled off Spahn in each of the first two innings, but no damage was done, thanks to some fine throwing by Braves' outfielders. Wes Covington, left fielder, and Yogi Berra down at third base when the Yankee catcher attempted to take two bases on Bill Skowron's single in the second. A great throw to third by Andy Pafko from deep centre held Skowron at second a moment later.

Skowron's fourth - inning home run provided the first score off Milwaukee pitching in 18 innings of world series play at County Stadium.

It was the 29th extra inning world series game in the long history of the fall classic.

The first ball was thrown out by Jimmy Crutchberry, one of the 30 reporters who covered all the 1908 Detroit Tigers - Chicago Cubs world series to form the Baseball Writers' Association of Crulsinberry, 78, now lives in Phoenix, Ariz.

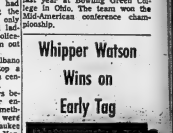
MILWAUKEE (AP)—Anthony Albano of Brooklyn, N.Y., had the most exclusive seat at the world series Wednesday, but a drawback: It took an aerial ladder truck, plus squads of policemen and firemen, to get him out of it.

The 61 - year - old Albano watched the game from atop a swaying 135-foot light post in centre field at County Stadium.

He was spotted three hours before game time and after entreaty failed, more direct methods of helping him down were postponed until after Milwaukee Braves defeated New York Yankees 4-3 in 10 innings.



Then the fire department put up a 100-foot aerial ladder. A fireman scrambled up and after a brief conference, reported that Albano said his foot was asleep and that he was unable to climb down. Two other firemen hitched a rope around Albano and let him down, hand over hand.

Albano told police that when he couldn't buy a ticket, he shinnied up to his exclusive seat.

Albano was taken to hospital, where police said he would be held in protective custody until it was determined whether charges would be filed against him.

Whipper Watson Wins on Early Tag

The Whip claims that "in this annual match with wrestling, I'm ahead of the game right from the start as I get an early Green Tag." Whipper is referring to the Green Crystalline Anti-Freeze Tag that's attached to his radiator. It's proof that he's protected by Brand Anti-Freeze in his car's cooling system. And that's protection against rust, corrosion, rust, clogging and foaming.

"That's more than Whipper with "Prestone" Anti-Freeze I'm also low maintenance. It saves me—like extra protection from cooling at all through the cooling system. This magnetic cooling effectively seals out rust and prevents it from forming." Follow Whipper's lead — get an early Green Tag this winter. PRES-3

Alouettes'

'Rifle' Has Pulled Trigger In Hundred Gridiron Fights

By W. N. WHEATLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL (CP) — Sam Etcheverry, Montreal Alouettes' polished and unfailingly deadstruthie quarterback, has played 100 consecutive football games—league, playoff and Grey Cup—since he came to Canada in 1954.

Throw in 30 or so exhibition and intra-squad games — none of them patsy-patsy affairs — and Sam's achievement becomes even more impressive.

"Oh, no, I'm not durable," he told the Canadian Press. "I'm just fortunate in not having been badly injured; well, injured enough to keep me out of a game.

"I don't know how long I can keep going. You can't tell about these things. But I never worry about getting hurt. That wouldn't do any good."

PRAISE FROM WALKER

Coach Dr. Douglas Walker, never given to loquacity, said this:

"I hope he will have 100 more games just as fine as the first 100. He has a marvelous physique which is well co-ordinated, and his durability and competitive spirit are a splendid example for all football players to try to equal."

Etcheverry's mark is made up of 87 Big Four league games to date, 10 big four playoff games and three Grey Cup games. All playoff games were against Hamilton Tiger-Cats, except a sudden - death game in 1956 against Toronto Argos. His Grey Cup games were losing ventures against Edmonton Eskimos.

The endurance record in Canadian football, however, undoubtedly belongs to giant Harvy Leagford of Calgary Stampeders, who has played in 151 consecutive pro games.

The RIDER has come close to winning a game.

"Three years ago I hurt my knee and I played pretty sore. It was a question whether I would be able to play in a game against Toronto Argos, but I played."

There was also the last game of the 1956 season—a game that meant nothing to the winning Alouettes when coach Walker started Bruce Coulter at quarterback to give Etcheverry a rest. Coulter was injured and Sam went in.

Etcheverry was asked if he doesn't take some bad knocks on passing plays.

SKILLED OFFEN

"Yes. I've been belted hard, especially when I'm not looking—a lot of times, though, it probably looks from the stands as if I've had hell knocked out of me when actually I've taken a shot to either player and he sets as a cushion."

The worst jollings he has experienced came from Paul Dekker and Ralph Tooky of Hamilton Tiger-Cats.

"Dekker kept running around the blockers. Finally he stuck out his arm and got me around the head. He pulled, and I was knocked goofy.

"Another time Tooky elbowed me — a real chop — just as I jumped to make a short pass."

Etcheverry's ruggedness since coming into the Big Four is a bit surprising in view of earlier injuries. He broke a leg while playing high school football and in the second last game of his final year at Denver University in Colorado suffered an injury that "tore my collarbone loose from my shoulder."

Etcheverry, 28, weighs 190 and is five feet, 11 inches tall. He formerly resided in Albuquerque, New Mexico, and now makes his home in Montreal. He is wed with a soft drink (Canada Dry) company.

In 1953, his second season after joining the Alouettes, he was an all-star Big Four team and ras been named to it every season since.

REG ENGLAND

Soccer Body To Hold Annual Banquet

President Reg. England announced recently that the Bay of Quinte Football Association will hold its annual presentation banquet and dance this Friday evening at the Batawa Recreation Centre at eight o'clock.

Over 200 league members are expected to attend and watch the presentations of five cups, 14 silver tankards and 36 gold medals.

President England, a player while in England and later a pro referee in Germany and Canada, reports a very successful season on all fronts.

Batawa Shoe Makers were the Bay of Quinte league champions and also won the Belleville Charity Cup over Trenton RCAF by a 3-1 score. RCAF captured the Trenton Charity Cup over Belleville Northern with a 7-2 victory.

TWO STAMPS CUTS

CALGARY (CP) Calgary Stampeders announced Wednesday import quarterback Maury Duncan has been released and import halfback Mel Dillard placed on waivers. Duncan came to the Western Interprovincial Football Union club from British Columbia Lions. Dillard, a recent from the National Football League Philadelphia Eagles, played only one game with the Stampeders.

Hawks Defeat Rangers 5-1

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks defeated New York Rangers 5-1 Wednesday night in a National Hockey League exhibition game before 2,000 fans. It was Chicago's best showing of the exhibition season.

Hawks, who close their training camp here today, held a margin in play and led all the way. Glenn Hall turned in an outstanding goaltending performance for the winners, kicking out 44 shots.

All-star lines lost by coach Rudy Pilous shared in the scoring. Eric Nesterenko, Lorne Ferguson, Danny Lewicki, Ted Sloan and Bobby Hull were the goalgetters.

New York captain George Sullivan got the single Ranger goal midway in the game. Rangers outshot the Hawks 45-37 but many of their shots were long-range desperation drives late in the third period.

Lookit Here! Hull-Ottawa Whips Aces

QUEBEC (CP) — The Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens Wednesday night scored an 8-5 exhibition hockey victory over Quebec Aces of the Quebec Hockey League.

Bob Rousseau and John Arbour paced Canadiens with two goals each. Singles were counted by Hank Marczak, Guy Black, Jean Gauthier and Claude Richard. Mike Labadie was a two-man for Aces and markers by Jean-Marie Cossette, Nelson Bullock and Billy Forham rounded out the total.

CAHA Cracks Down on Refs, 'Enforce the Rules-Or Else'

MONTREAL (CP) — President Bob LeBel of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association sounded a pre-season warning Wednesday that referees in all branches had better enforce the rules strictly—or else.

LeBel implied that "or else" means force - operative whistle-tooters will be looking elsewhere for jobs.

"We are not only doing what we think is proper but we are simply complying with public demand," said LeBel.

"We have found from actual experience that when we cracked down on rough play, attendance immediately increased.

"At our last annual meeting there was some suggestion that we adopt the rules of the International Ice Hockey Federation. The IIHF rules are strict but the only main difference is that the IIHF allows bodychecking only in the defence areas.

"We decided we would not go to that extent but would see that our own rules are enforced, especially in regard to such infractions as high-sticking, elbowing and deliberately freezing the puck against the boards.

"We think our rules are as good as — or better than — any others, so long as they are enforced strictly by our referees.

"If the professionals want to put a different interpretation on the rules, that's their business and we have no quarrel with it."

LeBel said he has written presidents of all branches in the CAHA reminding them to notify all leagues in their jurisdiction that nothing short of strict rule enforcement by all referees will be acceptable.

Canadiens Whip Rochester 9-2

SAULT STE. MARIE, Ont. (CP)—Rochester Americans outplayed Montreal Canadiens by a wide margin in the first period Wednesday night but fell back to lose 9-2 to the National Hockey League team.

Americans of the American Hockey League got on goals by Al McNab and Gene Makiloc going into the second period of an exhibition game.

But Canadiens came back with three goals in the second period and four in the third.

Trust Fund Worth $10,000 Given Campy

NEW YORK (AP)—A $10,000 trust fund was given to injured baseball star Roy Campanella Wednesday night for the education of his three youngest children.

The gift, made by a Boston underwriting firm, was presented to the long-time Brooklyn dodger catcher on the This is Your Life NBC television program.

"This is wonderful," said Campanella, "It takes a great load of my mind about the kid's future."

Campanella was burt in an automobile accident this year and now is partially paralyzed.

Born in Croft, Leicestershire, England, he left school at 11 and went to work as an engineer's apprentice.

He immigrated to Canada when he was 17 on the advice of a doctor who told him he needed a drier climate than England's for his health.

Starting work as a farmhand for $10 a month in Saskatchewan, he soon acquired his own homestead near Yorkton and was elected a director of the Saskatchewan Grain Growers' Association.

His keen work in the interests of the growers brought him an invitation from Hon. W. M. Martin, Saskatchewan's premier in 1916, to enter the provincial cabinet as treasurer and minister of agriculture.

Mr. Dunning accepted and when Mr. Martin retired in 1923 the youthful farmer-turned-politician was chosen premier of the province.

Say Much Whisky Used to Gain Union Members

OTTAWA (CP) — A union has charged that liquor parties featuring "much whisky" were given and free membership cards distributed by another union in a membership raid.

The allegations before the Canada labor relations board Wednesday were another chapter in the bitter rivalry between the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) and the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), a left - wing group.

Mine-mill did the complaining at the hearing in which the steel union seeks to oust them as bargaining agents for 1,300 employees at Denison Mines, largest operation in Ontario's Elliot Lake uranium field.

Steel wants the board to so declare a representation vote.

BOARD TO CHECK

It denied there was "any taint" and the hearing was adjourned indefinitely with indications that the board will look into things.

Mine-mill said the steel union threw large parties with an abundance of whisky and then handed out the free membership cards, an act of "celebrity" which violated board regulations. Mine-mill counsel L. Rabinovitch of Toronto said he has been instructed that "on some of these occasions cards were given out holus bolus."

Mine - mill also produced a dance circular inviting Denison workers to a dance on the pretext that they bring steel union cards. Cards would be available "at the door." In at least 45 cases no fee had been paid by men signed by steel.

Richard Spooner, a mine-mill steward at Denison, said he had seen two workers getting membership cards and receipts from steel organizers without paying anything.

Steel union counsel John Osler of Toronto said the union he represents is not taking the allegations seriously.

SAYS ALL PAID

"My information is that the money was paid by all," he said. "We do not admit for a moment that there was any taint."

Under board regulations, membership for certification purposes must be based on payment of dues called for under a union's regulations. Steel told the board that its practice is to charge members $1 monthly during the organizing period rather than the normal $3.

Mine - mill has been Denison bargaining agent for about a year and steel, chief rival of mine-mill is the uranium field among other places, claims to have about 900 of the employees signed — or two-thirds.

Sees No Change In Care of Sick

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario hospital services commissioner says the new Ontario hospital insurance plan won't upset traditional care of the sick despite rumors to the contrary.

Dr. R. W. L. Urquhart told the Ontario Public Health Association annual meeting the only changes will result in more people getting better hospital benefits.

"It is an insurance plan," he said. "About 73 per cent of the population now have some degree of protection through private plans. After Jan. 1 probably 85 per cent will be enrolled in the government plan and have increased benefits.

"Otherwise, conditions should remain relatively unchanged."

WILL CONTINUE TALKS

Reuther and Seaton, who resumed negotiations just 45 minutes before the strike deadline, said they intended to bargain through the morning and would not interrupt the talks when the strike hour officially came.

The General Motors strike developed less than 24 hours after Reuther drove to a settlement with Chrysler corporation on a three-year contract covering its 70,000 production workers.

Apology Made By Pearson for 'Phoney' Remark

He said any such statement was due to "a little over-Liberal excitement."

Mr. Pearson said the bill of rights would be one of the most important pieces of legislation considered at the next session of Parliament.

He said he is not sure because doubts can be upheld for the Canadian people by passing a bill. Mr. Pearson was in Red Deer to join in the traditional British manner. He said a written bill could raise load Canadians.

DESERONTO

Athletic Assoc. Ends Season With Party

DESERONTO — The Deseronto Athletic Association marked the end of a complete and successful baseball season at the Radar Theatre on Monday night. It was the occasion of the presentation of trophies and crests to the winning teams of the three leagues of youngsters coached and managed under the supervision of the Association.

This group was formed in the early spring in an effort to bring some organized sport to the children of the town. The president is William MacGregor; vice-president, J. Spencer; secretary, Don Elliott, and directors, Staff Claus Jr., Everett Maracle and Bennett Brant. There were three leagues of four teams each: the Girls' League, the Junior Boys and the Senior Boys.

The trophies awarded were the Holmes Dairy Trophy for the Girls' League which was presented by Don Holmes to Sheila Alfred, coach and manager of the winning team, the Flying Squirtsbe; the Don Dawson Trophy for the Junior Boys aged 9 to 11 presented by Staff Claus to the Bears coached by Everett Maracle and managed by Claborne Tompkins; and the Arlington Trophy for Senior Boys aged 12 to 15 presented by S. Marcek to the Eagles, managed and coached by Lloyd Scero.

The program was conducted by Don Elliott as chairman and consisted of several films on fishing, baseball and other sports, interspersed with the presentations. During the evening, Alan Aylesworth entertained with two delightful solos and Marilyn Herring-ton and Carol Hodges presented duets. The accompaniment was played by Mrs. R. Herrington.

Mr. Lorne Smart, of Napanee, was the guest speaker and gave the youngsters a short talk on sports and spoke of the tremendous advance made in Deseronto in one short season. He showed the group the new lacrosse stick and suggested the introduction of the game in this area.

PLOUGHMEN'S ASSOC. ENTERTAINS

On Friday the Ploughmen's Association of Tyendinaga Reserve entertained about 75 youngsters from the Belleville secondary schools and the reserve public schools. The afternoon was spent in instructing the teen-agers in some of the finer details of ploughing.

Melville Hill, president of the Reserve Association, directed with the assistance of Francis John, Norway Maracle, John A. Brant and Leslie Claus. The association was also fortunate in securing the services of Mr. Henry of the Ploughmen's Association of Ontario.

The arrangements for the afternoon were made by Leslie Claus, the secretary, Robert Philips, the agricultural teacher of the Belleville Collegiate, and Sid McGee, old, agricultural representative. Guests included Earl Denyes, Clerk of the township, and H. Pound, of Thurlow township.

The event was in preparation for the Mohawk Ploughing Match which is to be held next Saturday on Tyendinaga Reserve, under the Ploughmen's Association. This Association is reported to be the only Ploughmen's Association in the county and it is through their efforts that the International Ploughing Match will be held in Hastings County in 1961.

A successful euchre party and home baking sale was held in the Guild Hall at the Council House, Tyendinaga Reserve, on Friday evening. A good number of tables were in play and at the conclusion of the games refreshments were served by the ladies of the Guild. The prize winners were: Mrs. Helen Louis, Mrs. Estella Moore and Hileen Green for the ladies; Joseph Maracle, Gerald Sager and Victor Brant for the men. The prize for the most lone hands and the door prize both went to Gerald Sager.

Following the presentation of the prizes, the home baking was displayed for sale. It was noted that despite the abundance of goodies offered, it only took a few minutes to dispose of the entire stock. The proceeds are to be used for the Christ Church repair fund.

LEGION SOCIAL

The social evening sponsored by the Canadian Legion in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hubble was well attended on Saturday night by townspeople and a number of guests from Belleville.

About 14 tables were in play at euchre and cribbage and the dart boards were kept busy all evening. After the games a buffet lunch was served and the winners announced.

Mrs. James McVicker and Andy Hrytzack won the euchre prizes, Mrs. D. Hubble and Mrs. Denis Jackson were the winners at cribbage; and James Howard and Harry DeRushie received the prizes for the high and low scores at darts.

Zone Commander W. Bailey, of Belleville made the drawing for the prizes on which tickets had been sold. A. E. Walker was chairman of that committee and announced the winners.

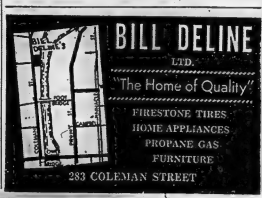
Mrs. Lena McDermaid, of Picton, and C. Bowers, of Belleville won the baskets of groceries; D.A. Rumsala, of Deseronto, won the telephone directory; and Mr. Ostcrirk, of Belleville, won the billfold.

Legion president, H. Fraser, thanked the crowd for their assistance and contributions and an hour of dancing followed.

EXPLOSION AT BAKELITE PLANT

In an explosion at the Bakelite Plant in Belleville on Friday night, Fred E. Young, of Deseronto was severely burned.

The accident occurred about 9.30 p.m. and fortunately the plant doctor was on the scene to render first aid. Fred was quite severely burned about the face, neck, and right arm and the hearing of his right ear seems to be damaged.



After receiving first aid he was removed to the Belleville General Hospital where he was given a blood transfusion. His condition is not considered critical.

Russia Claims West 'Forced' It To Resume Tests

Soviet Admits Resuming Nuclear Device Program

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet government said today it has resumed testing nuclear weapons because the United States and Britain have been kept on with their test shots.

A special announcement made through Tass news agency said the blame falls on the two Western powers since they did not follow suit when the Russians announced suspension of test blasts months ago.

(The Russians, who wound up a big series of experimental explosions before the announcement last spring, are nuclear to have exploded four nuclear devices in a test area north of the Arctic Circle this week. The U.S. announced in Washington the detection of two detonations Tuesday and two more Thursday.)

MILITARY ADVANTAGE

It accused the United States and Britain of using the Soviet suspension "to create for themselves possible military advantage for their side thus ignoring the will of the peoples."

"This is evidence," it said, "by the record of the Geneva talks of March 31 — that is the moment the Soviet Union suspended them — clear tests and called upon other countries to follow suit, the government of the United States of the United Kingdom undertook to continue tests of nuclear and atomic and hydrogen weapons. . . .

"Tass is authorized to declare that, although forced by the actions of the United States and Britain to resume its own nuclear tests, the Soviet Union will in the future continue its struggle for immediate and universal termination of such tests."

Talks are being held among Soviet, British and U.S. representatives at Geneva on a ban of tests in an agreement on suspending tests under adequate safeguards.

Appeal Court Reserves Ruling On Hog Scheme

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario Appeal Court reserved judgment on the legality of the province's hog marketing scheme.

The scheme was ruled illegal last July by Mr. Justice R. L. Ferguson. Attorney-General Kelso Roberts seeks to have the ruling reversed.

A province-wide referendum was held July 31 when 68.3 per cent of the hog producers endorsed the marketing plan — binding on all Ontario hog producers. Under the plan hogs can only be marketed to packers through the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative.

Mr. Justice Ferguson made his ruling on the grounds the 1958 Farm Products Marketing Act requires that marketing schemes receive a favorable vote from producers before they can be legislative effect and hog producers were not polled.

The scheme was approved by order-in-council and deemed to be in force as of June 1, 1958. Legislation confirming it was passed last March.

QUESTIONED AS PRODUCER

The legality of the scheme was questioned by a Chatham hog producer, Clarence Knights, who was charged with violating two orders of the Ontario Hog Producers' Co-operative. He allegedly assassinated and marketed hogs for slaughter in a yard not operated by the co-operative.

Mr. Justice Ferguson granted him an order prohibiting Chatham Magistrate F. K. Jasperson from proceeding with charge hearings.

C. R. Magone, for the attorney-general, argued before Chief Justice Dana Porter and Justices Wilfred Roach, F. G. MacKay, A. M. LeBel and K. G. Morden that the court itself was not the only required to initiate a marketing scheme and since it originated in 1940 no vote was needed.

He termed the 1957 regulations governing the scheme a consolidation and amendment and also suggested that in any event the confirmation in March, 1958, made all that was needed to set it right.

B. J. McKinnon, counsel for Mr. Knights, argued that the scheme couldn't be legally approved without a vote and that order-in-council was invalid. He contended that the 1957 regulations were not consolidations but new enactments.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synoptic — Skies were mostly sunny across southern Ontario this morning and although there was a few showers in central Ontario and a few isolated showers in the north skies clearing is expected. A series of week disturbances moving westward from the North West Territories and crossing Northern Ontario will continues to cause much cloudiness and some rain in the areas. However, these storms continue to bring warmer air toward the Great Lakes and a warming trend is forecast for the centre province for the next couple of days.

PRIME MINISTER TO MAKE 8-DAY VISIT TO EUROPE

Will Have Audience With Her Majesty

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker will meet government leaders of France, West Germany and Italy during an eight-day visit in Europe next month, it was announced today.

He will spend one day with the RCAF in France and observe Remembrance Day there, 24 with the Canadian Army brigade in Germany.

Details of the prime minister's European travels, part of a government tour around the world, were disclosed on the heels of Commonwealth Secretary Ormidale's itinerary for his six-day stay in the United Kingdom.

In Britain he will have an audience with the Queen, confer with Prime Minister Macmillan and members of the U.K. cabinet, and spend a weekend privately in Scotland.

VISIT DE GAULLE

Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker will fly to Paris Nov. 3 for a one-day visit in which the prime minister will meet with Premier de Gaulle. The next day he and his party will leave Paris for visits in southeast France.

Nov. 7 Mr. Diefenbaker will go to Bonn for two days, returning the visit to Canada last September by President Theodor Heuss. While there he will have talks with Chancellor Adenauer and other German leaders.

Then Diefenbaker will visit the army brigade at boeri, Germany, Nov. 10, and next day Canada troops before flying to Rome.

In Rome he will meet Prime Minister Segni before flying east Nov. 12 for Karachi to open the three-week tour of South and Southeast Asia.

Further details of his trip have not been announced, apart from the fact he will visit Pakistan, India, Ceylon, Malaya and Singapore during the three-week period, and then spend another two weeks in Australia and New Zealand before returning to Canada Dec. 2.

His United Kingdom visit will last from Thursday afternoon, Oct. 30, to the morning of Wednesday, Nov. 5.

CALL OFF QUEEN

The high point will be Mr. and Mrs. Diefenbaker's call at Buckingham Palace Tuesday, Nov. 4, for luncheon with the Queen and Prince Philip.

Other occasions planned include a luncheon by the lord mayor of London and a dinner by Canadian High Commissioner Norman Robertson Nov. 5, and a speech the next evening to the Commonwealth Press Empire Industries Association.

Diefenbaker Says Govt. Must Build Roads in North

MONTREAL (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says the federal government must embark on an "ever increasing" road building program in the north to catch up with Russia, Greenland and Alaska.

All three, he said in a speech here Thursday night, are ahead of Canada in opening up their northern areas.

"Canadians mean to redress this balance, and soon," he told the Canadian Good Roads Association.

"Nothing can help to do this more rapidly than the construction of roads—for lack of transportation, more than climate or any other factor, is the major obstacle to the development of the north.

He said the federal government plans to spend $100,000,000 by 1960 on roads in the Yukon and Northwest Territories — two areas which, he added, would help gain provincial status in the foreseeable future.

With minerals, forests, tourist attractions and a strategic position, the north is the direction the north holds the "title deeds to the survival of freedom."

Mr. Diefenbaker devoted most of his address to a review of progress underway or road programs launched by the federal government on a share basis with the provinces.

He said the work is expected to start this winter on pipelines and camping grounds along the trans-Canada Highway.

The federal government has offered to spend up to $2,000,000 on a 50-50 basis with the provinces in the construction of roads—for lack of transportation, more than climate or any other factor, is the major obstacle to the development of the north.

He said the federal government plans to spend $100,000,000 by 1960 on roads in the Yukon and Northwest Territories — two areas which, he added, would help gain provincial status in the foreseeable future.

Municipal Officers Warned Not to Destroy Good Farmland

TORONTO (CP)—A warning to avoid using up good farmland was given to 1,000 municipal officials and industrialists Thursday by the Ontario government's provincial industrial development coordinator.

R. G. Pleva of London, geography professor at the University of Western Ontario, said paying development is using up part of Ontario's best agricultural land.

"Population is exploding and people are interested in standard of living and not in the quality of the soil," Dr. Pleva declared. "In their ignorance they may destroy the very thing that will ensure their survival.

He urged that highways and water or sewer works be built so as to encourage industrial and residential development on land not suitable for crops.

Dr. Pleva's research studies show that there is not a single industrial site in Southern Ontario that is not within five miles of land of low agricultural quality.

"Often these lands are hilly with trees and views and much preferable for living values to the flat, bland land of agricultural plains."

Dr. Pleva's warning was echoed by Eric Beecroft of Ottawa, director of Community Planning Association of Canada.

Mr. Beecroft said: "A very large part of the province is likely part of the province is absolutely necessary if the province is going to be protected and land properly allocated on a sound economic basis for the future.

Economist Walter Gordon of Toronto, chairman of the advisory board to help end economic booms and busts.

The chairman of the royal commission on Canada's economic prospects said the conference:

"Canadians will have to accept the fact that responsibility for maintaining a high level of employment throughout the country and for restraining inflation must be shared with the federal government."

VANCOUVER (CP) — Canada seems to have adopted a "defence policy of continental integration proposition of The United States," says the president of the University of British Columbia.

Dr. Norman A. M. MacKenzie said this morning that Canada may force some of Canada's best brains to turn to the U.S. for employment.

their weapons, we are trained and directed by the United States military and have bases and facilities in appropriate areas across the country."

In his annual talk to students on the opening day of the university he discussed the Canadian decision to buy Bomarc missiles from the U.S. while delaying decision on production of the CF-105 Arrow jet interceptor.

"This is not in the sense of criticism, but I hope the policy of purchasing weapons in the U.S. is a temporary one or, if it is to be continued, that equivalent orders in terms of value for equipment made in Canada and modern defence forces can be placed in Canada for the employment of Canadian personnel."

Dr. MacKenzie said the government's decision seemed to mean that "practically all the research and development involved in weapons will be done in the U.S. and, if this be true, that bright men and women will leave their homes across the line where their talents and abilities are trained training can be used."

He described his message to students as "food for thought."

"I am concerned with pointing out that this may mark a turning point, or an end of an era of 200 years of history in which Canadians, in the face of all pressures, have been able to retain the natural lines of development, the natural trends of history, to create a nation of which they can be proud."

RAIL DAMAGES VINES

ETNA, Sicily (Reuters) — Hailstones weighing up to half a pound fell near here Thursday, damaging grape vines and olive groves, smashing greenhouse windows, ripping the tents of two travelling circuses and denting the bodywork of cars.

Chiang Assured U.S. Won't Yield In Face of Force

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — The United States has told Nationalist China that it will not change its policy of refusing to give ground in the face of continued Communist pressure, it was reported today.

U.S. Ambassador Everett F. Drumright, right, was reported to have delivered the message in talks with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek during the early-morning hours.

LOSSES EFFECTIVENESS

But there is increasing belief the artillery blockade is losing effectiveness. The Reds' policy to air drops kept on unloading supplies with a great increase is expected soon with the help of U.S. equipment now being turned over to the Nationalists.

Vice-Admiral Roland N. Smoot, of the U.S. Navy, head of the Formosa defence command, said in an interview that he does not believe Reds can hold out indefinitely under present conditions.

Informed Chinese Nationalists understood the world desire for a peaceful settlement and would accept one if it did not prejudice their sovereign rights. He did not define those rights.

Dulles' message seeking to relieve tension in the area sent after Chinese Nationalist officials expressed fears that the U.S. policy is changing in a way that might prejudice the Nationalists.

DULLES PRAISED

Dulles told his press conference Tuesday it was foolish for the Nationalists to have 100,000 troops on the Quemoy islands, which the Chinese Communists have been bombarding since Aug. 23.

Dulles also expressed the view that Chiang's position on the mainland was "hypothetical."

LIVING COSTS AT NEW HIGH DURING AUGUST

Higher Retail Prices May Be on Way

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs rose to a new high during August with the consumer price index climbing by two-fifths of a point to a record 122.6 on Sept. 1 from 122.2 on Aug. 1, the bureau of statistics reported today.

The second consecutive monthly rise resulted mainly from higher prices for new streetcar and bus fares, hospital rates in Ontario and Quebec, price boosts for gasoline, eggs, bread, citrus fruits, canned vegetables and a seasonal climb in home-ownership costs.

These offset some declines such as those in clothing, passenger car fares, meats, apples and fresh vegetables.

The prices yardstick, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, stood at 14.2 points higher than a year previous.

Another bureau index showed the industrial composite average weekly wage in manufacturing industries rose 0.2 per cent in August to $84.40 from $84.40 on June 1.

The farm products index, also based on 1935-39 prices, increased to 212.5 from 210, reflecting higher prices for meats and calves.

De Gaulle Charts 5-Year Plan For Algerians

CONSTANTINE, Algeria (AP) Premier de Gaulle's new plan to end Algeria's rebels is half their bloody insurrection and promised Algerians a new and better life — economically and politically.

But close ties with France must remain, he said.

The 10-point charted a five-year program for improving the living standards of Algeria's more than 8,000,000 Moslems in Algeria. He promised them more self-rule, but not independence, land distribution and greater educational opportunities.

ELECTIONS THIS FALL

A free election will be held in Algeria within two months under the same conditions as the September referendum. And he declared:

"At least two - thirds of these representatives must be Moslems."

Until now, political representation in Algeria has been heavily loaded in favor of 1,000,000 European residents of Algeria.

DRAMATIC APPEAL

Speaking to 50,000 persons massed in a public square, de Gaulle made a dramatic appeal to the Algerian rebels whose insurrection is nearly four years old.

"Why kill? One should make peace," he said. "Peace destroys. The duty is to build. Why hate? One should instead co-operate."

Red Scientist Reports Long Sleep Restored Vim and Vigor to Old Dog

MOSCOW (AP) — The fountain of youth may be no further than your bedroom.

So says a Soviet scientist, who claims experiments with an aged dog indicate that plenty of sleep may prevent senility and even restore youthful vim, vigor, and vitality to the old.

The professor said the dog was on its last legs when he began the prolonged sleep treatment in 1951.

"It was completely senile. The lower part of the body was devoid of fur. The animal kept losing consciousness in any old thing. It would get up and move about only if induced by food."

But after two months of prolonged sleep treatment remarkable changes began, the scientist reported. Senility symptoms vanished. Leg muscles improved. Psychiatry institute and by 1957 had resobed the age of 31 1/2 years — or six years beyond a dog's normal life span.

Brukhonenko said even the dog's sex instincts had been "revitalized and preserved."

Then fate stepped in. It was killed in a chimpanzee at the laboratory.

General Motors, Auto Workers Reach Agreement

Meanwhile 250,000 Men Still Away From Plants

DETROIT (AP)—General Motors and the United Auto Workers reached agreement on a three-year master contract Thursday night, but only automotive employ pire remained shut down today by a strike of its 250,000 UAW members.

UAW President Walter P. Reuther hailed the new national agreement as "good for the nation, good for the UAW and good for GM," but he added that GM 3lst Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal would put the western Canada wheat producer at an unfair disadvantage on the world market.

The statement was made in a brief presented today to the federal government in Ottawa. A copy of the brief was released to the press in advance.

Prepared following a historical review of wheat in Canada by Dr. G. E. Britnell and Dr. V. C. Fowke, economics professors at the University of Saskatchewan, the brief makes four main points against tolls.

1. Canadian wheat competes with wheat produced closer to world ports. The seaway will reduce the cost of shipping Canadian wheat overseas and tolls would wipe out part of this saving.

2. Tolls on raw materials shipped to manufacturers in central Canada would eventually raise the price of farm machinery.

3. Canadian experience has shown that essential transportation improvements cannot pay their own way until imposition of canal tolls has been unsatisfactory in this country.

4. Cost of the seaway is high but equals only 0.5 to seven per cent of the federal government's annual revenue. Therefore, tolls should not be needed to cover the financial burden.

The brief noted that the federal government reduced tolls on the Welland Canal in Ontario in the 1930s because of competition from renewal tolls on the Erie Canal. It had been found wise to erase a discriminatory toll on grain going to U.S. ports. The conviction had grown that revenue from tolls was negligible compared to possible interference with trade.

Saskatchewan Opposes Tolls On Seaway

REGINA (CP) — The Saskatchewan government says tolls on the St. Lawrence Seaway and Welland Canal would put the western Canada wheat producer at an unfair disadvantage on the world market.

The statement was made in a brief presented today to the federal government in Ottawa. A copy of the brief was released to the press in advance.

3. Canadian experience has shown that essential transportation improvements cannot pay their own way until imposition of canal tolls has been unsatisfactory in this country.

4. Cost of the seaway is high but equals only 0.5 to seven per cent of the federal government's annual revenue. Therefore, tolls should not be needed to cover the financial burden.

The brief noted that the federal government reduced tolls on the Welland Canal in Ontario in the 1930s because of competition from renewal tolls on the Erie Canal. It had been found wise to erase a discriminatory toll on grain going to U.S. ports. The conviction had grown that revenue from tolls was negligible compared to possible interference with trade.

Reuther Failed To Reach Goals

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Walter P. Reuther set two main goals for 1958 bargaining with the big three auto-makers. He didn't get either one.

Reuther began beating the drums last year for a shorter work week, installed that as the UAW's No. 1 goal.

But the union chief switched and made profit-sharing his prime target. But this got sidetracked, too, when negotiations on specifics started more than six months ago.

Red-Headed Lass From Night Club Made Illinois Town's Police Chief

AURORA, Ill. (AP) — Trade but ignored in his bingo war with Aurora police, Mayor Paul Egan has created a real cop stopper — a lady police chief.

The mayor announced Thursday that Patricia Patti Counn, a red-haired night club press agent, is the new police chief.

The 28-year-old green-eyed lass from Chicago has never dealt with the criminal element except in a one - hour course in sociology.

"Press agentry," cried the opposition: in this northern Illinois town of 52,000.

"It's just too ridiculous to comment upon," said Donald Curran. He is the police chief Egan fired for not cracking down on bingo. Only he didn't go, and the city council said he didn't have to.

Neither did the police department go when Egan suspended the entire 66-man force listening to Curran.

But as far as the mayor is concerned Miss Counn will be top temporary chief with a 60-day appointment.

When somebody asked whether she has tried to supplant Curran yet she replied, "I've been too busy," but he's too much of a gentleman to throw me in jail.

Patti hasn't been sworn in yet. She is still mailing out the bingo call the bending company says she is good for $5,000 coverage. Egan pays her $7,000 a year.

Like the 10 police chiefs Egan has fired and hired during his hectic 4 1/2 years as mayor, Miss Counn will have to know who is in charge.

In his official message to her Egan said: "I want the department renovated, improved and brought up to date. You must make any major decisions I want to be consulted."

Wood Nickels Cost 7 Cents To Produce

MONTCLAIR, N. J. (AP)—The cost of wooden nickels has gone up seven cents.

The local Chamber of Commerce has been selling five-cent pieces made of pine wood to merchants. They will redeem each for $5 from customers after Oct. 18 as part of a promotion scheme.

The idea was not worth a nickel each to the customers. But the cost of pine wood and handling, merchants found, means paying 97 cost of the tokens.

Bomarc Missiles Are Ready

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today Canada's Bomarc missiles are ready for launching.

He told the Commons that the missiles are in position and the launching sites are ready.

Mr. Diefenbaker was replying to a question by Opposition Leader Pearson.

Ford Strike Ends

DETROIT (AP) — Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers reached agreement on a new contract Thursday night, but only automotive employment was restored.

Ford's 160,000 workers remained on strike for a seventh day as negotiators settled without a strike. Dissidents, however, kept the union's 3,000 pickets at the picket lines, and still to be settled was the contract covering some 19,000 salaried and skilled tradesmen at Chrysler.

Ford workers continue to get wages to the cost of living, pay moving up a penny an hour Monday. But all three wrapped up of the 25 cents included in the cost of living allowance into the base wage.

The settlement, Reuther obtained a GM agreement to study what the UAW had called wage inequities, under which plants in the same geographical area had different wage rates for the same type of work. Reuther said this study is expected to help General Motors, as its wage scales varied in its 34 plants, while Ford and Chrysler pay was much the same in its plants across the country.

General Motors' average hourly wage is the highest in the industry — $2.83 an hour with $2.33 at Ford and $2.33 at Chrysler.

Reuther said GM was expected to reach quick agreement with the United Electrical Workers to represent 25,000 workers at six GM plants. They also walked out Thursday.

The Salvation Army Tag Day held last Saturday was once again a successful effort. The total amount raised was $987, which was about $80 short of last year's total of $1047. The expenses for the day, as in other years, were kept to a minimum, and totalled approximately $10.

The organization of the Tag Day was in the hands of Mr. George Ellarby who with the assistance of Mr. W. B. Brown, Miss Dorothy Mitchell and Mrs. J. Green - kept thirty taggers busy throughout Friday evening and Saturday.

Many Diseases Prevented by Immunization

Many diseases have been prevented and many lives have been saved through the discovery of serums for protection against certain communicable illnesses. All parents should have their children immunized by their doctor or local health department.

Inoculations for diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus are usually given in three's in a combined form. Inoculations are usually begun any time after three months with three injections given at monthly intervals and a fourth injection six months following the third one. Injections are not usually given when a baby has a cold or infection.

A smallpox vaccination is best done within the baby's first year of life when it is the age to make him sick. If the baby has eczema or a skin disease the vaccination should not be done until the rash is healed.

Salk vaccine is used for the prevention of poliomyelitis is available for children as well as adults. Injections are started at approximately six months of age with the first injection being given one month apart and a third injection approximately one year following the second one.

It is a good idea to keep a record of all inoculations as it is of much value when moving or changing doctors.

A fine of $500 or in lieu of payment six months in jail was the penalty handed out this morning in Magistrate T. A. Wills to Leon Ryan, of Harold, on charges of driving while his driver's license was under suspension.

PRINCESS SAVES LIFE OF BELGIAN BOY

A young Belgian boy owes his life to the alertness of Princess Margaret. Sightseeing on foot while holidaying in Bruges, the Princess snatched the boy from the path of a car which was speeding straight for him. Margaret, herself, then had to jump away from the car, which grazed her skirt. The car, driven by a woman, braked sharply and came to a stop.

Grade, Purebred Dairy Cattle Selling Well

Hastings County farmers have been active during this year's production to date on most commodities. Informed sources state that although quality production was off during the earlier part of the year due to dry weather, pasturage has been remarkably good as of late and milk production has been up. Exports of grade and purebred dairy cattle have been quite active with the great majority of sales being to the United States. The price of dairy cattle have been holding up quite well.

Hog raising has been above expectation due mostly to better weather in the last few weeks. However, production has been quite good and is on a par with last year's output. Grain corn is presently maturing nicely and a good crop should be harvested. Soybeans have also done very well although not quite up to last year's fine harvest. Hay has been coming along well and pasture has benefited greatly from the recent wet weather.

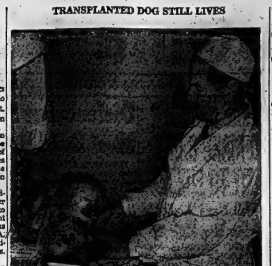
Harold Murphy County Director Of Farm Union

The fourth annual Hastings County Convention of the Ontario Farmers' Union was held in St. Carthagh's Hall in Tweed on Thursday evening.

The evening program opened on a cheery and colorful note. The stage was adorned with baskets of lovely flowers, a display of Union wore red and gold badges with the words "Ontario Farmers' Union" Convention on them.

R. Clarence Gordon, County Director, called the meeting to order with a few words of welcome to the delegates from the different locals. Minutes of the previous Convention were read by Mrs. A. Tondeur. A sing song was participated in by all present with Mrs. Fergus Cassidy at piano.



A humorous reading was given by Mrs. Ivan Hinton from Gregory-brook. The three talented young sons of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Bailey (Stanley, Harold, and Donald) "Cowboy Weed." Following this a trio of Stanley Bailey, Harold Murphy and Janet Reynolds and Leah Ist Veld entertained the audience with a number of songs. The boys and girls together in a secrette rendered two delightful numbers. The last entertainment number was an accordion solo by James Graham.

At this time the following were called to the front to give their reports. The following reviewed the activities of the locals they represented. Locals reporting were: Harold Murphy of Marysville, Borden Forsythe of Canifton, Miller Bedore of Tweed, Archie Kidd of Erinsville, Fred Bailey of Cooper and Morton Reid of Spring-brook.

Mrs. Fred Bailey, Lady County Director, gave a report of the activities during the last year with a strong plea to members to support their presidents and other officers and for all farm families to have been quite active with the great majority of sales being to the United States. The price of dairy cattle have been holding up quite well.

Hog raising has been above expectation due mostly to better weather in the last few weeks. However, production has been good and is on a par with last year's output. TRANSPLANTED DOG STILL LIVES

Russian surgeon Professor A. P. Demikhov of the Moscow Medical Institute gives a dietag to Ryzhyi, a German police dog, after days after successfully grafting on to the animal the head and front paws of a stray mongrey dog. The operation was witnessed by Dr. David Gurewitsch, a Columbia university psychologist, and a Norwegian surgeon, Christian Kapogeien. Dr. Gurewitsch said the dog's new head was playful while the old one seemed a bit asleep. He said the dog seemed normal, however, and both heads ate and barked. It has one heart but six lgs.

Sixty Artists Will Kick off United Way Show

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Scandinavian Airlines System announced the arrival in Rome today of Mr. and Mrs. Swallow and their two little swallows who had been hatched somewhere between the Arctic Circle and Stockholm.

The company said it was asked by animal lovers to give the swallow family a free ride after the insect supply ran out above the Arctic Circle because of snowfall.

The parents, the airline explained, apparently were on a delay of honeymoon to northern parts "when this happened to them."

"Because of her two eggs Mrs. Swallow could not make the flight on her own," a spokesman added.

Unitarians Inaugurate Sunday School Classes

Unitarians of the Quinte district this Sunday at 11.00 a. m. are commencing Sunday School classes in the Legion Hall, Belleville. Although an active program had been operating for adults since last February, the opening of the Sunday School marks an expansion of this religious movement here. Four teachers have been recruited, all of whom have had experience in Unitarian Sunday Schools in other communities.

The texts which will be used are religious but not denominational and the curriculum for each age group will aim to help the children develop a religious outlook of their own, grounded in their own first-hand experiences.

Winners Seemed Just as Glum As the Losers

NEW YORK (CP) — The winners seemed just as glum as the losers today as New York Yankees and Milwaukee Braves prepared for the third game of the series.

The Braves — with a 2-0 clutch on the series over the Yankees — arrived in town by plane Thursday night but showed no sign of jubilation.

Perhaps the Milwaukees heroes of Wednesday's 5-4 victory in body met them at the airport except reporters and photographers, a few autograph seekers.

Manager Fred Haney, however, was cheerful, predicting a repeat of Thursday's 13-5 Milwaukee win. "We can't get enough runs to suit me."

"He's never satisfied," said his wife, who was standing by, also beaming.

PITCHERS NOT PICKED

Haney said he'd decide after today's workout which pitcher he'd start the game of the series Saturday at Yankee Stadium. As for the rest of the team, "I'll go with the same lineup we won with Thursday."

Yankee manager Casey Stengel refused to name his starting lineup before both teams went out for lively workouts.

Stengel said his men aren't discouraged and he showed signs of chewing the ear off a questioner who suggested the situation was "desperate."

Indian Woman, Three Children Take to Bush

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) Search parties trudged through dense bush 40 miles northwest of here, today looking for an Indian woman and her three young children who fled their trailer home hours before an official of the Children's Aid Society was due to take the children away.

Provincial police say Lindsay Identified the woman as Mrs. Florence Cormier, an Indian married to a French-Canadian logger. The children are aged 18 months, three years and four years.

Police said the Children's Aid Society had declared the trailer an unfit home for the children.

HUSBAND STAYS BEHIND

Gordon Cormier, a logger, a special official in Lindsay was due to go to the trailer, parked near Ivory Hill, on Tuesday to collect the youngsters. When he arrived, the family had told him the wife and the children had gone away.

He reported to provincial police. When the four did not return that day, provincial police from Lindsay, Apsley and lands and forests department officials organized a search.

The search continued Wednesday and Thursday. On both nights the temperature dipped to about 35 degrees in the area.

Police last night concentrated the hunt on the Coe Hill-Eel Lake district. The husband, meanwhile, was not immediately known, was still in the trailer.

Police said no planes had been called into search because the woman and children would probably be hidden by trees and dense bush.

Four Provinces Open Biggest Safety Drive

Four Canadian provinces — Ontario, Quebec, Nova Scotia and New Brunswick today began the biggest safety campaign of the year.

Throughout October, industries in those provinces will be trying their best to keep employees from being hurt while at work.

Originators of this special annual safety drive, the largest safety organization in Canada, Industrial Accident Prevention Associations of Ontario, have issued over 100,000 pieces of special safety literature to their members. Special posters, payroll envelope stuffers, and safety reminders, have been prepared. Individual plants have organized so that everyone from president to office boy will have a hand in helping everyone to realize that everyone can help accidents by being alert to hazards, and taking the common-sense ways to avoid them.

Many special public meetings will be held. Newspaper ads, radio, TV and plant magazines all are co-operating to bring home to everyone the importance of the campaign slogan "Safety Means You."

Britain Protests Iceland's Moves

LONDON (Reuters) — British Foreign Office officials said today Iceland about "general misbehaviour" of British fishing vessels off Iceland, a foreign office spokesman said today.

The spokesman said the protest was handed Oct. 1 to the Icelandic foreign ministry by Bjarni Javik by British Ambassador Andrew Gilchrist.

The note protested "repeated attempts to place gangplos on British trawlers and obstruction navigation by Icelandic coast guard vessels."

Iceland on June claimed 12-mile fishing limits of its coast, to take effect on Sept. 1. British considers this inadmissible under international law and has sent naval protection for her trawlers fishing within the enlarged limits.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our dear brother, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 3rd, 1952.

Broken is the family circle,
Our dear one's passed away;
Passed on to rest where the earthly Sorrows
Into darkness
Into the land of perfect day.
But we still have memories of Lauralah.
O'er the grave of him we love;
Purest joy to dwell with him,
In the better world above.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of a dear brother, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 3rd, 1952.

Three years ago today my brother
Gone where the angels dwell in heaven
We miss him here so very much,
But God knows best, we know.
There is no one to comfort us now,
Where no one says goodbye,
But in our memories he will sadly missed by sister Teresa.

McQUAID. — In loving memory of our dear brother, Edmund McQuaid, who passed away October 3rd, 1952.

And gave his last breath,

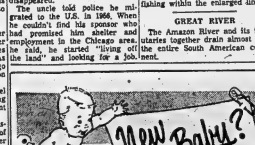
We think of him in silence,
Thoughts of him are always true,
Loving memories will remain,
Friendship may grow cold,
But memories never.



—Sadly miss his uncle Bill and family.

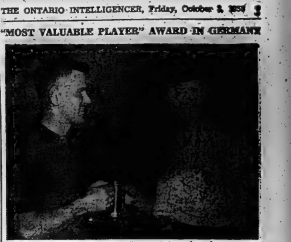
Detective Horns in on Weed Party



NEW YORK (AP)—A detective posing as a tenement player Thursday crashed a hotel party turning a six-foot stalk of marijuana, complete with roots, propped up in a vase filled with red wine.

The detective, Alfred Spinosa, had been tipped about a party in a 12th-floor suite of a West 100th Street hotel. He went there a bombshoe case under his arm, and got inside.

Among those present, he said, were two men and a girl stripteaser. The trio was charged with possession of marijuana. Others at the affair were released.

Police said marijuana users value the wine - impregnated weed for its increased kick. Devoters call it "instant marijuana."

65 Firms Join United Appeal Payroll Plan

The monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Belleville United Appeal was held at the YMCA last night, under the chairmanship of Appeal president, Mrs. Jane Forrester.

During the meeting reports of committee chairmen were submitted.

Payroll deduction plan committee chairman, J. C. R. Punchard, reported that 65 Belleville companies enrolled in the payroll deduction plan. He said he hoped publication of this figure will encourage the balance of local companies to join this plan.

Mrs. Forrester, in thanking the committee chairmen for their work, remarked it was obvious a great deal of time and effort has been spent in completing the organization of the 1958 Belleville United Appeal campaign.

She said she felt confident the '58 campaign will be successful in reaching its objective of $85,000.

All Twelve of Trenton's Voluntary Firemen Threaten to Quit at Midnight on Saturday Unless New Men Over 30 Are Accepted

TRENTON — All 12 members of the Trenton voluntary firemen have threatened to quit, effective Saturday midnight if the members of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee do not reconsider their decision to set a 30-year maximum age limit for new men for the voluntary force, as well as for voluntary force members who wish to join the permanent force when there is an opening.

The firemen met in a special meeting last night at the fire hall and, although they had previously set the date for quitting as Friday at midnight, decided to advance it for a 24-hour period.

The entire issue arose following a meeting of Councillors Lloyd Worrall, Ray Fox and Charlie Hilton, who form the committee which is appointed by the council, and their decision to abide by a ruling which is set down by the Ontario Fire Marshal's office that no man over the age of 30 years be hired on either the voluntary or permanent force. They had planned to place their recommendation before the council at the next meeting (Monday night, Oct. 5) and have the council reach a final decision, which is normal procedure.

The decision of the committee was published in the local press and the voluntary members called a special meeting and took their stand.

The voluntary firemen feel they are not being given a fair chance to become members of the permanent force because of the age limit which overshadows the years of experience they have had with the department. They also feel that a man over 30 years of age is as able, if not more so, to fight a fire and withstand the gruelling work as any person in his twenties. They also feel that a man in his thirties could be considered more dependable.

They also expressed other grievances in their letter to the committee, including dissatisfaction with the amount of life insurance they are covered with. They say that in other towns which are smaller than Trenton the firemen are covered with a greater amount and feel this should be rectified by the town.

Final decision in the matter of the age limit, and on benefits will be left up to the town council and the matter is expected to come up at Monday's meeting. One councillor pointed out that the committee can only make recommendations to the council and it is up to the town fathers whether these recommendations will be accepted or not.

The matter of hiring a new fire chief for the town will also be brought up before the council. The committee had advertised the opening and have received several applications from out-of-town firemen. It has also received two applications from present members of the Trenton fire department.

3 Trenton Men Suspected Of Hastings Bank Robbery Questioned and Released

TRENTON — Three Trenton men were held and questioned for seven hours here last night in connection with an armed robbery in the Royal Bank of Canada at Hastings yesterday afternoon at 3 p.m. The thieves netted over $4,000 in the robbery. Hastings is 25 miles east of Peterborough on No. 7 Highway.

Shortly after the three suspects were arrested the Ontario Provincial Police officers brought four members of the bank staff to Trenton to see if they could identify the suspects, but they were unable to and at 3 a.m. this morning the suspects were released and the members of the bank staff taken back to their homes in Hastings.

According to the police two armed men walked into the bank yesterday afternoon, just minute before closing time while an accomplice waited outside in a car, held up the bank staff at the point of a gun and made off with the money. Both men were masks of black stockings pulled over their heads and faces.

The police were told that while one of the gunmen watched the staff at gun point the four customers in the bank the other scooped up the money. Walter Sleeman, to open the main safe. It contained no money.

Sleeman said the bandit then told him to go to the tellers' drawers and take out all the money. The bandit stuffed this money into a paper shopping bag and both ran to the car.

The car in which they escaped was now white but identified as stolen from Stockdale, near Trenton, the day previous and was found by members of Provincial Police officers about three miles from the scene of the robbery on what is known as "River road." It is believed the bandits had another car waiting for them there.

In an interview with a member of the bank staff, he said, "One of the bandits was so tense that I thought for a moment he would pull the trigger. I think if any sudden move had been made he would have."

"They put all of us in the bank room of the bank and left us there and we didn't come out until they were gone. Both of them wore black stockings pulled down over their heads."

A few hours after the holdup three suspects were arrested in Trenton and held at the police station there until the arrival of the witnesses from the bank, the OPP from Campbellford and Inspector Adair of the C.I.B. in Toronto.

Two of the suspects were arrested by Trenton police officers and the other by a constable of the Brighton detachment of the OPP. They questioned the suspects from 7 p.m. last night to 3 a.m. this morning, when they were released.

Constable James Blackburn, off duty and unarmed, was working across the street from the bank at the time of the robbery. He threw a shovel at the getaway car, denting its side.

An elderly witness to the robbery, Tom Sahlgers, suffered a slight heart attack and was taken home after treatment.

NEWSPAPER BOY WEEK

Tomorrow is Newspaper Boy Day. Newspapers across Canada, including The Ontario Intelligencer, are joining in a salute to those members of the younger generation who play a vital role in our way of life.

If it is true that the success of a democracy depends on a well-informed public, and if it is true, as we think it is, that the newspaper fills an essential role in enabling citizens to keep abreast of the times, then it is equally true that the boys - - and girls - - who deliver the nation's daily newspapers are indispensable to the nation's welfare.

Gathering, editing and printing the news of the world would be of no benefit to the nation unless this news, once printed, were delivered to the customer, the newspaper reader.

Except in large cities, where newsstand sales are frequently high, putting the paper in the hands of the readers is a task discharged by the newspaper carrier.

Perhaps it seems strange that so important a task should be entrusted to boys and girls. Most businesses consider their salesmen to be among the most important members of their staffs. Why do not newspaper publishers take the same view, you may ask? Ah, but they do. Just because their salesmen are young does not mean that newspapers do not value them highly - - or that the trust which they place in them has been misplaced. The record speaks for itself. Every working day throughout the year, in the great majority of homes in Canada, there is fresh evidence that newspapers are served by some of the most efficient salesmen in the country.

So won't you join us in saluting these young businessmen and women? One of the ways you can show your gratitude is by paying them promptly. That is not to give to say you have to be generous. For the newspaper carrier is a merchant. He buys from the paper wholesale and sells to you retail. If you do not pay him, he has no profit to show for his work. We think you will agree that, as the worker is worthy of his hire, the newspaper carrier deserves his profit.

APTITUDE AND ATTITUDE

An anonymous student, writing in "The Canadian Liberal," complains that "the university has become almost a kind of country club."

The picture he paints of university life may be disturbing to many, but we doubt whether it would be unfamiliar to university students of a decade ago. For some of whom managed to survive the "country club" atmosphere and make notable contributions towards the advancement of knowledge.

Nevertheless, this student has an interesting suggestion. He says that "in accepting someone into a university, the entrance board should consider the applicant's mental capacity, but it does not or cannot scrutinize with equal care his mental attitude." He proceeds to argue that "mental attitude as well as mental aptitude should be taken into account," on the theory that this would eliminate from universities the "social butterflies" who not only fail to take advantage of their own opportunities but also create an atmosphere in which the more serious students find it difficult to work.

All this sounds extremely reasonable, but there is one flaw in it. There is no way of telling whether the entrance board considers "the applicant's mental capacity" we presume he is referring to the results of examinations. Now it appears to us that the results of these examinations are just as much the result of the applicant's mental attitude, in his final year of high school, as they are of his mental aptitude. A highly intelligent but lazy student may get marks which are no higher, or even lower, than a student of lesser mental capacity who has worked hard. We doubt whether any entrance board could separate the two factors by studying the results of examinations.

A DUCK CALL

Physicians are dedicated men. But even so it would be hard luck to shot a mallard, raise one's gun (in the secrecy of a duck-blind), and then have the telephone ring. This may very well happen to doctor-sportsmen near Lamar, Mo., where a telephone was recently installed in a duck-blind, at the request of a local druggist who wanted to be able to reach the doctors in case of an emergency. YEARNING

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The scenes that we loved in the dawn
Have little of charm now for me;
The lanes that we wandered and lingered upon,
I never more journey to see.
The trees do not whisper of love as of yore,
The skies do not wear the same blue;
Like my heart, they'll be lonesome and sad evermore,
We are yearning and pining for you.

The brook that went splashing and laughing along,
Now silently goes on its way;
The birds that we loved trill no longer in song,
Their music is hushed all the day.
They only seem as gay to the strangers who go
To the scenes that our early life knew;
But, sweetheart, our haunts seem to share in my woe—
Like my heart, they are yearning for you.

Compares Canada, France

Hamilton Spectator

Without wishing to be melodramatic, we think the present state of industrial turmoil in Canada may well be compared to that in pre-war France. In those days of unrest and confusion which preceded the fall of France.

Labor unions exist within the structure of modern democratic industrial society. They do not thrive in the form in which they exist within the dictatorships or in Communist countries.

It may thus be accepted as a fact that labor unions exist because of the culture, the way of life, which surrounds them. They are part of that form which the nation's life has taken, they flourish only in this national climate which we in Canada and people in other democracies enjoy.

It follows therefore that if this pattern of living is shattered, labor unions will also be shattered.

This has happened in the past and perhaps will happen again.

The present situation in Canada in which scores of thousands of men are out of work threatens the foundations of the country's industrial power. In the years after the end of the First War, strike after strike swept the country's labor force. Troubles and prejudices reached such an inflamed state that the slightest provocation sent men into the streets and employers into a week's vacation. Disorder and wasteful strife ran rampant as each man's hand was against his neighbour's and when danger came, France consisted of a people incapable of concerted action. It was this inability to act in unison which led to the country's downfall.

Whites Fear Competition?

Cornwall Standard-Freeholder

In the Southern United States it's called segregation; in South Africa it's called apartheid. Both are complex and bitter as they are, really form part of a larger one. This issue is the question of equal rights and equal opportunities for all. Who says the right of the individual to be master of his own fate, regardless of the color of his skin.

The Saturday Evening Post states that Negro children must be allowed to attend the same schools as whites. The reason for that decision is that under the law, the Negro child must have the right to the same opportunities as the white youngster. This equality of opportunity is manifestly impossible without equal schools. How can the South cannot afford to segregate equal schools systems of equal merit.

One wonders if amid all the hysteria and bitterness engendered and so forth, there isn't buried a deeper fear among the Southern whites; (the fear that the Negroes, given the same opportunities at education and learning trades, will compete for skilled labor and white collar jobs and basically primitive. Segregation and color discrimination is the best interests of their people.

But this irrationality on the part of segregationists is being fought with great rigidity — where it is in the best interests of the whites to do so. Here there is the problem of two cultures; European and one African and basically primitive. Separate but equal is the cure for the great deal of logic to it. Many blacks, in fact, feel that certain segregation laws are also in the best interests of their people.

Gaitskell Shows Labor Party Who Is Boss

By ED SIMON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP)—Hugh Gaitskell is doing a convincing job of shooting his critics who is boss of British Labor party.

With few comparatively minor items to be cleaned up at today's closing session of the party's annual conference, the normally turbulent opposition leader will emerging in a new role of a tiger who eats not only Conservatives but party malcontents for breakfast.

Gaitskell's stock has been boosted by an obvious desire by all sections of the party to display unity. Aneurin Bevan has taken every opportunity to deem contrists willingness to forget their differences when they fought for the party leadership a few years ago and powerful trade union leaders have been consistently supporting policies of the executive.

But the party leader himself struck the decisive blow Thursday in quelling the annual left-wing revolt on nuclear disarmament.

REBELS FIGHT STRONGLY

The rebels took up most of a day devoted to discussing Labor's foreign policy with a vicious effort to commit the party to unilateral renunciation of nuclear weapons. Official policy is pledged to unilateral stoppage of hydrogen bomb tests but favors retention of the nuclear deterrent until international agreement is reached on a ban.

Gaitskell replied quietly but his tone became sharper when he was heckled from the floor. He dismissed almost contemptuously the contention of opponents that the British example would influence other countries to follow suit. There was, he said, "not a shred of evidence" to support the argument.

After urging advocates of unilateral action not to confuse moral issues with the practical details of defence policy, he concluded with a sharp warning that "their sort of propaganda" hopardized Labor's chances by confusing public opinion.

Chasing Ball Across Highway Young Boy Fatally Injured

Before the horrified eyes of his mother who was waiting at the Marysville school to drive her children home from school, Ronald Bocking, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bocking, R.R. 2, Shannonville, was fatally injured Thursday afternoon, when struck by a car as he darted across the highway in pursuit of a ball.

The boy died about 15 minutes later in an ambulance rushed him to hospital.

Provincial Police said that the boy had been let out early from school and was waiting until his older sister was let out from classes to be driven home by his mother.

The ball with which the Bocking boy and several other children were playing went onto the highway. The boy waited for an eastbound car to pass, then darted onto the road in front of a westbound vehicle driven by Edward Cubbon of Toronto. The boy suffered a fractured skull and other injuries.

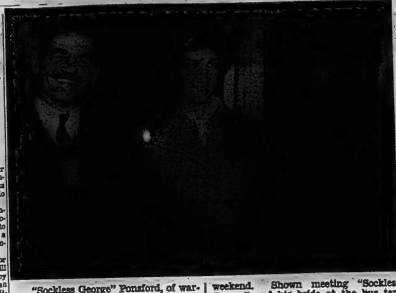
The Bocking family had moved to the Shannonville area from Montreal about eight months ago.

Police said that an inquest would be held looking into the boy's death. Provincial Constable J. F. Shanks investigated.

The little boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bocking, R.R. 2, Shannonville. He is also survived by a sister, Donna Lynn, and a brother, Stephen David, both at home. He is of the Anglican Church.

Cancer Society To Show Off New Hospital

TORONTO (CP) — Volunteer work is a professionally organized business at the new Princess Margaret Hospital and Ontario Cancer Institute here.



Yellow-smocked women volunteers of the Canadian Cancer Society are providing services to patients under the guidance of a paid "volunteer work co-ordinator."

The women are organized into regular shifts. They escort patients for treatment, supervise play in children's wards, guide visitors through the new $10,000,000 hospital, provide materials for occupational therapy, write letters for patients and provide flowers and a library service.

NEWSPAPER TO APPEAL

NEW YORK (AP)—The Herald Tribune says it will appeal to the U.S. Supreme Court a criminal contempt conviction of one of its writers for refusing to disclose a news source. The writer, television columnist Marie Torre, was sentenced to a 10-day jail term by a federal district court. The federal court of appeals upheld this decision Tuesday.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Stirling, was also in attendance.

Canadian Consumers' Body Conducts Tests of New Toys

MONTREAL (CP) — A committee of the Canadian Association of Consumers has become a member of Canada's $68,000,000 toy industry.

Mrs. A. L. Kaszirer, chairman of the toy testing committee, told the association's national annual meeting here Wednesday that 150 new toys had been tested in the past year.

The association's toy buying guide had been bought by 6,000 Canadians and several hundred requests had come from the United States.

A third edition of the booklet—What's What for Children—is due for publication in November.

Mrs. Kaszirer said a new division had been set up to test toys for handicapped children.

National president Isabel Atkinson, said the consumer should be recognized as a partner in the country's economy.

"The time has come when the consumers' partnership with producers and distributors in the Canadian economy should be recognized. We must try to see that it is a balanced, no longer unequal, partnership."

Mrs. J.-A. Stahr of Montreal suggested in a report that women should be more discerning in their shopping habits.

"If a low price is the prime factor in a purchase," she said, "it is reasonable to expect the article has been cheapened in some way in order to keep the cost at a minimum, and will not then give the most satisfactory service."

"If, however, an article is purchased whose quality should, according to price and label, render reasonable wear and satisfaction, then the consumer has just cause for complaint if it does not do so."

Mrs. Ralph Ducics, chairman of the membership committee, reported a membership of 25,000.

Mrs. R. W. Morningstar, chairman of the food committee, said consumers want the date of manufacture stamped on their milk, canned goods, and frozen foods.

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP)—Hugh Gaitskell is doing a convincing job of showing his critics who is boss of Britain's Labor party.

With few comparatively minorm items to be cleaned up at today' closing session of the party's a nual conference, the norma turbulent opposition leader wi emerging in a new role of a tiger who eats not only Conservative but party malcontents for break fast.

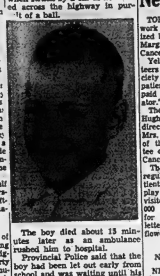
Gaitskell's stock has been boosted by an obvious desire by all sections of the party to la play nice. Aneurin Bevan has taken every opportunity to dem onstrate willingness to forge their differences when they fought for the party during a few years ago and powerful trade union leaders have been in standing supporting policies of the executive.

But the party leader himself struck the decisive blow Thursday in quelling the annual let ting revolt on nuclear disarma ment.

REBELS FIGHT STRONGLY

The rebels took up most of a day devoted to discussing Labor's foreign policy with a vig orous effort to commit the party to unilateral renunciation of nu clear weapons. Official policy is pledged to unilateral stoppage of hydrogen bomb tests but favors retention of the nuclear deterrent until international agreement is reached on a ban.

Gaitskell replied quietly but his tone became sharper when he was heckled from the floor. He dismissed almost contemptuously the contention of opponents that the British example would influ ence other countries to follow suit. There was, he said, "not a shred of evidence" to support the argument.



After urging advocates of uni lateral action not to confuse moral issues with the practical details of defence policy, he con cluded with a sharp warning that "their sort of propaganda" jeop ardized Labor's chances by con fusing public opinion.

Chasing Ball Across Highway Young Boy Fatally Injured

Before the horrified eyes of his mother who was waiting at the Marysville school to drive her children home from school, Ronald Bocking, 7-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan Bocking, R.R. 2, Shannonville, was fatally injured Thursday afternoon when struck by a car as he dart ed across the highway in pur suit of a ball.

The boy died about 15 min utes later at an ambulance rushed him to hospital.

Provincial Police said that the boy had been let out early from school and was waiting until his older sister was let out from classes to be driven home by his mother.

The ball with which the Bock ing boy and several other child ren were playing went into the highway. The boy waited for an eastbound car to pass, then darted onto the road in front of a westbound vehicle driven by Edward Cubbon of Toronto. The boy suffered a fractured skull and other injuries.

The Bocking family had mov ed to the Shannonville area from Moniteau about eight months ago.

Police said that an inquest would be held looking into the boy's death. Provincial Con stable J. F. Shanks investigat ed.

The little boy was the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Bocking, R.R. 2, Shannonville. He is also survived by a sister, Donna Lynn, and a brother, Stephen David, both at home. He is of the Anglican Church.

Canadian Consumers' Body Conducts Tests of New Toys

MONTREAL (CP) — A com mittee of the Canadian Associa tion of Consumers has become a monitor of Canada's $60,000,000 toy industry.

Mrs. A. L. Kastner, chairman of the testing committee, told the association's national annual meeting here Wednesday that 120 new toys had been tested in the past year.

The association's toy buying guide had been bought by 6,000 Canadians and several hundred requests had come from the United States.

A third edition of the booklet— What's What for Children—is due for publication in November.

Mrs. Kastner said a new div ision had been set up to test toys for handicapped children.

National president Isabel At kinson, said the consumer should be recognized as a partner in the country's economy.

"The time has come when the consumers' partnership with pro ducers and distributors in the Ca nadian economy should be recog nized. We must try to see that it is a balanced, no longer unequal, partnership."

Mrs. J. A. Stehr of Montreal suggested in a report that wo men should be more discerning in their shopping habits.

"If a low price is the prime factor in a purchase," she said, "it is reasonable to expect the article has been cheapened in some way in order to keep the cost at a minimum, and will not then give the most satisfactory service."

"If, however, an article is pur chased whose quality should, ac cording to price and label, ren der reasonable wear and satisfac tion, then the consumer has just cause for complaint if it does not do so."

Mrs. Ralph Ducloe, chairman of the membership committee, reported a membership of 25,000.

Mrs. R. W. Morningstar, chair man of the food committee, said consumers want the date of man ufacture stamped on their milk, canned goods, and frozen foods.

County Medical Society Aux. Holds Meet

The Women's Auxiliary to the Hastings and Prince Edward County Medical Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Dr. and Mrs. A. E. Miles, Dutch-erin Ave.

The meeting was conducted by the president, Mrs. F. R. Ross.

Mrs. Donald Stock, as a representative from the Women's Auxiliary of the Arthritic Society, asked and received the names of members willing to assist at a tea to be held for the arthritis of the Bellevile area.

Mrs. Stock also made special mention of the dinner to be held soon for the Arthritic Society at the Hotel Quinte and urged as many as possible to attend for this most worthy cause.

Mrs. Donald Scott, representative of the local group to the Women's Auxiliary to the Ontario Medical Association in Toronto, brought suggestions for projects arising from a recent meeting of that group.

It was suggested the members bring instruments no longer in use by their husbands to the next meeting, to be repaired, if necessary, and sent to the Medical Missionary Aid Society.

A motion to the effect that knitted goods and other handwork made by the group should be kept until a suitable quantity was obtained and then offered for sale with proceeds to go to the Canadian Arthritic and Rheumatism Society, was approved by all members.

A social evening will be held with Mrs. D. McVicker and Mrs. G. S. Cronk winners.

Mrs. A. Walters offered her home for the October meeting.

The president brought the meeting to a close and a social coffee hour was enjoyed by all present.

She showed that happiness means different things to different people and that it may depend on the individual outlook on life. Mrs. H. Hester reported on the Kingston convention. She requested the members to help with sewing and name tonight.

The October convention in Ottawa was again brought to the attention of new members who may be interested in attending.

Further discussion on plans for the Black and Gold Ball in November was held. They are progressing favorably and tickets are already being sold by the members.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. R. C. Ketcheson, and co-hostess, Mrs. G. Thompson.

'Living to Serve' Is Theme Of United Church WA Meet

By MRS. W. G. MACLEAN

"Living to Serve" was the theme of the semi-annual meeting of the Bay of Quinte Conference of the Women's Association of the United Church of Canada, held in Trinity United Church, Trenton Falls, September 29th, and presided over by the president, Miss W. G. Scott.

Mrs. G. A. McMullen, a vice-president of Toronto Council of Missions, and also chairman of the finance committee, was the guest speaker. Her theme in an address on the "The Challenge of the Church," reminded the members of the high service required of them.

In a stirring summary of the standards of Faith she told members that they are challenged to take church membership seriously. This is the time when Christianity must demonstrate its power in individual lives and in society, she said. Regular church attendance, leadership in Christian education, the support of the Holy Scriptures as the basic rule of life, cultivation of personal and family worship, loyalty to and support of the project of the church in the community, the nation and world, the giving of time, talent, service and the courage to work for the Kingdom are the basic obligations of a church member in these critical days.

We cannot, as Christians, she said, accept all the world's standards. In our day, Christian standards are forever challenging the standards of the world. We must put the importance of spiritual things rather than on worldly possessions, Mrs. McMullen declared.

It is important for us to study the word of God if we would renew our minds. No matter what our vocation may be, to be successful we need to pray for Divine guidance and guidance, the speaker declared. We need to take time to pray and to listen for God to speak to us. If we are willing to let God speak through our lives, if we will learn of Him and keep our hearts attuned to His holding great new and wonderful vistas of service will be opened for us. One of the greatest of the daily consecrated living is the way in which God can use seemingly inadequate person who is devoted to Him to accomplish things. A small immigrant woman was spoken of who gave such services to others in a miniature, no too menial, that in twelve years she was elected Woman of the Year in Chicago. When a person with exceptional ability accepts God's guidance it is wonderful, Mrs. McMullen told the audience. Dr. Grenfell on our own Labrador Coast; Kagawa in Japan; Laubauch in India and Albert Schweitzer were given as examples.

SOCIETY CHANGES

"Many changes have taken place in our society during recent years. Once the church was the centre of all activity — now service clubs, lodges for men and women, craft clubs, bonspiel clubs, community and political societies, to name a few, are important and filling needs in a community." The speaker pointed out that the members present were representing an important organization of the United Church, with a membership of 212,636 women in 6,110 associations, "to deepen the spiritual life of the women of the church; to develop a program of Christian fellowship and service, personal evangelism and stewardship; to inspire women to an increasing knowledge of, interest in, and loyalty to the total program of the church.

"The challenge of the church to us," she said, "is to see that we fully carry out our aims — do women find Christian fellowship at our meetings? Are they lives touched, their spirits revitalized? Are they all given opportunity to serve? Dr. Marian Hilliard sadly stated: "I've always been sorry that my church never felt I had a contribution to make until all back and thought her too busy. Have we women in our communions here a call to challenge or give opportunity to serve?"

Concluding, Mrs. MacMullen quoted from Dr. Muichmor's report, "Darkness lies heavy upon our world today. It is shadow of unanswered questions, the eclipse of high hopes; over all hangs a menacing cloud, the threat of annihilation. Many would forget the surrounding darkness if they could. Within little circle of artificial lights preoccupied with work and pleasure, maintaining an enforced optimism and keeping a narrow piety, they would shut out the darkness by pretending it does not exist. But honesty and discernment reject such an evasion. More deeply, conviction faiths rejects it — for faith requires one who confrontation darkness, endured and overcame it."

"When His commandment to love God and our neighbor are fulfilled in men, we shall walk in light, all fears dispelled. The challenge to the church shall be met," the speaker concluded.

MANY DELEGATES PRESENT

Delegates were present from Presbyteries of Belleville, Peterbourg, Lennox and Addington, Quinte, Peterborough, also 20 from Kingston and 48 from Renfrew Presbyteries. The president urged Presbyterial delegents to give careful guidance to Presbyterial secretaries and counsellors by advising them of experienced leaders to fill Conference executive positions next year.

Miss Stella Bennett, literature secretary, displayed from her literature table a number of excellent publications such as "Church Women at Worship" with 12 complete program devotional booklets for each and shut-ins; "Ten Steps to Leadership"; "Learning Together in Unity"; "Canada — Fellowship" which gives techniques on panels, forums, etc.; the annual report of Dr. Muichmor, "Darkness or Dawn"; study packet, "Our Church"; reading material on family life such as "Keeping up with the Joneses" and "Marriage is What You Make it"; "Worship at Sea."

The morning session concluded with Communion Service. A luncheon given by the ladies of Trenton was warm appreciation. Greetings were brought by Mrs. Hansen, president of the Bay-bonese W.A., and Dr. J. A. Pugh-Gilchrist, the pastor. Mrs. Spofford, Presbytery conductress, brought the greetings of the Conference W.M.S., a delightful message was given by the new president of Renfrew Presbytery. Several beautiful solos were rendered by the soprano in the theme of the day, Peterborough Presbytery conducted devotions in the afternoon session.

A panel discussion of secretaries at work was conducted by Mrs. H. H. Webb, entitled "What's Your Job?" The broad field of W.A. secretaries' responsibilities in the congregation was well set out by the Conference officers. Mrs. A. C. Crowhurst stressed that devotion should not be viewed as merely a preliminary, but should have suitable preparation, the aim to deepen the spiritual life of the women of the church; it might be called the pearl for it harms the meeting.

Mrs. R. C. Jackson pointed out that visiting and Christian fellowship can do wonderful things for the church and W.A. if the right visitors are chosen. Pamphlets are available on this subject, and a discussion group could give guidance. Mrs. Sadler outlined the Christian stewardship this year is to find young men and women who are willing to give full time to the Christian church, and then to give them financial help.

A question period conducted by Mrs. J. A. McMullen and Mrs. A. A. Crowle cleared up many problems. It was stated that the Commission appointed by the General Council to study women's work in the church had reported at the sessions last week and had been commissioned to continue further study. Permission to use the church at any level must be obtained from General Council; it must not be lightly used, but as a privilege.

The United Church in Canada pledged $10,000 for the restoration of the John Knox Chapel in Geneva, Switzerland, which is being carried out by Protestant Christians. The W.A. pledged $3,000 of this; $1,200 has been received. Any Association which has not had a share in this project may send its donation to the Dominion Council treasurer marked for this work, and it will be forwarded.

Those groups wishing to contribute to the furnishings of the chapel in the new United Church House may send their donations to marked.

A new set of slides on Five Oaks has been made available, with scripts for 28 minutes. They may be ordered from Mrs. Beverly Oaten.

The executive of the conference W.A. will meet in Mark St. United Church, Peterborough in January. The Conference W.A. will meet in Brighton in May.

Three London Youths Work At Factory

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — The establishment fitted the crime when three London boys were caught stealing beans worth $2.65 from a factory here.

After consultation between police, parents and factory manager, the boys, aged nine, 11 and 12, were ordered to spend a Saturday morning working at the factory.

They cut and piled sweet corn and gladiolus bulbs, swept up bean pods, and swept floors.

When the work was done, each boy got a pat on the back and a package of beans.

They are innocent kids and did not mean any harm but we had to teach them not to take things without permission," said factory manager Ken Frayne.

Woman Ambassador Relaxes

Margaret Meagher, new Canadian ambassador to Israel, relaxes with a book at the end of an Ottawa building. She is to become an ambassador in Canada's foreign service, the 47-year-old native of Halifax is to present her credentials in Tel Aviv on October 20. (CP Photo).

Margaret Meagher, Canada's First Female Ambassador, Happy With Israeli Post

By ARCH MacKENZIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian-Israeli relations will be on a woman-to-woman basis later this month when Margaret Meagher returns to Tel-Aviv as Canada's first female ambassador.

She has more than femininity in common with Mrs. Golda Meir, Israel foreign minister with whom she deals during top-level discussions. Both are former school teachers. Each has been professional precedent in her respective country. More important, they like each other.

Miss Meagher, who in 1945 became Canada's first woman diplomat, is scheduled to present her credentials in Tel Aviv on Oct. 20 after arriving by air from a Canadian holiday. In her luggage will be a Persian lamb jacket purchased during Canadian shopping.

WELCOME ATTRIBUTES

A genuine liking for entertaining and an abiding curiosity about foreign lands and their peoples—both welcome attributes for a diplomat—were reflected in a pre-departure interview.

Miss Meagher—she pronounces it Mar—cut a career woman's figure from behind a desk in the external affairs department, tureen hair curled, nails stained red and fingers toying with a pile of paper clips.

Tall and slender in a soft grey suit, the 47-year-old ambassador chatted easily about times when she was first posted last year as charge d'affaires, working under an ambassador resident in Athens. She was named ambassador in September.

She confessed that she's doing well if she has two days off a week to herself.

There are the diplomatic dinners and official parties where she has to "show the flag." There are the less formal occasions when she mixes at home or as a guest with diplomatic or Israeli friends.

COMMON INTERESTS

"And those are important, not only socially," she says. "after all, it's good to know what a citizen is thinking about. If you are out with fellow diplomats, almost invariably the conversation turns at some point to our common interests."

She reads and listens to records. Weekends, she loves to dismiss her chauffeur and drive from her home in a Tel Aviv suburb to some point of interest.

"I'm no historian or archaeologist," says Miss Meagher, who graduated from Dalhousie University in her native Halifax with a degree in political science. "But there's so much ancient history in Israel that you become fascinated."

She regards the story of post-war Israel as a huge sociological development crammed with interest.

A new house, she feels, may be required to cope with her Tel Aviv entertaining. This includes groups of Canadians drawn to exams and was a counsellor in Quebec before being appointed to Tel Aviv last year as charge d'affaires.

As ambassador, her main preoccupation will be to keep an ear tuned to Middle East developments in a vital western listening post. Israel's position in United Nations chanceries is obtained and Canada's outlined. Much of the work involves personnel under Mrs. Meir. At the top-level, Miss Meagher consults with the minister herself.

"A very strong character, genuine and direct," she says of Mrs. Meir. "I like her. She can provide in a very few words the answer you want and the reasons for it."

Just the same I think it's terrible that men must again bother with a nice girl who is honestly interested in her work. Many should be given at least an even chance to prove what she can do. Size's never had that.

The Council: Everytime Mary is hired she is given "at least an even chance to prove what she can do." Even a model is not employed on a purely ornamental basis. It takes know-how to handle any job properly and the employee is expected to have that know-how or to gain it as quickly as possible.

Mary shows that she has some serious desire to prove to herself and others that she is a competent person, not merely "a lovely, sweet girl." She can be both, but the road is not always easy and Mary should recognize that she must back her wishes by some discipline and will power. Mrs. L. S. should discourage Mary from making a strong effort in this direction. It is really no great compliment to a girl to get fired because she is so attractive she can't be taken seriously. Too many attractive girls are taken very seriously on their jobs.

Mrs. L. S. — Mary is a lovely, sweet girl and has loads of friends and I feel she should just have a good time out of life now when she is free. I was married young and had two babies to take care of when I was her age, so I know what it is to be tied down by responsibility.

This is why it hurts me to see that Mary is so unhappy about her jobs. Whenever she loses a job she comes home and cries for two days. She feels that nobody believes she is good for anything and she is ashamed for her friends. I have tried to convince her that there is nothing to be ashamed of. Men simply find her attractive and they are more interested in her than in her work.

Lately there have been at least three and four a year. Must I attend all these showers? After the girls quit work, I am in contact with only a few of them.

— Too-many showers.

Certainly it is not a "must" that you attend all these showers, but if you don't, I doubt if you would be very comfortable about not cooperating with the accepted custom and I doubt too if you would be very popular. Showers under these circumstances are "just one of those things" best to accept. However, if you don't mind being criticized, you needn't accept the invitations and attend the showers.

However, since there are really so few a year, I suggest you attend these graciously, and take a present of the general type requested — a useful present, but one thoughtfully chosen.

Must Advertise Canadian Art Says Official

By EDNA UHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP)—Canada must advertise its art says Mrs. F. G. Marriott of the Canadian Arts Council.

"Some people abroad think that Canada is in the backwoods and a reason for that attitude is that cultural products are not included in Canadian showpieces at international fairs and exhibitions," she said.

"Canada is advertised commercially very well — let's do the same for Canadian art."

RISE A FACTOR

Mrs. Marriott says there is no lack of Canadian culture — it is just that Canada is so vast few persons can know all that is being produced in sculpture, painting, theatre, ballet and literature.

Part of the Arts Council's job is to disseminate information. Mrs. Marriott suggests providing information about museums, art galleries and other cultural activities to immigrants.

"We don't have to create a culture in Canada—we've got one already—but we must develop more public interest in cultural thing ", she said. "We must make Canadians aware, and therefore proud of the nation's achievements in arts and letters. And we must make other countries aware of our work, too."

Mrs. Marriott said formation of the Canada Council was a big step forward in the country's cultural development.

She says that though raw materials are more abundant in Canada than elsewhere, technical skills to use them have mostly been developed abroad.

"Ideally, scholarships should be available to send Canadians abroad to acquire technical skill and bring them back to teach others, and to bring instructors from abroad to teach here," she said.

"In this way, we could keep our raw materials and provide more and more money by processing them in Canada."

She believes a library could be made by silversmiths, lapidaries, sculptors, painters, and others through sales to the Canadian public.

Mrs. Marriott, a fourth-generation Canadian, was born in Simcoe, Ont., and has lived in Montreal and Ottawa allowing the baking aromas to waft to her room just ahead of serving time.

Beg, borrow or steal different dainty china, crystal to change the appearance of her tray every day. Ask everyone to think up surprises for her with the tray arrival.

Serve a small portion of freshly-squeezed orange juice in bowl of cracked ice; little bunches of green seedless grapes. Have every little item of luscious fruit different on a fruit salad plate, with one not-to-sweet cream cheese ball. Offer the patient one small cube of cheese, not a flat slice. Tempt her with highly colored fruits like a chilled compote of Lombard plums or black cherries or fresh strawberry ice cream or a few slices of fresh peach on small scoop of fruit sherbet.

LEMON JELLY:

Soak 1½ tablespoons gelatine in ¼ cup cold water. Add ¾ to 1 cup sugar and 2 cups boiling water and stir until dissolved. Add ¼ cup lemon juice and finely grated rind from ½ lemon. Chill. Serve plain or with soft custard. Shape the patient's individual mould. Serve remainder to family.

A Few Appetite-Spurring Ideas: Small portions of colorful meats in a dainty covered dish, accompanied by one dainty wafer cracker. Try the soups and the cocktails every time. Never serve a large or even medium portion of anything. Make servings small so that the very volume of food does not look like languid patient. If you were giving your mother a salad plate for luncheon, put only half of a deviled egg on it, and a thick slice of tomato and choice tomato, one ripe olive and a dainty "finger" sandwich of chicken breast and lettuce or lettuce leaf.

Tempt the patient by impaling two or three small cubes of broiled beef tenderloin on little colored toothpicks. Serve her two boiled and shelled shrimp, lying flat with a thimble-sized paper cup containing melted butter, and fresh tea biscuits or icebox rolls, in former centuries.

GRAIN PERILS

Western farmers have almost completed harvesting a big grain crop, most of which this year escaped three of the worst perils — sawfly, rust and frost.

This map indicates where wheat crops in average years are most susceptible to these dangers. Rust, however, can spread to all areas in a bad year and sawfly sometimes spreads as far east as Manitoba. Frost can affect the whole area if the harvest is late.

Plant Scientists Attack Stem, Leaf Rust Scourges Of Western Wheat Lands

By BOB TREMEER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WINNIPEG (CP) — A never-ending war with enemies that travel with the wind to attack Canadian grain fields is being waged by plant scientists on the University of Manitoba campus.

The enemies are stem and leaf rust, the scourges of North American wheat farms. Man's best defence against them, says Prof. B. C. Jenkins, is the development and production of new rust-resistant wheat varieties.

"But each variety we produce is capable of warding off attacks from all known races (types) of rusts gives nature its start in the production of another new rust."

TOUGH BATTLE

The plant science professor said in an interview it appears the battle will be a continuing one.

"We produce a rust-resistant variety and nature is right there to use the plant to start the cycle of a race capable of attacking our new wheat."

Basically what happens is the new wheat plant starves to death as all rusts not capable of attacking it and leaves the field clear for new and harmful ones to develop, he said.

The new rust soon becomes the dominant race, and within a few years regains a degree of infectivity where it can do widespread damage.

Rust is a wind-borne fungus which attaches itself to the stem or leaf of a wheat plant and sends out tiny shoots which drain of plant food normally used in the development of wheat kernels.

Stem rust is the biggest problem in Western Canada and is most severe in years or seasons. It arrives in midsummer and develops during wet periods.

Many of the rusts which will menace wheat crops 10 to 20 years hence exist, he said, now. But until the time present races cannot live and multiply, they remain relatively dormant.

The sexual stage of rust takes place on barberry plants, an ornamental bush commonly grown in the United States and Eastern Canada.

After completing this stage millions of rust spores start on a long, gradual wind-borne journey north, infecting susceptible plants on the way.

A fairly intensive rust outbreak in 1954 was the top to plant scientists start developing rust-resistant wheat varieties and a laboratory was established here by the federal government.

Marquis wheat, which had no rust protection, dominated wheat acreage prior to 1935. In that year a serious stem rust outbreak cut heavily into yields and spelled the end for Marquis and other rust-susceptible varieties in Western Canada, except for a few scattered areas in Alberta where rust is not a problem.

Thatcher, developed in 1934 at the University of Minnesota, was the first high-quality, high-yielding, rust - resistant wheat produced. By 1939 it dominated western Canadian wheat acreage, a position it still holds.

In 1954 an attack of Race 15B rust resulted in a loss of 135,000,000 bushels of wheat and Thatcher suffered heavily.

Plant scientists had foreseen the emergence of Race 15B rust and developed Selkirk wheat which was distributed for seeding in 1954. It withstood the assault that year, but a new rust capable of attacking Selkirk has been discovered.

It now is not widespread, but the struggle between man and nature has started again.

Negro Will Seek To Sue Builder

TORONTO (CP)—A Negro advertising executive says he will take action against a builder who refused to sell him a lot because his presence in a fashionable suburb might decrease property values.

"I am proceeding with this as it would not be fair to my children to do otherwise," said Wilbert Richardson, 33.

He added that he would file a complaint with builder Walter W. McFarland under Ontario's anti-discrimination laws.

Labor Minister Daley said he could not investigate a report of the builder's refusal until he received a written complaint.

He and Attorney - General Roberts doubted if Ontario's anti-discrimination laws were broad enough to cover refusal by an owner to sell property on racial grounds.

Iceland Changes Rules About Sick Sailors

LONDON (Reuters) — Iceland has told Britain it no longer is prepared to agree to the landing of sick British seamen in Iceland by naval ships, a foreign office spokesman disclosed Thursday.

The spokesman said Iceland would in future only allow sick seamen to be landed by the ships on which they served.

Observers said the effect of this would be that British trawlers which wished to land seamen for medical attention would have to enter Icelandic ports where they would be liable to arrest for fishing within Iceland's enlarged 12-mile fishing limit.

Bevan Resumes Battle With Pacifist Wing

SCARBOROUGH, England (CP)—Aneurin Bevan, the Labor party's shadow foreign secretary, has resumed battle with Labor's pacifist wing over demands that Britain renounce the hydrogen bomb. But the personal rift was taken out of the controversy.

The section of zealots that formerly recognized the dreaded party treasurer as its leader applauded him Wednesday night as he reaffirmed his socialist principles and rejected compromises designed solely to win elections.

They want Britain to abandon nuclear force immediately and unilaterally. He wants it retained to give Britain more influence in negotiating any international cure.

Nuclear disarmament is the only aspect of Labor's foreign policy likely to provoke controversy in today's debate. The conference already has demonstrated enthusiasm for a resolution, moved by party leader Hugh Gaitskell Monday demanding withdrawal of Nationalist Chinese troops from Quemoy, and general agreement is expected on other measures.

Mrs. Barbara Castle was picked by the party in its bid to recapture public favor before the next general election.

Sunday School Lesson

Where Christianity Began

By ROY L. SMITH

There is something just a bit thrilling about the way Christianity began, and the life in the midst of which it took root. The new Testament record seems to have passed over so many of the details which are of great interest to the modern man.

SIN OF EXPECTANCY

First of all, there was an air of expectancy throughout the ancient world, as if some tremendous event was about to take place. Among the mystery religions this eager anticipation was played up to the great profit of the priests who declared they understood the whole affair, and were willing to initiate their disciples into its mysteries.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for October 5: "INTRODUCING THE GOSPEL," Luke 1:1-4, 3:1-14; Acts 1:1-5.

Just how far John the Baptist may have been influenced by this widespread anticipation it is impossible to say, but certainly he would not have been ignorant of it, for it permeated the life of the Jews as well as the Gentiles and was one of the favorite doctrines of the Essenes, concerning whom we have recently learned so much through the Dead Sea Scrolls. Because John conducted his great preaching mission no more than ten miles from the huge monastery, the Baptist must have been familiar with their teachings.

Then there was a series of circumstances and conditions that cried to high heaven for relief.

Through the arrogant maneuvers of Herod the Great, the Sadducean party of the Jews had been put in control of the Temple in Jerusalem, including its vast revenues. A rich capitalist by the name of Annas had contrived to get himself appointed High Priest, and thereafter his five sons and his son-in-law succeeded him in office.

By controlling the Sanhedrin, and compelling it to sanction their laws which were devised to enrich Annas and his family, the Sadducees contrived to get out from under the law itself, and to shoulder the expense of the government off on the shoulders of the shepherds of Judah and the farmers of Galilee.

An annual income of perhaps as much as $20,000,000 passed through the hands of old Annas, for which he was accountable to no one. And the huge bribes he paid to the Roman government for the appointment of himself and his sons, constituted one of the most brazen acts of graft in history.

When Jesus cleaned up the Temple yards, he struck directly at Annas' pocketbook. His crucifixion was thereby fixed.

By every conceivable means old Annas exploited the people, demanding fees and gifts in exchange for a long list of Temple services, and in most cases coming in for a good share of the "take" himself. As a consequence the Jews hated him cordially, and despised his sons. It must have caused a storm of applause when Jesus drove the money changers out of the Temple.

Christianity began in the midst of graft, corruption, intrigue, lust for power, secularism, rebellion, desperation, and despair.

THEIR LIVES — HIS LIVELIHOOD — DEPEND ON OIL

Imperial contributes to a better life for Canadians through constant leadership in oil...finding new supplies...pioneering more useful products

There are more than five tractors for every six occupied farms in Canada...one motor vehicle for every four Canadians. More than half the homes in Canada are heated by oil.

Canadians consume half again as much gasoline today as they did in 1946, nearly five times as much heating and diesel fuels. Imperial has been a major contributor to this better life, more productive economy. In 1945, Canada produced less than one-tenth of its oil needs. In 1947, Imperial discovered oil at Leduc, in Alberta. Today, Canada's own fields produce nearly 60 percent of our requirements.

Through its nine refineries from coast to coast . . . and in its research operations, larger than the rest of the Canadian oil industry put together...Imperial has constantly been able to lead in the development of newer and more useful products . . . to make a fuller life for Canadians.

Since 1941, gasoline-fueled equipment on farms has risen sharply.

Premier Bennett Says Suit Will Be Instituted

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Vancouver Province says Premier Bennett told one of its reporters that he will sue the reporter and the newspaper for $1,000,000 because of a Tuesday story on provincial debt reduction.

The story, from Victoria, said the premier would transfer a $20,000,000 direct-debt item to the government - owned B.C. Power Commission, thereby changing it to a contingent liability or indirect debt item.

It was written by Gordon McCallum, the newspaper's Victoria correspondent. McCallum writes of the premier's threat of legal action in a dispatch from Lillooet, where he was en route with the first Pacific Great Eastern Railway train into the Peace River country.

"Premier Bennett, at North Vancouver Tuesday morning . . . punching an index finger in my chest, announced 'I'm going to sue you and The Province for $1,000,000. Your story was completely false.'"

McCallum writes that "what might have hurt the premier's feelings" was a description of the reported transaction as a "slight-of-hand move."

CLEANS UP IN RUSSIA

Sporting a Russian karakul cap, 38-year-old Romaine Fielding of Los Angeles poses next to some laundry equipment after his return from Russia—where he sold a batch of the clothes washing machinery for a tidy $30,137. It all started out as a potential tax-free junket to Russia for a trade fair. The fair was called off but Fielding went to Russia anyway, set up his laundry equipment in a basement and hung out a sign. After a couple of weeks, a Soviet official asked what he'd take for the works. Fielding named his price and got it. (AP Wirephoto).

First Trailer Built for Hobby Now Growing Business in Annapolis Valley Community

NO ILL WILL TOWARDS STABBER

Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., 29, Negro integration leader from Montgomery, Ala., is shown with his wife in a Harlem, New York City, hospital as he recovered from a stab wound. A Negro woman pleaded a letter opener into his chest as he was autographing one of his books in a store. He still will be felt no ill toward the woman and asked that she receive the help she apparently needs, to become a constructive member of society.

DEEP BROOK, N.S. (CP) — When Charles E. Daniels built his first trailer 20 years ago it was just a hobby. Today it's a growing business in this Annapolis Valley community.

The hobby has been developed into Rolling Homes Limited, a $200,000-a-year business that produces 100 units annually. They range in size from eight - foot camping trailers to 50-foot split-level mobile homes.

The factory itself is a brick structure, partly roofless. Until he took over the building four years ago it was a gaunt monument to an industry that failed.

ONCE FLOUR MILL

Erected almost 40 years ago, the building originally housed a pulp mill. The owners abandoned the venture after only six months.

Charles Daniels is optimistic about Rolling Homes. He hopes to develop the old mill into a modern trailer factory with an assembly line producing a trailer a day.

"We have about 11,000 square feet of floor space in use now," he said. "We're going to double that by putting in a second floor when individual parts are made and then lowered to the assembly line below."

The desired expansion will cost an estimated $10,000.

Mr. Daniels expects a plenty of money available in the Maritimes for industrial expansion," Mr. Daniels said. "But I've been unable to find the draw string on it."

JUST GOOD WISHES

"The department of trade and industry and the Atlantic Provinces Economic Council have been very numerous letters, but there's not a penny in them but good wishes."

As the only trailer manufacturer on Annapolis Valley, Rolling Homes can't meet the Maritime demand and must import from Ontario and United States manufacturers.

"We can't advertise," said Mr. Daniels. "We'd be flooded with orders we could not handle. There's a terrific potential here and a bigger one waiting in Newfoundland and the New Kingland states.

"The trailers we have to import cost the customer about $1,000 extra. Sometimes our customer bothers us, but what can we do? We haven't the facilities to build them here."

The design of the trailers is original with Rolling Homes—most of them resulting from the years when the owner built trailers for a hobby.

"This month we're bringing out a new model. It's the latest word in the industry," said Mr. Daniels. "This is designed for the young married couple who want a trailer but in time may need more room for a family or children."

It has 10 different bedroom arrangements and can accommodate up to 15 people."

Another unique design is "Mobilet," a trailer that can be used as a two-bedroom motel. Daniels has also designed trailers design their units to take a certain type or make of TV set, he adds. The Daniels' design will accommodate 90 per cent of the furniture normally used in an apartment or small house.

"Right now I've got 15 men working here," he said. "If I can expand to the size I want I'll be able to employ 40 or more."

Million Dollar Fire Research Bldg. Opened

OTTAWA (CP) — The National Research Council today opened a $1,000,000 fire research building to enable scientists to find new methods to reduce Can a da's appalling loss of life and property from fires.

The building, dedicated to the "advancement of knowledge in fire prevention and protection," was officially opened by Dr. F.M. Lea, director of building research in the United Kingdom.

Located on NRC's Montreal Road property, it is one of the western outerlo's, the new fire research laboratory is the only one of its kind in Canada. It combines with three installations in the fire research in Britain and the United States.

The building is equipped with modern apparatus to permit the NRC building research division to make a new attack on the causes of fire and ways to prevent them.

Fires in Canada in 1957 killed 836 persons and caused property damage of $132,000,000. This compared with 507 deaths and $107,200,000 in property damage in 1956 and 243 deaths and $22,000,000 in damage in 1946.

The main feature of the research equipment is a 40-foot by 80-foot high furnace room. It is equipped with two special furnaces for testing the fire resistance and other properties of walls, ceilings and floors.

The building also includes laboratories for small-scale experiments and a special room, in which models of buildings can be burned. Other facilities will enable research on fire-fighting apparatus.

Twelve Foxes Flushed in Five-Hour Test

WOLFE ISLAND (CP) — This farming island at the head of the St. Lawrence River near Kingston turned into a fox-hunting paradise Thursday.

There were 150 hounds testing their mettle at the Canadian national field trials, run this year by Frontenac District Fox Hunters' Association.

One of seven judges watching the dogs said: "At least 12 foxes were flushed during the five-hour test.

The first of three, "The countryside is ideal for hunting," he added.

After the run 39 dogs were scratched from the finals. Top dog among them last year's winner, Coy McCoy, owned by Harvey Dutchain of Morrickville, Ont.

About half the scratches were dogs born later than 1956, and so ineligible for Saturday's final trials. Master of Hounds John Tripp of Fall River, Mass., predicted no more than 40 experienced hounds will be left in Saturday's final run.

200th Birthday Representative Govt. Marked

HALIFAX (CP) — Representatives of nine provinces, three states and five Commonwealth countries Thursday night attended a state banquet in honor of the 200th birthday of representative government in Canada.

The dinner was the windup to Nova Scotia's four-month tribute to the men who made it possible.

Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba addressed the dinner, which followed a special session of the provincial legislature, held a few blocks from the court house site where 16 representatives sat down Oct. 2, 1758, in the country's first elected assembly.

Mr. Roblin said the early government in Nova Scotia was "one of the great gifts this province has given to the people of Canada."

Sir David Eccles, president of the British Board of Trade, said the underdeveloped countries of the world look to the West or the Sino-Soviet bloc for help.

The West's response would decide life or death for the grandchildren of this generation.

The free world must apply its economic resources effectively "to prove beyond doubt that our way of life is better than the Communist way."

VILLAGE SOLD

South Africans Plan to Purchase Canadian Wheat

PRETORIA, South Africa (CP) The South African wheat board has announced it plans to buy a substantial quantity of Canadian wheat this fall to supplement the country's grain reserves.

Negotiations for the sale, the first major export of Canadian wheat to South Africa since 1955, are to take place in Winnipeg Oct. 7.

"We intend to buy a substantial amount of Canadian wheat this year," said Dr. Abetsal Bock, manager of the wheat industry control board, in an interview.

However, Bock, who will personally conduct the negotiations with the Canadian wheat board, said that at this stage it would not be advisable to disclose the quantities involved. In 1956, South Canadian wheat exports to South Africa totalled $8,786,000.

TIMELY SALE

In Johannesburg Ian Macdonald, assistant Canadian trade commissioner, commented that the sale of wheat to South Africa would be "very timely."

Bock said the decision to import Canadian wheat was taken to guarantee an adequate carryover of South African wheat reserves until the 1958-59 crop is harvested.

The South African grain season runs from Nov. 1 to Oct. 31. The 1957-58 crop totalled 28,000,000 bushels, but details of this year's crop, expected to be considerably smaller, will not be available until December.

BUY BEST GRADE

Bock said South Africa will buy top-grade Northern wheat from Canada, because of its high-baking quality. Most South African wheat is soft to medium in baking quality.

Although most countries have abolished bread subsidies, the South African government still subsidizes the price of flour and bread to the consumer to the extent of $20,000,000 a year.

Some Models Are too Long And too Low

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Some 1959 model autos are too long, too low and covered with too many expensive gadgets to risk parking them, a St. Louis parking firm has decided.

Wayne Stedelin of six-auto parks company, said some new cars are nine inches longer this year. "We would have to rebuild our ramps to accommodate them."

Owners of such cars were told in newspaper advertisements to stay away from the firm's six parking lots.

Stedelin said lights in the front bumpers of some models, plus fancy grillwork, add to the legal perils of operating the firm.

"We are studying dimensions of other cars now on the production lines," he said. "We may have to extend our ban to other new models."

MiGs Attack Planes Dropping Quemoy Supplies

TAIPEI (AP) — Four Chinese Communist MIG-17s attacked Nationalist transport planes over Quemoy today. One transport was heavily damaged and forced to land on a Quemoy beach, the Nationalist defence ministry announced. The radio operator and the navigator were wounded.

The attack occurred during an air drop of food and medical supplies to the blockaded Nationalist garrison on the island.

A defence ministry spokesman said the C-46 transport was heavily damaged but managed to sit down. He did not disclose how many planes were in the air when the attack occurred.

The spokesman said Peiping claimed a Nationalist Sabre jet fighter plane was knocked down in the encounter, but he called this "a complete lie."

"There were none of our jets in the area," the spokesman said. "There was no air battle of any sort. The Communists are trying to create an imaginary battle with the idea of making out that we are being the provocators. These were manned drop transports engaged in an air-drop mission."

It was the first Communist attack on a National air-drop mission since they began in mid-September. The Nationalists, with U.S. help, have been trying to nullify the Communist artillery blockade by pouring in supplies by air.

The number of men aboard the damaged C-46 was not disclosed. Normally the Nationalists put 11 men aboard a C-46 during air drops.

Mother Bear Put to Rout by Elderly Man

BEZANSON, Alta. (CP) — A mother bear with cubs has the reputation of being one of the most dangerous of wild animals.

But 76-year-old W. Gribo of the Grande Cache area 250 miles northwest of Edmonton doesn't think so. He has lived today to prove it.

The elderly man noticed a mother bear and her two cubs tearing his cache herd in a'passage a couple of hundred feet from Gribo farm buildings.

He got a pail of two-by-four and went after the mother bear with my dog. He said: "She ran off the dog and I hit her over the head with the timber."

Gribo, who was born in Nova Scotia, Biggest is at Windsor where 600 members of the United Workers Union (CLC) walked out nearly a year ago demanding more pay and benefits from Canada Iron Foundries Company.

The United Steelworkers' International Union (CLC) is still conducting its strike against the former Canadian National Steamships when Indies fleet at Halifax. But many of the 300 men who struck are now taken other jobs since the walkout July 4, 1957.

The United Brewery Workers (CLC) have 148 members on strike against Dominion Malting Co. ers. They quit work Aug. 30 in a demand for pay increases.

Jordan Premier Says Govt. Able Maintain Order

AMMAN (AP)—Premier Samir Rifai expressed confidence today in the ability of his government to maintain order in Jordan.

The 3,000-man British military force sent to the area at the request of King Hussein in July will begin leaving the country on Oct. 20.

In a written interview with questions submitted by The Associated Press Rifai said:

"Insofar as the internal situation is concerned, the government is fully aware of the situation and are steadily returning to normal."

This small Middle East nation has been resisting pressure from disconsented elements within its borders and from some of its Arab neighbors for the last 18 months.

Rifai's confidence that Jordan has weathered the storm was supported by the fact that the youthful king has been travelling freely about his realm and is being received warmly both in isolated desert districts and Amman.

Nearly 45,000 Workers Idle In 10 Strikes and Lockouts Throughout Eastern Canada

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Nearly 46,000 workers are off the job in 10 strike and lockout actions across Eastern Canada and none of the disputes show signs of settlement.

The biggest, a Canadian Press survey shows, is in the Toronto construction industry where four trades unions and the Toronto Builders Exchange are deadlocked on various wage issues and the question of industry-wide negotiations. More than 20,000 men are affected by an industry-wide lockout.

Probably the most serious situation is at Sudbury, where 13,000 members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.) have been shut down the big International Nickel Company.

Inco's payroll is the main support of 120,000 people in the Sudbury area. The union-is defending an eight-per-cent wage boost. Inco says it can't afford pay raises because of declining world sales. The walkout began eight days ago.

STELCO STRIKE

At Hamilton 8,000 workers are still out in a wage fight with the Steel Company of Canada. The strike began Aug. 12 and negotiations with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) have been tightly deadlocked since.

Harbour pressure to get along without garbage collection and other civic services is a strike of 600 members of two civic unions. A variety of wage and benefit issues are involved.

Strike action by 135 electricians has tied up construction in Point Edward, Picket lines of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (CLC) have been honored by 900 tradesmen since the walkout began Sept. 17. Construction seeks a 30-cent hourly wage boost.

In Quebec 2,000 shipyard workers are in the seventh week of a strike against Davie Shipbuilding Limited at Lauzon. The National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL) wants wage increases averaging 20 cents an hour. Present hourly rates ranged from $1.36 to $1.61.

Nearly 80 members of the news staff of La Presse, Montreal French - language daily, went on an interruption of publication Thursday when they walked out after newspaper refused to grant leave of absence to Roger Leblanc, assistant news editor. He was recently elected president of the Canadian and Catholic Federation of Labor.

Policies Can Make or Break An Industry

TORONTO (CP)—Mayor Michael Patrick of Windsor told the Ontario government's annual industrial development conference today municipal policies can frequently make or break an industry.

Manufacturing costs are affected by community taxes and services, he said, while good employees can be obtained only if a community has adequate schools, hospital care, law enforcement and other social services.

"Industry requires a community that recognizes the contribution industry makes to local prosperity.

"The ability to remain competitive depends upon how costs of doing business compare to the costs of competitors in other locations. To, a great deal these conditions are governed by the community.

The text of his speech was made available to the press in advance of delivery.

Greek Students Stone Cyprus Police, Troops

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) Students clashed with troops in Cyprus today in a renewed outbreak of violence over Britain's new plan for the island.

A British soldier and a Turkish police officer were injured in stone throwing attacks by Greek Cypriot students at Morphou, 25 miles west of Nicosia.

Limassol, security forces used tear gas and clubs to disperse students who marched through the streets carrying stones and shouting slogans.

Terrorists ambushed a British RAF convoy south of Famagusta with bombs and gunfire. A truck was damaged but no one was hurt.

BRITON KILLED

Today's troubles followed a day of terror in which a Greek and a British civilian, John South, 35-year-old radio technician, was killed by death and bomb attacks.

Archbishop Makarios, exiled leader of the Greek Cypriots, announced in Athens today he has sent a message to the Cypriot people urging them to oppose the application of the new British plan.

The plan, introduced Wednesday, provides for a seven-year standstill on the future of Cyprus and British-Greek-Turkish co-operation in administering the island. Greece has refused to co-operate.

Inco's payroll is the main support of 120,000 people in the Sudbury area. The union-is defending an eight-per-cent wage boost. Inco says it can't afford pay raises because of declining world sales. The walkout began eight days ago.

STELCO STRIKE

At Hamilton 8,000 workers are still out in a wage fight with the Steel Company of Canada. The strike began Aug. 12 and negotiations with the United Steelworkers of America (CLC) have been tightly deadlocked since.

Harbour pressure to get along without garbage collection and other civic services is a strike of 600 members of two civic unions. A variety of wage and benefit issues are involved.

Strike action by 135 electricians has tied up construction in Point Edward, Picket lines of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers (CLC) have been honored by 900 tradesmen since the walkout began Sept. 17. Construction seeks a 30-cent hourly wage boost.

In Quebec 2,000 shipyard workers are in the seventh week of a strike against Davie Shipbuilding Limited at Lauzon. The National Metal Trades Federation (CCCL) wants wage increases averaging 20 cents an hour. Present hourly rates ranged from $1.36 to $1.61.

Nearly 80 members of the news staff of La Presse, Montreal French - language daily, went on an interruption of publication Thursday when they walked out after newspaper refused to grant leave of absence to Roger Leblanc, assistant news editor. He was recently elected president of the Canadian and Catholic Federation of Labor.

About 300 workers are involved in an industrial dispute in Nova Scotia.

Sydney Steel and Coal Co. (CLC) has refused to meet demands of the United Mine Workers of America (Ind.) for a wage increase and the question of industry-wide negotiations.

SEEING-EYE FOR SIGHTLESS DOG

"PEGGY," a terrier owned by Mrs. George Corbin of Doncaster, Eng., has become the seeing eye dog for "Flash," blind greyhound. "Flash was found abandoned and blind on the streets and was quickly adopted by Peggy who seems to like leading the bigger animal along the crowded streets.

United Nations Shies Away From Far East Action

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) The Far East situation is hanging fire as far as the United Nations is concerned, despite continued reference to China and Quemoy by the Communist Assembly's policy debate.

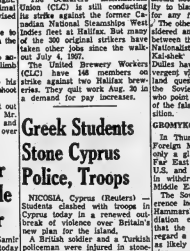
Peiping is standing relatively still on the part of most delegates to go much beyond the talking stage pending some definite word on the outcome of the still-proceeding Warsaw talks between the United States and Red Chinese ambassadors.

ACTION RESTRICTION

Two major factors are combining to keep intervention attempts at a minimum.

The first is the belief the Warsaw talks should be allowed to continue or collapse on their own merits, and that Red China should not be given the opportunity to blame outside negotiations for any failure there.

The other is that what might be considered an intra-family difference between the U.S. and the Chinese Nationalists themselves. Chiang Kai-shek and State Secretary Dulles have expressed widely divergent views on the offshore island question—to the delight of the Soviet-bloc members here, who point to this as an indication of the falsity of the American position.



GROMYKO'S VIEW

In Thursday's debate Russia's Foreign Minister Gromyko made only a glancing reference to the Far East when he attacked the U.S. and Britain for their delay in withdrawing troops from the Middle East.

The Soviet delegate, in a reference in Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold's Middle East mediation efforts, gave indication that the Soviet Union would not regard a similar mission to China as likely to help resolve the tension.

Hammarskjold's Middle East report, circulated earlier this week, was "full of flaws and shortcomings," Gromyko said. It had provided no satisfactory answer to the demands that the British and American forces get out of Jordan and Lebanon.

We've Been Behind Before And Won, Remarks Mr. Berra

By ED WILKS

NEW YORK (AP)—"We done it before," Yogi Berra said. "We been behind 2-0 before and won." It was a set matter - of - factly, with no hint of being pressed. And that's about the way New York Yankees looked today as they waited for Saturday's third game of the world series against Milwaukee Braves.

This one will be in Yankee Stadium, their stronghold.

Manager Casey Stengel was perhaps the only Yankee who showed any real evidence of being miffed after that 13-5 embarrassment at Milwaukee Thursday.

GOOD CLUBBING

"No excuses," said Case. "They give you a good clubbing I'll say that, out there.

"They beat us pretty good."

"There's nothin' wrong with Turley (Thursday's loser in a relief role) Casey added. Nothin' wrong with his arm. We've no excuses."

Although declining to admit the situation was desperate for his starters lightly. There was little of his customary humor as he talked of the return to the Yankee Stadium.

"Somebody might get them out, pretty quick," he snapped. "It's been done before. I never saw any hitting (Yankee hitting) except early and at the end. Hitting wrong with his arm. We've no excuses."

Don Marshall, Maurice Mcdonald, Andra Pronovost and rookie Ralph Backstrom scored for Canadiens.

A spectator at the game was Willie Marshall of Kirkland Lake, who has refused to report to Rochester as ordered by Toronto Maple Leafs.

"They've had the good pitching and the hitting, so far," he said. "How we start, I guess will beat them Saturday. If Casey comes back with Turley on Sunday, Bob will even the series. Then if the manager starts me, I'll try to beat them Monday."

What this club needs is a lift, some spark, that's all. I think Don Lars will be the one to give us that lift and spark."

Canadiens Sweep Ontario Tour

NORTH BAY (CP) — Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League beat their American League farmhands, Rochester Americans 4-1 Thursday night to complete a sweep of a three-game Northern Ontario tour.

Burdette Says Yankees Same As Other Teams

MILWAUKEE (AP)—Lew Burdette of Milwaukee Braves has admitted something most folks have thought right along.

"I'd sure like to see the Yankees in our league," said the pert pedal hurler after eliminating Yankees after beating the Yankees for the fourth straight time in the world series 13-5.

"I'd like to see what we could do with them," he continued in his usual unhurried manner. "They're no tougher than some teams in our league. That's for sure."

The 31-year-old pitcher bowled over the American League champions with ease through the first eight innings. But, they jumped on him for three runs and four of their seven hits in the ninth.

"It made me kind of tired," Burdette said. "It was just throwing strikes trying to get them out."

Asked about the homer he hit, Burdette said:

"It was a long ball. Anybody can hit a ball out of the park. It proved that."

He said Mickey Mantle hit his pair of home runs off a sinker and a screw ball that was "so low I thought it was in the dirt."

High School Grid Players Said Drinking

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — T. H. Eberlee, principal of Lindsay Collegiate Institute, said Thursday he is investigating reports that three players on the school's senior football team were drinking before a game against Kenner Collegiate of Peterborough Wednesday.

Kenner won the game 19-0. Mr. Eberlee said two of the players involved in the reports did not attend school Thursday.

"This is an unfortunate incident," he said. "We are not proud of it."

A return exhibition game between the two schools was cancelled.

Eberlee said he had not completed his investigation but it was believed that the three Lindsay players did not travel to Peterborough with the rest of the team.

Lindsay coach Dr. J. B. Coburn said he had no proof any of the three players had been drinking.

Executive of Big Ad Agency Has Penned Novel About TV

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Many a person in television says he would like to write a novel about this new entertainment world if only he had the time. Now one of the most influential men in TV programming has taken the time and produced a novel.

He is Robert A. Foreman and his novel is entitled The Hot Half Hour. As a vice-president of the large advertising agency of Batten, Barton, Durstine and Osborn, Foreman reputedly breathes life and signs death warrants on many TV programs that practically anyone liking Madison Avenue.

As the author of The Hot Half Hour, he is rather shy about his first novel but he has written entertainingly and with brevity about a business he knows thoroughly. CONTAINS TV QUIZ

Although the book concerns a TV quiz show, it was finished long before the current inquiry into rigged quiz programs. Foreman, who puts in about 60 hours a week at his agency job, began it last December and finished it April 2.

He says he wrote most of it "in long hand on yellow sheets during train riding commutation trains between New York and Westport, or dying around the apartment, or sitting up in bed at home nights."

"No, I wasn't angry about anything when I wrote the book. I had no particular people in mind for my characters—and no particular show in mind. There's no show like that on TV now in my novel because I've known somewhat about the workings of a lot of quiz shows—and none of them cheated."

Pick Teen-Agers For American Davis Cup Team

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The United States Lawn Tennis Association has named a Davis Cup team accented with youth, with two teen-agers on the five-player squad that will play in Australia.

Picked Thursday were: Earl Buchholz Jr., of St. Louis, Mo., Chuck McKinley, Fiedmont, Calif., Barry Mackay, Dayton, Ohio, Alejandro Olmedo of Peru, and Hamilton Richardson of Washington, D.C.

Through 18, Crawford, 19, will receive special tutoring in their echool studies from Richardson and Olmedo during the trip to Australia.

The United States team meets the Italian Davis Cuppers at Perth in October, which enters the challenge round in Brisbane against the Aussies who have won the cup the last three years.

Jim Hoffet, chairman of the Davis Cup selection committee of the USLTA, announced the squad will be headed by non-playing captain Perry Jones of Los Angeles.

"They are the best players available with great potential," said Moffet.

Puck 'Pinch' Players After Hockey Brawl

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)— A stick-swinging duel on the ice Thursday night built up into a trip to police cells for three players in an exhibition hockey game.

An on-the-ice stick duel between New York Rangers' rookie Eddie Shack and Hershey Bears' Larry Zeidel was resumed in a wild free-for-all in the stands after both were ordered out of the game. Hershey's Obie O'Brien got into the second act.

In between scraps the National Hockey League Rangers played out a 7-3 victory over Hershey, American Hockey League champions last year.

The three players were assessed five minutes apiece in court next week. Zeidel was to be freed today on $500 bail. He was charged with assaulting a police officer and creating a disturbance. Shack, Toronto, charged with obstructing police, was set at $100 bail and Shack, whose charge was creating a disturbance, $100.

ZEIDEL INJURED

The fuss started when the Rangers were leading 4-2 midway through the second period. Shack and Zeidel began flailing away with their sticks. Zeidel suffered a head wound that needed 10 stitches to close.

Referee Dalt McArthur gave both Shack and Zeidel match penalties. Shack's high sticking infraction as deliberate injury, calling for a match penalty, and Zeidel's as attempt to injure, for a five-minute major.

Both were sent to club dressing rooms.

Early in the third period Shack and Zeidel started battling again, and time in street clothes in the stands.

Players and spectators cheered as Jolo the Clown blocked Stamford Township police trying to break up the melee. The three were arrested and taken to cells in separate cars.

Bing and Kathy Hoping For Little Girl Next Time

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is there a daughter in Bing Crosby's future? Bing thinks so.

"This time we'll get a girl," he says confidently.

This came out as Bing worked on the first of his two spectacular for ABC this week. In a mellow mood, he spoke of his latest son, Harry Lillis Jr., his four older boys and their careers.

"We were kinda hoping for a girl," he said, speaking for himself and wife Kathy Grant. "But that boy of ours is such a wonderful little fella that we're not at all disappointed."

This week the entire Crosby clan gathered for a dinner to honor son Philip and his bride, Las Vegas singer Ina Ray Hutton. Drummond. There was a feast at the family mansion "and plenty of the bubbly," and the celebration seemed to belie reports of discord among Bing and his boys.

PRAISES CHOICE

"She's a very sweet girl," Bing said of his new daughter - in - law. "She's got a good head on her shoulders and she doesn't drink or smoke."

Papa Crosby admitted that he was surprised that his four older boys appear headed for show business careers.

"I never dary would probably try it, but I thought I had the other three headed in different directions," he said. "The twins (Philip and Dennis) looked as though they might take over the Elko (Nev.) ranch. But I guess

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

European clubs and fans will have no trouble recognizing Canada's entry in the world hockey championships at Prague next February.

The national champions, Belleville McFarlands, will wear a large Maple Leaf topped by "Canada" on the white background front of their sweaters.

Red and black stripes will be the trim on body and arms. Numbers will be worn on the upper arm. On the sweater backs will be "Belleville McFarlands."

The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association requested that "Canada" be worn on the sweater fronts. The addition of the Maple Leaf is the idea of McFarlands' manager Drury Denyes.

The decision to wear "Canada" on the front of the sweaters is an aftermath of complaints made by European clubs last winter when the Whitby Dunlops wore the latter name only on the front part of their jerseys.

The Macs will wear their overseas sweaters during their Eastern senior league campaign. A new set will be ordered for the European junket. These will carry any last-minute changes suggested by the CAHA.

The Canadian champions will have put $6-plus tournament game under their hockey belts before they mush-ball their way next spring.

The exhibition schedule calls for two games with the St. Catharines Teepees, two with the Clinton, N.Y. Comets, and singles with Peterborough Juniors, Whitby, Windsor and Kitchener.

"The Macs are going to get a maximum of hockey and a minimum of travel," Manager Denyes said. "We are not playing interlocking schedules with other leagues, rather playing six exhibitions with our own circuit in Western Ontario. There is a possibility the time we have to leave Canada."

The Allan Cup winners will crowd 50 games in 98 days in schedule play, starting October 24 and closing January 30. They will not take part in league playoffs on their return from Europe.

Nine European countries, including Czechoslovakia, will see the Canadian champions in puck action before and after the world tournament. There is a possibility the Macs will tackle the best with two games in Paris.

The itinerary calls for two games in Scotland, six in Sweden, two in Germany, two in Italy, two in England and singles in Norway, Switzerland and Finland. They have a special invitation to play four post-tournament games in Czechoslovakia.

The McFarlands will leave Toronto by air on February 1 and arrive in Prestwick, Scotland, the next day. They play in Edinburgh the same night, and in Paisley the next evening.

They fly to Oslo, Norway, on February 5 play the Norwegian team and from February 7 to 17 will play six games in Sweden. They play in Helsinki, Finland, on February 18 and the next night see "them in action in Heidelberg, Germany.

On February 22 they play in Garmische, Germany, taking off for Cortina, Italy, where they play on Feb. 24. Two days later they take on the Italians, Italy, team. The next day sees them in Zurich, Switzerland, where they will stay for four days playing two Swiss teams.

On March 2 they leave Zurich for Prague where they take part in the world tournament from March 5 to 15.

It is not known if the four "special" games slated for Czechoslovakia after the tournament, will be played in Prague or other centres.

Possibility of suggested games in Moscow hinges upon the result of the world tournament, A. J. "Buzz" Ahearn, president of the International Ice Hockey Federation, London, said.

Burdette Crushes Yanks To Give Braves Second Win

BILLY BRUTON LEW BURDETTE

Fourth-in-Row Over Bombers For Homer-Clouting Hurler; Larsen, Rush Start in Third

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—Two up and six to go. But there won't be any milwaukee Braves who thinks it will be easy.

Two down and four to go. But there isn't a New York Yankee who thinks the situation is desperate.

That was the world series picture today as the Braves and Yankees took a 2-0 bout breather following Lew Burdette's 13-5 conquest of the American League champions that gave Milwaukee a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven series.

Despite their crushing defeat, matching the worst beating they ever absorbed in series competition, the Yankees were confident they could turn the tables on the Braves, winning at least two out of the three in Yankee Stadium.

LARSEN FOR YANKS

Manager Casey Stengel, who saw his left and right-handed Aces, Whitey Ford and Bob Turley, driven from the mound in two successive days, will rely on Don Larsen, another right-hander to put the Yankees in the winning column when hostilities are resumed Saturday.

Manager Fred Haney, who doesn't announce his starting pitcher until just before game time, finally broke down and said: "It will be either Bob Rush or Juan Pizarro."

The guess is that it will be Rush. The big righthander gets the call over the young lefthander because of his greater experience. Rush had a 10-6 record during the season. Larsen was 9-6. The Yankees are 7-to-5 favorites for the third game.

STENGEL COMMENTS

The series odds, which favor Milwaukee at 11 to 5, failed to dampen Stengel's faith.

"Sure, we're not in what I would call a very position," Stengel said. "But this thing is not over by a long shot."

"Somebody ought to tell those guys not to get too cocky just because they beat us a couple times. This club of mine has a way of coming back."

Stengel better not bank on the Braves becoming too cocky. He's my spoke for all of his players when he said: "It's far from over. All I'm looking forward to is Saturday's ball game. We'll play them one at a time. All I can say is we're two in front. That's two they can't win."

Warren Spahn, who probably will pitch the fourth game Sunday, said he figured it will take six games for the Braves to repeat last year's triumph.

"These Yankees are tough," he said.

LATE OUTBURST

Perhaps the Yankee optimism was the result of their three-run ninth inning outburst against Burdette.

He had a three-hitter and had retired 18 straight men going into the last inning. Four straight hits, including home runs by Hank Bauer and Mickey Mantle, put him in trouble for the only time since the first inning when the Yanks scored first and had the bases loaded before the first double play of the series pulled him out of it.

But Burdette dug up a little something extra in the ninth and three straight pinkouts followed the four hits.

Lew left the field as the first pitcher in 21 years to win four straight from the same team in world series competition. Lefty Gomez, a Yankee great, did it in 1936-37 against New York Giants. But he had relief help in one game. Burdette's have all been complete jobs.

Burdette homered in the last half of the first inning to cap a record seven-run inning by the Braves in all but wrapped it up. He was the fifth pitcher to homer in a world series and the sixth since Mickey Walters did it for Cincinnati against Detroit in 1940.

HOWARD HURT

Elston Howard, playing left field for the Yanks, crashed into the fence in an effort to pull down Burdette's poke. He had to leave the game.

Howard's replacement, Norm Siebern, got one of the extra hits off Burdette, who walked one and struck out five. Bauer made it hits and Mantle Bauer's homer was his second of the series and fifth in series competition. Mantle has hit 11 in series play, second only to Babe Ruth's 15.

Burdette entered the game in 3 innings shy of Ruth's world series record of 29 2-3 consecutive shutout innings. But he was out of business as far as that mark was concerned when the Yankees scored an unearned run in the first inning.

"I'm sure bound up that rec-ord quick," he said.

The Braves' big inning was the biggest total for one club in the first inning of any world series. And only the 1921 New York Giants ever scored more in one inning against the Yankees, counting eight in a seven-inning cgburge for a 13-5 romp matched by the Braves.

The first inning decided the game in more ways than one. The Yankees had their big chance with the bases loaded and none out. But the best they could do was one run scored on a force-out. Yogi Berra ended their hopes by hitting into a double play.

Billy Bruton led off for the Braves with a homer and Red Schoendienst doubled. Eddie Mathews on strikes and then ran into difficulty when Bob Aaron after the count went to 3-2.

Turley walked Aaron. Wes Covington then forcing Schoendienst, and Duke Maas took over for Turley.

Frank Torre filed out. Crandall walked, filling the bases. Johnny Logan's single brought in two runs, and Burdette's bigger hour added three more. That was the game.

The Braves kept piling up runs and the Yankees managed four more but it was never a contest.

Bower, Olmstead Key Men on Leaf Lineup

PETERBOROUGH (CP) —Coach Billy Reay said Thursday he's counting on a couple of newly-acquired veterans to lead Toronto Maple Leafs into the National Hockey League playoffs this season.

Reay said goaltender Johnny Bower and left winger Bert Olmstead are expected to be the key men in the Leaf lineup.

Bower, 34, last month, came to Leafs from New York Rangers.

Olmstead, 32, spent seven seasons with Montreal Canadiens before Toronto bought him in a trade last June.

"Bower is going to be of immense value to us," Reay said. "It means we will be assured of good goaltending for a complete year. We never had that last year. I'm not knocking Ed Chadwick (Leafs' regular goalie) but he's not the goalie he is too big for one man."

He said Chadwick is getting a lot of benefit from Bower's experience. "Ed is playing better already."

Reay said Olmstead and Frank Mahovlich, who made the grade with the team's most effective attacking duo.

Brian and Barry Cullen will not be on Toronto's third line when they open on the road against Chicago Black Hawks in Toronto Oct. 11. Barry is still in hospital and will not be ready for three weeks, while brother Brian also has an injured list.

They're Mad

Als-Argos Meet in 'Grudger', Rough Riders Host Ti-Cats

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Someone may have to eat his words Saturday after Montreal Alouettes and Toronto Argonauts clash in a Big Four football union game.

A few days ago Lew Hayman, managing director of Argos, stirred up a hornet's nest saying he wouldn't swap his last-place Argos for either the Alouette or Ottawa Rough Rider teams.

Montreal's head office answered: "We can't digest that statement with another statement."

It will be the third meeting of the season between the two clubs and so far the record is even, with Argos' only win the seven games was a 13-14 decision in the first engagement. They dropped the second 24-21 after blowing a 14-0 lead.

TICATS IN OTTAWA

In other big four action Saturday the undefeated Hamilton Tiger-Cats go to Ottawa for their third game with Rough Riders.

The second-place Rough Riders have to break Ticats' unbeaten streak soon if they hope to finish in first place. Three more victories will clinch that spot for Hamilton. Riders have 13 points —five better than Ottawa.

Argos need all the points they can get to pull out of the league cellar and make the playoffs, something they haven't done since 1955. And Alouettes, three points behind Argos and three behind Ottawa, are the team most likely to catch.

Als still lack Hal Patterson and Pat Abbruzzi, on the sidelines with injuries. They're looking to three United States imports to make up the deficit—fullback Bo Dickinson, guard Joe Mickyand Ken Jackson, all recent National Football League cuts.

HAIR WON'T FLOW

End Henry Hair, picked up by Als when Argos dropped him a week ago, won't be in the lineup. Hair was to have replaced Patterson.

Attention at Toronto will again centre on quarterback Ronnie Knox, an import who has seen service with Ticats and Calgary Stampeders. Knox was mediocre in two brief appearances against Ottawa last week. Argos say he's still not familiar with the team plays.

Ticats, who have defeated Ottawa 14-7 and 24-18, will meet the Riders a new look since their last meeting. Imports Milt Campbell and Don Sutherin will go against Ottawa for the first time. So will Steve Oneschuk, off the injured list.

LEDYARD IN ACTION

Senior Intercollegiate clubs go into their second weekend of action. University of Toronto Blues meet McGill University Redmen at Montreal and Queen's Golden Gaels visit the University of

Ottawa Juniors Nip Chicoutimi

CHICOUTIMI, Que. (CP)—Bob Rousseau's second goal capped a five-goal third period that carried Ottawa-Hull Junior Canadiens to a 7-6 exhibition win Thursday night over Chicoutimi Saguenteens of the Quebec Hockey League.

Norm Doyle, Bob Saunders Guy Black, Henry Markeas and Claude Richard were the other Hab scorers.

Western Ontario Mustangs, Toronto and McGill were idle opened last weekend.

In the Ontario Rugby Football Union's senior series the leagueleading Sarnia Golden Bears are host to the third-place London Lords Saturday, Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen play an exhibition game Detroit Sunday against the winless Detroit Raiders.

Quinte Saints Down Picton 19-0 But Juniors Drop 14-0 Decision

By ROGER WALTERS

As the senior game opened Quinte drove the Picton squad steadily back to their 10 yard line, where Tim Hull, hard driving Saints fullback, plunged across to set the pace for the 6-0 lead. Two minutes later Ron McBride hurled a perfect pass to end Bill Green, who raced 45 yards to the goal line, increasing his team's lead to 12-0. The two teams battled each other to a standstill during the remainder of the half. Picton back fielders Guernsey and Storms led be home team's attack, but the stout defensive play of Quinte linemen Buddle and Cooper, helped stamp out any scoring threats.

Quinte halfbacks Rickey Locke and Harold Fitzpatrick, capably supported by Hull Bird, provided some exciting moments in the second half, as brilliant running plays moved the ball deep into Picton territory time and again. These efforts were thwarted mainly by John Storms, who on one occasion sprinted 35 yards from his own 14.

Quinte completed the scoring in the third quarter when McBride, threw a touchdown pass to Green, from his own 27 yard line, a gain of 46 yards. Ron Denyes, showing out for the kicking department converted making the final score 19-0.

JUNIOR GAME

The Quinte Juniors, despite some timely gains by Steve Wilson, couldn't hold the Prince Edward team down. Dick Sutton of P.C.I. now first blood on a quarterback sneak from mid-field. That, and a safety touch made the half-time score, Picton 7, Quinte 0.

Quinte's defence, sparked by McMullen, Labossiere and Fisher, held their opponents offensive thrusts throughout the second half, but failed to get rolling themselves. The Picton twelve, behind the running of Paul Hawker and Tony Stewart, finally advanced to within striking distance late in the fourth quarter. Quarterback Sutton plunged through his opponents line for the final marker of the game. Insley converted giving Pictonn 14-0 win.

BURDETTE HITS A HOMER AND THREE SCORE FOR THE BRAVES

Dotted arrow marks direction of homer hit by Lew Burdette, Milwaukee Braves' pitcher, in first inning of series yesterday. Burdette starts to round bases; Del Crandall starts home and Johnny Logan starts off second toward third. (AP Wirephoto).

Was That 'Oh Yeah?'

'Braves Have Had It So Far, Now We'll Start' Says Ford

MILWAUKEE (AP)—They got the important business out of the way early at County Stadium Thursday. By the end of the first inning, when the baby sitter barely had time to locate the beer, the Braves were ahead 7-0 and mama might have been home any time.

As it was, the Braves' management provided the faithful with a little bonus right around. They promised to demonstrate the new automatic infield tarpaulin after the game.

Hank Bauer led off with a single for New York—as he did Wednesday—and extended his record to 16 consecutive world series games in which he has hit safely. Then the folks were allowed to relax to see whether Lew Burdette could extend his 6 consecutive scoreless innings against the Yanks. But the New Yorkers spoiled that one. Babe Ruth's 1918-20 record of 29 2-3 innings was safe again.

The Braves' seven runs in the first were the most scored on the Yankees in a series inning since 1921, and the most ever scored in the first inning of a series game. Most ever scored in one series inning: ten, by the Athletics against the Cubs in 1929.

During the uproar, Burdette soothed himself for the loss of one record by getting into the books on another count: fifth pitcher to hit a world series home run. It was his fourth of the year. The other three were hit off Los Angeles pitchers at the Coliseum—two in one game. Last pitcher to homer was Bucky Walters of Cincinnati in the 1940 festivities against Detroit.

Attendance was exactly the same as the first game—46,367—mainly because the fire laws are a little tough about having people sit on other people's laps. Net receipts for the two were $254,527.20. Player's share was $282,808.88.

After posing seven runs for the Braves in the first inning, the operator of the scoreboard got scared and mistakenly added an eight run to the first inning total when the Braves tallied again in the second.

Although the sun was still shining brightly, the field lights were turned on at the start of the seventh inning. The time was 2:58 p.m. by the end of the seventh many of the fans had started for the exits.

Canadiens Get Hawk Player

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens announced Thursday that defenceman Ian Cushenan has been acquired in a straight cash deal from Chicago Black Hawks.

The announcement came soon after it was known that Albert (Junior) Langlois, who suffered a shoulder dislocation in an exhibition game Tuesday, may be lost to the club for six weeks.

A club spokesman said Cushenan will play with Canadiens when the Stanley Cup champions meet the National Hockey League all-stars here Saturday night in the annual all - star game.

Cushenan, 25 next month, is a native of Hamilton. He turned pro in 1954 and played in the minor leagues until the 1956-57 season.

Amherstburg, Point Anne Play Tomorrow

Point Anne resumes its own "world series" at Ox Point tomorrow afternoon - when it hosts Amherstburg in the second game of their OASA intermediate "A" semi - finals. The third game, if necessary, will be played at four o'clock. The first one starts at two.

Amherstburg made the long trek from the home of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to Point Anne last Saturday but rain cancelled the game. After some negotiation, the western Ontario team agreed to come back Saturday.

Tomorrow's first tilt will likely see a resumption of the mound duelling between the Point Anne ace Pat Maracle and the fastball specialist Normy Jones of Amherstburg. Maracle lost a tough 2-0 decision to Jones in the first game under the lights, but feels confident he can reverse the decision tomorrow and force the series to a third set.

Meanwhile North Bay has been standing by awaiting a winner of the southern Ontario series. The "Trappers" meet either Point Anne or Amherstburg in the all - Ontario finals.

Reds Battle Whites Tonight

The McFarlands' training camp splits into two factions tonight at Memorial Arena when Ike Hildebrand leads his "Reds" against Manager Drury Denyes' "Whites."

The Reds will send last year's first-string line of Hildebrand, Bradley and Brown against the sturdy Whites' defence of Gordie Bell in the nets, and Flori Geogan and Al Dewsbury. Backing this blue-line duo will be Jerry Frizzelle and Orval Gravelle.

Support troops for the Reds will be Frank Bathgate centering Davy Jones and Jack Kane, a Peterborough ex-junior. Pat McDougall also an ex-Peter' youngster, will be an extra forward.

Don Barclay will be the third pipe in the nets for the Reds, while in front of him will be Floyd Crawford and Lionel Botley, with Moe Benoit and Keith Montgomery in support.

Against this defence the Whites will send Johnny McLellan centering Minnie Menard and Eddie Marineau. Andy Milne and Hughie Riopelle will flank Jean Paul Payette on the second line. Keith MacDonald will be the extra forward.

Dodgers Gross Over 4 Million In 1st Season

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Times says the Dodgers grossed well over $4,000,000 during their first season in Los Angeles.

The newspaper made the estimate from figures supplied by general manager Bill Nicholas of Memorial Coliseum, the stadium rented by the baseball club, this season.

"Our figures show," Nicholas said, "that for nine games the gross (take) per ticket after taxes . . . came to the figure of $2.42. It's fairly safe to assume that's an average working figure, based on an average crowd.

"If you multiply $2.42 by the season's total attendance, 1,845,- 382, you get a rough gross figure of $4,465,548. This is excluding the concessions and novelty money, which the Dodgers kept."

China Clipper Closes Door on Big Four

Normie Kwong, popular all-Canadian with the Edmonton Eskimos, says "This winter I've tackled the big four problem and thrown it for a loss. With "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze in the radiator of my car I know that my cooling system is protected against those four evils: rust, corrosion and clogging. And believe me, this is a happy feeling of security."

Take a tip from Normie and protect your car, too, with "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze and its exclusive magnetic film which coats every rubber and metal surface in the cooling system. But make sure that you get genuine "Prestone" Brand Anti-Freeze . . . identified by the Green Can which will be tied to your radiator.

4th SIDNEY
Community Honors Couple With Shower

4TH SIDNEY — On Saturday evening the community held a miscellaneous shower at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. Gray in honor of Mr. and Mrs. R. Moore (nee Anna Cray) who were recently married.

During the evening Rev. R. McMullin asked the young couple to occupy seats in the centre of the room and Mrs. F. Tucker read an address, welcoming the groom to the community and wishing Anna and Richard many years of happiness and prosperity.

Both bride and groom thanked all for the lovely gifts and invited everyone to call on them in their new home when they are settled. The ladies served refreshments.

RAWDON
Carmel United Church Holds Anniversary

RAWDON — Carmel United Church in Rawdon township was a bower of beauty for the anniversary services on Sunday, September 28th. A large basket of variegated gladioli was placed in the church by Miss Mary Thomas in memory of the late Mrs. J. H. Beatty.

The morning service was conducted by Rev. Andrew R. MacKenzie, of Albert College, Belleville, and he gave a special message on "The Church and Its Value in the Community."

Mrs. Arthur Fyear officiated at the piano for both services and contributed several selections of music. The choir rendered two anthems, "Sing to the Great Jehovah" and "Speak Ye the Lord." The special solo part in the anthems was taken by Mr. Douglas Fyear.

One of the younger boys in the community, Donnie Armstrong, sang a solo, "Open the Gates of the Temple." The Misses Marlene and Donna Clarke, Stirling, and Mrs. Roy Neal, Belleville, assisted the choir.

In the evening the choir rendered "Let Jesus Come Into Your Heart," with Mr. Harry Brown taking the solo part and "God So Loved the World."

The pastor, Rev. A. Packman, introduced the evening minister, Rev. T. F. Townsend, B.A., B.D., assistant minister at Holloway Street United Church, Belleville, and he conducted the service. He chose as his theme, "Where and When Can a Person Worship God?" He quoted a portion of that lovely hymn "This is My Father's World," and called the value of everyone worshipping and singing praises together in a church. He also paid tribute to all former members who had contributed both time and talents in bygone days.

The congregational hymns were used as fellowship, service and pilgrimage, such as "Rise Up, O Men of God," and "Guide Me, O Thou Great Jehovah."

The offering was gathered by Messrs. Ernest Carlisle and Ernest Grills.

Guests were in attendance from Belleville, Stirling, Hoards, Madoc, Tamworth and Mount Pleasant.

The service closed with the words of Watts, "We're Marching To Zion, To Fairer Worlds On High."

GOOD NEWS FOR MISSING DAD

Mrs. Jean Muskal holds pictures of her husband, Elmer, at the Los Angeles home from which he disappeared last June. Muskal, an engineer who left to find work, invested a device to prevent aircraft collisions and is not aware that the government is now willing to spend $5,000,000 for its manufacture, $150,000 going to Muskal. The youngsters hoping to find their father to tell him the good news are Kris, six; Charlene, 11, and James, three.

Bay Street Blues?

It happens to most of us sometime or other: the dollar shares in Sanguine Enterprises that overnight are worth minus nothing. And one is always left with the question, "If I had known the way the market was going, could I have sold in time?" Or when your dollar bills we could all retire at 40. However, the investor who keeps an eye peeled on the Financial Section of the Toronto Star is less likely to suffer attacks of the 'Bay Street Blues'. Up-to-the-minute stock quotations from New York, Montreal and Toronto are listed. News of industrial expansion, new products and company flotation is reported. Specialists comment daily on mining, investment and industry. Whatever your subject is — finance or fashion, sports or science, news or national affairs — you'll find it covered completely and colourfully in the Toronto Star. 18-2b

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Saturday, October 4

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Step out early and visit, shop, get car repaired, etc. Then write important letters, see how you can put all vital affairs in best order. Be alive and active, P.M. Steer clear of that quarrel beginning to brew at home.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — An ideal Saturday in which to put your real self in best condition by doing light repair work, cleaning, adding a touch of charm here and there, both inside and out. Devise a wiser budget, too. Look after your health in P.M.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — A. M. is fine for any beauty or health treatments, getting wardrobe in order, etc. Then do your best to increase harmony existing between you and kin, other individuals. Tonight is not good for being extravagant in matters of recreation.

Moon children (June 22 to July 23) — A.M. is fine for secretly getting rid of annoying little situations that exist, so that you later have time for more vital affairs. Good day to meditate, too. P. M. see that you don't irk a family tie. Be kind and considerate.

Leo (July 24 to Aug. 21) — A. M. fine for being with comrades and going after joint ventures in co-operative fashion. Be very friendly, kind. P. M. endeavor to discount trouble given you by member of family or neighbor. Smile philosophically. Don't confide in new acquaintance.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — A good day to go into big civic or worldly matters. It will be possible to contact Bigwig who will give support and an ear to your political ambitions especially. Tonight be sure not to talk about money with bosom pal.

Libra (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23) — It is very possible to get in touch with that fascinating individual today and get data required, but don't forget to consult newspaper as well. P. M. avoid publicity or you get into trouble.

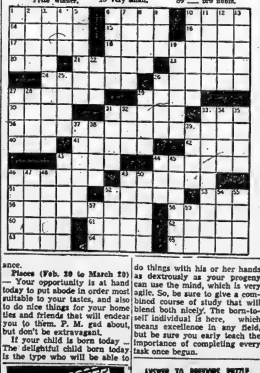
Scorpio (Oct. 24 to Nov. 21) — A good day to look into your current bookkeeping records and see what your true financial status is, what bills have to be paid, monies collected, etc. P.M. steer clear of nagging individual who could upset you.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Anyone who is based on contact during work week should be seen today and be sure to reach true accord. Be honest, deliberate in stating ideas, and keep mind open to his or her views. Don't be extravagant in P.M.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — Splendid day to delve into all those tasks that await your completion then. Regular work, as well as chores about the house, clothing needs, gardening, cleaning, etc. Plan your work properly first.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Here is one Saturday when you can have a really fine time during A. M, See that you look your best, then off to the sporting arenas, other places of recreation you most enjoy. P. M. don't confide in new acquaintance.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Your opportunity is at hand today to put abode in order most suitable to your tastes, and also to do nice things for your home ties and friends that will endear you to them. P. M. gad about, but don't be extravagant.



If your child is born today — The delightful child born today is the type who will be able to do things with his or her hands as dextrously as your progeny can use the mind, which is very agile. So, be sure to give a combined course of study that will blend both nicely. The born-self individual is here, which means excellence in any field, but be sure you early teach the importance of completing every task once begun.

Rabies Spreads In Grey County, Killing Cattle

CHESLEY, Ont. (CP)—A warning that rabies is spreading rapidly through this section of Western Ontario was sounded Wednesday night by a federal veterinarian.

Dr. T. J. Cornish said the disease, carried by red foxes, is already costing farmers thousands of dollars in dead cattle.

"I've lost all track of the number of rabid foxes found in Grey County in the last couple of months," he said.

The outbreak was first noticed in early July. "It has spread up along Highway 4, leaving only a strip of Grey County free," Dr. Cornish said. "Shortly it will spread right across the county."

He said hundreds of cattle are catching the disease. "They simply die; there is nothing that can be done."

Farmers in this area near the Grey-Bruce county border have been told to watch for foxes showing unusual boldness, a sign of rabies infection, and to keep cattle away from any fox which is killed.

Rabies reports are also mounting south of here in Wellington and Waterloo counties where five cases have been confirmed by lands and forests men in the last three weeks.

County - wide inoculation programs have been staged in Grey county to protect household pets against the disease. More than 1,000 dogs and cats have been given anti-rabies injections.

Nationalist Jets Will Fly Close Escort To Island

MiGs Strafe Quemoy Forcing One Plane Down

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist Sabre jets now may fly close escort for air-drop missions to Quemoy to guard them from Communist jet fighters, an defence ministry spokesman said today.

From Communist MIG-17s attacked transports parachuting supplies to the besieged offshore island Friday, forcing one crippled C-46 to land. The Nationalist defence ministry revealed today that the MiGs also strafed Quemoy.

"This can be stopped," said Rear-Admiral Liu Ho-hsin, the defence ministry spokesman. "We are not going to sit there and wait for the transport planes to be shot up again."

REDS FLEE

U.S.-built F-86 Sabre jets were flying high-altitude cover for the low - flying transports, Liu said. When the MiGs suddenly swooped on the slow cargo planes from the nearby China mainland, it was the job of the Sabres to get down and the MiGs had fled.

The admiral emphasized that the main job is to protect the transports so they can deliver their supplies to Quemoy. He said he was not hinting at Nationalist bombing of the Red China mainland in hopes of stopping the Communist fighters at their source.

The United States "has restrained attacks on the bases for the same reasons it prevents Nationalist bombing of the artillery batteries that have been bombarding the Quemoy group since Aug. 23.

The reason is that U.S. officers expect such attacks would provoke Communist raids on the Nationalist air bases on Formosa. Since the United States is pledged to defend Formosa, that would mean heavy concentration of American military strength here into direct conflict with Red China.

It was the first strafing attack on Quemoy since Aug. 24 and the first time Red jets have attacked the cargo planes that have been parachuting supplies to the besieged island since mid-September.

600 Canadian Plowmen Ready For Big Match

CHESLER, Ont. (CP) — About 600 Canadian plowmen and a sprinkling of American competitors will dig in here next week-to display round, firm and fully packed furrows in the annual International plowing match.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker will visit the match Tuesday.

The event sponsored by the Ontario Plowmen's Association is a stubborn holdover from fagging days when the man was the main implement and it shows little sign of giving up ground despite the mass invasion of mechanization. It is described as the world's largest annual plowing competition.

The sod—or stubble—will begin Tuesday morning on some of the 20-odd farms lined up for the four-day event in the district's mid-way between Ottawa and Cornwall.

As one sign of the times, only about a dozen of the entries are for horse-drawn units and officials acknowledge that the horse may not be far away from the "novelty" class.

The entry total is about the same as last year and half a dozen more - than - 1,200 entries which created a record in 1946.

MAIN EVENT THURSDAY

The blue ribbon event, the Canadian championship class for tractors hauling two - furrow plows, will be held Thursday. The top entries will pit Ian Cochrane, Northern Ireland, next October's for the 1958 world championships.

But there are 41 other classes and a total of $15,000 in prizes ranging from as much as $50 for first to $10 for a 10th-place finish.

Provincial police, personel of the lands and forests department and volunteers were searching in the Cordilleran Lake district about 50 miles northeast of here, Mr. Norman, a logger, was with the search parties.

BUDGET DEFICIT OF $38,622,732 IS ANNOUNCED

Third Since End Of 2nd World War

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government has closed its budget for the fiscal year ended last March 31 with a deficit of $38,622,732, the third since the end of the Second World War.

The deficit, announced Friday night in a final accounting for the year by Financing Minister Fleming, compares with a surplus of $257,500,525 the previous year, and with the prospective $700,000,000 deficit for the current year.

Revised budgetary spending rose to a peacetime high of $5,087,411,011, up from $4,949,035,388 in the previous year. Revenues rose to an all-time high of $5,322,553,505 in the year, year of 1957-58.

SPENDING BIGGEST

Revenues at $5,046,788,379, were down slightly from the previous year's $5,106,540,880, but were still the second biggest in Canada's history.

For the year ending next March 31, the government's main spending estimates, excluding cost of old age pensions, already total $5,206,977,000, and more money is expected to be asked for when Parliament opens again in January.

At the same time, revenues are expected to decline further to $4,653,000,000.

Despite increases in old age pensions, from $40 monthly to $55 effective during the last fiscal year, helped give operations of the old age security fund a record deficit of $125,957,000 for the year.

Defence remained the biggest single expenditure in 1957-58 at $1,668,000,000, despite a decline of $90,963,000 from the previous year.

Police said they were seeking for questioning a man who landed a small plane in a city street a few years ago.

The plane, with a wing spread of 30 feet, at set down on heavily travelled, 60 - foot wide Amsterdam Avenue at 187th Street.

A motorist, John Johnson, 34, told police:

MONTREAL (CP) — Provincial police said today the body of a man found in Quebec's rugged northwest bushland may be one of two young Montreal Sioux adventurers missing on a canoe trip which ended early last month.

Det.-Sgt. Rene Marchand said the body was found Thursday by a party of canoe on the shores of the Nottaway River below Rupert House, a post on the extreme northwest of Montreal.

Colonists View de Gaulle's Plan With Consternation

AJACCIO, Corsica (AP)—Premier de Gaulle returns home today to test France's reaction to his offer of sweeping economic and commercial amnesty for rebels who lay down their arms.

There was some consternation among right-wing French colonial leaders as de Gaulle's policy decisions and the outline of a five-year plan—for Algeria that he announced in Constantine Friday.

The plan calls for vast industrial and housing construction and better opportunities for Algerian Moslems, but leaves virtually all political questions unanswered.

After hours of consultation the revolutionary May 13 committee, whose uprising helped return de Gaulle to power last June, said through a spokesman the proposals "excellent, going beyond our expectations." Informed sources said, however, that the Europeans have no other course but to back de Gaulle.

Initial comment among the North Africans who make up the bulk of Algeria's 10,000,000 people was reserved.

Almost among right-wingers in Algeria was intensified by a report — unofficial but circulated widely in official circles — that Gen. Raoul Salan, supreme commander of the 500,000 - man French army in Algeria, is being kicked upstairs.

The report is that Salan, hero of the right-wingers because of his part in the May 13 uprising, is to become inspector-general or perhaps chief of staff of the French armed forces.

The right-wing committee of public safety in Constantine, was appalled by de Gaulle's offer of amnesty of the rebel nationalist who have waging war against the French since 1954. Witnesses said some of that group proposed after completion of the speech to call on their friends for another coup. Their anger was restrained by other members.

At one point de Gaulle addressed the rebel leadership and appealed for co-operation in his program to give Algeria's Moslems more land, more schools, more jobs and greater representation in the National Assembly.

Army sources said they do not expect any miracles.

"Those who are in the hills are too deeply involved to give up the rebellion," a staff officer said.

There was fighting Friday in central and western Algeria. The French army said more than 30 rebels were killed or captured. French losses were not announced.

U.S. Edging Around Toward New 'Two China' Policy

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The United States may gradually be edging around toward acceptance of a "two China" policy.

This could mean tacit, if not outright, recognition of Red China's regime in the interim, rather than insistence on a Communist - dominated mainland and Nationalist - held Nationalist government — a setup like 100 miles out to see on the island of Formosa.

More important, acceptance of such a policy would carry with it the implied recognition by the Eisenhower administration that Red China with its 650,000,000 inhabitants, does exist and that the Communists mean business.

What is known diplomatically as the "de facto" government of mainland China. This would go far toward reducing frictions between the U.S. and the Chinese Communists.

Eventually, it could mean a UN seat for Red China with the Nationalist delegate there remaining only as representative only of Chiang Kai-shek's regime and not, as the United States and the Nationalists now pretend, as spokesman for China as a whole.

This new field of speculation was opened up this week by State Secretary Dulles when, in a couple of press conference statements, he appeared almost casually to brush aside Chiang's cherished hope of fighting his way back to the mainland by land a decade ago in the closing days of the China civil war.

Prior to now Dulles and President Eisenhower have left the impression that they were completely saying so, that they were prepared to give at least moral support to Chiang's plan for a force of arms, topple the Communists regime.

Both the president and his secretary of state have tended to shy their eyes to the fact of Red China's existence and say, in effect, that it isn't here. Dulles more than once, has said he does not regard the Communist re-

JOHN TRUAISCH, POLICE CHIEF OF KINGSTON, DIES

Lived All Younger Life in Belleville

KINGSTON (CP) — Police Chief John T. Truaisch, 49, died today in hospital of cancer following a long illness. He headed Kingston's police department for 11 years.

A native of Belleville, he joined the Ontario Provincial Police in 1933 and served with that force for 13 years. He would have been 50 on Monday.

He was stationed at Port Arthur, transferred to Sudbury in 1935 and moved to Kingston in September, 1941, to take charge of the OPP detachment here.

A month later he was appointed high county constable for the county of Frontenac and held both positions until his appointment as deputy chief of Kingston police in 1946 and police chief a year later.

POLICED ROYAL VISIT

Chief Truaisch was honored in 1953 when he was awarded the Coronation Medal in commemoration of Queen Elizabeth's Coronation for the arrangements he made for police during the visit here of the Queen — then Princess Elizabeth — in 1951.

In 1955, while in hospital, he was elected president of the Chief Constables' Association of Ontario and last year was elected first vice-president of the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police.

A keen sportsman, he was prominent in the Public Athletic League and for many years was member of the Catarqui Golf and Country Club.

He is survived by his wife, the former Jean Bolton, of Pembroke; one daughter, Mary Jane; a brother, James of Belleville; four sisters, Mrs. Frank McCarney (Helen) and Mrs. Morris Talbot (Kay), Toronto, and Mrs. Fred Smith (Nora) and Mary, Ottawa.

Comets Start Jet Service Across Atlantic

NEW YORK (AP) — A British Comet IV airliner left Idlewild Airport for London today on the first commercial jet flight from the United States. Swinging an American firm in getting service started.

The British Overseas Airways Corporation plane carried 28 passengers, a crew of eight and eight extra crew members. The nonstop trip was expected to take about 6¼ hours. With the reported favorable winds, however, Capt. Delia Penna, could break the record of six hours, 16 minutes for the Atlantic crossing. Piston-driven planes require about 10 hours.

The flight was the first eastward hop for a commercial jet from the United States since a sister ship, the Delia Charlie, took off on the reverse route in New York, to inaugurate commercial travel by jet across the Atlantic.

Reaction Mixed to Claim Program Will Send Canada's Brains to U.S.

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

There was mixed reaction today to a report that Canada's brain drain may be on the way to a new view that shopping abroad for weapons instead of making them in Canada will send this nation's brains to the United States looking for jobs.

Three university spokesmen reacted with horror to Dr. Bomarc ground - to - air missiles seemed to indicate that weapons research would be done in the U.S. and, "if this be true, the bright young men and women will flow across the line where their brains, their abilities and their training can be used."

Three disagreed.

Dr. Murray Ross, vice - president of the University of Toronto, said "I agree 100 per cent."

"We need to develop fundamental research fund if we purchase missiles (from the U.S.) we go into a sixty further."

Very Rev. Henry F. Legare, rector of the University of Ottawa, said Mr. MacKenzie's statement "seems to be hitting the nail squarely on the head."

Dean David L. Thomson, vice-president of Montreal's McGill University, said Dr. MacKenzie "is right" but "I would put it the other way."

"If Canada were to engage in production of important defence weapons it would tend to hold Canadian scientists and engineers in this country."

Dr. Andrew Stewart, president of the University of Alberta, said

British Troops Arrest Thousand; 150 Are Injured

Young Gunmen Shoot Soldier's Wife in Back

FAMAGUST (CP)—Two Greek Cypriots died of injuries as British troops rounded up suspects in the fatal shooting of a British serviceman's wife, authorities said today.

Another 150 Greek Cypriotes received hospital treatment for injuries suffered in the hunt for three young terrorists, British officials said. The killers presumably were members of EOKA, the Greek Cypriot underground fighting for union with Greece.

Robert Clark, deputy chief constable, said it was "absolutely unjustified" that he was killed or wounded during interrogation by police."

INJURED IN ROUNDUP

The injuries were suffered Friday as British security forces got their Cypriot auto trucks fastened than they wished to move, Clark said. The round-up Friday night.

All exits to this east coast port of 37,000 persons were sealed after one British soldier was fatally shot and a second severely wounded.

EOKA circulated leaflets on Friday accusing the British Army of using "concentration camp" against the population of Cyprus.

"We are fighting against the related human rights and the rules applicable to the conduct of the British Army in Cyprus has done," the leaflets charged.

DEADLY QUIET TODAY

Famagusta was deadly quiet today as troops enforced a strict 24-hour curfew and searched for the killers.

Streets were littered with bicycles, carts, an odd shoe, a broken water stoup and other signs of the fury of police and military search.

More than 1,000 of Famagusta's 37,000 citizens were arrested Friday night and many were herded into barbed wire compounds.

Shouts and screams rang out from one compound Friday.

Four regiments of British troops moved into the city to carry out the dawn-to-dusk curfew remained today to maintain the curfew.

HOUSES RANSACKED

Hundreds of windows were smashed and houses were ransacked with debris. Mayor Andreas Poujouros said hardly a door was left standing. Civilians said searching troops and houses were rude.

Poujouros accused the troops of "indiscriminate vengeful attacks against innocent citizens."

An army spokesman reported that 300 civilians were injured during the roundup. But doctors said the number treated at Famagusta government hospital.

A soldier was shot to death in the Famagusta round-up.

British soldiers were outraged by the slaying Friday of Mrs. Catherine Cutliffe, 40, the mother of five children and the wife of a British army sergeant.

She, her daughter, Margaret, 15, and son, Richard, 13, and Mrs. Robinson, also the wife of a soldier, were shopping on Murder Day in Famagusta's main shopping area.

Transport Board Chairmanship Changing Hands

OTTAWA (CP) — One of the toughest jobs in federal government service changes hands at the year end when S. Bruce Smith, 56-year-old Edmonton lawyer, takes over as chairman of the board of transport commissioners from Clarence Shepard, 44.

Announcement of the impending switch came Friday as the board—the top federal administrative tribunal — was in the midst of one of its heaviest workloads in some time.

The present chief commissioner is a Liberal and Mr. Smith is a Progressive Conservative. But there appeared to be no direct politics involved in the change.

Mr. Shepard, a Winnipeg lawyer who took over the $18,000-a-year chairmanship last year, is understood to be resigning to "take a position" in private practice at considerably higher pay. Mr. Smith, a senior partner in an Edmonton law firm, will be taking a cut in income to move to Ottawa.

OPPOSED INCREASE

Mr. Smith has appeared before the board frequently as counsel opposing railway freight rate increases and W.J. Shepard before his appointment.

Pleads Guilty To Manslaughter

TORONTO (CP) — Frederick Hilton, 29, was sentenced to prison for 12 years in penitentiary after pleading guilty to manslaughter in the beating death of 72-year-old Frederick Kirkham last December.

Hilton changed his plea from not guilty of murder to guilty of manslaughter 15 minutes after an Ontario Supreme Court jury was dismissed for failing to agree on a verdict after eight hours deliberation.

Hilton was the second trial for Hilson. He was convicted of murder last April, and sentenced to life imprisonment. He alleged in his appeal that the trial judge at the murder trial had misdirected the jury.

Group Chairmen Make Plans For Campaign

Bryson Leslie, division Chairman of business "D" held a meeting with his group captains, men and team captains to make their plans for the forthcoming campaign which opens on October 15th, 1958. Group chairman Mr. John Deacon, is covering the clothing division with a update. Don Stanton handling men's wear and Mr. Rube Freeman handling women's wear and children's clothing. Mr. T. A. Carruthers is group chairman for the section covering leather goods, furs, dyers and cleaners. Mr. James Casey heads up the departmental store group with several team captains handling the following classifications: department stores, Mr. Ronald Keel; furniture and household accessories, Mr. B. Cretsey; jewellery and optical, Mr. Jerry O'Connor; beauty salons and supplies, Mr. Don Wright; music stores, florists, photographers and camera supplies, Mr. B. Robinson; sporting goods, Mr. J. O'Brien.

Mr. Leslie, after outlining the purpose of the meeting and the aims of the campaign, handed out the canvassers' kits and answered the many questions that arose regarding suggested "Prospect" method of giving, methods of contacting employees, etc.

It was decided that each group chairman would hold a meeting with their team captains and canvassers prior to the opening of the campaign.

Northern Electric Opens Research, Development Laboratory in City

The Research and Development organization of Northern Electric, established late last year under the General Managership of A. Brewer Hunt, recently announced the formation of a branch laboratory in Belleville to work on electronics development. The nucleus of the new group moved yesterday into its new quarters in the American Optical building on Bridge St. West, where a section has been equipped with a up-to-date laboratory and office space.

Robert Tanner, recently appointed manager of the laboratory, states that the group already has a very full program of development in this important and rapidly growing field. New designs of equipment for radio and T.V. broadcasting stations, sound systems, and point-to-point radio communications systems are in course of development, and the use of digital communication, or the handling of electronic computers with the outside world, is receiving intense study. Several papers, on such subjects as stereophonic microphones and "testing-for" radio transmission, are to be delivered at forthcoming technical conventions.

Of recent years, many prominent scientists throughout the world have pinned their faith in the research development as the means by which mankind will eventually be extricated from his present perplexities. It is gratifying to know that Canada is increasing its share in this important work, and that some at least will have its home here in Belleville.

Lions Club Inducts Five New Members

The regular meeting of the Lions Club of Belleville was held on Thursday night, with President Jack Bowen in the chair. Past President Al Pinder conducted an impressive ceremony inducting two of five new incoming members into the Club. The two inducted were Jerry Brennan and George AirHart. Of special interest, international Counsellor Sig Wesman of Deseronto, a Past District Governor and Lion Leo Lake, of this district, presented the Lions pin to his son-in-law, Lion Jerry.

Mr. Louis Maraskas gave a brief talk on behalf of the Belleville United Appeal, with a drive for $85,000 starting on October 15th. Mr. Maraskas pointed out that this year there are nine participating agencies, the new being Red Cross and the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. He stressed that with a committee set up to closely scrutinize budgets, there will only one set of campaign costs instead of nine. It is anticipated this will result in more work per dollar than ever before.

The Club was treated to some "barber - shop" singing by a quartette from the Mechanical Work, while clerical duties are in the hands of Miss Hatfield and Miss Elizabeth Gladney.

Of recent years, many prominent scientists throughout the world have pinned their faith in the research development as the

Exchange Visit Students Found Most Gratifying

The past summer was a very gratifying one from the point of view of the YMCA-sponsored associates, the organization responsible for the exchange of students between Belleville and Sidney, Belleville homes opened their doors to young people from Quebec, and two Belleville girls, Irene Hrschovcev and Mary Jane Johnson, returned with their hosts to spend part of the summer with families in Quebec City. Shirley Walsh expects to spend Christmas at the home of her summer guest, Beatrice Bedard, in Quebec City. Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sprague were hosts to Pierre Cote whose mother, Helene Baillargeon Cote, is a well-known singer of French Canadian folk-songs, and has sung on television and over the radio with Alan Hillis, Stewart and Bill Sprague hope to go to Quebec at Christmas for some skiing.

In addition to these exchanges, two girls from Belleville, Jane Townsend and Barbara Robb, took the French summer course at Laval University in Quebec City, and Herbert Taylor and Ian McArthur spent the summer working on French farms on the Ile d'Orleans. The boys spent most of their weekends at the summer home of M. and Mme Noel whose daughter, Marie, was staying with Mr. and Mrs. McArthur.

The students from both provinces agree that the experience was invaluable, that new friendships were made and an appreciation of Man instilled in them for the other province and the other language. All hope to return next summer.

Meanwhile, some students are looking forward to spending the Christmas holidays in the Laurentians. This excursion is a paying proposition, however. Details of the trip and the expenses involved can be obtained from the local representative of the Visites Interprovinciales, Mrs. G. Bunting, of SCIVS.

63rd Wedding Anniversary Is Celebrated

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Culleton, 384 Front Street, residents in this city for many years and well known and highly regarded by a wide circle of friends, quietly celebrated the 63rd wedding anniversary early this week. The day was spent surrounded by their family at the cottage of their daughter, Mrs. William Bean, near Carrying Place.

The couple were married at Leeds, Yorkshire, England, on September 30th, 1895, and came to this city thirty years ago. For many years Mr. Culloden was in the butcher business but for some years has been retired. Both are enjoying reasonably good health and are quite active in their spheres. Mr. Culloden is 85 and his wife is 82.

Mr. and Mrs. Culloden have four sons, Jack and Albert in England, James in Toronto and Edward in this city, and one with his sister, Mrs. William Bean. Also are 18 grandchildren and eight great grandchildren. The happy couple received many congratulatory telegrams from intimate friends and relatives on their anniversary day.

Quinte Football Association Holds Banquet

TRENTON—Nearly 150 members and their guests of the Bay of Quinte Football Association celebrated a successful year with an annual presentation banquet at the Recreation Hall in nearby Batawa.

The highlight of the evening was the presentation of the various trophies and individual awards to the three winning teams. The Batawa Football Club was named the league winner and was also awarded the Belleville Charity Cup. The Trenton Challenge Cup was awarded to the team from RCAF Station Trenton.

The banquet was chaired by Arthur Duncan, popular public relations officer for the Bata Shoe Company, who presented the cup to the league winners, the Batawa team, noting that the cup was dated back to the earlier 1920's. He also reminded the gathering that the banquet was sponsored by the football Association and not by the Bata Shoe Company.

Belleville Alderman Les Digby, a member of the executive committee of the Ontario Football Association, also addressed the meeting. He said that in the province football has shown an increase over the past year and that much more interest is being shown in minor football. He reminded the players that football is played in 60 different countries of the world and he could see no reason why Canada should not reach the top. In world play last year, he said, Canada had easily beaten the team from the United States but was taken out of the running by the team from Mexico.

Mr. Digby also presented the Trenton Challenge Cup to the captain of the team from the RCAF Station in Trenton.

Allan Brown of the Air Force team, was presented with the cup for the Sportsman of the Year by Arthur Duncan.

F. Vereholt, general manager of the Bata Company, welcomed the football players and their guests to the banquet on behalf of the shoe company and reminded them there will be other years of football ahead and those who are not winners today could well be the winners of other years.

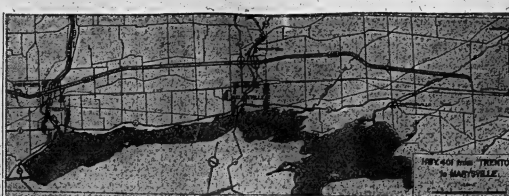
P/L Lynch, recreation officer of the RCAF Trenton, also spoke briefly in giving the visitors' toast.

The secretaries of each club also spoke and following the banquet a dance was held.

Barney McColl Heads Minor Hockey League

TRENTON — The Trenton Minor Hockey Association held its first official meeting on Thursday to get things underway for the 1958 hockey season.

Barney McColl was re-elected president and Sqn. Ldr. Rene Lemieux was named vice-president. Ptl. Sgt. Red Lachambre will serve as secretary and Dave Rowe, who filled the treasurer's position last year, was elected once again.



Jack Lafay and Les Coward will enlist coaches, referees and assistants from RCAF Station Trenton and the town respectively, and present a report on their progress at the next meeting. The two men will supervise officiating services for all T.M.H.A. games.

President McColl pointed out that in addition to the members elected to the T.M.H.A., the convenors from each organization or service club sponsoring teams were considered members of the Association.

The next meeting will be held at the Trenton Community Gardens on Thursday Oct. 16.

HWY-401 Bridge TRENTON to MARYSVILLE

Official opening ceremonies for the Trenton-Belleville-Marysville section of Highway 401 will be held on Tuesday, October 7, at the Moira River bridge. The 23-mile section shown in the above map will permit through traffic to bypass Trenton and Belleville and will also relieve traffic conditions on Highway 2. Including this section, there will be some 213 miles of Highway 401 in operation between Windsor and the Quebec border by the end of 1958.

Where Highway 401 crosses the Trent River at Trenton this new 619-foot bridge spans the Trent Canal and Trent River and Highway 33. The bridge is at the west end of the 23-mile Trenton to Marysville section of Highway 401 which will be opened officially on Tuesday, October 7.

Alderman Les Digby of Belleville, presents the Trenton Challenge Cup to the RCAF Station Trenton team's captain, Ken Carrols, at the Bay of Quinte Football Association annual presentation dinner last night. 400 Striking Civic Workers Still Off Job

WINDSOR (CP)—A new round of bargaining talks was scheduled today but there was little indication of a break in the deadlock between the city and 400 striking civic employees.

A six-hour meeting of city officials, public works employees and Local 82 of the National Union of Public Employees (CLC) ended early today. The talks will resume at 1 p.m.

Mayor Michael Patrick said the meeting had resolved none of the issues. But, he added, "we might be a bit closer to agreement."

Contract demands involving wages, vacations, a 12-month work guarantee and similar fringe benefits are involved in the dispute.

Wednesday 200 public works department employees walked off their jobs, leaving garbage collection, street cleaning and other services unmanned.

RACE TO LANDMARKS

LONDON (Reuters)—Fire engines raced Monday to two London landmarks — the statue of Eros and Westminster Abbey. The call to Eros in Piccadilly Circus came when smoke was seen coming from the base of the famous statue. Smoke from burning rubbish was being sucked into the subway ventilation system and pumped out of air vents in the statute. The call to Westminster Abbey was a hoax.

'Call' Girl Was Teacher In High School

NEW YORK (AP)—A 25-year-old high school teacher was arrested in an expensive Park Avenue apartment Thursday night and was accused of being a $100-a-date call girl.

"This was a $50,000-a-month operation involving, we believe, as many as 20 girls," said plainclothesman Anthony di Benedetto, one of the arresting policemen. "It has been in operation a number of months."

The two plainclothes policemen, posing as out-of-town businessmen, visited the apartment Thursday night and flashed a roll of bills. After drinking the scotch and watching a lewd performance by three girls, they identified themselves and arrested five women and a man on prostitution charges.

Among the girls was Virginia McManus, who has been teaching English to teen-age boys and girls at a vocational high school in Brooklyn since Sept. 16.

Harry E. Wolfson, the school principal, said: "My God, this can't be true" when he heard of her arrest.

He added, "due to the shortage of teachers she was granted a temporary permit as a substitute teacher and sent to me about two weeks ago." Her salary was $4,000 a year.

Teamsters Fail To Win Control Of Fruit Packers

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Province says the teamsters union has lost a battle for control of 4,000 fruit packing workers in British Columbia's Okanagan Valley.

The newspaper says the union has agreed to withdraw all applications for certification in the 20 plants involved and the Federation of Fruit and Vegetable Workers (Ind.) is to be given a Canadian Labor Congress charter.

It adds that the action means the CLC has reversed its previous stand and recognizes that the workers union has full jurisdiction in the Okanagan fruit and vegetable industry.

Claude Jodoin, CLC president, is said to have held meetings here at which the settlement was reached. No details were released.

U.S. EDGING

gime as a permanent political institution.

But this week, with the U.S. deep in diplomatic negotiations with the Reds in an attempt to solve the Formosa Straits crisis, Dulles executed a quick turnabout and indicated, without putting it into so many words, that he now thinks the Communist regime will be around for some time to come.

A reporter asked him whether the U.S. government supports the idea that Chiang is some day going to return to the mainland "either by force or some other means?"

RETURN DOUBTFUL

Dulles gave the surprising reply that this was a "highly hypothetical matter" but offered the opinion that the Nationalists would not be able to make it under "their own steam." He talked vaguely of "some sort of unrest" on the mainland that "might . . . lead to reunification of some sort" between the mainland and Chiang's regime.

He said it was "hypothetical and problematical" as to whether or not such a revolt would "involve the going back of Chiang as head of the government."

NO ATOMIC WARHEADS WANTED

The Canadian Army is to get guided missiles from the United States.

Since the RCAF is to receive the Bomarc and Canadian Navy planes will carry the Sidewinder, also U.S. missiles, this decision to equip the Canadian Army with the Lacrosse seems only fair.

Missiles, though, are only half the story. Much more important than the missile is the warhead it carries.

The Lacrosse is designed to take an atomic warhead. It is said that Canada may get such warheads from the United States.

We don't think Canada should seek them. If they are offered, they should be declined.

The Bomarc and the Lacrosse have an important and basic difference. The Bomarc is a defensive ground-to-air missile. If atomic warheads were offered for Bomarcs, there is no reason why they should not be accepted. The Bomarc's range is only 300 miles. Rather obviously the only country, other than Canada itself, which could be hit by a Bomarc missile fired from a base in Canada would be the United States. If the U.S. does not object to supplying the RCAF with atomic warheads for Bomarcs, there is no reason why any other nation should object. Providing its planes do not invade Canadian air space, it cannot be harmed by them.

As we understand it, the Sidewinder has a conventional warhead. If, however, it were proposed that atomic warheads should be fitted to Sidewinders, the Sidewinder would be in the same class as the Lacrosse. It could be used as an offensive weapon, since it is mounted on a plane.

One country is one country too many to have equipped with atomic weapons. Three countries is uncomfortably too many. But a world in which the U.S., Britain and Russia are the only countries equipped with atomic weapons capable of being used for offensive purposes is a much, much better world than one in which dozens possess this awful power.

If the day ever dawns when atomic weapons are possessed by most nations the size of Canada, we can be reasonably certain that someday, somewhere, some mad ruler will use them. If an atomic war ever starts, nobody can predict with confidence that it will end before the world, as we know it today, has been blown to dust.

Therefore we suggest that it is in the best interests of all countries to do everything possible to prevent atomic weapons being widely distributed throughout the world.

Canada ought to set an example by declining to seek, and refusing to accept if offered, atomic weapons in a form which could be used for offensive purposes.

It is no use saying that Canada could never use such weapons except if attacked. All the rulers of all the countries in the world would say the same of their countries. And most would mean it. The people of all these countries would believe them.

Canada cannot expect the other nations of the world to regard it as a cut above them in integrity. Canada cannot expect France, or Belgium, or Holland, or Switzerland, or Sweden, or India, or Indonesia or even Egypt and Saudi Arabia to agree with the contention that they should not have atomic weapons, because their possession of them would endanger the peace of the world, but that it is quite safe for Canada to have them.

The Canadian Army can train with the Lacrosse missiles without atomic warheads. If this country is ever attacked, the U.S. can supply these warheads quickly enough.

Preventing other nations from having atomic warheads can do much more to protect Canada than could the possession of the warheads by Canada. And, as the best way to discourage the equipment of other nations with such warheads is for Canada to refuse to equip herself.

Later, if the worst comes to the worst and every nation starts arming itself with atomic missiles, will be time enough to add them to Canada's arsenal.

END OF THE ROMANCE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

"The days will dreary seem," said he,
"When you are far away,
Though blue above the skies may be,
To me they will be gray.

"My every thought will be of you
Until again we meet.
It is so hard to say 'adieu'
Though parting is so sweet."

"I'll think of you each day," said she,
"And dream of you each night.
And every thought that comes to me
To you I'll gladly write.

"You've promised that each day you'll pen
A word of love to me,
And that will help to cheer me when
The hours drag drearily."

But day by day no letters came,
Some fiction here is barred,
For he forgot the maiden's name,
And she mislaid his card.

Paradox In Burma

New York Times

Sometimes it requires devious and even odd ways to accomplish good purposes. This helps to explain the paradox contained in the current experiment in Burma. In the hope of preserving a constitutional democracy Prime Minister U Nu is turning over his government to the army and Commander in Chief, General Ne Win.

This is in no sense a military coup to which a world-be dictator has used the armed forces to seize power. General Ne Win will become, at least during an interim period, a constitutional Premier, functioning as such. He hopes, he says, to stabilize conditions sufficiently to permit a free election within about six months.

Burma is not technically under martial law, but troops have taken over control of the major cities and will be called on to help create and sustain the conditions conducive to the eventual holding of the election.

Just as a struggling Burma has been torn by internal factions, so profound split among the Communist rebels. Red China's own party has been placed in jeopardy by a division within its own ranks. It is because communism in that distant nation might well give the Communist Party of China a clear field in the ranks and become the deciding force in and after the election that the Chinese had eventually that the Premier called upon the army.

Burma has had a trying time in these first ten years of independence. Internal pressures have been unabated and civil war has been constant. There have been other dissident groups, sometimes in active rebellion. Recovery has been slow because of these factors.

But in all the "neutralism" that has been upheld in Burma the government has been under no illusions as to its real enemy. Liberal socialism has always been a hothouse plant in Asia and one that was the government's proper concern. Burma has had occasional fair words for Burma, but the border pressure has been unrelenting and the Communists that Chou En-lai promised have not been made.

Firm measures were obviously required and they have been taken. Whether they will be the welfare of the Burmans will wish and hope for their success.

Treasures From Attics

New York Herald Tribune

We are always glad when somebody's attic yields up a long lost treasure. Thomas H. Ince, of Rochester, was cleaning out under the rafters when he found some 1,000 letters that Thomas Edison made around 1900. This is quite a find — for scholars, though to Mr. White it has probably been just a family nuisance to push back and forth.

One of the pleasures of an attic is that time plays such surprises there. In the colonnaded corners a man stows all sorts of old and derelict items that he no longer wants, and when he next looks at them, thirty or forty years later, they are valuable relics. Yesterday's eyesore, like the Tiffany glass lamp, is today's charming conversation piece, appreciated and treasured by their profit.

Unfortunately, the attic era is ending in America. In this age of the ranch house and the split level where space is such a rich has its functional purpose, there is no room for junk. In a contemporary chester, no place where tonight's party dress can be saved for a future day to become many years from now. The modern builder, in short, has left every new house with a "living area," "sleeping area," "cooking area" and "recreation area," wouldn't dream of providing a garret for junk.

The British have a big lead on us here. Time is on their side, of course, and so is architecture. Who knows what accretions of history, what royal secrets, are still hidden under their manorial eaves and in those ancient basements? It was in a loft at Melahide Castle, only ten years ago, t h a t Col. Ralph Isham found "a s e a l e d old papers" that turned out to be the most exciting of all his Boswell finds — Boswell's letters to Johnson — and, later, Oliver Goldsmith and Sir Joshua Reynolds. They even outdrove the Boswell-Rosenbach find in that Col. Isham found some years earlier in a London attic where nobody even has room for a croquet box.

We hope that the modern attic era will last generations will continue to emerge from unsuspected crannies in the future, that even in new ones the collector-instinct will survive. When a country loses its attics, it loses more than just a room.

2,000 More Miles of Leg

Manchester Guardian

Commander Stephen King-Hall, in his current newsletter, says that the Air Estimates have been estimated that during the last three months 12,707,633 British women spent on an average three hours, 17 minutes per week above their skirts to the new hemline. Greatest gaining has been in the country that in the spring of 1959, 12,797,800 women will spend two hours, 40 minutes per week head lengthening them again.

(What will happen, suppened to the odd 33, he does not indicate. Will they have died, or have they become serious to the dictates of fashion, or both?)

In conclusion, the commander expresses an opinion, possibly even more explosive than his estimates of disarmament. He asserts that of the additional 2,000 miles of feminine leg revealed in 1958, it had been better if 1,977 miles 27 yards had still been left discreetly hidden.

Listening Not Simple

Edmonton Journal

A Canadian business leader, reputed to be one of the nation's wealthiest men, once spoke quoted as saying that he never read books because he had found that when he didn't one he could not remember anything he had read. Undoubtedly he regarded reading books as a waste of time and for all I was aware, since the man obviously possessed unusual mental powers, was probably correct. Reading, However, the memory problem is a great one for many persons, both in regard to the written and spoken word.

The University of Minnesota has announced the results of several years' tests on the listening ability of college students and business people attending adult education courses. It found that the average person remembers only about 50 percent of what he has heard immediately after hearing a person talk, but that even more carefully he thought he had listened. Two months later, the average person was able to recall only half of that. Even both on reading and listening.

The businessman who cannot remember what he reads in books might be able to remember every figure in a complicated balance sheet long after he has seen it.

As life becomes more complex, there is an increasing need for better listening and better reading. Cultivation of these skills is desirable, together with a thirst for greater knowledge. But how is it to be done? In the classroom no student is going to learn if he does not listen carefully to what the teacher says. As the University of Minnesota study indicates, even those who try to listen have a great difficulty in retaining what they hear. Listening has been a neglected accomplishment in the schools, and reading may well be in the same category.

SERVANTS AND MINISTERS

One of Jesus' bluntest utterances to His disciples was this statement: "Whosoever will be called chief among you, let him be your servant." It may seem paradoxical that the chief, or highest rank, should be the servant, or seeming-ly lowest rank. But the intent of the statement is clear: the best disciple of the Lord is the best servant.

To serve — to do something for somebody else — is as basically Christian an act as to love. Service is often not easy. It may be in fact, the hardest obligation to assume. Service implies work; it implies obedience, not authority; it implies unconscious self-abandonment, not glory. Above all, it involves doing something that will not glorify oneself.

But the most dedicated service has a way of coming to the surface because he serves in a good cause. The word minister suggests service — the minister of a church, or the prime minister of a country. But the word itself originally meant "servant." The king's ministers were, first of all, his servants. And the power and authority of kings grew, their "ministers" became important officials.

Let us all, then, try to be good servants of the King of Kings. For if we are good servants of God, we are, in the truest sense, ministers of God.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The real marvel of the age is the small number of people killed and maimed in automobile traffic. When you consider the number of proven fatheads among us who are free to roll and twist in greatly traffic and to race and lunge and knock people commonly up to 70 and 80 miles an hour on our highways, the wonder is that the casualty figures are not greatly accrued.

In this stampede of traffic every day are the several hundred or so who have this very day been fired by our employers for stupidity or for disregard of the rules. Among us also are those of us who have got into jams at home, those who have today overdrawn their bank accounts, lost a friend, been caught stealing, missed a change in their wills to the tune of a thousand dollars.

Among us are those who hit their thumbs with a hammer, broke a dish, fell down stairs, set fire to their bed clothes, cut themselves shaving, ate cucumbers when they knew they would suffer, got five wrong numbers in 24 hours. Among us are hundreds with hangovers, hundreds who would have stayed in bed with a fever, hundreds who should have had a d and c and who have not yet been glassed back in 1958.

There is hardly a man or woman or child among us who h a s not, this day, committed some act of folly which either we regret or have not the intelligence to regret.

But we also nothing remarkable in being entrusted with a hundred wild horses to drive, with a flock of 1,000 to lead in procession of our swarming fellow-fatheads. It's

INVESTING IN HAPPINESS

Every time that we do a kind deed, every time we find courage to encheer, or try to make another happy, every time we speak a fine investment in happiness. And that happiness is not merely for you or even for others, but for all time.

Invest in happiness and you will get dividends, and handsome ones, they will accumulate. There is so much pleasure and personal happiness in the investment in happiness. It touches the soul and enriches the life of us about every turn out of kind deeds and the urge to make others happy and successful.

I once heard a prominent man declare that the greatest investment anyone could make in this world was to invest in an unselfish, ambitious and purposeful human being. Many such an investment has been made by investors grow in value year by year! You can't over the world.

Invest in happiness and always seem to be so happy. They are happy! They have arranged their affairs around the idea of being happy at work, no matter what the pay or environment. I have noted that people who engross themselves in pleasant things, get so much more out of life than others who have no such experiences.

The fascinating hobby of stamp collecting has brought great happiness to many. I believe t h i s hobby has added many years of enjoyment to those who have pursued the hunt for rarities. And besides, there is much to be learned from postage stamps from all countries.

To Your Good Health

BLOOD TEST REVEALS DIFFERENT TYPES OF ANEMIA.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I signed up to give blood to the Red Cross, but the examining doctor took a sample from my finger and dropped it in a solution where it floated on top. He asked me if I felt tired and weak (which I do) and told me to see my doctor. I would like to know what the test means.—S. C."

It's a quick test aimed at discovering anemia. A more detailed blood count is required to confirm the diagnosis, and also to show the type of anemia and the degree of it. By all means go to your physician for this further testing. There are all grades of anemia, many quite common and simple, and a few quite serious.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I've watched your column hoping to see something about the touchy subject of fresh children and unrestricted and have it constantly. I've heard the death by the doctor after all I've heard from women who have undergone treatment for female trouble. I've heard that this discharge could be controlled and also that in a young unmarried girl it can be spotted by doctors, but could you give me any help?—J. M."

You've heard of many things that aren't so! Some women get a kick out of bragging about their female troubles, real or imagined, they were. As a doctor, I often wished that this harm done by their boasting when I know that a lot of it is just that. Boasting is a form of exaggeration."

As to the discharge, it is neither a precursor of cancer, nor is it normal at any age, though it is not of common trouble than many people suppose. Irritation, from soap or a micro-organism known as a protozoon is another. It is something that should be treated and corrected, and it sometimes takes time. Usually it doesn't require surgery (barring, of course, some most unusual condition that neither physicians interven.) The best advice that I can give you is a matter-of-fact about it with your physician. Don't expect any dreadful operation, the treatment is rather simple.

"Dear M.D.: Would there be any chance of harm for a 7-year-old boy to have a slight hernia to exercise handover-hand on a high horizontal bar? He has been supported by her arms?—M. B."

Frankly, yes, more chance of harm. But I wouldn't deny the child her gymnastic fun if it doesn't bother her. If a hernia enlarges or she has any pain, then she should consider giving up exercise and, of course, the at-

Days and Customs of All Faiths

Active Month for Protestants

By DR. HOWARD V. HARPER

Sunday, October 3 — The whole month of October is a time of intense activity for American Protestants, as represented by the National Council of Churches.

Everything is going on all the time: Today is World Wide Communion Sunday; beginning next Sunday is Churchmen's Week; after that comes World Order Sunday; and finally, on the 26th, Reformation Sunday. All of which will be described and discussed in this column as they come along.

One reason why October should be such a big month for the Protestants is that it is the anniversary month of the Protestant Reformation, which Martin Luther let loose upon the world on October 31, 1517. Another is the practical fact that in our part of the world all family and community life is just now getting itself reorganized after the long summer letdown, and these special events are intended to bring people back into normal church habits quickly.

WORLD WIDE COMMUNION SUNDAY

Most Protestant denominations, if only in America but all over the world, hold a special service of Holy Communion or Lord's Supper on this first Sunday in October, each according to its own customs and ritual. They have done this since 1936, and the observance has spread now to more than 50 countries.

Each year a message is published by the National Council's Department of Evangelism selecting the meaning of this world-wide event, which is that it deepens and stresses the essential oneness of all believers in Jesus Christ, no matter how much they may vary in the details of their expression of faith.

One feature that has evolved in to the day's observance is that a many of the churches receive new members today. Another is that the communion is taken to t h homes or hospital rooms of t h ill and the shut-ins whose infirmities make it impossible for them to attend the public services.

WILLIAM TYNDALE

Monday, October 5 — One famous and important Protestant was William Tyndale, one of the earliest translators of the Bible into English. He was an English clergyman whose radical beliefs and tendencies got him into trouble several years before the Church of England began to make effective its disagreements with the Church of Rome. Tyndale's main offense in those days was that he thought, and said publicly, that the people should have the Bible in their own language. For this idea he was exiled from England. He went to Germany.

Whether or not Tyndale was influenced by Martin Luther before his sojourn in Germany is hard to say, but once on the Continent he spent much time in close association with Luther and other reformers.

By 1525 he had not only made his translation (far from the complete Bible) but had had it printed in Cologne and was having it smuggled back into England. It is estimated that about 6,000 copies got in, almost all of which were confiscated, seized, and burned by order of the English bishops. Only two copies are known to be in existence today. The price of an original Tyndale Bible today would be a king's ransom.

Tyndale's distinction is not that he was the first translator but that he was the first one to get his translation into print. Others had produced English manuscripts, which had, of course, been extremely limited in their circulation. But it is always the man who follows through who exerts the real influence, and Tyndale is known today as the man who did more than anyone else to fix the tone and style of the English Bible from that time to this. His hand is clearly to be seen in the King James Version, and the influence of the King James on all subsequent versions is unmistakable.

Tyndale was strangled a d burned as a heretic at Antwerp in 1536. Strangely enough it was not his leadership in making the forbidden Scriptures available to the people which brought him to this agonizing end. Rather it was his teaching that the Bible and the King have more authority than the Pope.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

By WINIFRED WILSON

MOUSTACHES

Once again the trend is towards hairy faces. However, in Birdland moustaches have been popular right along — that is, for certain families. The purpose is not i o beauty. In rain direction, or for warmth, but to hold food and prevent it from escaping. The flycatchers this is particularly necessary, and some other birds that eat live food also wear this style: little hairlike bristles grow on either side of the mouth.

If you have never seen the serial manoeuvers of these flycatchers (the great crested, olive-sided, kingbird, or one of the very small ones that are resemble each other) you have missed quite a sight. A kingbird, let us say, is perched on a telephone wire, as an ordinary observer just sitting mooning. Along comes some flying insect, and in an instant our bird comes very much to life. With a leap and a swoop it is off the wire, snaps up the fly in midair, and returns to the wire triumphant, with legs and wings protruding from its bill. Once caught, prey has little chance of getting away again past that moustache.

CATCH FLIES TOO

Three of the warblers, Canada, Wilson's, and the redstart, do not belong to the flycatcher family, nevertheless they catch flies in the air, and so are provided with moustaches. They mount and dive through the air after flying insects in regular flycatcher style. But their most characteristic post, perhaps, is hovering in the air with stretched necks and upturned bills, picking insects off t h e leaves or twigs that swing above them.

Whip-poor-wills need the moustache just as much as members of the flycatcher family because they, too, live on flies. But their method of trapping is absolutely different. The whip-poor-will is very rarely seen, because it is absolutely nocturnal, hunting after dark. Turning and twisting in an extraordinary way, it flies through the air gathering up flying insects which are well trapped in the big, broad mouth by a fringe of bristles that extend right around the bill.

Among other birds that sport moustaches are shrikes. We hear much about how they attach their prey to thorns, but little about their way of catching grasshoppers, crickets, snakes, frogs, mice, and other birds. Choosing a conspicuous perch, they dash after their prey and catch it in strong, hooked bills. A notch and hook near the end of the upper mandible and bristles on each side make the mouth a perfect trap.

The Bible Today

The World Exhibition in Brussels has excited the interest of people from every walk of life, and from every country, and the entire exhibition is one impressive demonstration of what man can actually achieve, and of his ideals for the future.

The one display which is the outstanding exception, carries the main's name, but points to one person: Christ. The exhibit was decided upon by the United Bible Societies, and is devoted to the Book which proclaims the Good News — The Bible. Here an open Bible is displayed for anybody to turn over the leaves. They follows a panel with one Bible text in twenty languages, each of them faced by a portrait of a person who speaks that language as his mother tongue.

The text is: "All things are yours; and you are Christ's; and Christ is God's." (I Cor. 3: 21-23). Here people recognize their own tongue, and reflect on what it means to be a Christian in this world. This polyglot stand is an impression of the Bible as a world book. This impression is further confirmed by a graph, which shows the march of Bible translation work since the Reformation:

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

The Prime Minister has a pet phrase which runs something like this: "I am of those who believe, or feel or are - - - " etc. How many of our readers who are of those who are sports fans. To all who are, today should be a red letter day with a vengeance, and if you are a radio or TV fan it is one that should be a real field day. This afternoon if you can possibly may flick your dial to have the great American sports drama brought to your living room — providing the weatherman approves — the World Series. If you are a football fan who looks disdainfully down your nose at the more genteel pastimes you have only to be patient, hopeful for a quick nine innings, and part of the Big Four game between Ottawa and Hamilton will come to your screen for your enjoyment. And if you are of those who prefer hockey over and above all others then at nine o'clock you can return to your radio or TV to lie back and hear, to watch and see the cream of the crop of British sporting prowess whether the Stanley Cup champions are better than the Commonwealth track teams. Yes indeed, It is quite a day for sports fans and if you are one of those who are not sports fans, it still remains a free country where the uninterested can turn to a good book or other forms of entertainment. Please do not think T and T is looking down its distinguished nose. It cannot afford to be sarcastic and in fact had no desire in that direction. Where T and T will spend the weekend, she will have little choice because her folk are of those who will do their best to take in all three competitions and maybe argue which is the best game. T and T likes the game of baseball so is maybe a proper subject for bewailing or subversive investigation. What a man is Lou Boudreau. He is of those who inspires the afflicted and encourages the strong to be courageous.

Come to think of it T and T believes that the example of this wonderful Negro sportsman is a fine thought to dwell on this week-end. T and T would like to qualify to sit in the same dugout with Casey rather than on a Teddy Boy bandwagon or in a certain governor's mansion or be a cabinet minister in South Africa. There aren't many of us who are of those who have what it takes, indeed to inspire the youth of the world as this Negro gentleman, Jack Devine closes his speech broadcast on CJBQ with words like these "If you can't play a game, be one." Roy Campanella played like one and is one. What a tribute to character and to personality when the chief of the rehabilitation centre where Campy is slowly overcoming paralysis says "Great as he was on the baseball diamond, he will be still greater as an inspiration to handicapped boys and girls, men and women all over the world." And so for this bit of sport, Roy Campanella, the great Negro catcher is our week-end thought, our sport for today and T's choice as example, for the finest in sportsmanship.

Two weeks ago T and T referred to the tremendous expansion of Canada's great northland, and we have mentioned it recently over the air. Indication of the increasing interest in the north country and promise of the Canadian north has been brought home to us by a personal gesture from a reader. She left at the radio station a copy of an Edmonton newspaper devoted to the expansion taking place in the Yukon and the Northwest Territories. The Prime Minister who is of those who have unlimited faith in the north is giving much impetus and encouragement to national investment throughout this last frontier. The Edmonton paper is proud to claim for its city the honor of being the gateway to this huge expanse. And Edmonton is justified. Fanning out from Edmonton like threads in a giant spider web are highways leading and prospects, oil properties, river routes, even dogsled routes, and railway lines. They are the barren lands to change waste to production and wealth. Even new strains of cereals are being experimented with to reduce the cost of living. We would do well to watch closely the romantic and adventuresome era upon which Canada will set its sails to subdue tundra, frost, muskeg, ice and silence. There is no looking backward.

Presbyterian Guild Holds Fall Meet

The ladies of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Guild, Belleville, met in the church on Tuesday evening.

Mrs. Hugh McKay presided and opened the meeting. Mrs. Chaplin read the Scripture and the business meeting followed.

Mrs. Darvell reported the Loyal Group had a turkey supper for 40 ladies from Yorke Presbyterian Church in Toronto.

Sympathy was expressed to the Michauds, Eastons and to Mrs. Webb for bereavements in their families.

The bazaar, which will be held in November was discussed and the committee in charge will consist of Mrs. Ryan and Mrs. Robertson in charge of the tea room and Mrs. Ketcheson and Mrs. Barlow in charge of decorations.

Mrs. Craighead introduced Mrs. Denton Taylor, who took her audience on an imaginary trip from Belleville to Toronto, to the Presbyterian Missionary and Deaconesses' School at 125 George St.

The ladies of the Guild were introduced to the building staff, cook, housekeeper, supervisor, and principal, and they visualized the grounds and the inside of the building.

Mrs. Taylor gave a brief history of the school. In 1908 the General Assembly started the Order of Deaconess and the name was changed from home to school which was originally held in Mrs. Ewart's home. In 1927 the property at 126 George St. was purchased. The principal of this school now is Miss Webster. There are 23 students enrolled.

Mrs. Taylor gave a definition of a Deaconess, which is "a young woman trained for full time service in church work."

Some of these girls go overseas after graduation to teach others become Congregational Deaconesses or Regional Deaconesses. Some work with the Chinese in Montreal , others among Indians.

These girls are interested in the church, Bible, and want to serve and so they dedicate themselves.

Mrs. Taylor went on to say that exciting things are happening at the school. There will be a campaign for funds to build a new building. The present one lacks facilities for church or school and is run down and lacks adequate accommodation.

Mrs. Taylor is in charge of the campaign and is looking forward to this realization of a very important school for training girls for leadership and teaching in the church and missionary fields.

Mrs. Alexander thanked Mrs. Taylor for such an enlightening talk.

The Loyal group served refreshments.

Quinte Institute Holds Autumn Tea

The Quinte Institute held a successful autumn tea and home cooking sale on Wednesday at the Institute hall, which was gaily decorated with autumn flowers for the occasion.

Mrs. K. Vivian, the president, gave a brief address of welcome and officially opened the afternoon tea. The secretary, Mrs. Jeffery, was treasurer.

There many guests were welcomed at the door by the president, then seated at small tables to enjoy dainty refreshments. Afterward they visited the bake table, which did a thriving business.

Sir Winston Churchill H-S Holds 'Get Acquainted' Tea

On Wednesday afternoon the auditorium of Sir Winston Churchill school was transformed into an attractive tea room. The occasion was a tea sponsored by the Home and School Association for mothers of children attending the school for the first time, to help them become better acquainted both with the teaching staff and with one another.

The individual tea tables were gaily decorated with autumn flowers, while the head table was attractively set with a beautiful bouquet of gold and bronze chrysanthemums and silver candelabra with yellow tapers. Presiding over the tea services were Mrs. Everett Fairman, Mrs. Bruce Kerr and Mrs. Robert Jones.

The president of the Home and School Association, Mr. Bruce Kerr, spoke briefly to the mothers, inviting them to take an active part in the Home and School Association for the betterment of their children's education.

Mr. Kerr introduced the principal, Mr. Everett Fairman, who welcomed the ladies to the school and encouraged support of the parents in co-operating with the teachers.

The kindergarten teacher, Miss Mary Cook, thanked the mothers for their room for their assistance in marking names in the youngsters' clothing; and also made suggestions of other ways in which they could continue to help.

Mrs. Robert Rowe convened the tea, and was assisted in the tea room by: Mrs. Gordon Thompson, Mrs. T. K. Riley, Mrs. W. L. Cassidy, Mrs. William Holway, Mrs. Joseph Hunt and Mrs. Donald Maddocks.

Mrs. George Mountford and Mrs. S. J. Terry were responsible for making the tea.

Quinte Branch CARS Aux. Holds Tea for Local Patients

In Christ Church parish hall, on Wednesday afternoon, the Women's Auxiliary to the Canadian Rheumatism Society, Quinte Branch, held a tea for patients of Belleville and district.

The hall was decorated with fall flowers and foliage. Mrs. Knos David, assisted by Mrs. R. Carmichael, Mrs. E. Johnston, Miss Rita MacDonald and Mrs. Jarvis received the guests.

Mrs. S. Kostashuk showed her own movies of a tour through Europe in 1956. This was followed by tea and refreshments served by Mrs. S. Kotashuk and her social committee, Mrs. J. S. Stock, Mrs. J. Morrell, Mrs. W. Hume and Mrs. Gemmell.

Others assisting in serving the guests were Mrs. D. McKenzie, Mrs. C. Hayes, Mrs. A. S. Robb, Mrs. A. Tooth, Mrs. T. Loynes, Mrs. H. Bateman, Mrs. A. Wynne, Mrs. Fenton and Mrs. Hilda Coulter.

Transportation for the patients to and from the tea party was arranged by Mrs. Don Williams and her committee, Mrs. A. Wynne and Mrs. Gemmel.

Mrs. Hesbe, president, the Quinte Unit's physiotherapist, was also on hand to assist the guests. Everyone enjoyed this, the second, outing planned by the Arthritic Auxiliary and it is to be hoped that many of the patients will be able to attend the annual dinner meeting of the society's Quinte Branch on October 7th.

Airlines Tailor Services To Suit Every Pocketbook

By SHIRLEY AND BOB SLOANE

The recent introduction of economy class air fares to Europe has served to compound the confusion that already existed in the minds of many travellers about the different types of services offered by airlines. Here is a quick run-down on what is offered for what you are willing to pay:

International airlines now offer three classes of service: f i r s t, tourist, and economy. In addition some transatlantic lines offer a super-luxury first class. This is first class with flourishes of the gourmet meal and vintage wines, larger and quieter aircraft, extra comfortable and widely spaced seats, and the availability of berths and stateroom.

The typical surcharge for this de luxe service is $50 above first class fare one way, $90 round trip; plus $775 each for a stateroom each way on a double occupancy basis, $775 for single occupancy. (Sounded too good to be true, didn't it?)

First class is just "plain" luxurious, featuring wide reclining seats, adequate spacing, a and complimentary cocktails and full meals. Free baggage allowance is 66 pounds.

Tourist class on most international airlines today occupies the forward part of the same plane as first class but seating is a little more crowded and meals less lavish. Free baggage is limited to 44 pounds.

SCALE DOWN FARES

The new economy class seats crowd the plane till a bit more, with less leg room and narrower seats, and feeding is limited to sandwiches and nonalcoholic beverages. But the savings are substantial.

On certain highly competitive routes and during off-seasons these fares are reduced even more. There are also some airlines not belonging to the International Air Transport Association, which regulates fares by agreement, who scale their fares still lower down the line for each class.

Tourist and economy c l a s s planes, where not combined with first class, are usually but about as fast and always maintained and operated according to the same safety standards and by the same crews. But besides the lesser luxury and free baggage allowance, the disadvantages are: No round trip fare discounts are given.

No stopover privileges — the privilege of staying over a week in any cities along the line's route for no more than the fare from the starting point to the most distant point — are allowed. Tourist and economy fares are added up for each leg of a trip.

No family plans, permitting you to take spouse and children at half fare, are allowable.

Except when the family p l a n feature is used the tourist fares usually will add up to less than first class rates despite the special savings possible on first class.

In domestic air travel, there are really only two basic classes, first and tourist, or coach. Differences in seating arrangements, savings features, aircraft used to Pakistan.

Reunion Held As Trio Home From Pakistan

A family reunion was held for Mr. and Mrs. James Cooke, and youngest son Gary, who visited Belleville recently while on holiday from Pakistan.

The reunion was tendered by Mr. Cooke's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John Hanna, and was held at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Parker, on Saturday evening.

Some 35 relatives attended and all enjoyed a wonderful get-together. At midnight everyone sat down to a turkey buffet with all the trimmings, including a lovely welcome home cake.

This marked the first time Mr. and Mrs. Cooke have returned to Belleville in almost two years.

Out-of-town relatives were: Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Hoffman and sons, of Port Colborne; Mrs. Percy Cooke, Mrs. M. Stuart, and Mr. and Mrs. Francis Francis, of Toronto.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooke, and Gary, have since left for their home in Fresno, California, prior to return-

Stories of Famous Hymns

By Hersen B. Powell

WHILE SHEPHERDS WATCHED

While shepherds watched their flocks by night
All seated on the ground,
The angel of the Lord came down
And glory shone around.

"Fear not", said he, for mighty dread
Had seized their troubled mind,
"Glad tidings of great joy I bring
To you and all mankind."

"To you, in David's town this day
Is born of David's line,
The Saviour who is Christ the Lord;
And this shall be the sign:

"The heavenly babe you there shall find
To human view displayed,
All meanly wrapped in swathing bands
And in a manger laid.

Thus spake the seraph and forthwith
Appeared a shining throng
Of angels, praising God, who thus Addressed their joyful song:

"All glory be to God on high,
And to the earth be peace;
Goodwill henceforth from heaven to men
Begin, and never cease!"

Nahum Tate, who was poet laureate of England at the close of the seventeenth century, wrote this very lovely hymn about 1696. It will be sung over and over again by choirs and choristers throughout the Christian world this holiday season for it is one of the best-loved of all the songs of Christmas.

The hymn is a metrical version of the Bible story of the birth of Christ as it is found in the second chapter of the gospel according to St. Luke. The scriptural account says:

"And there were in the same country shepherds abiding in the field, keeping watch over their flocks by night.

And lo, the angel of the Lord came upon them, and the glory of the Lord shone round about them; and they were sore afraid.

And the angel said unto them, Fear not: for behold I bring you good tidings of great joy, which shall be to all people.

For unto you is born this day in the city of David a Saviour which is Christ the Lord".

Mr. Tate was a native of Ireland and his father was a minister. The son attended and w as a graduated from the University of Dublin and a little later moved to London where he began his writing career. It was in 1692 that he was named poet laureate and four years later he formed a literary partnership with an English clergyman, the Rev. Nicholas Brady, to produce "A New Version Of The Psalms Of David", a version which is still in use by the Church of England. It is believed that Mr. Tate had a major part in this literary work and he also published several collections of his own poems and writings.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beekman

WEARING THAT CORSAGE

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

When my date sends me a corsage to wear to a dance to which he's taking me, should I wear this on my right or left shoulder?

—Beth.

Better to wear it on your right shoulder.

LET THE HOSTESS AND HOST INTRODUCE THE STRANGER

Dear Mrs. Beekman:

A very dear friend of mine invited me to a party she is giving soon. She knew that on that Saturday a college classmate of mine, a delightful chap, would be visiting his aunt and uncle in our town,and she told me I could bring him if I wished to. He has accepted. It's to be quite a large party, and the hostess and host have never met him, I'm wondering what I should do about introducing him. That is, after I have introduced him to the hostess and host, should I let them take over the introductions, or should I continue the introductions? — Elsie

After you introduce him to the hostess (first) and the host, then they, as hostess and host of the house and of the party, take over the introducing.

You sound very ambitious Theresa. I hope you are keeping well. On August 8th I gave the standard Tomato Catsup recipe here. The following one is more involved and is given for the consideration of other readers.

Pour into hot sterilized corks are used dip in wax when cold.

PICKLED SWEET RED PEPPERS:

Wash, seed and cut into ½-inch strips 12 large sweet peppers — red, yellow or green. Cover with boiling water and let stand 2 minutes and drain at once. Pack into sterile ½ or 1 pint jars. Meanwhile bring to boiling together 4 cups spirit vinegar and 2 cups sugar for 4 or 5 minutes. Pour over peppers in jars leaving ½-inch headspace. To make doubly sure they keep, process in boiling water bath 10 minutes and tighten seal. Same method may be used for hot yellow and green peppers unless you mean "stuffed mangoes". If so please write again. Recipe for gherkins mailed.

QUESTION:

. . . . following is a recipe my German girl friend gave me: Linzer Backerei — 250 grams butter, 250 gr. flour, 110 gr. sugar, 60 gr. ground nuts, 4 egg yolks, a little cinnamon, and nutmeg. Mix and cut out. Bake. Spread little egg white on each and decorate with slive.s of candy. Could you translate what a gram measurement is equal to? Mrs. A. S.

ANSWER:

There are 28.35 grams to one ounce. I have translated the recipe into oz. (approx.) and volume measurements: 150 grams butter equal 5 1-3 (nearly) oz. equal 10 tablespoons plus 1 teaspoon; 300 grams flour equal 9 (plus a little) oz. equal 1¾ cups (sunifted); 110 grams sugar equal 4 oz. equals ½ cup plus 1 tablespoon; 60 grams nuts equals 2 oz. (plus) equals ½ cup, amount depending on kind of nuts.

A Lift for Living

Rewards Come From the Giving

By DR. RALPH W. SOCKMAN

God has so arranged our lives that the best things go to those who give to Him rather than to those who demand from Him. Take sympathy.

We all know persons who go around looking for sympathy. In their efforts to secure sympathy they etch more deeply on their own minds the picture of themselves as needing sympathy. Thus they come to indulge in self-pity. Thus, also, they come to be more dependent on the attitude of others toward themselves.

On the other hand, instead of asking for sympathy, if we become the kind of persons who go about offering it to others, we find that sympathy comes back to us in far greater measure than to those who are ever seeking it.

There is sound psychology in the ancient prayer: "Teach us, O Lord, not to seek so much to be consoled as to console, not so much to be understood as to understand; not so much to be loved as to love. Show us that it is in giving that we receive, in self-forgetting that we find, in dying that we waken to eternal life."

The difference between using things as means and serving them as ends is worth thinking about. The reason my car which I may own is a means of travel and pleasure. I may service my car but I do not serve it. It serves me — or at least it should!

But suppose that I am an inventor working for a motor manufacturer and I give myself to the perfecting of a new and better model. How much greater is the thrill of the man who develops a new car to serve the public than is the pride of the man who merely buys one. Even in material things like motors the principle of being used to serve shows its power.

And when we turn to the realm of music, the point is even more apparent. We can get some pleasure from music merely by trying to use it for our own relaxation and recreation. But such appreciation is small compared to that of the true artist who is trying to express a great theme or a great composer. On one occasion Toscanini was so carried away in the rehearsal of a program that his own orchestra broke into applause to the completion of a number. Toscanini modestly said, "Gentlemen, it is not I. It is Beethoven."

Similarly in our attitude toward the home. We can get some comforts and gratification from a home by using it. It is a place to rest, to refresh ourselves, to have our companions, our associates. But these rewards are meager compared with the solid joys of a home wherein the members lose sight of what they are to get and give themselves to the service of one another. A house is something to be used; a home is something to use in.

Bishop Stephen Neill of England distinguishes between two motives in love. One may say: "I love that person because she has something which attracts me and I want it." Or one may say: "I love that person and I want to give her something which I have."

Now I think that normal love has elements of both motives. A bride is proud and happy to possess her "her man." And I remember that my ambition as a young fellow was to bring back a bride so beautiful that my friends would sit up and take notice. We choose mates who attract us. Yet granting that we want blessings from our beloved, we must put the desire to give ahead of the desire to get if we are to keep love vital and growing.

If we go into marriage primarily with the thought of what we are to get out of it, the chances are that before long we shall begin to question whether it is paying off. But if we enter family relationship with the purpose of being trustees of our loved one's interests, we shall find the satisfactions growing richer with the passing years.

Jesus stated a principle of trusteeship which is worth pondering. He said: "If you have not been faithful over that which is another's, who will give you that which is your own?" By being a faithful custodian of his wife's interests, a husband gets the deep joys of marriage. By being faithful guardians of the children's welfare, fathers and mothers find the rewarding satisfactions of parenthood.

And the principle holds good in our civic as well as our domestic circles. If we live in a community only to get its benefits; we shall soon grow restless and look for greener pastures. But if we build ourselves into our community responsibilities, sharing in the concern for the schools, the churches, the social agencies and enterprises, we shall enjoy the solid satisfactions of good citizens.

Truly we get by giving.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Lillian F. — I don't want to hear his accusations.

Frank F. — I want to know the whole truth.

* * *

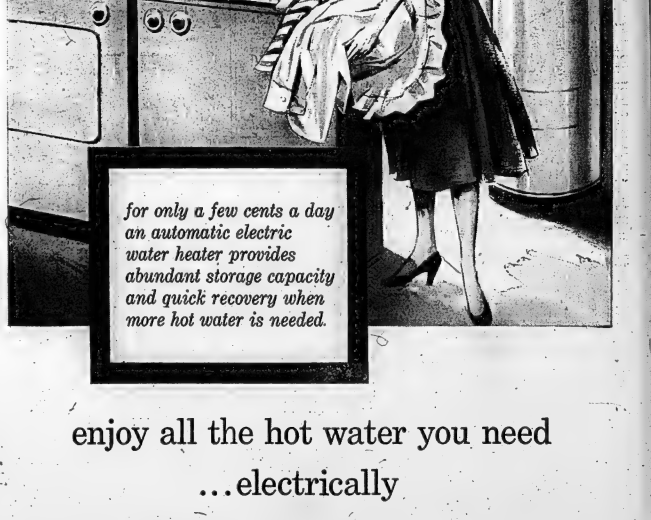
Lillian F. — My husband and I have been married for four years and have two children. We could be very happy if it weren't for Frank's jealous suspicions about something that happened a long time ago.

It all started at the time we were going together. I was also going out with another man who is doing very bad reputation in our community. I was really doing this to tease Frank. Then Frank made some accusations against me and I became so angry that I said yes he was right. It wasn't true and I later told him so, but he never really believed me.

Now everytime something comes up that he can connect with that incident, Frank brings up the whole thing and makes the same old accusations. I don't want to hear them anymore.

* * *

Frank F. — I'm afraid that one reason Lillian doesn't want to hear these unpleasant things is because they hit much too close to home. I believed her at first when she told me she had been trying to tease me, but when I thought it over I realized that no woman would ever say a thing like that unless it was true.



Lillian thinks she can pull the wool over my eyes by pretending to be very honest and above-board. She tells me openly that she enjoys flirting with men, but that it doesn't amount to anything. How am I to take her word when she has admitted to lying once — even though she claims the lie was in the other direction? I insist upon knowing the whole truth about what happened with that man.

The Council: Frank appears to be the type who offers himself too readily as the victim to a tormenter like Lillian. This woman frankly acknowledges herself to be a tease. Men with a sense of self-preservation would avoid her, yet Frank married her after she played with his feelings in the cruellest way.

Many of us are prone to look lightly on teasing. Children jeer at one another and are often teased by adults. Pets are often teased. But this is really a playful form of cruelty. Society in general permits it as an outlet, but it takes someone who wants to get hurt to place himself in the position of getting hurt again and again.

We can't offer a ready solution to this problem, but we would urge Lillian to look into her own conscience to find out whether her "open flirting" with men is to be condoned. She is telling the truth when she says that "it does not amount to anything" it merely means she has found a way to tease other men and her own husband by the same time. If she'll substitute the word "hurt" for "tease", Frank will come to understand her own actions more fully.

We think that Frank should make up his mind to put the premarital incident behind him once and for all. The "whole truth" won't hurt or help him anymore. He has been wounded by the incident whatever happened and if he keeps picking at the scab it will never heal. But he does have a right to object to Lillian's present behavior and he should voice his objections firmly. Perhaps his wife will eventually grow into emotional maturity or moral understanding.

Letters Indicate Money Problem Is Main Worry at Retirement Age

By THOMAS COLLINS

This will not be a column in the usual sense. It will be more in the nature of a talk with you who read what I write, and it will be about the letters I get.

If I can give you a capsule but overall view of these letters I think I can give you some reassurance about retirement.

You are preoccupied with your money in retirement. About 79 per cent of the letters that come to me are about money. It is by far the most absorbing problem of people past 60. Even the letters that deal with the job and the children usually are concerned basically with some problem of money.

The first worry less about money than the well-to-do, or so my mail indicates. Some of the most interesting letters are from widows with $30 a month and couples with $120 a month who have adjusted to their lot, and who write in detail to tell how they manage. The most serious letters, often on the letterhead of some firm, are from men who will get $275 a month in retirement and are scared of what may happen.

The two letters worry less about money than the well-to-do, or so my mail indicates. Some of the most interesting letters are from widows with $30 a month and couples with $120 a month who have adjusted to their lot, and who write in detail to tell how they manage. The most serious letters, often on the letterhead of some firm, are from men who will get $275 a month in retirement and are scared of what may happen.

The only letters more serious than those of the successful businessmen are from farm wives in their 30's. I get a lot of these, and all of them about the same. Some feeling of insecurity must grip young mothers around the farm and they fear they must hurriedly start saving for their old age. Yet, the calculation is to tell them to go out and skip rope, for goodness' sake.

WANT TO RETIRE

Many letters come from men around 50 to 53. They want desperately to retire, right now. They apparently feel youth is slipping, and with freedom they could yet live. From about 55 to 63 men write, but about dreams instead of problems. I suspect these may be man's finest years.

Women are different. Both wives and unmarried women start sending in their problems soon after 50, and there is no mid-life lapse for women.

It is puzzling that few letters from retirement-age people are concerned that illnesses may come in these years, or that they have no hospital insurance. Apparently most people never check by the critical age of 65, to see whether the health insurance that stops with their jobs will go with them also when they retire.

It is puzzling, too, that most wives who write reveal that they are treated as children — and know about as much as children do — where significant money is concerned. Wills, life insurance, pensions, death taxes, and investments are about as understandable to the average 60-year-old wife who writes me as colour spaces is.

The letters reveal that a surprising number of wives in this country don't have a marriage license . . . a paper that becomes of vital importance in collecting Social Security, life insurance and other benefits after 60. Most such letters say the lesnee was lost in a fire.

The letters reveal that almost everybody thinks badly about compulsory retirement, but feels alone and unable to oppose it. The widowers are much more miserable than widows after 60, that the fears about retirement are real as they are, begin to disappear as soon as the person steps through the portals of retirement and starts thinking of something else.

I get about 300 letters a week. I read them all.

'No Charge' Sign Can Be Costly To Car Owner

By EUGENE MILMOE

As we know, the battery depends on the generator to keep it charged. However, when trouble is indicated — e.g., when the red warning light or ammeter show no charge, low charge or excessive charge — there is need to check the generator to consider. Occasionally, for example, a relieved car owner discovers it was more or less of a false alarm caused by a defective gauge. Then again, a bad battery, faulty regulator, loose, corroded or shorted wiring may foul up a high trouble-maker.

When it comes to the generator itself, there are several checks to be made. These include the drive belt and pulley, brushes, brush springs and leads, commutator. Generator disassembly and servicing is a job for the expert only, of course. . .

O. W. asks: "Is 'purging' the cooling system another term for reverse flushing? It was recommended to me by my car."

(A) Purging is something else. It involves the use of power equipment which blasts chemicals through the system to loosen up and clear out caked rust and scale.

From J. U.: "Current talk has it that at least one U. S. car maker is preparing a new opposed-piston aluminum engine. Doesn't one of the foreign cars already use such an engine?"

(A) More than one foreign car has the opposed-piston engine design — but they are using magnesium, not aluminum.

C. M. writes: "At low speed my engine runs particularly rough — and usually, if I take my foot off the gas to let it idle, it stalls. Can you tell what is causing this?"

(A) An air leak at the carburetor or manifold will bring on such troubles. Loose mounting bolts or a defective gasket will cause the leakage.

F. L. asks: "I've heard that it's a good idea to drive at no more than 50mph for the first few miles when the engine is cold. Does this help the engine?"

(A) Holding down speed until the engine has warmed to correct operating temperature can save much engine wear.

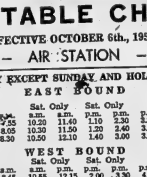
Disease a Problem In the Farm Cat



The farm cat, an animal so important in controlling rats and mice on the farm is becoming more and more difficult to keep healthy. The disease most common in our cats today is known as cat distemper or more accurately as feline panleukopenia. The disease is caused by a virus and spreads very quickly among kittens and young cats.

Usually the disease exhibits itself as an intestinal disorder where the cat refuses food and loses condition very quickly. Usually the disease is fatal.

According to the Ontario Veterinary College, cat distemper and a disease of mink known as mink enteritis appear to be caused by the same virus agent. For this reason it is important that mink ranches be kept free of infected cats.

The disease can be prevented best by a regular program of vaccination. On farms where the disease is a problem it may be necessary for a veterinarian to innoculate the kittens regularly with serum and conclude the program by vaccinating the kittens at about three months of age.

House Plant Problems, Solutions

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Do you have a house plant problem? Perhaps the answer is as cold from the window injurious to plants? Yes, the temperature next to the glass on a very cold night is often a degree or more as much as 30 degrees from day to night temperatures. If a cold night cover a sheet of cardboard with foil. Place this between the window and the plants with the foil toward the plants. Or, set the plants on the floor for the night.

Will electric light encourage plants to bloom in rooms where there is no sun? Yes electric light can be used to force bloom for all houseplants. Set the plants close to the lights and turn the lights on for a while in the morning and earlier than usual in the evening. Different plants need more light hours than others.

How can I tell when to water my plants? Most plants including the African violets grow best if the soil is allowed to become dry on top before adding more water. Touch the soil with the finger tip. If it is slightly damp wait until the surface feels dry. The top soil dries first and there is still enough moisture in the soil to keep the plant healthy for another day. Use tepid water. Cold water shocks the roots. Hydrangeas need water every day and if the air is dry twice a day.

Why do houseplants grow spindly? They need more light and humidity. Move them closer to a window or electric light and keep open bowls of water near the plants or install humidifiers. The air will be better for the whole family if it is less dry.

Can I grow plants if I use gas for cooking and heating? Yes if there is no gas leak. If you suspect a leak, but cannot find it, grow a tomato plant from seed, or get one from the greenhouse. The leaves will droop if there is any gas in the air.

What is a hardy vine for the plantiff Kangaroo vine is the toughest. Other suggestions are grape ivy, philodendron (there are several types), creeping fig, and kenilworth ivy.

Every morning I like to air out the house. Will the cold air in the winter be injurious to plants? No if they are not in a direct draft. They will benefit from the fresh air. Beside this air bath daily give them a tepid water bath once a week to keep the leaves dust free and supply extra humidity.

What plant will live me continuous bloom in the winter? Semper-florens begonia will give continuous bloom with very little care. African violets will bloom almost continuously for some people, others find them difficult.

What is the right temperature for house plants? A day temperature between 60 and 70 degrees and a night temperature not below 50 is about right for most plants. A kitchen where the day temperature may get to 80 degrees and drop to 40 at night is not good for plants. Cacti may survive this wide temperature range if grown on the dry side.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK in BELLEVILLE

FIREMEN CAN PUT OUT FIRES . . . BUT ONLY YOU CAN PREVENT THEM. CHECK YOUR HOME FOR FIRE HAZARDS NOW. TOMORROW MAY BE TOO LATE. FIRE IS NO RESPECTER OF PERSONS . . . REMEMBER A LITTLE CARE NOW MAY SAVE A LOT OF DAMAGE LATER.

Voluntary Home Inspection Wise Plan For Your Safety

May I come in?"

He wears a fire fighter's uniform and his shoes are clean. He's a nice chap and he's no snooper and he won't be mad if you'd rather not let him in.

What he's "selling" can mean your life, so it might be worth listening. There's no charge and it doesn't add to your taxes.

His mission is voluntary home inspection. He'll be at your door either under a planned municipal program — or at your own invitation.

Whether you're a poor man in a shack or a rich man in a split level, the idea's the same. Maybe there's rubbish or oily rags that could be easily thrown out, maybe, forgetting that the electrical fuses are the weakest link in household wiring safety, you use 30 amperes in place of the 15 size . . . or worse, a penny . . .

The nice man is here simply to make safety suggestions. They're easy to take and you're not obligated or involved in any way.

While public and commercial buildings in Canada must submit to a rigid fire inspection, the home and the owner's privacy are respected. Nevertheless, it is in the home that three-quarters of all fires occur, so often with tragic loss of family life.

More and more across the nation, voluntary or courtesy home inspection has been established as an effective approach to the problem. While the program is highlighted during Fire Prevention Week, it can apply throughout the year. Some communities, however, restrict many street calls to fair weather months, mindful of the anguished impact on the housewife's polished floors by an inspector's muddy, sloppy boots.

Usually inspectors work in teams down the street, from a fire department vehicle which is always in radio touch with their losses. These losses far exceeded the cash recovered. Provincial and federal property losses alone accounted for $1374 millions. Additionally there were untold numbers of petty or so-called "scorch" and other uninsured, unreported losses.

Nobody wins by fire.

Nobody Wins When It's Fire

Fire, which directly and indirectly robs the national economy of upwards of a billion dollars annually, also exacts a staggering amount in the cost of protective services for citizens.

Estimated annual cost of municipal and provincial fire fighting operations — $160 millions. The capital cost of their equipment, buildings etc., is of the order of $250 millions.

Also to be reckoned is the cost of fire insurance. In 1957 Canadians paid out $160 millions for insured protection. They got back $129 millions for

With Ordinary Care 9 Of Every 10 Fires Might Be Prevented

Every week across Canada fire strikes at well over one thousand homes. Financially, this means a sickening yearly waste of nearly $30,000,000 — but it is the least of the story. Actually, the typical house fire averages under $500 in damages.

Whit really hurts is that three-quarters of all our fire deaths occur in these homes — and that for everyone killed many more are horribly burned and often permanently scarred. This is human life and human agony.

Such is the heart of the fire services' appeal at Fire Prevention Week — for every man, woman and child. Especially for the children, who make up nearly half the victims.

Of every ten fires, nine are the result of ordinary carelessness and thoughtless neglect of simplest precaution.

And regardless of the cause, experienced fire fighters point out, many of the tragedies are needless. Unfamiliar with fire's behaviour, the victims are often trapped by their own ignorance. They might have gotten out if they knew how.

They didn't know how. So they die.

Every home, every Canadian can richly profit by learning the simple lessons of fire and safety.

Time To Learn

If you don't understand the deadly difference between a 15 and, say, a 30 ampere fuse in your ordinary house electrical circuit, now's the time to find out. Fuses are your safety checks on the hidden wires and the traffic they can reasonably bear. If a 15 ampere fuse keeps "blowing" and if the 30 doesn't, watch your step; you may be living on borrowed time.

You Set Your Insurance Rate

In 1957 Canadians paid $160 millions for their fire insurance, got back $129 millions for their losses.

Their fire insurance premiums in 1957 cost them only $8.6 millions over what they paid in 1956 for protection. But in 1957 they ran up paid losses $27 millions greater than in 1956.

Percentage-wise, the 1957 loss ratio (losses against premiums) was 76.26. In 1956 it was 61.56.

Portable Oil Space Heater Hazardous

If you use a portable oil space heater in your home, remember that it represents a definite fire hazard. It should be set absolutely level and should not be carried around from room to room while burning. Changes in draft are liable to cause explosion. Canada's fire services hope that just as soon as you can you will dispense with it in favor of a more permanent type of heating unit.

If you smell gas in the home, a quick way to Kingdom Come is to light a match or switch a light.

"Don't Give Fire Place To Start" Slogan for Greatest Drive For Fire Prevention Here

Don't give fire a place to start is the 1958 slogan for Fire Prevention Week, October 5-11, it was announced today by Fire Chief Vance.

This will be the banner of a campaign sparked by the fire service with the aim of making this community one of the "fire safest" of any — for size and population — in Canada.

"We can succeed," declared Chief Vance, "if we have the help of every man, woman and child in spreading the idea that fire prevention is a personal matter. It needs only the acceptance by each individual of responsibility in the elimination of hazards common to fire."

The Chief told of the remarkable co-operation given by citizens when uniformed members of his department made courtesy calls at their homes, simply to suggest ways and means whereby the family might without inconvenience, expense or other involvement rid themselves of these hazards. Instanced were such things as trash and rubbish, improper electrical fusing and faulty heating equipment.

"There's nothing fancy in successful fire prevention. Like most else in life, it's a lot of little things," the Chief said.

Common thought of a householder, viewing the fire ruins of a neighbour's house: "I wonder if I have sufficient insurance on my house." Good thinking it is, too, but don't forget that tidy housekeeping is an excellent bonus to fire insurance.

Two Ladds Join Junior Fire Marshals

Screen star Alan Ladd helps son David inspect the basement of their Hollywood home for fire hazards in observance of National Fire Prevention Week (Oct. 5-11). David, who is 10 and a rising actor in his own right is one of four million youngsters who will qualify as Junior Fire Marshals in the year-round public service program sponsored by the Hartford Fire Insurance Company. To qualify as Junior Fire Marshals, children check hazards listed on a "home inspection report" in the fall issue of the Junior Fire Marshal magazine. Finding paint cans with loose tops, young Ladd shows dad how to make them less likely to become fire hazards by pounding them shut with a hammer. This and other fire prevention tips are part of the Hartford Fire's program to make boys and girls more safety conscious.

A Half a cupful of gasoline vaporizing in the bilge of a boat can explode and blow it sky high. So Canada's fire services believe that safety lessons learned in the home help to make boating a more delightful adventure. There are now 800,000 small craft plying the waters of the nation, increasing at the rate of 50,000 yearly. You don't easily get a second chance to live in a boat fire.

A PROCLAMATION...

WHEREAS authoritative statistics compiled and published by the Dominion Fire Commissioner show that during the past ten years six hundred and eight-six thousand, two hundred and two fires in Canada have destroyed property valued at nine hundred and sixty-seven million dollars and that during the same period, five thousand, three hundred and thirty-seven persons have lost their lives and it is estimated that at least sixteen thousand others have been seriously injured as the result of fires.

AND WHEREAS such losses are increasing year by year;

AND WHEREAS humanitarian and economic considerations imperatively demand that human life and material resources in Canada be so far as possible conserved in order that the nation's prosperity may be maintained.

AND WHEREAS it is desirable that the attention of the public be directed to the extent and underlying causes of the preventable loss of life and property by fire and to the best and most practicable means for its control and that a specific period of the year be set apart and properly designated for the dissemination of such information:

THEREFORE I designate the week commencing SUNDAY, THE FIFTH OF OCTOBER, AND ENDING ON SATURDAY, THE ELEVENTH OF OCTOBER, IN THE PRESENT YEAR AS in the City of Belleville and do recommend that at some time during the week:

1. All dwellings, public buildings, stores, warehouses, factories, farms, mines and forests be carefully inspected by their occupants and all conditions likely to cause or promote the spread of fire be removed.

2. All theatres, hotels, hospitals, institutional and assembly buildings be inspected and provision made for all changes necessary to protect the occupants in case of fire.

3. Fire drills be held for the children in all schools, for the inmates of all institutions, and for the employees in all factories, in order that a greater degree of safety be ensured by acquainting the occupants with the best and most expeditious mode of exit in time of danger.

4. Special instruction on the subject of fire prevention be given by the teachers and by municipal officials in schools and that such appropriate literature as may be made available be distributed to the pupils.

Yankees Were 7-5 Favorites To Win Today's Game

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The secret is out. Someone crashed through the curtain of silence behind which the Pembroke Man with the Golden Arm, Wally Lenser, has been hiding.

Sportswriters of other member centres of the Eastern Ontario senior "A" hockey league, and their brothers of the microphone, have kept the hockey pot simmering all summer.

So did Pembroke, up to a certain time. It seems after Bucky Buchanan decided to leave the Lumber Kings as playing coach and his himself to a hockey pastures where the lettuce was as green, but more plentiful, Mr. Lenser muzzled the local press and radio and retired behind a curtain of silence that was blacker than Yankee hopes after the first inning of Thursday's game.

The silence was ominous. It led to speculation that perhaps the Lumber Kings were folding. Adding fuel to this flame was the fact that Lenser placed players on waivers, without bothering about replacements.

Now it seems, the man who crashed more headlines in early summer than any hockey impresario in the district, has decided to cut a slit in the silence-drapes. Words are being simmered through to the public via an Ottawa radio station.

Keeping his ear to the ground, Ron Craig, Pembroke sports editor, has discovered the Lumber Kings will debut Lenser as an entity. Says the Gleechecks are still around, so are Jim Farelli, Douglas, Dennie Menard and Frank Chiarelli.

Craig says he has uncovered the information that the new manager of the Lumber Kings is none other than Bill Higginson, for many years the trainer of the Kingston senior club. Incidentally, Moe Benoit also received an offer from Lenser earlier in the season.

While other managers were publicizing some of their activities in training camps and radio, Lenser came up with a new twist in public relations. He figured that by cutting off publicity, he would have people packing [illegible] to find out who he has got.

* * *

BOY SCOUTS?

Parking their guns and notebooks that [illegible] spectacles at the box office, Manager Wally Brahin and Coach Ron Caseo of Kingston, were spectators at the McFarlands' practice grind Thursday night.

So-o-o!

No siree! They were not scouting the Macs. They were merely passing through, after a snappy rubber at bridge with their ex-boss M'sieu Blair of Whitby, and decided to stop in and renew old acquaintances. Besides, didn't Bus use to share malteds with Al Dewsbury when both said "thank you" to the same hockey paymaster?

Bus scratched his right ear, which still bears the scar left by the cruiser of Wild Bill McAllister, who mistook the member for hamburg without benefit of knockup, during a Whitby-Belleville game in the senior "B" days.

The former Whitby coach looks for a dog-eat-dog setup in the Eastern League this season. Meanwhile, Whitby, Kingston and Hull-Ottawa will have strong clubs, he said. "From what I hear, and read, Pembroke and Cornwall do not appear to have much, but you never tell what Ray Miron and Wally Lenser have up their sleeves."

Wally was cocking an attentive ear, ready to clamp on the muzzle, but it wasn't necessary. Bus was talking under wraps.

Neither would comment on the return of last year's starry goalie, Lynn Davis. But reports from other centres say that the youngster will return to Kingston.

Someone ventured: "Too bad Jean Gauthier is not coming back on your defence. The duo exchanged glances and chorused, "Oh, yeah!" Jean Gauthier has been attending the training camp of the Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

"We have signed Moe Savard of the Cornwall Cheviots, and Jim Maxwell of the Pembroke Kings," Bus admitted. Wally said the first line of defence, Pembroke and Billy Carlin would make a strong offensive force.

Gagnon hinted that Toppazzini, Orelli and Buckshe ckle will be back in the Kingston lineup. What about local players? None has been signed thus far, Gagnon said.

The once most unpopular player in the senior circuit of the district liked what he saw in McFarland uniforms.

"You have some good players out there who will make the European teams sit up and take notice," he said. "Al Dewsbury should be a big help on the defence."

But Braves Were 11-5 Choice To Win Second World Title; Yanks Look for 1956 Repeat

By JOE REICHLER

NEW YORK (AP)—The odds are with the New York Yankees to win the third game of the World Series today—but predicted to against them as they try to launch an October miracle.

Trailing two games to none as they face the Braves' Bob Rush in the third game, the Yankees find themselves in the same predicament of 27 previous world series teams.

Of those first-two-games losers, only three—the 1921 New York Giants, the 1955 Brooklyn Dodgers and the 1956 Yankees—bounced back to win the series.

That should make the Braves a-to-1 favorite instead of the 11-to-5 choice they were installed to make it two world championships in succession.

YANKS FAVORED

In spite of their wretched showing in Milwaukee, the Yankees were favored 7-to-5 to win the Yankee Stadium opener behind Don Larsen and Lew Burdette.

A crowd of close to 70,000 was expected to attend despite the threat of rain. A postponement would not cause Yankee manager Casey Stengel to switch his pitching selections. Larsen would work broadly he would sidetrack Bob Rush for Bill Bruton's center Warren Spahn, who won the opener.

"We've got the momentum," he said. "It's the same as in any experience, when you've got the other fellow on the run, don't let up. You've got to go after them with your best."

Stengel, whose team managed only a puny .217 batting average against Spahn and Burdette in Lew Burdette, had his groggy athletes out for an early workout Friday in the hope they can improve their batting eyes.

"To be honest with you," he said, "I'm a little concerned about my players. They haven't been hitting for more than a month now. There's two or three players who haven't been hitting all year.

FIELDING BAD

"As a matter of fact, the fielding has been downright bad, too. Those other fellows have been hitting me there my outfielders can't get them. And they've been hitting them through my infield, too.

"I don't want to take anything away from that great, wonderful National League team, but they beat us because we've looked pretty bad.

Stengel said he was undecided about his lineup but he said he probably would use Norm Siebern in left field and Jerry Lumpe at third base. Both are left-handed hitters. Siebern replaced Elston Howard in the fifth inning Thursday after the left-fielder was injured trying to catch Burdette's drive that just cleared the fence.

Howard worked out behind the plate Friday and said he was ready to play any time Casey asked him to.

"Howard's all right," Stengel said, "and I'd have him catching if they had gone with a left-hander. How I just don't know, (Yogi) Berra will be behind the plate."

STILL TOUGH

Hanley, who insisted it was still a tough series, despite his obvious advantage, said he would field the same lineup and batting order that carried up five Yankee pitchers for 15 hits in rallying one of the worst defeats upon the proud American Leaguers in world series history. That meant left-handed hitting Billy Bruton, the series batting star thus far, would be in centre, Wes Covington in left and Frank Torre at first base.

Rush a 23-year-old righthander was making his first start in a world series. His season record was 15-6. Larsen, who pitched his perfect game against the Dodgers in the 1956 series, was appearing in his fifth world series game. He lost to Brooklyn in 1955 and was knocked out by Dodgers in a game in '56 although Tom Morgan was charged with the defeat. He is 9-6 on the season.

His gained a victory over the Braves last year, coming in in relief of Turley in the third game.

Gene Tunney Says Patterson Is a 'Novice'

LONDON (Reuters) — Gene Tunney, former world heavyweight champion, arrived here on a business trip Friday and delivered judgment on modern boxers.

"There are no great fighters today," the 60 - year - old conqueror of Jack Dempsey said. The last one was Rocky Marciano. Floyd Patterson, the present world champ, is another novice."

He complained that in modern boxing "they stop fights when they see a little blood."

"Doctors should stay out of boxing. It's like scientists running a government—they are impractical."

Reporters asked about rumors he is worth $30,000,000.

"If I live like that," he replied, "but the figure is slightly exaggerated."

Durelle Backs Out of Fight

SHERBROOKE (CP) — Peerless promoter Pee Wee Mc-Kendrick announced Friday night he is trying to get Arty Towne to substitute for Yvon Durelle—in a 10-round fight scheduled here Oct. 12.

Berwick said Calhoun, who had agreed to go 10 rounds with Rudy Corney of Brooklyn, N.Y., strained a shoulder muscle while training for the fight and had to back out.

Durelle, Canadian light heavyweight champ from Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., earlier backed out of a scheduled rematch against Johnny McCoy of New York City. Disagreement over financial terms was given as the reason.

Towne, a veteran New York middleweight, beat Durelle five years ago.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jockey Eddie Jay Barrow was fined $100 Friday after being charged with possession of an illegal battery and the intention of stimulating his mount at Thistledown Park. The horse, Case of Fire, finished last after the battery was confiscated.

Haney 'Plays 'Em One by One' Ole Casey 'Gettin' D---Mad'

NEW YORK (AP)—Fred Haney's season-long theory was to play 'em as they come, one by one. And now that he's holding the upper hand in the world series, the Milwaukee manager sees no reason to change.

"As far as I'm concerned, we're starting all over again . . . from scratch," Milwaukee's most happy fella said after today's third game at Yankee Stadium. "My opinion of the Yankees hasn't changed. They're a good club. They never quit. We can't afford to be overcocky just because we were lucky enough to win them in the first two games."

Haney called it "luck" . . . the [illegible] pitching and clutch hitting that won Wednesday's opener 4-3 in 10 innings, and the combination of robust hitting and Lew Burdette that made for a 13-2 rout of the New Yorkers Thursday.

It was just the Milwaukee skipper's way of warding off any intimidation that he and his athletes might be starting to count the winner's share.

Reporters tried their best to lure him into even a mild criticism of Casey Stengel, inveterate champions. Haney would have none of it.

One television interviewer asked if he thought the Yanks had been playing possums. He got a brush off with the suggestion the question had been an insult to Haney's intelligence.

Whites Grab Win From Reds With 3 Third-Period Goals

By GEO. H. CARVER
Sports Editor

Ike Hildebrand's "Reds" spotted Davey Dreyes "Whites" three first-period goals; tied the count in the third then bowed to a three-goal onslaught in the final ten minutes to drop a 7-4 inter-club game decision in Memorial Arena last night.

The game was a brisk workout for the Macs with both sides battling throughout the sixty minutes at a fast clip. There were no solid body checks handed out, neither did the defences handle the opposing forwards with kid gloves.

Both Manager Denyes and Coach Hildebrand were satisfied with the workout. There was a lot of scrambly hockey and crowding the puck yet there were flashes of good passing while both squads showed a yen to turn on the speed throughout the game.

The Whites scored consecutive goals in the first period two of them on ganging attacks while the Reds were a man short in the third, who was suffering from a stomach "misery" scored the prettiest goal of the night with seconds to go when he took Jack Kane's pass and swept across the goal mouth to break the egg.

The checking was close in the second period with Gordy Bell and Turk Barclay in the nets turning in good shows. The Fame went scoreless.

The Reds flashed the offensive life opening the third period and Moe Benoit set up Weiner Brown and Hard Bradley for an eleven-second score with Brown doing the honors. A minute later Bradley banged in a loose puck from a goalmouth scramble to knot the count.

Both teams scored in the next seven minutes, Jerry Fritzelle counting for the Whites on a passing play with Milne and Riopelle, and Davy Jones tapping in a six-inch putt from a huddle in front of the nets.

Then Whites took over, scoring three goals in as many minutes to tuck the win away. Paul Payette scored his third goal of the night with Geegan and Marinesu helping; Hughie Riopelle whipped home the puck on a three-way play with McLellan and Menard, and Andy Milne fired home a loose puck to score unassisted.

The teams divided ten penalties with Jerry McLellan drawing three and Lionel Hotley a pair.

Paul Payette topped the scorers with his hat trick. Fitzi Geegan had a goal and two assists and showed why he is rated one of the best defencemen extant. Milne had one and two with Riopelle and Fritzelle getting one and one. Johnny McLellan and Minnie Menard each had two assists with Eddie Marinesu getting one.

Hildebrand, Brown, Bradley and Lellan (3), Bolley.

Tony Anthony KO's McBride In 9th Round

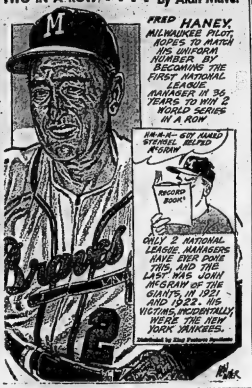
The 32-year-old McBride, a product of Trenton, N.J., had been on the canvas a short while before for an eight-count.



Anthony, 178, from New York City trying to justify his entrance into the heavyweight class, thus scored decisively in a return bout with McBride, who weighed 186. He had beaten Archie by only two points as the referee's scorecard a month ago in Syracuse, N.Y.

Tony, who had been ranked No. 3 among the light heavyweights before moving into the unlimited division, also floored McBride in the third, fifth and seventh rounds.

It was the 28th knockout scored by Anthony in 42 fights. He has lost five and drawn once.

It was the 17th loss for McBride, who has fought most of his 39-fighting heavyweights, including champion Floyd Patterson, who knocked him out in seven.

Habs Shoot for First Win In Tonight's All-Star Game

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Canadiens, back from a week-long road trip of exhibition games, hauled themselves off the train Friday and were quickly hustled into an all-out practice in preparation for tonight's National Hockey League all-star game.

Coach Toe Blake wasn't fooling. The three-times running Stanley Cup champions have never been able to squelch the all-stars in the big pre-season attraction.

Only Detroit Red Wings have ever been able to turn the trick in the 11 times the cup champions have faced the all-stars. The Red Wings scored a 3-1 win in 1955 and a 7-1 runaway in 1950.

Coach Milt Schmidt of Boston Bruins will handle the stars as pilot of the runner-up team last spring.

RICHARD'S TENTH

Maurice (Rocket) Richard of Canadiens will be making his 10th appearance tonight. Because of a serious injury last season the 37-year-old Montreal star was sidelined so long he wasn't chosen to either the first or second all-star team.

Ted Lindsay, formerly of Detroit Red Wings and now of Chicago Black Hawks, will be absent. He was selected by the hockey writers and broadcasters nine times.

Five Montreal players selected to the first and second all-star teams will remain with the cup champions for the game. They are goalie Jacques Plante, defenceman Doug Harvey and forwards Dickie Moore, Henri (Pocket Rocket) Richard and Jean Beliveau.

One new player will be seen with Canadiens. He is Ian Cushenan, young defenceman just acquired from Chicago Black Hawks. Cushenan was grabbed when Albert (Junior) Langlois was sidelined by injuries a few nights ago in an exhibition game.

TORONTO WINS

KINGSTON (CP)—The University of Toronto team won the Ontario-Quebec intercollegiate golf championship Friday at the Cataraqui Golf and Country Club. Last year's winners, the University of Western Ontario finished fifth. Runners-up were McGill and Uni.ersity of Montreal.

Suggest Winner Swede-Folley Meet Patterson

MILWAUKEE (CP) — The National Boxing Association Friday suggested a bout between Ingemar Johanssen of Sweden and Zora Folley of Chandler, Ariz., to pick a "rightful and undisputed challenger" for the world heavyweight title.

Johanssen, who recently knocked out another heavyweight contender, Eddie Machen of the U.S., in one round, was proclaimed by the NBA as the No. 3 challenger behind Folley for Floyd Patterson's crown. The unbeaten Swedish puncher, rated sixth last month, also was designated as the NBA's fighter of the month.

Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., who will fight champion Archie Moore for the world light heavyweight crown in December, retained his No. 3 spot in the NBA ratings, behind Harold Johnson and Tony Anthony.

The NBA named George Chuvalo, a virtual unknown.

INJURY SERIOUS

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—Merrie Annabelle, who set a world's record at the Lexington trotting Friday, fell and apparently suffered a fractured vertebra. The filly set a world's race record of 2:00 for 2-year-old trotting fillies on Sept. 26 and equalled the racing record for juveniles. Owner Byron Kuth of Chesterland, Ohio said Dr. Leroy Johnson, head of the veterinary department at Ohio State University, was flying to Lexington to examine the horse.

New leading contenders were picked by the NBA in two divisions as a result of upsets in September.

Vince Martinez was ranked as the new No. 1 welterweight behind champion Virgil Akins as the result of Gaspar Ortega's surprising defeat at the hands of lightweight Don Jordan. Kenny Lane was installed as No. 4 contender for Joe Brown's lightweight title after Duilio Loi of Italy was held to a 15-round draw by Mario Vecchiata, a virtual unknown.

Player's Wife Likes Edmonton, Not too Cold

EDMONTON (CP)—A football player's wife says that when her husband told her they were going to Canada she thought Edmonton was a sort of jumping-off spot for the North Pole.

Mrs. Karen Stephenson, wife of centre Don Stephenson of Edmonton Eskimos, said in an interview that now she thinks "it's real nice here."

Ever since Karen met Don he has been playing football and she has been his most ardent fan. Last season he played for Geelong, Vic.

FELLOW STUDENTS

In Bessemer, Ala., where they went to school together, she was a cheer leader. They were married after their first year at college. Mrs. Stephenson took education and Don took industrial management.

"It would seem strange if he weren't playing football," said Mrs. Stephenson.

She added that a football player's wife does not see all the game when her husband is on the team. Each watches her own husband.

Dress for the games in the Western Interprovincial Football Union is more informal than in the United States, Mrs. Stephenson said.

Fans have assured her, Mrs. Stephenson said, that when the temperature drops, she will understand why women wear slacks to games in Edmonton.

ENJOYS SOCIAL LIFE

She finds the social life in the Alberta capital enjoyable. Once a month the football wives get together for a party, a dinner or a show. When the team plays away from home they have "listening parties."

Teased about her southern drawl, Karen Stephenson replied that it is the Canadians who have the accent.

Both Stephensons would like their son Keith to be a football player some day and his mother knows where.

"I want him to play on the line. I don't think they get hurt as much there."

Black Hawks Send Seven To Farm Clubs

ST. CATHARINES (CP)—Chicago Black Hawks of the National Hockey League Friday announced seven players are to be sent to farm clubs.

Bob Wilson, Chicago's chief scout, said goalie Roy Edwards and defenceman Rino Robazza, two former St. Catharines Teepees juniors, will join Calgary Stampeders of the Western Hockey League.

Matt Ravlich and Ed Hockstra, also St. Catharines graduates, will report to Three Rivers of the Quebec Hockey League. Bob Wilson Jr., son of the Hawk scout, also goes to Three Rivers.

Defenceman Florent Pilote will go to Windsor Bulldogs of the Ontario Hockey Association and Ron Guenville will play either with Cornwall or Kingston in the Eastern Ontario Senior Hockey League.

FORM NEW LEAGUE

SMITHS FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A new interprovincial senior hockey league was formed here Thursday night at a meeting of sportsmen from Brockville, Ottawa, Hull, Que., and Smiths Falls.

I Like Dependability, So . . .
I heat with oil

Never a worry about the winter weather when you heat with oil. Your personal fuel supply is right in your own basement.
Buying a new home? Be sure it has oil heat . . . because oil heat indicates a quality home. And you save money when you heat with oil . . . lots of heat for every dollar. Just as important, your fuel costs will stay low because you are dealing with a dependable supplier in your own neighbourhood who competes for your business.
Yes, safe, clean, comfortable oil heat is your best choice for a new home or furnace conversion. Ask your neighbour for his opinion. More people, by far, heat automatically with oil than with any other fuel.

AT THE BELLE — Academy Award Nominee Russ Tamblyn, threatens John Drew Barrymore with a switchblade knife in a scene from "High School Confidential", MGM's new crime-social drama of juvenile delinquents. Diane Jergens, Charles Chaplin Jr., and Mamie Van Doren, are co-starred in the new film, playing today for the last time at the Belle with a program of choice Technicolor treats.

AT THE PARK — City editor Clark Gable makes a point on experience versus formal education to journalism teacher Doris Day and psychologist Gig Young in scene from Perlberg-Seaton's "Teacher's Pet", opening Monday at the Park Theatre. And on the same program "The Joker is Wild" starring Frank Sinatra, Mitzi Gaynor, Jeanne Crain and Eddie Albert. Owing to length of program there will be but one complete show starting at 7.30 p.m.

Richard Carlson Now Making Series on McKenzie's Raiders

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Richard Carlson is going back in history to chase the outlaws on the Texas border.

Carlson is the star of the immensely successful "I Led Three Lives. Though he hasn't made a chapter in the series for two years, it still is playing and bringing him a pile of cash. Has he earned a million dollars?

"Not quite a million," he replied cautiously, "though it may approach the mark soon." His next check, for example, probably will be $20,000 for a three-month period.

No wonder Dick can say, "television has been good to me."

And it will be even better. He is well into his second series, Mckenzie's Raiders, also made by Ziv Productions for syndication, not network play. But judging well in TV because we had the from his sponsors and the many right show," he said. "I've a big markets already sold, he'll make it much or more than if it played outlaws on the

ITS AN ARMY STORY

The story concerns a real-life army commander who was assigned by President Ulysses S. Grant to clean up marauders who looted Texas then vanished over the Rio Grande. McKenzie's orders were to pursue the bandits into Mexico if necessary, but he had to assume the consequences if caught.

"The situation presents all kinds of possibilities," Dick enthused. "I think the show has a good chance of clicking."

He went on to argue that it's the vehicle that counts in TV.

"A lot of us who were only so-so in the movies have done

TV NOTEBOOK

by John Wettlaufer

We are sometimes asked about the possibility of lightning striking a TV antenna. Although the odds are on the long side, there is always the possibility, of course, of celestial fireworks coming your way.

Lightning as you know, is prone to search out the highest largest metallic object in the vicinity. If, for example, your home was beside a high building topped by a high metal flagpole, chances are extremely remote that your antenna would be the number one attraction.

If, on the other hand, you are located in a more open area with no higher metallic objects nearby, you must be considered a likely candidate during electrical storms.

Which reminds us — CIRCLE TV SERVICE'S electrifying TV repairs will never short circuit your budget! Seriously, for dependable repairs at honest rates, you will never go wrong at CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 368 Coleman St. Phone WO 8-6791; in Trenton phone Zenith 6-3800.

Foxboro

FOXBORO — Mrs. John Juby returned home on Monday after holidaying in Toronto with her son, Garnet and Mrs. Juby.

Mr. and Mrs. Judson Derry and Randy were callers in the village on Sunday.

Mrs. Maurice Parks and son were Friday guests of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Prince.

He mentioned others who had mediocre careers in film or had been passed by including Hugh O'Brian, Jim Arness and James Garner.

Also mentioned was a girl who was working at Columbia when Dick was employed there as a writer. Harry Cohn had signed her at $80,000 a picture for three pictures. But her first two were dogs, and he sought an out. So he sent her the script of a cheap sex-and-sand epic, hoping she'd turn it down and take a suspension.

To his surprise, she accepted the assignment. Sheriff Arthur Ward, she and her husband made the first of a new TV series called I Love Lucy.

REACTION

"It seems to me there is no reason there should not be alternative opportunities in Canada" if Canadians were correctly trained. "I don't see why this decision should attract many young Canadians to the States."

Dr. R. E. Bamforth, University of Manitoba president, said: "I am sure the Canadian government will continue to have agencies under the department of national defence which will continue to study weapons development and weapons systems.

"There will be a great many opportunities in these fields for people with the proper training."

Dr. A. E. Kerr of Dalhousie University, Halifax, said it is "inevitable" that some young scientists will go to the U.S. "But a large proportion of them will be glad to stay at home or return if we have more scientific developments in Canada that are not primarily concerned with war — developments in which they can participate."

MORE IN JAIL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The federal prison bureau says more adults were in prison in the United States at the end of last year than ever before in history. But although the figure set a record, the percentage of total population did not. A report put the total adult population of America at 105,414,—116 prisoners for each 100,000 persons in the population. A proportion of 136 per 100,000 was registered at the close of 1939, 1940 and 1941.

POPE'S CONDITION GRAVE AFTER STROKE

Red China's Cease-Fire Delights U.S.

See 7-Day Truce Sign Communists Need A Breather

Reds' Condition Is U.S. Stop Escorting Convoys

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States and Nationalist China were reported consulting today on a response to Communist China's announcement of a limited cease-fire in the Formosa area.

Wary U.S. officials privately expressed delight that the Reds felt it necessary—as top officials believe—to break the monotonous drill of military assault on Nationalist Quemoy.

The Red Chinese cited "humanitarian considerations" in announcing a seven-day halt to the artillery fire that has battered Quemoy since Aug. 23. They invited the Nationalist Chinese to send fresh supplies to the offshore island, but specified the shipments must be made without U.S. naval convoys.

REACT TALKS

They called also for direct talks between the two Chinese factions to seek peaceful settlement.

Premier Nikita Khrushchev declared Russia would intervene only if the United States directly attack Red China.

On two points, at least, it appeared that Communist conditions for a cease-fire would be met:

1. With a cessation of Red attacks, officials said, there would be no need for U.S. convoying of Nationalist supply ships to Quemoy.

2. Nationalist fire against Red artillery positions on the mainland had been limited to countering the Communist bombardment. With the halting of Red assault fire there would seem to be no occasion for counterfire.

PROPAGANDA STUNT

Nationalist Chinese reaction at first was much more blunt and less similar than that in Washington. A Nationalist spokesman told reporters there the Communist cease-fire announcement was "a propaganda stunt," that adds up to "an admission of Communist failure to blockade Quemoy effectively."

During the weekend, President Eisenhower answered criticism of the U.S. position in the Formosa Strait crisis in a letter to Senator Theodore F. Green of Rhode Island, the Democratic chairman of the Senate foreign relations committee.

His letter obviously was aimed also at other critics on the public record.

Green had written to Eisenhower regretting that any decision to defend Quemoy and Matsu might result in "involvement in the wrong time, in the wrong place, and on issues not of vital concern to the security, and even less this without allies in fact or in heart."

GOVERNMENT POLICIES

Green also criticized the government's policies of late.

In his reply to Green, Eisenhower said America's allies "would be mystified if the United States were spinelessly to retreat before the threats of Red-backed armed aggression."

The president added that such predictions as Green made could "embolden our enemies and make almost inevitable the conflict which, I am sure, we both seek to avoid."

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: — Temperatures dropped below freezing across most of Ontario during the night. A strong southerly circulation will bring much warmer air into the province today.

Peiping announced a seven-day cease-fire, effective last midnight, on the condition the United States stop escorting Nationalist Chinese convoys to the embattled island.

The cease-fire order was complied with as the Nationalist President Chiang Kai-shek in negotiate directly on a settlement with Formosa and the offshore islands.

Chiang, in an interview with Cecil Brown of NBC, rejected any such direct negotiations with the Communists. He said the Peiping announcement was a "trick and deception" and he hoped the United States would continue to block Nationalist supply convoys with its 7th Fleet warships.

CREATE SPLIT

Sampson Shen, Chiang's information director, declared the purpose of Peiping's order was to create a split between Taipei and Washington—and a split appeared to have been the result in the first reactions of officials.

Shen declared the Nationalists are determined to defend the cease-fire and would ignore it.

Washington officials, however, privately expressed their delight even at the limited and conditional cease-fire. Washington reports said a rejection of Peiping's announcement was out of the question. These reports pointed out that with a cease-fire the reason for American escorts ceased to exist.

In Washington, a link was seen between Peiping's order and a sharp statement by Soviet Premier Nikolai Bulganin Sunday declaring Soviet Russia would not be drawn into an all-out war on the side of Red China unless the United States attacked the Communist regime.

NEW SITUATION

Such a rumbling Nationalist and American military meet to consider the new situation.

The fact that the Nationalist convoy arriving at Quemoy early today was escorted by a powerful three-mile limit off the island by American warships, did not mean the situation had been changed.

Officers said the convoy had been formed and was on its way before Red China's defence minister, Peng Teh-huai, announced that the Red guns were being silenced after 24 days of bombardment.

Peng said the halt was ordered out of "humanitarian considerations" to allow Nationalist ships and troops on the Quemoys, whom he considered are suffering from hunger and cold.

Three Men Die As Canoe Upsets

Brothers Quarrel in Beer Parlor, One Dead, One Hurt, Third Arrested

HEYWORTH, Ont. (CP) — Police blamed a beverage room quarrel for a shooting incident Sunday in which one brother was killed, another critically wounded and a third charged with murder.

Theodore Cutting, 33, was arrested shortly after police were called to the Cutting house by a doctor who went to treat Elwood Cutting, his twin brother.

They found George Cutting, 29, dead of rifle wounds. Elwood was taken to hospital in serious condition with a bullet in his chest.

Police said the brothers began quarrelling in a beverage room Saturday night and continued the argument Sunday.

The dead man is survived by his wife and two sons, Richard, 6, and David, 7.

BLAST WRECKS 16 OF 20 ROOMS IN TENN. SCHOOL

10 Negroes Enrolled With 850 Whites

CLINTON, Tenn. (AP) — Three bombs, expertly set off during early morning fog Sunday, wrecked the classrooms of Clinton High School where enforced integration first broke into the restisting South two years ago.

But students and teachers were hummoned to meet at the usual time today in the undamaged gymnasium to receive instructions for a quick resumption of classes — initially mixed as before. Ten Negroes are enrolled with about 850 white pupils.

Five Anderson County officials flew to Nashville Sunday afternoon to confer with Governor Frank Clement, who promised them the fullest state aid in controlling classes and solving the bombing.

FIND FUSE

Two bits of spent fuse were picked up for laboratory tests but no other clues were reported.

Clinton police, who could see nothing through the pre-dawn fog at the school across the road from the police station, said the blast went off with almost a three-minute timing.

The blasts wrecked 16 of the 20 classrooms in the building and left only the gymnasium, a home economics section, the band room and the library undamaged.

Churches throughout the small town 20 miles northwest of Knoxville offered their buildings for use as substitute classrooms. And school officials in neighboring Oak Ridge erected a vacant 25-room school to the Anderson County board for use by Clinton students.

The first year of desegregation was marked by numerous racial incidents within the school but officials reported that last year and the first few weeks this year were mostly peaceful.

Diefenbaker States Parley Cannot Discuss New Powers In Municipal Finance Field

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today ruled out any discussion of new financial powers for Canadian municipalities at the federal-municipal conference here.

In an opening speech to representatives of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, he asked instead that the meeting "limit be restricted to municipal powers and financing "evident in the letter and the spirit 'of the constitution."

". . . My colleagues and I cannot reasonably leave into any discussion of changes in the powers of the Canadian municipalities, or of their jurisdiction, their financing or other matters of this kind, which are the exclusive responsibility of provincial legislatures and the governments responsible to them."

Mr. Diefenbaker agreed that municipalities face "serious and difficult problems" arising out of urbanization. But the country has persisted despite the recession of the last two years.

Most of his speech, however, was devoted to a listing of federal expenditures which he said had contributed to the "great progress" from municipalities.

The federal government had assumed "very substantially increased expenditures" for social security—old age pensions, unemployment insurance, family allowances, aid to the disabled, health services, and now hospital insurance.

The financing of housing, he said, was another field where the federal government "has assumed a large measure of financial responsibility" that would otherwise have fallen upon the municipalities or provincial authorities.

That responsibility assumed by the federal government has enabled municipalities to benefit substantially while avoiding some of the political heat that has been on them under earlier arrangements.

Increased federal tax-sharing payments to the provinces, he added, had not only helped the provinces but indirectly had aided the municipalities.

Parliament had acted voluntarily to pay grants equal to the full amount of municipal real estate taxes on Crown property. And it had given municipalities greater exemptions from federal sales taxes on their purchases.

The prime minister's speech appeared to rule out any new scheme of federal loans to municipalities.

He said that while it is sometimes argued municipalities have been unable to borrow what they need "surveys of the situation have led to the conclusion that such difficulties are sufficiently exceptional, and amounts at issue sufficiently small, as to be well within the powers of the provincial and local governments."

OTTAWA (CP)—Items the municipalities plan to bring up for discussion with federal authorities during the two-day federal-municipal conference which began today:

1. Municipal financing and taxation, with special regard to municipal capital borrowing.

2. Problems associated with urban and regional development—low-rental housing, slum clearance, industrial development, factory and storm sewers.

3. Urban transportation and related matters.

4. Problems arising out of railroad level crossings and construction costs entailed.

5. Unemployment, especially the possibility of heavy unemployment this winter.

6. Changes in form of taxation paid by Crown corporations to municipalities. The municipalities want these grants to cover full taxation.

7. Exempting municipalities from the 10-per-cent federal sales tax on building materials used in municipal projects.

8. Rising hospital costs in the light of the operation of the federal hospital insurance plan. The municipalities want interest rates on municipal construction loans included as expenses covered by federal payments.

9. Civil defence matters.

India and Russia Propose Halt to Nuclear Weapons Tests

UNITED NATIONS (CP)—India and Russia have made separate formal proposals to the United Nations General Assembly to nuclear weapons tests.

They submitted resolutions to the 82-nation assembly last night. The proposals were made public Sunday.

They will be considered first in the assembly's political committee. The committee starts work Wednesday. It may complete its deliberations within 7 days and send the Soviet Union, the United States and Britain begin talks in Geneva Oct. 31 for an agreement to end nuclear tests.

The Indian resolution would have the assembly call for immediate suspension of the testing of atomic and hydrogen weapons pending an agreement at Geneva. It adds the hope that the Geneva negotiations will be "on an urgent basis and agreement reached soon."

The Soviet resolution proposes that the assembly say it "calls upon all states carrying out tests of atomic and hydrogen weapons to discontinue such tests immediately." The resolution says the discontinuance would be a first important step toward a test and nuclear weapons.

One Western diplomat said the Soviet resolution sounds similar to one that Britain and the United States have been working on. Another delegate complained that the Soviet draft is ambiguous. He said it seems to aim at getting a suspension of tests without the airtight controls the Western powers are demanding.

Today the political committee meets Wednesday. Its agenda will include disarmament, halting nuclear tests, reduction of military budgets, the peaceful use of outer space and effects of atomic radiation.

Atomic Sub Surfaces After Sixty Days

NEW LONDON, Conn. (AP)—The atomic submarine Seawolf surfaced in Long Island Sound at 11:15 a.m. EDT today, ending a record 60 days under water.

She foamed to the surface in the same area for her 16-man crew's first contact with the earth's atmosphere since she submerged Aug. 7.

Nearby another submarine, the Nautilus, was attending by and reding congratulations.

The Seawolf had logged more than 3,000 nautical miles in the ocean depths.

NEW YORK (CP) — Milwaukee Braves and New York Yankees lined up their starting pitchers today in the early innings of the 55th renewal of the world series. Fifth Republic Of France Now a Reality

PARIS (CP) — A formal announcement in the government Journal Sunday officially made legal the birth of the Fifth Republic that French voters overwhelmingly approved in a referendum last week.

Premier Charles de Gaulle will head the new state, replacing France's affairs' for the next seven years.

Some time during that period arrangements will be made to hold elections for a new government.

The main provisions of de Gaulle's constitution:

1. Much stronger president, elected for seven years by an enlarged electors' body. He will have measures demanded by the circumstances" in case of grave emergencies. He may also dissolve parliament in the case of a conflict with the government.

It is widely predicted that de Gaulle will become the Fifth Republic's first president.

2. A premier appointed by the president but responsible to parliament.

3. A two-chamber parliament with its prerogatives and ability to unseat the premier drastically limited.

Under normal parliamentary procedure, it takes a majority to pass a law. Under the new constitution, if de Gaulle as president wants a law passed, he submits it to parliament and it takes a majority to block it.

4. The constitution contained no specific provisions for Algeria, the current problem in the French union.

CONSUMERS HIT BY CANADA'S HIGH TARIFF STRUCTURE

Could Lead to Economic Losses

OTTAWA (CP) — Tariffs on imports can help protect some industries but they are costly for consumers.

In fact, Canadian consumers are hit by Canada's tariff structure to the tune of some $1,000,000,000 a year, suggests Professor John H. Young in one of the most searching studies undertaken on Canadian commercial policies.

The Vancouver-born Yale professor maintains that not only are tariffs add to the price of goods consumers buy, but that over the long run tariff boosts "can be expected to lead to economic losses . . . for the vast majority of Canadians."

ARGUMENTS

His 225-page study, prepared for the Gordon economic commission and published by the university today, rips through some of the old arguments favoring tariffs, including the frequent statement that protection can lead to an increase in job opportunities.

Tariffs can help shift workers from industry to another—for example from farming to say, textile manufacturing — but they are unlikely to lead to an over-all increase in employment, Prof. Young says.

. . . Even under conditions of general unemployment, it is unlikely that tariffs will be used effectively to increase employment.

"A reduction in unemployment can be secured but since this is at the expense of other countries and since they will in general react by raising tariffs to the same level of employment, any gain through the use of measures of this kind is likely to be very short-lived."

MEET COMPETITION

The argument also has been made that tariffs help fledgling industries by protecting them while they grow so that once fully established they can better meet competition without the protection.

The scope for this kind of operation is "restricted in an advanced country such as Canada." Moreover, tariffs, once granted, tend to become ingrained. Efforts to remove them "encounter local social patterns and habits and older workers who may find it difficult to retrain themselves for jobs elsewhere."

Prof. Young made his $1,000,000,000 consumer - cost estimate by adding up average price of goods produced by protected industries and average world prices of the product. He figures that in 1956 the difference was approximately 20 per cent of the gross national product of all goods and services produced.

New Yorkers Rush to Buy Tickets For Comets' Trans-Atlantic Flights

NEW YORK (AP)—A rush is on to get seats aboard the British jet airliners flying weekly between here and London.

The British Overseas Airways Corporation said Sunday it had made several hundred bookings for seats on its Comet IV's, which inaugurated transatlantic jet service Saturday.

Pan American World Airways also reported a heavy demand for seats, although it won't start jet service with the Boeing 707 until next year.

BOAC said some of the reservations were for December and beyond. The line plans only weekly service until mid-november, when it expects to have a flight a day.

Pan American, which had said it would be first with jet flights across the Atlantic, plans to begin daily jet service between New York and London Nov. 26. Its flights to Paris and Rome are scheduled to start Oct. 26.

At Summer Home Too Ill To Move To Vatican City

Not Known Whether Extreme Unction Given

CASTEL GANDOLFO (CP)

The Pope was stricken with circulatory trouble in the brain today. Early this afternoon his condition was reported to be slightly improved although still grave.

Msgr. Angelo Dell'Acqua, a substitute Vatican secretary of state, told reporters early this afternoon he had spoken to Professor Antonio Gasbarrini, one of the pontiff's doctors.

"He told me that there has been a slight improvement in the general condition of the Pope," the secretary said. "But his state remains grave."

He added that another medical bulletin would be issued this evening.

CANCEL MOVING PLAN

The 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church, however, was in such grave condition that his doctors cancelled plans for the time being to move him to Vatican City.

Reports at the Vatican City press office said the Pope had been given extreme unction, the final rites of the Roman Catholic Church for those at the point of danger of death.

Later there was uncertainty about this. Msgr. Dell'Acqua said upon leaving the papal palace that to his knowledge extreme unction had not been administered to the pontiff.

Msgr. Dell'Acqua added that the Pope had not yet said anything — was not immediately clear whether this meant that the Pope had lost his speech as a result of the brain trouble.

He also said the Pope had been well enough just before suffering the cerebral circulatory attack to receive holy communion.

CALL FOR PRAYERS

The vicar - general, Clemente Cardinal Micara, hurried to the papal summer residence of Castel Gandolfo this morning. He followed a world-wide call for fervent prayers by the faithful, "as the condition of the pontiff has suddenly worsened."

Ercole Amoretti, Bologna specialist who was one of the physicians signing a medical bulletin on the Pope's condition, said:

"All is in the hands of God."

ANNOUNCE ILLNESS

The bulletin issued by Vatican City at 8:30 a.m. (3:30 a.m. EDT) today, after a tranquil night and the thought that the Pope had rallied him in the past few days had disappointed the faithful. Father Francis Spellman, of New York, was stricken with cerebral circulatory disturbances, the developing bulletin was signed by a barrini, a specialist in gastric ill-

Kingston Man Remanded on Bribery Charge

KINGSTON (CP) — Arthur Mason, Kingston businessman charged with attempted bribery of civic officials in an attempt to obtain the franchise for distribution of natural gas here, today was remanded to Oct. 16.

The remand was requested by Alex Hall of Toronto, special investigator for the Crown. It was agreed to by defence council J. R. Thompson, Q.C., and Mr. Justice Mason, who ran for the mayoralty here in 1954, was charged with attempting to bribe Mayor Frank P. Boyce and Thomas A. Hicks, a member of the public utilities commission, with at least $10,000 each.

Mason was hired by the Consumers' Gas Company Limited as a part-time representative in April, 1957. The bribery attempts are alleged to have occurred in March, 1957.

Kingston residents are to vote in December on whether they want the public utilities commission to continue in the gas distribution business or have the franchise taken over by Lakeland Gas Limited, a private concern. Consumers' Gas is also seeking the franchise.

Underworld Club Raided

TORONTO (CP) — Police say they raided a richly upholstered gambling club which was one of Toronto's underworld spends its off-hours.

One man was charged with selling and keeping liquor for sale and 15 others were charged with being found. No guests were released.

Police said one man jumped out a third-storey window but was captured.

Four British Soldiers Hurt By Land Mines

NICOSIA (Reuters) — Four British soldiers were injured in western Cyprus today when terrorists blew up their vehicle with electrically - detonated mines.

The incident followed an ambush 20 miles west of Nicosia Sunday night in which one soldier was slightly wounded when bombs and shots were directed at their vehicle.

A Greek-Cypriot night watchman, was shot dead by unknown gunmen three miles south of Nicosia this morning.

Meanwhile, strict security measures were in force today for the funeral of a British woman killed by terrorist bullets last Friday.

Mrs. Catherine Cutliffe, mother of five, was shot in Famagusta while shopping with her 18-year-old daughter. Another British [illegible]man's wife, Mrs. Elfrida Robinson, was seriously injured in the attack.

TENSION AT PEAK

Tension between British troops and Greek Cypriots was at its highest as a result of Mrs. Cutliffe's murder.

"Wishful that has happened in Cyprus during the emergency has enraged troops more than the cold-blooded shooting of service wives in Famagusta," a senior army officer said.

On the Greek - Cypriot side, there is bitterness against the security forces over the deaths of three Greeks and the injuries to about 250 others in Famagusta during mass arrests that followed Mrs. Cutliffe's death.

Kiwanians Mark 'Press Week'

TRENTON — National Press Week was marked on Thursday at the regular meeting of the Trenton Kiwanis Club, held in the Hotel Gilbert which nearly 50 members of the club present.

Speaker for the evening was Roy Cornish, managing editor of the Trentonian, who spoke on the purpose and aims of a weekly newspaper. He said accuracy and leadership were two of the prime purposes of a newspaper and that each paper should do its part in the community and should "try to build and not destroy" the town.

He was thanked by club member Wayne Simmons and following the meeting he took the club on a tour of the plant where he works.

The club, during the brief meeting, heard reports from various committee chairmen. Les Platt said the tulips bulbs were moving very slowly and urged the members to get out and sell their required amounts.

Paul Tripp told the members that their hockey teams will be starting to operate in three weeks and the first committee meeting this season will be held soon. Len Coward urged as many members as possible to turn out and take over jobs as coaches and managers of the teams.

Check Premises During Fire Prevention Week

TRENTON — "Today is the first day of Fire Prevention Week," Acting Fire Chief Cecil Ellis reminds, 'and during this week we, on the Trenton Fire Department and with the help of all citizens, hope to get many places cleared up, which are at present a fire hazard.

Acting Chief Ellis said that many people have called the department asking to have their premises checked and a good number of industrial plants have brought fire extinguishers in to be checked and refilled or replaced. He said response has been good during the past week and he hopes it will continue steadily until the entire town has been given a reasonable inspection.

Trentonians are more fire-conscious than ever before due to the five major fires this year which have claimed an estimated over $1,000,000 in property damage. In some of the fires many families were left homeless and few salvaged anything from the fire. Most only managed to escape with the clothing they could grab on the way out.

Under the Fire Marshal's Act, the Fire Marshal or his assistant, and in all cases the Fire Chief of any town is considered this, may upon the complaint of any person who is interested, or when he deems necessary himself, inspect all buildings and premises within his jurisdiction and may order these buildings for this purpose at any reasonable hour. If necessary he may take a police officer with him if he may deem proper.

Upon making the inspection and finding conditions which he considers to be fire hazards to the building or buildings nearby he can order such things repaired and in some cases removed. If in the case of electrical wiring he feels it is unsafe and presenting a danger of fire he may order the Hydro-Electrical Power Commission to hold a re-inspection of the property.

Every person who fails to obey an order made in this regard is subject to a maximum fine of $50.00 for every day during which the default continues.

THE MODEL T

The other day The Ontario Intelligencer published an article on the fiftieth anniversary of the birth of the Model T.

This article had been prepared from the Ford Motor Co. and was, of course, an excellent factual history of the car. We trust it proved interesting to everybody who read it. If it did, though, it was not so much because it told everything that needed to be told about the Model T as because many readers were able to clothe the bare bones of facts with personal memories.

That is the secret of any adequate story of the Model T. It has to be a personal story for the Model T is important not just because it represented a milestone in automotive engineering but because its existence is intertwined with the lives of most of the people who were living in this country and in the United States during the years when Model T cars were rolling off the assembly line.

Notice, for instance, that it is quite possible to talk about the Model T without adding the word "Ford." We wonder how many of today's models, with majestic names, will attain the same immortality.

* * *

One proof that the Model T earned itself a place in the hearts of the people never achieved by other cars was the abundance of jokes at its expense. It was sung, for instance, that a Model T could be repaired with baling wire -- and so it could. Nor was that the only way in which the original design could be modified. The original Model T Fords, we believe, had oil lamps. Later electricity was used. Although the Model T ignition system depended on a magneto, instead of the battery which provides the spark in today's cars, batteries were added later and the lights used this source of power. It was possible, however, to wire lights directly to the magneto and this worked, for a while. True, the intensity of the lights might vary with the speed of the car, in much the same manner as the modern windshield wiper speeds up or slows down, depending on whether the engine is "running free" or "pulling." But, if you preferred your lights that way, you could.

There was, however, a disadvantage to a Model T with magneto-powered headlights. The bulbs burned just very long. Replacements were needed every fifteen or twenty miles. This could be expensive and pocketbooks which could not be stretched to provide a battery sometimes were deflated to the point where they could not even provide spare bulbs. Failure to have spares could result in embarrassment, such as the driver finding that a passenger departing over the open sides of the car as he pulled into a parking space in front of a dance hall. Pausing to enquire the reason was always good policy, as it might be discovered that the passengers had noted that the "parking space" ahead was really the open water at the bottom of a slough.

The Model T, though, was resourceful and did its best to make up for the failure of lights in emergencies. For instance, when they failed the driver might be puzzled to discover that there was still a faint light coming from under the hood. Investigation would reveal that the engine block was warm. This did not really provide a satisfactory driving light -- but on the other hand it never seemed to hurt the engine.

* * *

The Model T had other advantages. It had no gear shift, but it had three pedals. One of these provided, if we recall aright, low gear when pushed to the floor, and high when half-way up and high gear when the foot was removed. A second pedal was for reverse and was designed to be pushed to the floor when the first pedal was in neutral, half way up. The third pedal was for brakes—Sometimes it did not produce as fast a stop as desired. But there was always a quick remedy. Placing a foot across all three pedals and pushing them to the floor, braking the car while at the same time tightening bands around the low and reverse drums, always brought a beautiful reaction.

Unfortunately, though, the Model T had disadvantages. Even without a gear shift, starting was somewhat hard, particularly if any person fell for the idea that the car needed oil and insisted on filling the crankcase to capacity. It might be necessary, before starting a trip, to jack up the rear wheels so that the crank could be spun. Just why jacking up the rear wheels helped, we cannot now explain. But it did.

* * *

There was, as far as we can recall, only one thing about which a Model T really complained. That was a loose bolt rattling around in what passed for its transmission. When things like that happened there was only one thing to do -- wait until the knowledgeable but lazy member of the syndicate got around to fixing it. Sometimes that was a long, long time -- so long, in fact that the Model T passed out of the realm of a fact of everyday living into the mistier vale of history and of memory.

C.A. Dunning Courageous

Montreal Gazette

If one word were to be chosen to describe Hon. Charles A. Dunning and his career, it would be the word "Manitoba."

Throughout his life, in good health and in bad, he never lost his grip on that. His world is a struggle, the struggle itself is good — the very substance of character.

He had come to Western Canada from Leicestershire at the age of 17. Once, in speaking about his early years in the Canadian West, he said: "There is nothing like being on your own. That is what builds character, a great experience. Canada has my grateful thanks for giving me my chance to do just that."

There was never in him anything of complaint about fate; he was no fault-finder. For him the interesting were tests. He never thought that his life would be dull. would be better off without them.

The fortitude of those early years had its results. He soon had his own homestead. He became a leader among the farmers of the area. He was premier of Saskatchewan at 30, and was in the Liberal cabinet in Ottawa in one important post after the other, at 35 and in his forties. He was twice Minister of Finance. He became sought after by the banks and boards as the director of an exceptionally long list of companies.

In all his public career he had a grasp, both quick and firm, of the essentials. He never mishandled himself well in the House. He had what the occasion demanded it. But he fought fairly. "Play the ball and leave the man alone," he would say. And he kept free from personal bitterness.

A man of abounding vigor, he had never spared himself. But in the end his health in time made a different kind of life necessary. And he found a new task with typical resourcefulness. He remained active, but always with a new emphasis upon of his strength. As the result, he was able to get useful work were granted him.

Out of this fortitude was bound to be rich in human understanding, and in the sort of friendships he had. He was not, perhaps, but most generous when deserved and needed it.

He was the truest of philosophers, in that he not only believed in philosophy but lived it. As Chancellor of Queen's he told the university that he considered "the law to be the law of struggle" and that "problems and difficulties create opportunities for individuality and character."

The truth of what he said has been proved by what he had done.

Breaks Mark For Fat Men

Manchester Guardian

There is no such thing as immortality for a record. It is the inevitable fate of all records, soon or later, to be broken. The latest was Frank Hughes, of Mr. Robert Hughes, who died a few days ago at Rowmer, Indiana, at the age of 32. He weighed 1,041 pounds, and was 4 feet tall and measured 10 feet 2 inches round the waist.

The record which Hughes has broken is probably that of Daniel Lambert, described as t h e "prince of all fatmen," who died in 1809, weighing 52½ pounds. Lambert's waistcoat, which is proudly preserved at King's Lynn, measures 102 inches round the waist — seven feet less than Hughes'.

No doubt there have been other very fat men worthy of record, but they are hard to find. Mention has been made of a peer stout that Hades Tellers counted him as ten to the dozen in the Ranks of the Habeas Corpus Bill.

There was also the wife of Robert Lowe, whom he was frequently gallantly addressed "Descend, ye nine!" as she got out of her carriage.

And there was Gibbon, who got on his knees to propose, but was so fat that he could not get up again.

Until Mr. Hughes' record, the heaviest man on temporary weight was that of George Lowatt, who weighed 532 pounds; accordingly he made himself (temporarily) 560 pounds as his true weight.

The Vienna papers reported the existence of Weiti Oesterreicher, a girl of 20, who tipped the scale at 322 pounds. Her record possibly remains unbroken; if so, it can hardly be temporary. Somewhere in the world, no doubt a small girl is growing by leaps and bounds and breaking her mother's heart by expanding effortlessly beyond little Weiti's record.

Trade Curbs Priced High

New York Times

If anyone doubted how high a price the United States was going to pay for restricting the flow of cheap imports it is only necessary to read the flood of criticisms printed in this newspaper yesterday. To protect a minor industry and save the jobs of a few thousand men, we are seriously damaging the economies of a number of friendly countries and we have created a great deal of bad feeling.

Canada found the imposition of the American import quotas a blow contrary to the principles of the trade agreement between the United States and Canada. Switzerland, Sweden and Denmark protested that they had a serious effect on her economy. In Peru, the move was described as "a discriminatory act against our country" and it will be a "most unfortunate action." $60,000,000 a year in export earnings and consequent unemployment, is the effect in Venezuela, which will be "disastrous." Such a step by the United States, says a Mexican spokesman, "makes a mockery of the Good Neighbor policy." And in the United States the smelting and refining companies are unhappy.

The damage is done for the present and the minister of trade has acted immediately. However, it must be hoped that the quotas will be removed as soon as possible. The United States at its present rate of tariff reduction cannot jeopardize certain markets that it never will be vital to our existence and must not be permitted to undermine our relations with friendly nations for reasons that are more political than economic.

THE PACKSACK

BY GREGORY CLARK

In a downpour the other morning I ducked into a shop doorway to wait for the deluge to slacken. I was joined when half-way by a man who was carrying a rolled-up umbrella.

"Say, don't you put up your umbrella?" I asked.

"It's all full of holes," he said. "It's all worn along the ribs."

Then, er. . .um!" I questioned, naturally.

"To tell you the truth," he said, "all my life I have wanted to carry a walking stick. But I haven't got the nerve. I would look like a fool if I walked out of my office. But whenever it looks like rain, I get the chance to do the next best thing. I carry this umbrella. I get some of the satisfaction I would get out of a stick."

"I see you are a very honest man," I admitted.

"Why, I see you are carrying a stick," he replied. "That's why I ask you. How do you get the nerve to carry a stick?

"I'll show you," I said. And when the rain slackened, I took his rolled-up umbrella and handed him my stick. And we walked proudly down the two blocks to where our ways parted, where we exchanged.

"See?" I said. "Who cares?" If we only realized how seldom people think of us, we wouldn't worry about what they think of us.

SCHOOL AND A FATHER
By EDGAR A. GUEST

They shall teach him how to read,
How to write and how to spell.
He shall follow where they lead
With the ringing of the bell.
Once in school his little mind
Shall belong to those who teach.
But I must stay behind,
Out of sight and out of reach.
I must meet him at the door
Leaving his school days ended,
Changing me with him, as before,
I must teach him to be true.

It is not enough to know
How to write and how to spell.
Some one also has to show
How to use those talents well.
There are lessons all must learn
Supplementing those of school;
Then it is a father's turn
To explain each puzzling rule.
I must wait for him at night,
I must guide his feet aright;
I must teach him to be true.

Why Farmer Gets Annoyed

Windsor Star

Farmers are annoyed not so much at what they are paid for their food-stuffs but at what consumers have to pay for them. In other words, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture puts this in a concrete manner.

If a farmer buys a steak on a railway car (or at a high class hotel) he pays around $1.50 for the customary 10 per cent tip. That is a large figure for so much as he received per pound carcass value for the steer from the time it was on the hoof.

In other words, the waiter gets as much as a tip (apart from his salary) for carrying the dinner a few paces as the farmer did for rearing, in addition and for feeding the original meat for two or 2½ years.

It is a curious insight into the economics of our much-vaunted capitalistic society!

"Dear Dr. Molner: Is there a cure for hemorrhoids? I have had them bad for three years now, and they are getting to where the yhurt most of the time. I have used all sorts of medicine to get relief. My doctor says operation. My boss had one, but that was about four years ago and now they are back again. He says no one should have such an operation. I don't want to. Is there treatment such as heat or a machine of some sort?—J.V."

Operation for hemorrhoids (piles) involves several days of rsel discomfort because of its sensitive site.

However, what's the alternative? To be hard-headed about it, the choice is between some days of that, or keeping the hemorrhoids even when they hurt "most of the time." In addition, if you don't get rid of them, it can expect a fight for them to get worse. They will. Further, the bleeding hemorrhoids are a steady drain on your strength, and they can and do cause anemia, so that you should tell he takes the plunge and gets the thing over with. Then, you can, and 'of course, a ready victim for any type of infection he may encounter.

Now despite the fact that your doctor has probably been trying it to you as to the wise decision. I'll also add some other information and also give him hints on future precautions to take.

First of all, what are hemorrhoids? They are varicose veins, except they are rectal ones, instead of in the leg. They are the first they are merely enlarged veins. They are constantly irritated, they may start to itch, later to hurt, finally to bleed.

ONLY TEMPORARY RELIEF

Sometimes surgery or medication can ease them for a time. But the surgery usually does not cause the swollen, varicose veins to become smaller. Rather they are temporarily relieved by the medication does no further harm. But the irritation and there is no machine which will reduce the size of the swollen veins.

Sometimes, if caught early and if other conditions are suitable the veins can be injected with a solution that sets up a reaction which will reduce the size of the swollen veins.

But, if caught early and if other conditions are suitable the veins can be injected with a solution that sets up a reaction which will reduce the size of the swollen veins.

This brings us to a very important piece of advice, the best course is to avoid letting the veins become varicose (swollen).

Proper diet, drinking enough water, and good bowel habits will do a great deal to prevent new hemorrhoids from appear-

TODAY'S TALK

LIVING FOR A PURPOSE

The longer I live the more impressed I am with the fact that life is for others, not for ourselves, but others. I came across a statement by the American writer John Mason Brown. He said: "Existence is not a matter of days. It proves to be only happiness — and the only true success — if it is an inspiring experience to meet one whose purpose, like a star, has a better world than we have been, but indirectly must contribute to make such a job.We are at a serious crossroad. What happens in a very short time is what will guarantee Freedom to millions or else smother it for generations — if it doesn't lose its "fast beat hope."

Let us hope and pray that what so much of our life and that of our lives may be our children's gain and happy experience.

MORALITY and RELATIVISM

The twentieth century has seen a gradual undermining of public morality by the relativist and pragmatic concepts of right and wrong. According to these concepts, the morality of an act is determined by its consequences. If it produces good results, it is good. Thus, for instance, if an act leads to unfavorable social results, or unhappiness, it is wrong. Conversely, if it produces the opposite effect, it is right. Also, since people and social conditions vary in different ages and situations, the same act may be right for some people and wrong for others, or right in one generation and wrong in another.

This has undermine a futile attempt to decide eternal human problems with our own limited intelligence. Our Creator is in a large extent a divine answer to human problems because of the present-day philosophers are struggling with, made on the basis of an infinite intelligence. He is qualified to decide on questions of moral values. He has a complete understanding of human nature, and our philosophers would not be so presumptuous as to claim such an understanding. There is only one philosophy which truly understands human nature, and He is the one who created it — God.

We should not be deceived by the glittering generalities of the relativists. They are trying to weaken basic principles upon

Attendance Record Is Set As Perfect Autumn Weather Prevails for Fair at Tweed

Favored by perfect autumn weather and a big weekend holiday turnout, an all - time record in attendance was rung up by the annual Tweed Fair on Saturday afternoon as a huge crowd jammed the grounds for the fall classic.

Fair directors, headed by president Bernard Hunt, changed the fair day from Wednesday to Saturday to give district workers with a fulltime day work the opportunity of attending and the venture paid off as was indicated by the record attendance.

There was the usual fine horse and cattle show with three classes of horse racing that kept harness racing fans interested. Thrown in was a fine grandstand show, emcsed by Tommy Mason, that featured dancers from the Dimmick School of the Dance at Belleville, Niagara Falls Western radio artists, and a hula hoop contest that was entered into enthusiastically by members of the younger generation.

An added attraction for the younger generation was the mutt show which drew about 17 young owners who put their pets through a retinue of tricks to the enjoyment of onlookers. Sponsor of the show, Jim Crawford of Tweed, said the mutts outperformed the thoroughbreds.

JUNIOR FARMERS MEET

Junior Farmers had their day with the Tweed 4-H calf club holding its achievement day. Top three calves were shown by Gary Hunt, Glen Thompson and Garnet Dean.

Marsh's midway did a land office business throughout the afternoon as district youngsters flocked to the various rides and patronized the concessions.

Another feature of the Tweed Fair was the appearance of the 30-member Tweed High School Trumpet Band. The band, about evenly made up of boys and girls, with a bevy of baton-twirling drum majorettes, went through its numbers on the bandstand in front of the grandstand crowd. Band leader is James Craigen.

Products of the farm and garden had a good showing in the agricultural building while Tweed district housewives excelled themselves in their display of pies, cakes and other kitchen tidbits. The cheese show saw 31 large cheese and five entries of Stiltons.

Fire Destroys Barn, Contents Near Frankford

An aura of mystery surrounds the cause of a fire that destroyed the barn of Raymond MacKenzie, of R. R. 2, Frankford.

The fire broke out at 5 p.m. Saturday and was discovered by Mr. MacKenzie. Belleville Fire Department officials said that the cause of the fire is unknown.

No estimate of the damage was available but the MacKenzie loss was heavy with as much as 800 bushels of grain in the barn, two wagons, one of which had a new load of lumber on it, much of the farm machinery and a few hens.

Mr. MacKenzie expressed amazement on how the fire started as there were no lanterns lit in the barn and no person had been inside who smoked. The barn was insured, but only slightly.

Rodeo Queen Wanted to Teach School

EDMONTON (CP) — The small fry in at least one classroom here are sure they have a topnotch schoolmarm. She is Canadian Rodeo Queen Joanne Sharples.

The pretty 19-year-old blonde from the ranch country around Clarndonin in southwest Alberta can rope a steer as well as any television cowboy. Blue - eyed Joanne and her three sisters were brought up on horses. They had Shetland ponies when they were children, and later rode saddle horses.

Joanne can also teach. She received her teaching certificate last year from the University of Alberta here.

MANY TALENTS

She was crowned Canadian queen at the Lethbridge rodeo this year after Herman Linder, president of the Stampede Manager's Association of Canada, persuaded her to enter the contest.

Unassuming but efficient, Joanne is a good pianist and has taken highest honors three times in music festivals. She can cook the hearty meals ranchers demand, and is handy with a needle.

"But as long as I can remember, I wanted to teach school," she says. Nevertheless, during will again pack her saddle and buckskins and head for a rodeo.

She will compete at Las Vegas, Nev., as Canada's representative in the world rodeo queen contest.

The Experts Say

Want Housewives to Get Best Bacon Procurable

By EDNA USHER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO (CP) — Mrs. Helen Morningstar is out to save your bacon, but says she wants lots of help.

She is national chairman of the food committee of the Canadian Association of Consumers, which is working on consumer projects to improve the quality and purity of food.

The group is trying for instance to have all milk pasteurized, and all meat inspected, and right now ,is concentrating on bacon.

"It is almost impossible to grade bacon according to rigid standards, but we want bacon packers to give housewives a chance to select the best, and we want housewives to buy the best," said Mrs. Morningstar.

The association has persuaded packers to change their bacon packaging for a test period. Bacon in the "picture window" type package will be put in the other way round. "We believe that through this change housewives will be better able to select good bacon," she said.

She advises women to watch these points in bacon buying:

Bacon should be 30 per cent lean; the lean should be evenly distributed through the fat, and the bacon should be in a long thin strip.

How pure is the food we eat? "It is probably as pure as food anywhere in the world, but it's still not pure as we want it," says Mrs. Morningstar.

Milk pasteurization is considered by the association to be essential in ensuring purity. But pasteurization is compulsory only in Ontario and Saskatchewan.

"We are working on two rules —trying to persuade provincial governments to make pasteurization compulsory, and impressing on the public the need for pasteurization—they can pasteurize milk themselves by heating it to 145 degrees Fahrenheit for 30 minutes and cooling it quickly," she said.

Meat inspection is a long-term project for the Association, but it aims at a complete and continuous check on slaughterhouses and meat - handling establishments.

"We want every scrap of meat for human consumption inspected by government employees," she said.

"It is probably impossible to guarantee completely pure food, but we can keep working to get better production conditions."

Worked With Sickle on Farm In Ukraine

EDMONTON (CP) — Until she left the Ukraine six months ago, 83 - year - old Annie Harbaczyk worked with a sickle on a collective-administered collective grain farm.

Her annual "salary" was 300 pounds of wheat and 100 pounds of rye, Alec and sagle for her age, Mrs. Harbaczyk says she was able to cut and bind 150 sheaves a day.

She is starting a new and less strenuous life here with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Rokicki. She had not seen her daughter since 1937.

When the Russians occupied the Ukraine, Mrs. Harbaczyk was dispossessed of the home she owned and moved to a house near a collective farm 25 miles away at Sambor.

She did not have to work, she explained recently to a reporter, but did so mainly to get the little extra that make life more pleasant. She also saved for the day when she could visit her four daughters, three of whom live in France.

Two years ago she applied for a passport. Six times she was questioned:

"Why do you want to leave? How will you live?"

The answers never varied. She wanted to see her family in France and she would help her with travelling expenses.

Finally, because of her age, she was allowed to go to France on a two-year leave.

Mrs. Harbaczyk says she hasn't considered rejurning to the Ukraine. After nearly six months in France, she flew to Edmonton.

Along with the desire to go places and see things, Canadians have an urge to get ahead in life . . . to have guaranteed financial security. That's why they own more life insurance, in relation to national income, than any other people.

Over 7½ million Canadians own life insurance because they feel it offers them a variety of guaranteed benefits not obtainable in any other way.

Every year an increasing number of Canadians buy life insurance as their major source of family and personal security. For some of them it is their first policy — a beginning — while others are adding to their holdings as family responsibilities grow.

This strong belief in the ownership of life insurance means that Canadians may well continue to be the world's best insured people, in relation to national income.

BROTHER OR MOTHER TO GIVE HER IN MARRIAGE?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My father is dead. Would it be proper for me to have my oldest brother give me in marriage?

F.

Yes, this is a correct plan. Or if you and your mother wish, and if your church denomination permits, you may have your oldest brother escort you up the aisle, and then have your mother give you in marriage. If this is the plan, your mother joins you when you and your brother reach t h e first pew on the left (where your mother is seated), or she may remain in her seat and reply "I do" when the minister asks who is to give the bride in marriage.

INTRODUCING ONE COUPLE TO ANOTHER COUPLE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

What is the correct way to introduce one couple to another couple? That is, should the wives be introduced to each other first, and then the husbands to each other?

To your last question — no, because this procedure is unnecessarily complicated. Make the introduction of the two couples in the easiest way possible: "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson — Mr. and Mrs. Clark." If in formal introduction under very informal circumstances (at an informal party, for example) and first names are appropriate you may say, "Margaret and Bob Johnson — Kate and Arthur Clark."

THE DIVORCEE. . . THE WEDDING RING. . . HER NEW ENGAGEMENT RING

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

As I have a young daughter, I have continued to wear my wedding ring since my divorce t w o years ago. Now I'm engaged, recently, we've told no one yet to marry a very fine man who has never been married. He is to give me my engagement ring soon, and then we are to be married within a week or so. Do you advise that I discontinue wearing my wedding ring when I begin to wear my new engagement ring? — Divorcee

Yes . . . this is the considerate thing for you, a divorcee, to do.

PROBLEM. . . THOSE HOURS BETWEEN MORNING RECEPTION AND EVENING RECEPTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Our son is to be married soon, a large wedding and reception. The church ceremony is to take place in the morning, and the reception, including a dance, is to be in the evening. As far as we know, no plans have been made for the guests between the ceremony and reception. Among the guests invited to both ceremony and reception are close relatives and intimate friends of ours, who will be coming from distances of more than a hundred miles.

(1) Should we, the bridegroom's family, be prepared to have luncheon for our relatives a n d friends and entertainment for the time between ceremony and reception? They have met t h e bride-to-be only once, at a family gathering.

(2) Also, should we inform them about the bridal dance included in the reception?

— Bridegroom's Mother

(1) This is always a problem

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Leona S. — My father-in-law gets my goat.

John S. — He should be respected. . . .

Leona S. — My husband and I have been married two years and have a new baby. We are happy, but we have had quite a few quarrels on one subject — my father-in-law.

The old man really gets my goat. He is European and sticks to the ways of his country. He expects women to serve him. When he comes home, his wife caters to him hand and foot. If everything is not just right he bellows and his wife looks terrified of him.

I hate to see all this, but it is even worse when he expects it of me. He visits us every day and expects the same attentions from me that his wife gives him. He wants to be waited on — even if I'm busy with the baby. I've told him he's welcome, but he must help himself if he wants something to eat. As a result he is furious at me — and at my husband and my mother-in-law.

John S. — I know that my father is annoying and that his habits are different from ours. But all the same, he is my father and I think Leona owes him respect.

To my father, it is a terrible thing for a man to have any responsibilities in the house. He thinks I am insane when he sees me helping in the house or sometimes making my own breakfast. It doesn't mean anything to me and I don't ask Leona to serve me like that. I only want her to show my father hospitality and politeness.

My father is set in his ways and just can't see our way of doing things. He isn't going to change. Leona should be willing to give in for the sake of peace in the family. My father is a good man at heart and his other kids and wives willing to accept daughters-in-law and recognize their principles.

The Council: There is a difference between European a n d American attitudes toward women and American women are sometimes delighted, sometimes exasperated by that difference. But we think that courtesy and consideration are always in order, regardless of national custom.

Any man who expects a woman to give up tending her infant in order to perform a task that he can perform for himself shows that he has little feeling for the decencies of human behavior. This man tries to justify his actions by claiming it is the way of the old country and that it is a better way. But this is nonsense. We are certain that many of the stern men of the old school showed the utmost gentleness and consideration in their dealings with women.

It appears to us that the "old man" is a childish bully. However, as John points out, there probably little that can be done to change him at his age. Childish bullies are often easily handled if one makes up one's mind not to get exasperated. Leona may be able to win him over by a few easy gestures and a little teasing. She'll probably find that if she treats him exactly like a child, occasionally preparing a special treat or surprise for him, he'll go away mollified. He is probably easily distracted from his power.

John might try letting his father know that they enjoy having him there but aren't able to treat him like a formal guest every day of the week.

Choice of First Courses For Thanksgiving Dinner

Thanksgiving is next weekend while you feed your brood this week without giving them too much of a preview, would you like to sprinkle on some Thanksgiving Dinner items?

If I start now we will reserve enough space to give some good alternatives. For instance, I want to suggest to you three or four different vegetables from which you may use a couple or all. That takes space.

Dinner Menus

MONDAY

Devilled Chicken Livers on Toast; Braised or Creamed Celery; Broiled Crumbed Tomatoes; Grape Sponge with Custard Sauce; Coffee.

But to keep first things first I'll begin with some toothsome appetizers — harbingers of the feast yet to come.

Broiled Grapefruit: Halve and remove seeds, cut around each section and remove core. Sprinkle with brown or maple sugar. Place on pan and broil slowly for 15 to 20 minutes, until thoroughly hot through. Add a little maraschino juice and garnish with a half a maraschino cherry. Serve piping hot.

Seafood Cocktail: Combine large pieces or flakes of shrimp, lobster and crabmeat using fresh if possible and if not then canned or frozen. Season to taste; add a little minced onion and finely chopped celery. Serve ice cold in tall stemmed glasses with a wedge of lemmon, Cocktail Sauce: Take ¼ cup chili sauce and mix thoroughly with ½ cup each catsup and prepared horseradish. To this add 1½ teaspoons Worcestershire sauce. Chill well before serving. If you wish a sharper sauce add ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of pepper and about 2 tablespoons lemon juice along with a few drops of tabasco sauce.

Spiced Cider: To 2 cups of cider add 1 teaspoon whole allspice, 1 stick cinnamon and 6 or 8 whole cloves. Simmer for 15 minutes. Strain and chill till serving time. Just before serving add ¼ cup lemon juice and tablespoons orange juice. Serves 4.

Corn Almond Cream Soup: 4 cups milk, 3/4 cups fresh corn, 1 large onion minced, 1 stalk celery, chopped, 4 tablespoons EACH butter, flour and milk, 1 bay leaf, 1½ teaspoons salt and ½ teaspoon EACH paprika and celery salt, ½ cup blanched almonds, finely chopped, 2 tablespoons melted butter and 1 cup heavy cream. Heat the 4 cups milk and add corn, onion, celery and bay leaf. Let simmer about 10 minutes, then remove bay leaf. Melt butter, add flour and milk. Add to corn mixture along with salt, paprika and celery salt. Heat almonds in the melted butter. Add with cream to corn mixture. Cook, stirring constantly until mixture comes to a boil and is slightly thickened. Serve with a topping of whipped cream (optional).

Woman Handy With a Horse As a Needle

CALGARY (CP)—Patricia Nodwell, 17, was the only girl to receive a certificate in agriculture last spring from the Olds School of Agriculture.

Concentrating on animal husbandry, she completed two years' work in one.

Tall and dark, Pat is as handy with a horse as a needle. She raises, buys, sells and exhibits her own animals, pasturing them on 30 acres of land near her Banff Highway home.

"I coax my younger brothers into helping me now and then," she says, "but nobody at home loves horses the way I do."

It costs $75 a month to keep the animals. Part of this comes from a 9-to-5 job she holds in a downtown Calgary office.

She finds time to devote three hours daily to the training, exercise and care of her five horses. On the side, she teaches nine-year - old Raven Gillis the fine points of horsemanship. Next year the youngster may ride the Nodwell horses in show rings.

Pat says she hopes to be able to stay home and dedicate all her time to the scientific breeding of horses.

New Winter Wheat Sought To Make Efficient Use of Prairie Farms All Year Round

WINNIPEG (CP)—A new winter wheat tough enough to survive the worst Prairie winter is being sought in experiments here aimed at making efficient use of Prairie farms all year round.

Prof. B. C. Jenkins, in charge of the project, says great strides have been made in the last few years and possibilities look good.

"It appears to be only a matter of time and patience."

Spring wheat now is the only type capable of successful production over the entire Prairie grain belt.

WEATHER HANDICAP

Winter wheat, a common crop in eastern Canada, is seldom successfully grown on the Prairies except for small areas of southern Alberta. The main stumbling block has been the lack of a variety hardy enough to survive the bitter prairie winter.

Winter wheat is planted in the fall, matures and ripens in the spring and early summer and is harvested in mid - summer, escaping most rust attacks.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics lists 1957-57 average Prairie spring wheat production at 462,000,000 bushels. No Prairie winter wheat production is recorded. In 1957 Ontario produced 19,500,000 bushels of winter wheat.

Prof. Jones said in an interview that any significant breakthrough has to be considered a major milestone in Western Canada grain production.

Work on the project has led to a juggling of characteristics between Kharkov winter wheat, home grown during the winter in Alberta, and Dakold winter rye.

DETAILED STUDY

Prof. Jenkins, using a method perfected by Dr. E. R. Sears of the University of Missouri between 1938 and 1950, developed a series of 21 deficient lines of Kharkov winter wheat.

Each line had one Kharkov chromosome, a tiny part of a plant cell that determines its characteristics, removed by means of a complicated series of crosses and backcrosses with Chinese spring wheat. In its place Prof. Jenkins substituted one chromosome of Dakold rye.

"The purpose was to combine the good points of both plants and then by careful study and selection reproduce those with the desired characteristics of hardiness, quality, yield and protein.

Scientists at the university now are in the process of growing and testing the results.

"There is no guarantee this work will produce a winter wheat hardy enough to survive on the Prairies, but we are optimistic," he said.

CITES ADVANTAGES

Dr. Jenkins says there are a number of advantages in producing winter wheat. The productive period of the land is lengthened, the risk of drought is cut by use of fall, winter and spring moisture, harvesting can be completed before severe attacks of rusts and before wet autumns are able to reduce quality.

"Winter wheat gives a higher yield than spring wheat and is high in protein content," he said. "It will be a vital source of food in years to come. Surpluses may be commonplace now, but there is no doubt food supplies will have to be increased to feed the world's rapidly building population."

Greater populations tend to reduce the area of land left for agriculture and farmlands must be geared to do an efficient and fulltime job, Prof. Jenkins said.

Canadian scientists have taken the lead from the United States in the development of deficient lines of wheat for research in plant studies, he said.

Dr. John Unrau of the University of Alberta is spearheading much of this research and similar projects are being run at the experimental station, Lethbridge. However, the University of Manitoba is the only one to experiment with a combination of wheat and rye in attempts to perfect a winter wheat.

Man in Overalls Gives Away Bagful of Money

MIDDLESBOROUGH, England (AP) — A mysterious benefactor in overalls showed up at a Middlesbrough church Friday and gave away a bagful of money for the second straight day.

The mystery donor called at the Anglican Convent of the Holy Rood Thursday and handed the mother superior a bag containing £1,000. The mother superior said the money was all in £5 notes, some of them 18 years old.

She said the man who gave her the money was young and dressed in overalls. He declined to give his name and said only: "My father has asked me to give you this."

Today a man—apparently the same one—cycled up to the All Saints Church in overalls and handed Rev. W. Walker a brown paper parcel containing £550 in old £5 notes.

The vicar said "The man just said 'it is from my father. It is anonymous.' "

HUNGARIANS WALK STREETS

LONDON (Reuters) — Hundreds of unemployed and homeless Hungarian refugees are walking London streets, the British Council of Churches said Friday.

"As industries reduce their labor force, refugees are the first to lose their jobs and most of them converge hopefully on London," a statement by the council's inter-church aid and refugee service said.

Hula Hoops Hit North America

A fad likely to rival the extinct yo-yo in popularity has come to North America, via Australia. Ingredients are: a plastic hoop 35 inches in diameter, a supple body and a dazed expression. Place the hoop around the body and gyrate. Some kids can keep it up for hours. But it's not only for kids. There's a sneaking suspicion that hula-hooping is good for the waistline, so Mom and Dad can use the kids' hoops when they have discarded them. Show-offs have been known to gyrate as many as five hoops around their bodies at once. For reports of the fads and fancies of the world, for all kinds of human interest items, read the Toronto Star.

Basis of Most Family Problems Is Discipline

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Youngsters who have paper routes, wash dishes or carry out garbage and do other household chores are unlikely to become juvenile delinquents says Mrs. M. J. Shadgett, mother of three and Peterborough's only police matron.

In nine years of dealing with crime, menial illness and insolent teen-agers, Mrs. Shadgett has decided:

"Lack of discipline is the basis for most family problems. Parents who take the least resistance when youngsters are small can blame themselves when troubles arise.

"Complete self - expression as advocated a few years ago has taken a disastrous toll on the morality of today's youngsters."

She says a busy youngster is less likely to get into trouble. "A job around the home creates a sense of contribution and helps a child to happy healthy adjustment," she said.

"Religion can be a vital unifying factor. It's true that the family that prays together stays together. The church is a good place for young people to meet. Pick-ups in the street are never without risk."

And about her own job: "A policewoman must be sympathetic, not superior; understanding, not scolding; she must never give up trying to help."

Mrs. Shadgett was trained for her job from childhood. Her mother was Kingston's first police matron more than 40 years ago. Both are members of the Salvation Army.

Twin Boys Die In Detroit Fire

Mrs. Aretha Age said she was at a neighbor's place for only five minutes when a four-year-old daughter, Brenda, came screaming for her: "Mommie, the house is on fire."

Flames blocked the mother's attempt to enter. They also drove back firemen who arrived minutes later.

The father, an unemployed factory worker, was seeking an additional food allowance at welfare offices.

Why did you buy a house?

When you decided to buy a house, you were probably thinking primarily of your wife and children.

You wanted to be sure that they would have a nice home to live in — one that suited the family needs. Another concern was for the environment in which your children would grow up. You wanted good schools . . . plenty of play space . . . nice neighbours.

These are fine reasons for buying a house, and they're just as good for making sure that your family can keep it if something should happen to you.

Metropolitan offers several ways for you to make sure that your family will be left with a deed instead of a debt.

A Metropolitan Mortgage Term Plan is one way. It is designed to cover the usual type of home mortgage, which decreases each year as payments on the principal are made. The face amount of the insurance also decreases, so that the level premium is relatively inexpensive.

Another way, more satisfactory for most younger men, is a Metropolitan Whole Life policy. This is permanent insurance.

In addition to assuring that funds will be available for payment of the mortgage in the event of death, it also builds cash and loan values which furnish a nest egg to help take care of payments in case of illness or other emergency.

And because the face value does not decrease, it can be used for continuing protection or be fitted into your retirement plans after the mortgage is paid off.

Your Metropolitan Representative will be pleased to explain these plans to you, and help determine which type is best for you. Call him . . . let him show you that . . .

Plans Available For Farm Buildings

Modern farm buildings are just as essential to the efficient operation of a farm business as an up-to-date factory is to the operation of an industry—Prof. R. H. Thaxton, Engineering Science Department, Ontario Agricultural College, Guelph, reports that more and more farmers are constructing buildings with convenience and efficiency of operation in mind. Researchers are constantly trying to improve farm structures by using more economical designs in framing and floor plans, and new building materials have been a great help in constructing new, and rebuilding old buildings. Sanitation is stressed in the new designs, with ventilation and insulation given a good deal of study.

There is now in operation the Canadian Farm Buildings Plan Service, in which all provinces participate, and it is organized so that farmers throughout Canada can obtain plans which have proved to be satisfactory in other parts of the country. The plans are distributed from a centre in each province — in Ontario, from the O.A.C. — and are free to prospective builders in Ontario upon request.

A series of catalogues has been prepared containing plans of buildings and equipment for dairy, beef, fruit and vegetable, sheep, poultry, swine, special structures, and grain storages. Catalogues have been placed in offices of Agricultural Representatives, and in offices of many lumber dealers and feed companies. A set of working drawings may be ordered by referring to the catalogue number under the plan. Catalogues and plans are done in both English and French.

I was a bundle of nerves

My nerves were that bad the least little thing set me off. I was irritable, tense, easily depressed, and I slept badly. And as if that wasn't enough, I'd get indigestion.

Many people experience unpleasant feelings because their systems are disturbed by ingredients present in everyday beverages. While some people can drink tea, coffee, cocoa and some soft drinks without harm, others cannot.

Postum contains no tannin to interfere with digestion; no caffein, theophylline and theobromine which can cause nervousness, sleeplessness, irritability, palpitations, rapid pulse, followed by depression.

There is no need to endure any of these unpleasant feelings. Switch to Instant Postum which is guaranteed to contain no stimulants or drugs. Postum does not taste or act like ordinary beverages, but has a comforting flavor of its own. Make Postum easily, instantly, right in your cup. Just add freshly boiling water, stir and enjoy.

Commonwealth Link

A round - the - world cable which may help make Canada a world communications hub is in prospect.

Delegates to the Commonwealth economic conference in Montreal last month decided in principle to build the globe - girdling telephone and telegraph cable service. This map shows the probable route of the cable linking the countries of the Commonwealth.

The cable would run from Britain to Canada, making use of existing domestic land lines across the Dominion, then pass via Hawaii and Fanning Island in the Pacific to New Zealand. From New Zealand it would touch Australia, then Singapore and pass through the Indian Ocean to Chittagong in east Pakistan. It would then touch at Ceylon linking that Commonwealth island with Bombay in India and Karachi in West Pakistan. The Union of South Africa would also be linked to the cable which would pass up the Atlantic to Britain.

Total cost of the system, which may be completed in 10 years, is estimated at $346,000,000 but only $210,000,000 in new money would be needed because financing has already been arranged for the Canada - U. K. cable right. One telephone cable link between Canada and Britain was completed in 1956 and a new one will be finished in 1961.

It is proposed that the round - the - world cable will include the new transatlantic link.

While radio telephone already spans the world, the new cable will be relatively free from ionospheric disturbances which sometime plague radio.

The new cable may help make Canada a world communications hub partly because of this country's central position and partly because of its efficient communications network.. (CP Newsmap).

Canada's Cities and Towns Wearing Out Faster Than They Can Be Rebuilt--Mews

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's cities and towns are wearing out faster than they can be rebuilt, the president of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities said today.

Mayor H. G. R. Mews of St. John's, Nfld., made the statement as an informal two-day federal-municipal conference aimed at finding solutions to municipal financial problems opened in the Parliament building.

He said it is highly improbable that cities and towns will make any headway against this trend "unless additional financial support is made available to them over and above their present revenue resources."

Because of the tremendous financial burdens imposed upon municipalities by Canada's growth, Mr. Mews added, the question would first have to be reviewed a federal-provincial-municipal basis.

ENORMOUS FUTURE

"The projects that have been and are being built, even though of large proportions, are small compared to the magnitude of the things we will have to do in the future if we are to provide our communities with the kind of facilities which a modern economy requires," he said.

"Until we do that, our obsolescent, outmoded and congested urban centres will inevitably be a drag on the general economic progress of the nation as a whole.

"The fact of the matter is that the rate of obsolence in our urban communities is far exceeding at a rate faster than the best renewal rate yet achieved by any Canadian municipality."

The statements were included in a 10-page brief issued to the press before delivery.

TRAFFIC PROBLEM

Mr. Mews said traffic "and all that it means has become the key factor in urban renewal."

The immediate future also was going to bring a heavy demand for new apartment accommodations and more hospital accommodation.

But the "crucifixes and inflexible nature of the main source of municipal revenue—the property tax" together with debts already incurred by most municipalities would preclude them from undertaking all the projects required, "solely on the strength of their own financial capacity."

Measured against the relative value of the dollar, municipal revenues today were little if any greater on a per capita basis than in 1939.

Drinking Pal Scoffed at Tale, He Showed Him

NEW YORK (AP) — Thomas Fitzpatrick, a steamfitter, has done it again.

For the second time in a little more than two years, Fitzpatrick told police Saturday, he stole a plane while drunk from Teterboro Airport, N.J., and made a perfect landing in the Washington Heights section of Manhattan.

"It's the luxury drink," he said, summing things up.

He pulled the same stunt on Dec. 30, 1956. It cost him a six-months suspension of his pilot's licence and he did not have it renewed.

"I never wanted to fly again," Fitzpatrick told police.

He said his "return to flying" and landing planes on Manhattan streets was prompted by a conversation he had in a bar. Fitzpatrick, 28, said he mentioned his 1956 stunt and that his unidentified co-drinker didn't believe him.

The result residents of Washington Heights were startled at 12:45 a.m. Sunday when Fitzpatrick set down a single-engined plane between traffic and parked cars. The pilot then disappeared.

With a plane on their hands the thoughts of police turned back to the 1956 landing. Fitzpatrick was invited over for a chat.

Fitzpatrick was charged with grand larceny and three violations of the city's code.

Police, marvelled at the perfect landing despite cross winds set up by tall apartment buildings. "He's one hell of a pilot," an officer remarked.

Youth Trapped For Hour in Car In Soggy Ditch

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) —James George, 19, of the Kettle Point Indian reserve near Sarnia, was trapped for more than an hour Saturday night in a car which ran off the highway 45 miles northeast of here and rolled over on its roof in a soggy ditch.

Rescuers could not open the crumpled doors on one side, and the doors on the other side were jammed against the side of the ditch. After an hour, half a dozen men tipped the car over on its side and James crawled out. He was treated in Cobourg General Hospital for minor injuries and released.

The driver, Percy Smoke, 19, who was thrown out of the vehicle, was detained in hospital with spinal injuries.

Hand Chopped Off

GALT (CP) — Farmer Stewart Linton had his left hand chopped off just above the wrist Saturday when it was caught in a silage machine. Linton was assisting his brother, Stan, who farms near Highway No. 8.

FIND BODY

TAVISTOCK, Ont. (CP) — The body of Mrs. Isabel Maxine Arnold, 31, of Woodstock, was found between the CNR tracks a mile west of here Sunday. A police investigation is continuing. It is believed a train had run over the woman.

'Douk' Editor Accuses Press Of Inaccuracy

VANCOUVER (CP)—A Doukhobor editor has accused the press in British Columbia of "inaccuracy, prejudice and discrimination" in handling news about Doukhobors and the Sons of Freedom sect.

Stephen J. Tarasoff, editor of The Inquirer, a Saskatoon paper published by Doukhobors, made the charges in a written statement, extracts from which were published Saturday by the Vancouver Sun. He said they were based on a two-month study of 600 clippings taken from 24 B.C. newspapers in the last four years.

Mr. Tarasoff accused the press of making irresponsible statements by implying that terrorism in the Kootenays and the Kootenay district should be blamed on the Doukhobors or Sons of Freedom.

Mr. Tarasoff said no terrorism charge has ever been proved against a Doukhobor or Son of Freedom. Even if it had been, "it would be unfair to blame his family, community or religious group."

Mr. Tarasoff also accused the Vancouver daily papers of refusing to publish letters giving their verse expression."

He objected to the abbreviation "Douk" in headlines, classing it with the terms "Chink" and "Nigger."

Eisenhower Urges More Aid For World Bank

NEW DELHI (AP)—President Eisenhower appealed today to the member nations of the World Bank and the International Monetary Fund to increase their contributions to the Financial organizations.

Substantive increase in their resources would greatly enhance their effectiveness in the free world community," Eisenhower said in a message read at the opening of the annual conference of the fund and the bank.

"It is my conviction that through these institutions we can give real encouragement and hope to all our sister countries in the decade ahead."

MOUNTAINS POOL

The monetary fund maintains a pool of dollars and other currencies from which members may borrow when trade fluctuations bring their foreign currency reserves dangerously low. The World Bank lends funds for development projects, especially to underdeveloped countries.

Eisenhower's message was read by treasury secretary Robert B. Anderson who urged that the conference give urgent attention to the matter of increases in their quota or contributions to the international agencies.

No figure has been proposed formally for the quota increases, but 10 per cent is the amount generally talked of.

Anderson also transmitted Eisenhower's proposal for creation of a new international lending agency . . . to finance sound loans to underdeveloped countries on easier terms than the World Bank gives.

In the session on the conference chairman, Jean van Houte of Belgium, had been cool to the American proposals for increased aid to underdeveloped countries.

He said Belgium favors more aid to such nations but thinks too much dependence is being placed on government funds. He urged that private capital be encouraged to play a bigger role.

Union Leader Against Granting Rail Subsidy

MONTREAL (CP) — Increased costs for the railways can be borne better by Canadian taxpayers than by the 140,000 railway non-operating employees, labor leader Frank Hall said here Saturday.

Mr. Hall, vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railway Clerks and negotiator for the non-operating unions in their wage contract dispute with the railways, said the failure of the railways to meet union demands would mean in effect that the employees would be subsidizing the rail lines.

This point was made in 1950 by Mr. Justice Gordon Sloan in a conciliation report, he told the silver jubilee celebration of an International Association of Machinists (CLC) local here.

Mr. Hall said he agreed with President Donald Gordon of Canadian National Railways that a boost in freight rates is preferable to the granting of a government rail subsidy.

FORESEE END OF PASSENGER TRAINS

The days of the passenger train will soon be over in the opinion of railway executives including CPR President Crump and CNR President Gordon.

Almost all railways on the North American continent are losing money on their passenger services and year-see a bigger share of the traveler's dollar go to buses and to airplanes.

The Canadian, a luxury train Canada flyer, shown above, is the biggest revenue maker of the CPR but even the Canadian, according to President Crump, would be called a loser if all the legitimate charges were assessed against it.

Triumphant Debut of Comet Gives BOAC Important Edge

LONDON (CP) — The British Comet IV's triumphant debut promises important competitive advantages for British Overseas Airways over its American rivals, quite apart from the achievement in being first again in regular transatlantic service.

The Comet IV made the fastest ever commercial crossing Saturday in flying from New York to London in six hours 12 minutes. This is four to five hours better than the conventional airliner flies.

As this eastbound record was being made, a second BOAC Comet IV flew from London to New York in hours 20 minutes, or two to four hours better than the previous commercial time.

The westbound flight was a slower because there were one of the tailwinds that give eastward flights a push. A refueling stop was made at Gander, Nfld.

For the passenger, the jet age means a smoother as well as faster ride. Vibration is absent and there is surprisingly little of noise.

The eastbound Comet cruised at 530 miles—an hour eight miles above the Atlantic.

BOAC is starting its regular Comet service with one flight weekly in each direction, by November, there will be daily service Pan-American, the first U.S. airline with Atlantic all-jet service nearly ready, hopes to start carrying fare paying passengers westward the end of the month.

The jet fastest commercially-used passenger fares. The increased speed means the airlines can make more trips, earning back their capital costs more quickly. The shorter flive it takes to get there will lessen demand for elaborate meals and service.

BOAC pioneered the all-jet Comets but had to withdraw them from service in 1954 after a number of accidents, the reason for which was a mystery at the time but later determined that the framework of the powerful craft was too light.

DRUG DANGER

Medicines and drugs, dangerous to children, should be kept in locked cabinets out of their reach.

Men on a moon station may obtain their electric power, not from waterfalls or from uranium, but from electron farms. The system, according to physicists, is to place a wire mesh over a sheet of plastic and in the vacuum around the moon the sun's rays will cause electricity to flow from wires connected to the mesh and the plastic. One acre of wire, they say, will produce about 1,200 kilowatts of direct current electricity, enough to operate 10,000 television sets.

Royal Family Of Greece Gets Panning in Press

LONDON (AP) — Bitter about the shooting of two British women in Cyprus, British newspapers today published violent denunciations of Greece—including the Greek royal family.

Lord Beaverbrook's Sunday Express, in a sharp attack on the Greek royal family, says:

"Why has neither of them denounced the terrorists? Is King Paul dumb? Has Queen Frederika suddenly lost her tongue?

"It cannot be said that as monarchs they feel barred from political utterances. They have both played a busy part in politics until now. If they dislike what is happening in Cyprus, if they resent the justifiably tough reaction of British troops, they should know that a word from them could stop it all tomorrow.

"And if that word doesn't come? Clearly they must be stripped of all British honors and be told never to expect a welcome again in this country which has helped them both so much."

King Paul is an honorary admiral of the Royal Navy. Queen Frederika is a daughter of Prince Philip, was educated in Britain.

The Conservative Daily Sketch charges Queen Frederika had "worked steadily and effectively" against Britain in the Cyprus problem.

Simon Ward, in his column Inside Information, writes that Queen Frederika is due to visit the United States later this month and will lunch with President Eisenhower.

"She will be working against us," he added.

Winds Force Engineers to Cancel Work

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP) Gusty winds and a pelting rain storm forced engineers Sunday to call off a tricky bridge "grafting" operation across the Beauharnois power canal, a key link in the chain of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

Engineers said the winds, gusting to 35 miles an hour, and rough water in the 2,300-foot wide canal made the operation "too hazardous."

They rescheduled the job for Tuesday.

More than 100 men were on hand to remove an old bridge section from the low-level Valleyfield bridge and replace it with a 230-foot, 2,000-ton lift span.

The bridge, which carries two traffic lanes and a railway line, is to be modified to permit ocean freighters to use the power canal to bypass the Cotean, Cedars and Cascade rapids in the St. Lawrence River.

Engineers planned to float the old bridge span out of its moorings on barges. The new span, built on temporary piers a mile away, was to be floated on other barges into the bridge.

C of C President Suggests Binding Arbitration Means Of Settling Labor Disputes

Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL — The idea of binding arbitration as a means of settling long - drawn - out industrial disputes was suggested today by Ralph C. Pybus of Vancouver, president of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Pybus indicated that machinery for settling such disputes might be set up either by the government, or through co-operation of labor, management and government.

He made the suggestion in his address to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, and said he was expressing his personal view because "there is as yet no general agreement in our chamber nor among industry leaders as to the need and value of binding arbitration." He added:

"When management and union leaders cannot reach an agreement and disregard their community responsibilities it is right and just that our governments provide legal machinery to protect the rights of the employee, the employer and the public.

"I am thinking in terms of providing specialized industrial boards with qualified advisers to assist the presiding judge.

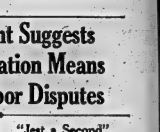
"I am optimist enough to believe that sane level heads will yet prevail, and I agree with the expressed view of some leaders of full union leaders that present conditions point to the need for establishing adjudicatory economic boards, free from and yet acceptable to labor, management and government, which could contribute much to building a solid foundation floor for future negotiations and agreement, and could educate public opinion to better understanding of our problems and opportunities."

Mr. Pybus' comments were contained in a text made available in advance of his address of delivery.

Mr. Pybus is president of Commonwealth Construction Co. Ltd.

Mr. Pybus said he is personally pleased at the Canadian bill of rights proposed by the federal government, although the chamber has not as yet taken a stand on the matter.

However, he added, the bill does not say anything about "economic freedom."



"I believe," he said, "there is a widespread and growing demand for freedom to get a job or to work, and that it must not be subject to the dictates of big government, big business or big unions."

More Boys Than Girls Born to Circassians

HAIFA, Israel (Reuters) — A ratio of four prospective bridegrooms seeking the hand of every marriageable maiden is causing great anxiety in the elders of the small Circassian community in Israel.

Progressively more boys than girls have been born to Circassian women in the last 30 years, the Circassian mayor's only Circassian girls.

Elders now fear a revival of the ancient Circassian custom, dating to the time when these people lived in the Caucasus Mountains, by which no maiden was given in marriage unless the bridegroom first kidnapped his beloved and kept her in hiding for at least one day and night as a token of his manhood, courage and cunning.

Four generations, the black - haired, blue-eyed Circassian girls with their creamy complexion, delicate features and trim figures were the byword of feminine beauty in the whole region. Circassian slaves brought the highest prices in the old days of the Ottoman empire, as they are still reported to do in the harems of the present-day princes of Arabia.

To this day, Circassian girls, even young toddlers, are kept out of sight of any stranger who happens to stray into one of their villages.

The community in Israel is small, consisting of only 2,000 men, women and children. They settled in two villages in Galilee only 80 years ago when the Moslem population, fierce mountain people, fled from the Circassians after being occupied by Russia and were settled in various districts of the then Ottoman empire by the Sultan.

Though Moslem by religion, the Circassians have kept apart from the local Moslem population in language and their religion. They maintain their own language, dress and cleanliness and refuse to intermarry. This is also true of the larger communities of the Circassians in Turkey, Syria and Jordan.

Dundas Defeats Belleville 7-2 To Take Bantam Baseball Crown

Belleville Bantams bowed before the slants of a speedy right-hander Saturday as they dropped a 7-3 decision to Dundas in the final game for the OBA Bantam "A" championship in Dundas.

Russ Soule's Belleville squad thus lost the Ontario championship to Dundas two games to one in the final series of the season.

Dundas speedster Al McQueen was in rare form as he let the local club down on just two hits. He blazed third strikes past 19 batters but had control trouble, walking ten.

Jim Muir started and took the loss on the Belleville hilltop, lasting until chased in the seventh. He fanned four and passed five. Ron Stratton came on to strike out four of the six men he faced. He walked the other two. Dundas collected eight hits.

Errors played a major part in Dundas' victory as Belleville committed seven errors while the winners played perfect ball afield.

Dundas scored twice in each of the second, sixth and seventh frames and added one run in the third. Belleville had singletons in the third and ninth innings.

Welsh and Hohs topped the Dundas attack at the plate with a double and single each. Weldon and McCartney had doubles with McQueen and Kuhn getting singles.

Catcher Pete Weston slammed a double for Belleville while Jim Muir contributed a one - bagger.

Wardens Jump Hunters Who Jump Gun

DUNNVILLE, Ont. (CP)—Conservation-minded hunters helped game wardens catch 22 hunters suspected of jumping the 12 noon opening of Southern Ontario's 1958 duck season Saturday.

Licences, ammunition and guns worth $2,000 were seized from the hunters after they were caught in Grand River marshes near this town of 5,000 about 18 miles southwest of Welland.

The suspects, including hunters from Niagara Falls, Chippewa and Cornwall, are to appear in court at nearby Cayuga charged under the Game and Fisheries Act.

Conservation officer Cecil McKeown of Dunnville said he heard guns open up in the marshes at 11:45 a.m. He summoned provincial policemen and another conservation officer, Bruce Howell of Grimsby.

They borrowed four boats from hunters who were waiting for the opening and encircled the swamp area.

Frantic World of Victor Borge Spinning Faster and Faster

By WILLIAM GLOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — The strangely frantic world of Victor Borge keeps spinning faster and faster.

But the man himself is content—at last.

"Until not too long ago I didn't think I could be happy," says the funnyman. "Then I suddenly found I could."

Borge makes the comment as he analyzes some causes and effects of one of the show world's most remarkable careers.

The unexplainable Dane is a combination king of comics and man of conscience.

"I am the only performer in the world today who all by himself can make what he wants. A million a year...Fifty thousands a week! You name it."

He talks in the flat, impersonal manner of an auditor at a ledger as he dissects the drives and feelings that keep him moving with the dexterous alacrity of a man on a tightrope with a tiger by the tail.

SET RECORD

Since setting Broadway's all-time record for a one-man show with his Comedy in Music a couple of seasons back, Borge has been smashing records from Las Vegas to London.

His 1956 travels total 500,000 miles; one "intimate" concert drew 92,000; and in England the BBC let him utterly disrupt programming by running overtime 15 minutes.

Such activities, however, are only half the Borge story.

From a tiny start a few years back, his fancy poultry business has rocketed so that 25,000 birds can now be packed daily. He recently took over a huge farm in Denmark and he intends to put it promptly on a paying basis. As a new phase of his multiple interests, he is becoming an importer of fancy foods and household furniture.

AVOIDS TV

Although at times Borge seems eager to attempt more and more with each 24 hours, he carefully avoids too many visits to television. He holds one of TV's richest contracts with an automobile maker (Pontiac)—but like everything else in Borge's one - man professional life, it is designed to his specifications.

"I don't want to do TV for income, but simply to establish myself with the largest possible audience at one time—and hope that it—to remember me," he says.

Victor is committed to one show a season, but may do more if he wants to; and what the sponsor gets on that show Borge alone, or Borge with symposy orchestra and supporting cast — relies with him. His network appearance this year is set for Nov. 29.

As usual, he is working out the details for that show while at the same time making personal appearances, devising new material he thinks up his own humor, does his own musical arrangements (one of them, Semmi) and supervising his various business undertakings.

Gleason Show Should Win Friends in Coming Season

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP) — Jackie Gleason is back with the galaxy of characterizations that won him fame on television.

His opening show (CBS-TV, Friday, 8 p.m. EDT.) was not the best that Gleasons fans should be able to expect this season, chiefly because of script difficulties.

The Gleason giris are as pretty as always, Ray Bloch's orchestra is as smooth as ever and Buddy Hackett, the new second banana of the show, holds the promise of winning laughs.

When the new Gleason show gets rolling it should win friends and influence television comedians.

After 40 years in show business Cliff Arquette has never had it so good as in the relatively short period since he was "discovered" by star-quake viewers of the Jack Paar Show (NBC-TV) and began leading a double life.

Arquette's association with Paar began with an incident that seems to qualify both as pointless and thing that called extra-sensory perception.

"I was living in Hollywood," Arquette recalls, "and, at 8:15 p.m. one night I was thinking about Paar and his show. I sat down and wrote a telegram to him and then threw it on the desk and let it there.

"At 11:15 p.m. that night I was watching a kinescope of the show which had been made three hours earlier on the east coast—and I hard Paar ask if anyone knew how he could get in touch with Cliff Arquette."

"THE PROUD REBEL" is our next attraction

We believe the PROUD REBEL is an extraordinary picture providing an entertainment excellent exceptionally for every member of the family.

THE PROUD REBEL has all the excitement of "SHANE", the heart-appeal of "OLD YELLER" and the warmth of "THE YEARLING".

The performance of young David Ladd is one you will not forget.

Believe me, it is a grand story which I most sincerely recommend to every one.

Amherstburg Sweeps Series With 3-0 Win Over Pt. Anne

By GARRY ALEXANDER

The Point Anne Cementmen saw their hopes for the OASA Intermediate "A" softball championship vanish down the drain Saturday afternoon when they dropped a 3-0 decision to Amherstburg before a handful of fans at the Point.

The Anderdon Tower crew from Amherstburg thus captured the semi-final series in two consecutive games. They will now meet Hurley Bay for the Ontario championship.

Norm "Porky" Jones recorded his second shutout of the series on the Amherstburg hilltop but did not have the Cementmen eating out of his hand as in the opener. He gave up just four hits, struck out seven, four and walked as many. The losers also failed to take advantage of four free passes, a wild pitch, one error, and a bit batter.

Pat Kingston turned in a losing cause, giving up six hits with half of them coming in a two-run sixth frame. He nipped five on third strikes and walked a pair but seven of his outs were the usual air-tight support.

The visitors scored once in the fourth frame. Garny Jones lashed a triple to left field but could not come in as Bob Sinasac's short fly to right.

The Cementmen had a great chance to take command in their half of the inning as Pat Gilmour smashed a double and Kingston walked with only one out. Dave Jones then hit the ball to short but Gilmour was caught in a rundown between third and home and finally tagged out at the plate. All the Amherstburg infielders were around the plate on the play and Chuck Kingston tried to sneak in during the confusion. He too was tagged to fill the rally.

In the sixth Bob Fryer singled and Wardhaugh threw away Murray's attempted sacrifice with some out. Norm Jones singled one run across and Sinasac also tapped a base hit to load the bases. Dave Jones hauled in Maloney's shot, but let the ball bounce from his ball-high over the plate, allowing the lead runner to score for the 3-0 score.

Doug Hill slammed a long triple to centre with one out in the sixth, tried for a homer and was cut down at the plate on a fine relay play.

Bob Fryer with a double and single, and Norm Jones with two singles led Amherstburg with the stick. Garn Jones tripled and Bob Sinasac singled.

Youngsters Fire Cleveland

NEW YORK (AP)—A pair of sophomores in the pay-or-play ranks—Mike Plum and Jimmy Brown—are threatening to make Cleveland Browns the dominant force in the National Football League again.

The two youngsters, Plum is in Seven 32, have provided coach Paul Brown's team with an awesome offence.

Plum, former Penn State star, passed for two touchdowns and completed 13 of 14 passes for 197 yards Sunday. Brown, an all-America at Syracuse, scored three touchdowns and carried the ball for 128 yards. The result: The Browns' fourth consecutive victory, a 45-13 whacking of Pittsburgh Steelers.

Meanwhile there were a couple of surprises Sunday as the NFL split the second-week of the season over two days.

In a close Sunday action, Philadelphia Eagles defeated favored New York Giants 21-17, while Los Angeles Rams belted San Francisco 23-3 with the 49ers Joe Perry setting a career rushing record, and Detroit Lions and Green Bay Packers played a 13-13 tie.

WIN IN FOUR STRAIGHT

BROOKLIN, Ont. (CP)—Brooklin became intermediate B Ontario lacrosse champions Saturday when they defeated Owen Sound 12-4 and took the best-of-seven series in four straight games.

Top Elevens Hard-Pressed In U.S. Football

NEW YORK (CP) — Close squeaks and tie games slowed the advance Saturday of the U.S. college football powers.

Two of the top 10 teams in the Associated Press poll — fourth-ranked Iowa — suffered unexpected downs. Other high-placed favorites, including Oklahoma and Notre Dame, were pressed to win.

Michigan State, last behind its traditional rival Michigan 12-6 in the first half and had to spurt to gain a 13-13 tie. Iowa was held to a 13-13 stalemate by the young air force academy team.

Even mighty Oklahoma, No. 1 in the Associated Press weekly poll, had its frightening moments. The Sooners, playing before 61,700 at Norman, Okla., pushed over a touchdown in the second quarter and then held on grimly to defeat underdog Oregon.

AUBURN PUSHED

Auburn, defending national champions and No. 3 in the AP poll had only a 13-8 lead over little Washington Saturday in the third quarter but added 18 points for a 26-8 triumph. It was Auburn's 20th in a row, the nation's longest major streak.

Bradley favored Ohio State, No. 3, converted two breaks into touchdowns for a 12-7 decision over Washington Huskies.

California upset Washington State 24-14. In another far west game Oregon State took UCLA 14-0.

Army, No. 5, scored 26 points against Penn State in the first half and coasted through a scoreless last half for a 26-0 victory.

Seventh - ranked Notre Dame and Southern methodist battled on even terms for three quarters before 61,500 at Dallas, Bob Williams booted a 72 - yard march in the final quarter for a 14-6 margin for the fighting Irish.

Wisconsin, No. 9, won easily over Marquette 36-0 but Clemson was forced to the limit for an 8-7 edge over Maryland. Clemson is 10th ranked.

Ti-Cats Maul Rough Riders Argos Shaded by Alouettes

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Hamilton Tiger-Cats methodically chewed up Ottawa Rough Riders 26-1 Saturday on the road toward the Big Four Football League crown with 11 tilts, while Montreal Alouettes beat Toronto Argonauts 16-10.

The game at Ottawa saw the Ticats move to within three wins of the championship. They have seven wins and one tie for 15 points.

The Rough Riders have a 4-4 won-lost record for eight points and the Alouettes' 3-4-1 performance is good for seven. The Argos have won only one win in eight starts.

Each team has six games left.

APPLY PRESSURE

At Ottawa, the Ticats led 1-0 at the end of the first quarter, trailed 2-1 at the end of the half, then applied the pressure for a 16-1 margin at the three-quarter mark. The fourth quarter was scoreless.

Hamilton scoring was divided among Don Sutherin with a first-quarter single, halfback Tommy Grant and end Paul Dekker, with touchdowns. Sutherin converted Grantt's TD.

It was Ottawa's first home defeat of the season and 18,000 fans were on hand.

Just over 16,000 — smallest crowd of the season — saw the game at Toronto and some fans went home convinced Argos got a raw deal.

The fans weren't the only ones. Argos' president Bill Ross fumed at the "absolutely horrible" officiating which revolved around tackles and bumps against Toronto players before passes were completed.

FIVE IS PENALTY

Someone suggested his tirade could lead to a fine by Commissioner Syd Halter but Ross fumed: "Maybe it does call for a fine but I'll tell you this: The commissioner should fire those officials. They're supposed to be competent and experienced. The best there are youngsters working high school games who wouldn't let those pass-interference plays go unchallenged."

Al Montreal, general manager Gorman Kennedy observed. "The officials have consistently admired and upheld the fine work done by the officials this season. We have had no complaints at all, even when we lost."

LEAD CHANGES

Als led 7-3 at the first quarter but Toronto moved into a 10-7 lead at the half. Montreal moved ahead 14-10 at the three-quarter mark and the teams played a scoreless fourth quarter.

Toronto's points were registered by Vic Kristopaitis' field goal and Dick Shatto's touchdown which Vic converted.

Bill Bewley converted both Montreal touchdowns—picked up by Dick Hunter and Joel Wells.

Toronto led the Als in yards gained in both departments—310 to 86 on the ground and 270 to 247 in passing.

Ronnie Knox completed 20 of 41 passes for 256 yards. Montreal quarter Sam Etcheverry completed 18 of 30...

Bombers Shade Eskimos As Sasky Riders Lick Stamps

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Calgary Stampeders have a chance tonight to move into sole possession of third place in the Western Interprovincial Football Union.

The Stamps face the winless British Columbia Lions in Vancouver and a win would move the club one point ahead of the idle Edmonton Eskimos.

HOLD LEAD

Bombers managed to retain their five-point first-place lead Saturday night when an illegal substitution penalty erased a last-second Eskimo touchdown in Edmonton, giving Winnipeg a 21-15 victory before 20,000 fans.

In Calgary, Frank Tripucka's passing arm and Mike Hagler's running sparked Roughriders to a 22-14 victory before 18,000 spectators.

Winnipeg has won nine of its first 12 games for a total of 18 points. Edmonton also has played 11 games, losing five and tying one, for 13 points. Calgary has played 10 games each. The 16-game schedule ends Nov. 1.

DIDN'T SEE SIGNAL

Eskimo coach Sam Etcheverry didn't see referee Paul Dojack signal "time in" before guard Ed Walker was called for the last Edmonton play — a 12-yard Jackie Parker pass to end Bill Walker in the end zone.

The 15-yard penalty gave Eskimos another chance but it didn't pay off.

Fullback Charlie Shepard scored what was to be the game-winning touchdown at the three-minute mark of the final quarter.

Other Bomber touchdowns were scored by Frank Gillian, in the first quarter, and halfback Leo Lewis in the second. Jim Van Pelt kicked three converts.

SCORE ON PASSES

Scoring Edmonton's touchdowns on passes from Parker were Bill Walker and Jim Mohs. Mohs converted both and Eskimos got a single when end Rowland was rouged on Mohrs's kick.

In Calgary Tripucka passed to Ken Carpenter and Ron Dundas for two touchdowns. Fullback Cookie Gilchrist was over for the other after Tripucka.

Stampeders scored on touchdowns by Veryl Switzer and Gene Filipski, who caught a pass from Tripucka and kicked two converts.

Both Stampeder touchdowns were converted by Doug Brown. Jack Hill converted two for Riddersen - competition skiing. The pretty 23-year-old blonde from St. Jovite, 90 miles north of Montreal, said she is quitting because of pressure of keeping up a champion's reputation would cut into her personal life too much. She said she wants to go into journalism.

Mustangs, Blues Win Over Gaels, Redmen

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Three galloping fullbacks and a halfback took University of Western Ontario Mustangs and University of Toronto Blues to lopsided wins Saturday in senior intercollegiate football.

Fullbacks Lionel Conacher and Bob Miller teamed for two touchdowns each as Western crushed Queen's University Golden Gaels 46-16 in London.

Rookie fullback Peter Joyce set up the touchdowns and halfback Tim Reid scored them as Toronto downed McGill Redmen 35-14 in Montreal.

LEADING SCORER

Joyce, a 215-pounder, crashed for 121 of Varsity's 296 yards rushing. Reid's three touchdowns gave him five majors in two games to lead the league scoring.

The win puts Blues in first place with two wins in two starts.

Western and McGill are tied for second place with a win and a loss and Queen's trails with two losses.

Queen's was helpless against Western's attack. For three quarters Mustang quarterback Art Turner stuck to the ground.

In the last quarter he completed eight of nine pass attempts, and scored two on touchdown to end Bob Pearson and fullback Meco Poliziani.

Queen's touchdowns went to Dave Skene, on the ground and Mike Wickham on a pass. Robin Ritchie and Dave Richards kicked converts and Jocko Thompson kicked a single.

In Montreal Reid scored on a 60-yard run and on two plunges from a yard out. Dave Craswell and Dave Pinkham had the other touchdowns. Walt Adams converted two and kicked a 30-yard field goal.

Runner Rejects Quarter Million

PERTH, Australia (Reuters)—World middle champion Herb Elliott has rejected a $150,000 American offer to turn professional.

The offer, for a two-year contract, was made in August by Leo Leavitt, representing Western Promotions of San Francisco.

Elliott, who has run 10 sub-four-minute miles, including his record 3:54.5, said Sunday he will return today to his job as a clerk with a Melbourne chemical company.

The company recently offered Elliott a university course of his choice.

THE SIZE OF MOOSE TO USE IS BEHAVIOR. IF YOU'RE GOING AFTER A MOOSE WITH A FLY ROD, USE A 6 OR 7 WEIGHT LINE AND A 9 FOOT ROD. FOR MOOSE WITH BIG EARS, USE A 10 FOOT ROD.
THIS HAS BEEN SUGGESTED AS A WAY OF GETTING OLD MOOSE TO COME OUT FROM BEHIND A TREE SO YOU CAN SHOOT THEM. I'VE NOT HAD ANY LUCK WITH IT. I'VE TRIED IT ON A MOOSE WITH A BIG NOSE, THINKING THEY MAY HAVE BIG EARS, BUT THEY'RE ALL THE SAME. THE ONLY WAY TO GET A MOOSE TO COME OUT FROM BEHIND A TREE IS TO SHOOT IT.
IT IS ESTIMATED THAT THERE ARE MORE MOOSE OUTSIDEOF ONTARIO THAN THERE ARE IN ONTARIO. THIS IS ONE OF THE MAJOR REVOLUTIONS OF A MINOR IN FALL THOUGHT.
IF YOU ARE NATIVE BORN, DON'T FINGERPRINT.
DISTANCE FROM A MOOSE TO FIRING SQUAD.
IF YOU ARE NOT A NATIVE BORN, DON'T SHOOT A MOOSE.
COMES THE TIME WHEN THE DEAD MOOSE MUST BE SKINNED. THIS IS WHERE MANY A MOOSE HUNTER HAS FAILED. WITH ONE CAREFUL CUT YOU CAN RUIN A MOOSE HIDE. SKINNING MOOSE IS NOT A JOB FOR AMATEURS.

HELP FOR ACTORS

GLASGOW (CP) — Scottish Television Limited owned by Canadian publisher Roy Thomson, has given £5,000 to the Scottish Repertory Theatre Trust to assist in the development of playwrights, actors and technical staff.

TEST PARACHUTES AT 3,000 MPH

Rudi Berndt adjusts the Crow, a triple headed missile he designed at the U.S. Air Research Centre in Dayton, Ohio. The missile can test three parachutes simultaneously at altitudes of 26 miles and speeds of 3,000 mph or better. Slow motion cameras will record the performance of the parachutes, which are being tested by the USAF for use on manned escape capsules in the space-exploration age.

Auca Indians Say Kin Slew Missionary

QUITO, Ecuador (CP) — Auca Indians have brought word to a Christian missionary that their savage kin slew Canadian explorer Robert Tremblay in the Ecuadorian Amazon.

But in Montreal a member of the family of Dr. Robert Tremblay voiced skepticism, saying the family has been hearing unconfirmed reports of the death of the missing 34-year-old explorer since last spring.

The report received Friday came from Marjorie Saint, widow of an American missionary slain by the Aucas in 1956. She said three friendly Auca women living at her mission went into the steaming Auca country and returned with word of the Canadian's death.

INCURABLE EXPLORER

Tremblay is a former member of the staff of a Montreal hospital and a graduate in psychology of the Sorbonne. An "incurable explorer," in the words of his family, he went to Ecuador on a grant from the Canadian National Research Council. He also was working for the University of Ottawa.

CARMEL — Mrs. F. Sullivan has returned home after visiting her sister in Ottawa.

Carmel Woman's Missionary Society held their monthly meeting last Wednesday evening in the hall. INCO METALS AT WORK IN CANADA for gracious living

CHOOSE CANADIAN S RE...

MADE WITH INCO METALS

STRADIVARI BY WALLACE SILVERSMITHS (CANADA) LIMITED

DAMASK ROSE BY ONEIDA LIMITED

PRELUDE BY THE INTERNATIONAL SILVER COMPANY OF CANADA, LIMITED

LAURENTIAN BY HENRY BIRKS & SONS LIMITED

Lovely, lustrous Canadian originals that capture the enchanting delicacy of formal traditions . . . in precious silverware, the hallmark of gracious living. How richly silver reflects your own sense of style and good taste. Choose the everlasting charm of fine sterling or the enduring grace of silverplate. Your table will be fair lovelier.

Much of the silver used by silversmiths for sterling and silverplate comes from Inco. Copper and nickel are also supplied by Inco in the strong nickel-silver foundation metal used in silverplate.

Although Inco is the world's largest producer of nickel, 13 other elements are also produced from the Sudbury ores—such as copper and relatively small quantities of precious metals like silver, gold, platinum and palladium. All of them have important uses in industry. That's how Inco metals serve the Canadian industries that serve you.

From October 5th to October 11th, Canadians will celebrate Silver Week when dealers everywhere will display their finest sterling and silverplate.

'Polite' Gunman Takes $4,160 From 2 Women

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — A "polite" gunman, one of two complices who staged a $4,160 payroll robbery Friday - were still at large today after an all-out hunt by police.

A police cordon was looped around the city soon after the payroll of London Pure Milk Company Ltd. was stolen from two women just inside the doorway of the mild-city plant.

Mrs. John Patricia Short and Miss Eileen LaFrance, who are sisters, had picked up the money from a nearby bank.

The gunman was waiting partway inside the door, leading to the second floor front office of the plant.

"He was very polite," said Miss LaFrance. "He said, 'pardon me,' and I never even thought of a holdup until he jabbed a gun in my ribs."

Johnstown

JOHNSTOWN—Sunday School and church were held at Johnstown on Sunday afternoon with Rev. G. A. Puttenham delivering the sermons, found in St. Luke 1.7. The text was "He who does not receive the kingdom as a little child, shall in no wise enter into the kingdom of Heaven."

"Children are always asking 'why?' to all grownups, which shows they feel they have limitations, and need to learn of those wiser than they. Love that grows better in the shade of a larger tree. We look down on people as they are. They do not care if their playmates are yellow, black or white. It is only when the older folk put things in the children's minds that there is trouble," he said.

"Whether we enter the kingdom depends on how we face up to God. We have missed on some of the best things of life, because we have failed God. When a people fail their God, they fail themselves, as history shows."

If Your Child Is Born Today

The interesting child born today is the type who must early learn not to be too inquisitive or stick his or her little nose where it does not belong. Then the horoscope is fine for any of the ultramodern, progressive professions, provided there is no reversion to city systems else the career can become quite ineffectual. Best work here is that connected with government, research, social service.

BRITISH FIND FUND IN JORDAN

Nothing Wrong With Bleary Eyes Of Mr. Walrus

NEW YORK (AP) — Ever since Olaf the walrus came to the New York Aquarium two years ago his bleary red eyes worried his keepers.

He'd poke his huge round bullet head out of the water, give a hoarse croak through his whiskers and roll his scarlet bloodshot eyes. Olaf looked as though he were suffering from a constant, mammoth hangover.

"We knew he'd not been on a binge," said aquarium director Christopher Coates. "And we knew he was getting plenty of sleep. But we couldn't figure out what was wrong with his eyes."

Then they called in a veterinarian. He took us look and threw up his hands. "What do I know about walrus eyes?" he said.

As a matter of fact no one knew much about walrus eyes. Olaf is the only one in captivity in the western hemisphere.

Coates asked his own eye doctor to see what he could do. The doctor examined Olaf's eyes while the 1,300 - pound beast was distracted by a bucket of dead fish. He prescribed a salve.

Olaf's keeper dutifully rubbed it in Olaf's eyes and it did help one eye that had swollen half shut, clearing up an infection. But still his eyes were red.

Friday Coates announced he got the answer from the Alaskan fish and game service, which knows as much about walruses as anybody.

Walrus eyes are supposed to be red. That's just the way they are.

U.S. Takes Time In Ending Escort For Quemoy Ships

Navy to Halt Convoying Within Next Day or So

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States, taking its time, is expected within a day or two to quit convoying Nationalist Chinese supply ships in the Formosa Strait.

The order to the U.S. 7th Fleet is to be based on the absence of Communist shelling and on the condition laid down in Red China's offer Sunday to cease firing for one week provided U.S. convoy operations are halted.

Officials say that fine line of distinction to emphasize two points:

1. That Red China started the trouble with six weeks of almost continuous bombardment of Quemoy, and could ease tensions any time, without conditions, simply by stopping the shooting.

2. That American escorvoying has been strictly in international waters, and nobody tells the U.S. what to do on the high seas.

PROPAGANDA SHARES

U.S. officials, though gratified at the Red Chinese offer, were not unaware that it contained a number of diplomatic-propaganda shares.

A determination to avoid being snagged on any of them explained why the U.S. was taking its own good time about ordering a suspension of the convoys.

U.S. ambassador Jacob W. Kaplan and Red Chinese Ambassador Wang Ping-nan meet again in Warsaw Friday, when the whole subject of the cease-fire—particularly how to keep it going —is sure to come up.

Hockey Picture In Pembroke Not too Rosy

PEMBROKE (CP) — The future of senior hockey for this town was in doubt today after council rescinded a previous motion to grant Pembroke Lumber Kings of the Eastern OHA Senior A series $2,000 for operation of the club's program.

Council made the decision Monday night after considerable public criticism of the grant and because there still were a few questions that owner Wally Lesser had planned to ice in the new season.

Donald Simpson, who appeared before council for Lesser, assured council that there would be no hockey team in Pembroke this year but admitted that Lesser's attempts to find players had fallen through.

The league executive is to meet at Gananoque tonight to discuss the future of the Lumber Kings of Pembroke, Belleville McFarlands, Cornwall Cyclers, Kingston CKLCs, Whitby Dunlops and Hull-Ottawa Canadiens.

EOKA AMBUSHES KILL 2 BRITONS AND WOUND 7

Cypriot Underground Bombs Convoys

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters) — A renewed wave of guerrilla attacks on British troops today climaxed a week of violent protests against Britain's new formula for the solution of the Cyprus dispute. At least four more Cypriot ambushes two British soldiers were killed and seven injured. The Greek Cypriot underground struck with bombs and machine-guns against passing convoys in army vehicles—in one case an ambulance.

One Turkish Cypriot policeman was also killed. The British, already angered at the ambushes, killed when a bomb he was holding exploded prematurely.

Today was the seventh day of increased violence since Britain proclaimed its bitterly contested plan for joint sovereignty last Wednesday.

REJECTED BY GREECE

Under this seven-year plan, Britain will keep her sole base. Turkish officials to participate as advisers in a limited authority over pending establishment of separate legislatures for the two communities. Greece has already proved the plan, but Greece has agreed it is a basis for partition.

Today's ambushes occurred in widely scattered areas. In the north one British soldier was killed when security forces vehicles were ambushed. Another was killed in the south.

The Turkish policeman was killed in the central area. Seven servicemen were injured when terrorists ambushed a convoy of vehicles in the village of Lysos, in west Cyprus.

A third ambush near Ardhana, a village in northwest Cyprus, wounded two civilians dead, the ambulance was ambushed near Zyghi, in south Cyprus.

Saskatchewan Breath Tests Ruled Legal

OTTAWA (CP)—The Supreme Court of Canada today upheld Saskatchewan legislation requiring persons involved in accidents to undergo a breath test or face suspension of their drivers permits.

The Court's five-to-three judgment follows a ruling of the Saskatchewan Court of Appeal which said earlier this year that the legislation passed in 1957 was constitutionally valid.

The Supreme Court, however, was divided in ruling that any evidence taken under the Saskatchewan legislation as a result of a breath test can be introduced in evidence at a trial for drunken or impaired driving under the Criminal Code.

The breath test involves a device into which a suspect blows. This sample of breath is then applied to chemical analysis to indicate the amount, if any, of alcohol consumed.

The issue before the court was one concerned with the amount of alcohol required to show drunkenness.

Note Found in Wrecked Plane Starts Story-Book Rescue of Three Men

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — A note found in a wrecked plane started a story-book rescue of three electronics experts who miraculously survived 10 chilling days and nights in the wilderness on the northern Alaskan coast.

It all ended happily Sunday night when the three men, exhausted, suffering from exposure and frostbite, arrived safely here after an emergency flight by helicopter.

Capt. Charles Weir, United States Air Force helicopter pilot who located the men just a few miles west of the wreckage and brought them to Unalakleet, said he found the following message in the downed plane Monday:

"Sunday. To whom it may concern. Two men and I left here this morning about the day looking for civilization at Unalakleet. Heading west. (Signed) Parhham."

This was Jefferson Parham, 36, El Paso, Tex., one of the Western Electric engineers who had been working on the radar station since Sept. 26 on the wilderness flight. The others were Robert Schmuttz, Knoxville, Tenn., and Joe Tomczak, 25, Detroit.

The men were not interviewed before being taken to a hospital here. Parham's wife and two children were flown here from their home in Texas.

Weir said Parham told him the crew in civil litigation matters.

Board's Right to Hear Freight Rate Application Challenged

OTTAWA (CP)—The CNR says it will record an unprecedented deficit of $64,000,000 this year if it does not receive a freight rate increase to cover the cost of a wage settlement with employees.

The statement was made Monday to the board of transport commissioners by Gordon Ford, counsel for the publicly - owned railway, as it and the CPR launched a case for a general 19-per-cent rate increase. The proposed increase would yield the railways a total of about $60,000,000 a year.

The highest deficit incurred by the CNR was $60,980,000 in 1951. Last year, the railway had a deficit of $29,979.

The railways would use any revenues from a freight rate increase to offset a settlement of a wage dispute with 130,000 non-operating employees now themselves in the hands of conciliators under the two trans-continental systems.

The board has been told by W. T. Wilson, CNR vice-president of personnel, that railway employees would not be expected to receive wage increases recommended by a federal conciliation board. A strike vote now is being taken and ballots are returnable Nov. 1.

The railways said they could neither accept nor reject the recommendations because until now had fully explored additional sources of revenue. The application for a rate increase followed.

As the hearing opened Monday eight provinces — all except Ontario and Quebec—said the board has no jurisdiction to hear the case. However, the board rejected this motion.

The provinces plan to lodge an appeal to the cabinet against the board's decision.

The provinces said the board has no jurisdiction to grant an increase in rates to cover a wage cost not yet incurred. They also said the board was being asked to arbitrate a wage dispute between the railways and their employees.

Mr. Ford said the estimated 1958 deficit of the CNR before making provision for fixed charges is $12,500,000. This was the deficit after a 20 per cent rise the CNR has had a deficit before fixed charges.

Labor Asks 'Crash' Program Of Public Works This Winter

TORONTO (CP) — Spokesmen for 400,000 Ontario workers say unemployment will reach "serious" proportions this winter unless "necessary" public works programs are started to keep men on the job.

Views on the threat of unemployment were put before the Ontario Federation of Labor convention Monday by supporters of a resolution urging co-operation by the federal and Ontario governments to head off a crisis.

Support for the resolution by the delegates—endorsed a move by the Hamilton Trades and Labor Council to set up a new political party based "on the needs of the workers: farmers and laborers, owned, financed and controlled by the people and their organizations."

One delegate said the CCF should continue its abstract labor votes until the new party is in business.

The Ontario federation's motion of support for the resolution "to give renewed emphasis to political action to implement programs so that our membership as a whole will have a greater understanding of our political as well as economic objectives."

In the debate on unemployment, one delegate commented: "Let's not kid ourselves that we'll have a picnic by comparison to what's coming."

The resolution eventually given approval requested government action on "crash" programs to put existing jobless to work "and for the thousands more who may be laid off between now and the coming winter."

It demanded the federation "believes there are enough necessary public projects to take care of the problem of unemployment taking into account the activity would not be in competition with local industries by such a program."

The resolution asked for "legislation to introduce broader unemployment benefits and extend eligibility periods" and to enact laws prohibiting the evil practice of large increases in rents of rent or mortgage premiums.

A resolution was approved urging an amendment to the Labor Fair Employment Practices Act to prevent employers from discriminating against job - seekers because of age.

Delegate Larry Sheffe of Toronto said age limits of 35 and 40 years no longer imposed on many employers when hiring. The amendment would prohibit employers from employing persons of age unless dismissal conditions were under the pension plan.

George Burt, Canadian director of the United Auto Workers (CLC), criticized labor for lacking solidarity.

Toronto Lawyers Named Members Supreme Court

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton announced Monday appointment of two new justices to the Ontario Supreme Court.

They are Toronto lawyers Stanley N. Schatz, and George T. Walsh. They will fill the two additional positions in the court created by the Ontario legislature some months ago.

The two new justices will serve in the trial division of the Supreme Court, officially known as the High Court of Justice for Ontario.

They fill jobs created when the court was expanded from its previous 19 members to 21. Federal legislation passed in the last session for the two new judges was dropped at the last session of Parliament.

Their salaries will be $18,000 a year.

ONTARIO-BORN

Mr. Justice Schatz was born in Glenfield, Ont., and was educated in schools in St. George and Galt. He graduated from Osgoode Hall University with a master of arts degree in 1932, and was called to the Ontario bar in 1933 and to the bar of Canada in 1949. Since 1925 he has had his own practice in Toronto.

He specialized during his career in civil litigation matters.

Turkeys Will Be Plentiful For Thanksgiving

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

It'll look the same and it'll taste the same. But that Thanksgiving turkey will cost Maritime residents an average of 10 cents a pound more than the rest of Canada.

A Canadian Press survey of Canada's major centres shows Nova Scotia housewives will be paying 69 cents a pound, compared with the low as 59 cents in Alberta.

Across the country, storekeepers say turkeys will be plentiful "more than enough for everybody."

Montreal's turkey industry is "a little higher" than last year's price of 49 cents a pound for tur-keys.

Ducks and roasting chickens will cost more, trying stickly prices and hams less. Supplies are said to be good, with turkey most in demand.

Ontario turkey prices are expected to range from 49 cents to 69 cents a pound, depending on grade, weight and quality, with selling between 55-65 cents, chickens 39-49 cents.

Ontario turkey supplies are "at least, equal to last year's."

MUNICIPALITIES ASK FEDERAL AID WITH 'BIG PIPE'

Request More Help In Slum Clearance

OTTAWA (CP) — Canadian municipalities are hopeful of getting federal aid for building the "big pipe"—the main sewer and water lines essential in opening up new housing areas for ever-expanding populations.

They want central government has made no firm commitments so far, municipal sources feel the time may also be ripe for an expansion of federal aid in slum clearance to ease the burden of cities and towns.

These two requests, federal aid to big pipe lines and for sewer and water mains and expanded help for slum clearance, were replaced before the central administration Monday as a two - day federal-municipal conference got the first of its kind—got under way.

TRAFFIC ARTERIES

The municipalities, represented by a 25-member body of the Federation of Mayors and Municipalities, also asked that main city traffic arteries be included in federal extensions of interprovincial highways throughout cities, a federal aid purposes.

But here there's a constitutional snag, the Minister Fulton told reporters that the central government's role is to put up the money on roads, except through provincial agreements.

And the provinces are not represented at the current meeting. But they will study the municipality's requests touch on constitutional matters, with a view to keeping feeling in informed federal quarters that a new federal-provincial conference may be called in order to review tax and other issues.

ANOTHER MEETING

The Pope was said to have asked to be taken to the Vatican as soon as possible. This accounted for first planned to do that Monday, but changed their minds when the gravity of his condition became apparent.

The Pope's private physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, has described him as having "mitral stenosis of a heart."

The morning bulletin was the first to be issued since the Pope was stricken. Posted in the square outside the summer residence, it said:

"The conditions of his holiness, the Pope, have remained unchanged throughout the night. His senses appear to be unaffected. There are no signs of motor deficiency. Last night the hiccups (which for the Pope have been troubled for several days) again began to appear, but disappeared early this morning.

"Last night his holiness had a fever of 37.5 centigrade (99.5 Fahrenheit). This morning the fever was down to 36 degrees (96.8 Fahrenheit—normal). Pulse, 82. Respiration, normal. Treatment being continued."

The Pope also was able to take communion this morning. The Italian said mass in the private papal chapel, then brought the Host to the patient at his bedside. The Pope was able to swallow it without difficulty.

QUIET NIGHT

The 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church spent a quiet night, said Msgr. Angelo dell'Acqua, the Vatican substitute secretary of state.

"His improvement is satisfactory and progressive," he told reporters this morning.

Other reports were reported improving from a week-long attack of hiccups and gastritis which the stroke caused Monday morning.

$15,000 Sod-Busting Contest Opens At Backwater Village Near Ottawa

CRYSLER, Ont. (CP) — A $15,000 sod-busting contest began today at this Eastern Ontario backwater village.

About 550 entries are in for the bicentennial Plowing Match, now in its 45th year. The two top contestants draw a free trip next October to the world plowing match at Coleraine in Northern Ireland.

Today was Eastern Ontario Day at the match, the first of its kind in the world and the biggest ever held in the 10 Eastern counties around this village which includes Prescott, Glengarry, Stormont, Dundas, Grenville, Russell, Carleton, Lanark, Renfrew and Prince Edward.

The bulk of the entries are for tractor-drawn plows and about 90 per cent of the list is from Ontario.

Crysler, population 450, has been getting set for weeks—down to a special landing field for fly-in visitors, a huge tent and show-horse competitions are sideshow attractions, and a huge agricultural exhibit and demonstration is a regular feature. A 36-acre tented city has built up, with its catering booths and exhibits ranging from temperance groups to brewers.

Entries from 10 Eastern Ontario counties, Ottawa and New York state took part in today's progress of 13 classes. The largest first-place prize is $54 for the inter-school tractor competition.

Heart of the competition is the dairy farm of Armand Chevalier, and about 20 other farms will help judges select the acres of sod and stubble land required for contest and display plowing.

Paralysis Gone, Pope Pius Eats, Talks Lucidly

Respiration Is Normal And Fever Has Abated

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP)—The Pope rallied today. He was lucid, his fever abated and his respiration was normal. He ate solid food.

The 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church, felled Monday by a cerebral stroke, recognized persons in his sick room and spoke a few words.

There are no signs of motor deficiency," a medical bulletin said. The Pope's right side partial paralysis which accompanied the stroke had ended.

Even his temperature was taken, the Pope himself removed the thermometer from his mouth to read it.

Physicians said he ate cereal broth and shredded chicken.

STROKE REMAINS

A medical bulletin indicated the Pope's tremendous continuing resistance to the second serious illness in four years.

There were cautious expressions of hope.

One of his doctors said at noon that if his condition continued to improve further medical bulletins might be postponed until Wednesday.

The Pope had recovered from kidney blocks in 1954 which had threatened dangerous complications.

Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, has described him as having "mitral stenosis of a heart."

The morning bulletin was the first to be issued since the Pope was stricken. Posted in the square outside the summer residence, it said:

Gunman Drives Car Through Window, Dies

MONTREAL (CP)—A wounded gunman, shot by police, drove his car through a show window today and collapsed dead over the wheel while trying to escape with two companions.

One man was captured and a third died on foot following a fusillade of shots that sent pedestrians scurrying to safety on St. Catherine Street.

Police said they first saw a stolen car parked on the street. They set up a watch and asked reinforcements for reinforcements.

About 40 minutes later the men drove up, saw the waiting police and opened fire.

The fugitive car stopped at an intersection and a heavy-set man jumped from the back seat and started running. He was captured a few minutes later.

SHOTS FIRED

The chase continued for several blocks. When the fleeing car stopped again, the driver jumped out and fired about 10 shots.

Detective Sgt. Harry Scramblord from a police cruiser and grappled with the man. Constable Mario Ferland stood by with drawn revolver.

The thug managed to fire two more shots, then broke free and was shot in the chest by constable Ferland.

The wounded man jumped back into the car and drove straight into the window of the Seneca Auto Service garage at 7206 St. Lawrence Blvd.

Meanwhile, the third man escaped.

Joseph Reeves, garage owner, said he saw the car coming through the widow and thought at first "someone had had a heart attack or something."

Reeves said they thought the three men had planned a holdup at a branch of la Banque Canadienne Nationale at St. Lawrence Blvd. and Lightfoot Ave.

Supreme Court Upholds Wheat Board's Powers

OTTAWA (CP)—The Canadian wheat board's wide powers as the sole marketing agency for Prairie wheat, oats and barley were upheld unanimously by the Supreme Court of Canada.

The court's unanimous ruling, maintaining the constitutional validity of the Canadian Wheat Board Act, in effect killed a British Columbia farmer's attempt to sell grain across the Prairies without a board permit.

Parliament gave the board the sole power to buy and sell all wheat, oats and barley grown by farmers on the Prairies and in the Peace River area.

Stephen Francis Murphy of Mission, B.C., who operates large farming interests at Farm Princeton, B.C., sought to bypass the board by selling a shipload from Prairie farmers and ship ping it to his farms.

Council Approves Sale of Land to New Industry

One of the city's newest industries, the Amplibone Corporation of Canada, presently located in the Merch building on Dundas Street West, will shortly expand its operations with the erection of a new factory.

To make the move possible, city council last night authorized the sale of a six acre parcel of land in the industrial area in the northeast section of the city where the TV parts manufacturing firm hopes to construct their new factory.

Council authorized the sale of the property for $3,000, conditional on the city extending unopened Dunsdo Street and also extending the sanitary sewer. This will cost the city an estimated $5,000, while provision for water services is expected to cost the city another $5,500.

Now employing about 30 persons, the Amplibone Corporation expects to increase this to about 100 following the construction of their new building which will be 50 feet by 100 feet with a second story of 50 by 30 feet.

Mayor Gerald Hyde told council that preliminary discussions had been entered into between the manufacturing firm and the city's industrial committee. He asked council's consideration for the sale of the industrial property and following a brief caucus it was given with Mayor Hyde and City Manager Drury Denyes to proceed with the sale arrangements.

May Give Belleville Voters Chance to Reverse Decision To Cut Councillors to Eight

Ratepayers in the city of Belleville may again get the opportunity of voting on wheth-er they wish a 14-man council, plus the mayor, instead of the civic governing body being reduced to an eight-man council as was approved by the electors at last year.

At city council Monday evening, Alderman Robert Temple introduced a notice of motion stating that he would move to have the above question placed before the electors at the forthcoming municipal election.

His motion would be for a 14-man council with seven to be elected each year and the mayor elected annually, the same as at present.

Last year electors approved of an eight-man council with it to be elected this year for a one-year term making a 14-man council in 1959. Then in the fall of 1959 with all aldermen out of office, eight would be elected, the top four for a two-year term and the next four for a one-year term.

However, if Alderman Temple's motion carries in council and the referendum is approved by the people, the eight-man council voted last year would be into effect, and application would have to be made for cancellation of the covering private bill.

Commissioner and Mrs. Booth Of S. A. Have Rich Heritage

The Salvation Army's nation-al leader, Commissioner Wycliffe Booth, has a rich heri-tage of Salvation Army knowledge and leadership.

He is the grandson of the Army's founder and first general, William Booth, and the second son of the Army's second leader, Bramwell Booth.

Born in High Barnet, England, Commissioner Booth entered the work of the Salvation Army from its beginning in 1916. During his boyhood his life was lived in an intense "Army" atmosphere, since his parents were travelling extensively to promote the Army's rapidly expanding evangelistic and social service work.

In 1932 he married Capt. Renee Peyron, whose parents, Commissioner and Mrs. Peyron, were the Territorial Leaders of the Salvation Army in France. Both have since died.

Mrs. Booth is the daughter of four of whom are S.A. officers, carrying on their work in the United States, England, France and Italy, respectively.

Commissioner and Mrs. Booth have served in a number of important posts, including International headquarters in London, France, Switzerland and Norway. They were appointed to the command of Norway in 1951.

Excellent organizing ability, business acumen and a capacity for breaking new ground have characterized the work of Commissioner Mrs. Booth.

Although primarily interested in evangelism, they have been involved and supported many welfare ventures in the countries to which they have been assigned.

SUPERVISED PROJECTS

During the Olympic Games in Oslo, the S.A., under the Commissioner's leadership, conducted a campaign to take the gospel message to the thousands attending the games. During the war years in France, the Commissioner gave much tremendous relief and rehabilitation projects.

Since assuming national leadership of the Salvation Army in January 1955, the Commissioner has become well-known to leaders in all levels of government because of the numerous welfare service projects he has fostered.

In addition to supporting the Centennial Fund in campaigns in many parts of the country, Mrs. Booth has given outstanding leadership in women's social service work — particularly on behalf of the deaf, mute and blind.

Mrs. Booth serves as Territorial president of the Home League, a group of 15,000 women interested in the development of Christian homes, and also Territorial president of the League of Mercy, a group of 3,000 volunteer workers who visit institutions to aid the sick and handicapped.

On June 4, 1955, Commissioner Booth received an honorary Doctor of Divinity degree from the University of Western Ontario.

Road Repairs Unsatisfactory After Gas Lines Installed From Mains Into Dwellings

City hall is being besieged with complaints of unsatisfactory street repairs following installation of domestic natural gas service.

This was brought to light Monday evening at city council when two aldermen raised the question, the dissatisfaction being directed at Belleville Public Utilities Commission. Drury Denyes who said there had been "much trouble" with the repairs effected by the gas company being very unsatisfactory.

Alderman Digby asked why the gas company contractor was allowed to bring excavated backfill up to within two or three inches of grade and then leave it over the weekend.

Mr. Denyes said the original agreement with the gas company was that the city would complete street repairs and then turn it over to the gas company.

However, the gas company complained to the city that it was too much with the result that it hindered the progress of whatever work had been unsatisfactory.

However, he said that council had been pressing the matter in the past few days and progress was now being made.

Last night's council meeting was brief, with the regular week's list of recommendations getting ratification without discussion.

CHANGE BUS ROUTE

The only by-law up for consideration was a supplementary agreement covering the agreement between the city and the Rawson Bus Transportation Co. for a change of route on the West hill.

As a matter of general information, Alderman Robert Temple, as chairman of traffic, told council that the crossing gates on South Front and Pinnacle Streets over the CPR tracks would be replaced with signal lights.

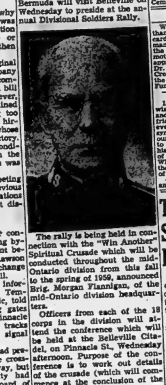
He noted that council had previously voiced against the crossing gates being taken away, but that time the city had been advised by the Board of Transport Commissioners that it had been decided to replace the gates with the lights.

"There is just nothing we can do about it," he said.

Alderman Wright Grandame told council that no report was available from the special committee appointed to gather information and investigate the feasibility of establishing a new police station. He said the committee had met several times but was not yet ready to report.

To a question from Alderman Dr. James Forrester, City Manager Denyes stated the additional land had been made with respect to providing additional space for city health department.

NEGOTIATE WITH HYDRO



Mr. Denyes said negotiations were still continuing with the Ontario Hydro into the possibility of the city purchasing the Pinnacle St. hydro building.

The letter of appreciation was received from Mayor Rose Burtt of Trenton, extending thanks to the city for assistance of the Belleville fire department in fighting the fire at the Trenton Cold Storage which had cost the life of Fire Chief Clarence Vance.

Appreciation was also extended to Fire Chief Gerald Vance of Belleville, for his assistance in carrying out the funeral arrangements for the late Trenton chief.

Sharp Frosts Put End to Tomato Harvest

Sharp frosts which visited the Bay of Quinte area last Thursday night and again on Sunday night put an end to the 1958 tomato harvesting season, it was noted today by farmers attending the Belleville market.

Canning factories closed last Friday pending investigation of crop damage following Thursday night's frost, and while it was not expected they would open again this week to take care of undamaged produce, Sunday night's frost was more general and practically all tomatoes still in the field were damaged.

Estimate was, however, that high percentage of the tomatoes had been harvested before the frost, although the crop this year was generally a bit later than usual.

Thurlow Twp. Sets Election Date in December

Thurlow township will set its election date a month ahead in order to take advantage of better weather in which to get out the vote.

The election date for the township will be the first Monday in December, instead of the first Monday in January as previously been the case. The nomination meeting will be on the Friday preceding the last Monday in November starting at 12 noon.

The township election date will now be on the same day as in the city of Belleville.

Township Clerk Earl Dafoe noted that the change from January frequently falls on a holiday with numbers of persons away from their homes. Council decided on the change to make it easier to get out the vote and to get away from possible bad weather.

Sidney and Tyendinaga townships are also said to be considering setting their election dates ahead a month for the same reason.

Clad in Jeans Butler Sings Rock 'n' Roll

LONDON (Reuters) — The marquess and marchioness of Hertford have a novel new butler.

He wears blue jeans and rubber-soled shoes and sings rock 'n' roll in their stately country home of Ragley Hall. The Daily Mail says.

The new butler is 19-year-old Howard Davis, recently recruited from a rock 'n' roll club, the paper adds.

And Robert Taylor, 15, gave up his job as an errand boy to join Howard as underbuller. Robert favors a dark blazer and open-necked jazz-patterned shirt for formal occasions.

Howard, who claims to be Britain's youngest butler, said: "I gave a kick out of being a personal helper to such a good, sporting boss."

United Appeal Drive Outlined To Rotary Club

The Belleville United Appeal was the topic of discussion at the Rotary Club's weekly luncheon on Monday. The three big guns of the Belleville appeal were present to talk to the Rotarians.

Introducing the three speakers, Mrs. Jane Forrester, Louis Marsaka and Archie Lewis, was an ex-president of the Rotary club, Ernie Gurnett, who filled in for Jack Taylor who was not present.

Several members raised the question "Where is President Jack?" It was finally decided that Mr. Hoover was pitching for the Braves, thus accounting for his absence.

Mrs. Jane Forrester, a former mayor of Belleville, spoke first to the Rotarians on the reasons that the United Appeal, the first one to be held in Belleville, would reach its objective of $85,000.00 and on benefits to be gained by the organizations that the drive is supporting.

The organizations in the drive are the Red Cross, Canadian Arthritis Society, Boy Scout Association, Girl Guides, Air Scout city, Royal Canadian Sea Cadet Corps (Corvette), St. John Ambulance, Victorian Order of Nurses and the YMCA.

Mrs. Forrester concluded her talk by telling the members of the various costs the organizations have.

Louis Marsakas then enlightened those present with amusing stories on subjects like forgetfulness and lack of interest. He quickly turned the stories into circumstances in which people could forget the United Appeal, and if they do not listen, never learn what it is for and the good money concerned does. He urged Rotarians not to appear as the ones in his tales did.

MUST MAKE UP LOSS

The third speaker, Archie Lewis, chairman of the 1958 United Appeal in Belleville, explained that the members knew why the drive was attacking such a high figure for the first campaign. Mr. Lewis pointed out that the drives put on by the organizations in the United Appeal, had failed to reach their objectives in former years and that the loss must be made up.

He also explained why, as he thought, the drives had fallen short of the mark. He pressed the point that the public did not have sufficient knowledge of what the drives were all about and where the money from them was going and to what end.

He said that all Belleville people and all those that they are linked know where the money from the United Appeal is going and what it could do.

Possible deductions is the main source from which the campaigners expect to get the lion's share of the $85,000. Mr. Lewis said that if Belleville firms and companies approved of the plan.

That is what reason Mr. Lewis gave for his belief that the $85,000 would be successful and the fact that the Belleville public seemed to be behind the drive.

The speakers were thanked by Rotarian Ernie Gurnett.

The chair asked the members for the second consecutive week for a conference chairman to attend the district conference in Trenton at the Royal York hotel, there were no takers so it was left for next week.

Several Classes of the club business were discussed and the meeting adjourned.

Fast Work by Fire Brigade Prevents Another Big Blaze; Cafe Block Damage $20,000

TRENTON — Fast and efficient work by the Trenton Fire Department under the direction of Acting Chief Cecil Ellis prevented a sixth major fire in Trenton yesterday when fire gutted the Beacon Cafe and damaged the adjoining Block was damaged by a sudden blaze.

Smoke, water and fire damage was estimated at about $20,000, with most of the loss old to smoke and water, which went through five stories and three apartments above them.

The block is owned by Harry Lee, proprietor of the Beacon Cafe. The fire department was called at 4:40 p.m. and wound up a.m.

The blaze is believed to have started in the boiler room in the rear of one of the stores and from there worked its way up through the partitions of the block and into the attic of the building.

Heavy smoke was noted during the fire fighting but boring up through the edge of the roof and eave-sweep over the buildings to the west of the Boston cafe by a light easterly wind. Had the firemen not arrived on the scene promptly and poured water on the blaze immediately, the whole row of stores block of buildings could have been destroyed. All are occupied with the most of them built during the early part of the 20th century.

Firemen widened the hole the fire had started to make in the floor of the apartments above the stores damaged by the yesterday's blaze to give them a better chance to get at the flames. The wall at the rear had been blackened by the flames when the firemen arrived on the scene. The Trenton fire chief, Cecil Ellis, has been highly praised for his work in getting the fire under control quickly and preventing another disastrous blaze. (Staff Photo).

RCAF FIREMEN PRESENT

As a safety precaution the firemen from the air force were called and their men and pumper stood by in case they were needed. Fire Chief Gerald Vance and three of his firefighters from Belleville arrived on the scene in the chief's car to offer their assistance in any way.

After the fire was out spectators said the Trenton police department was superb in handling traffic which normally travels along Dundas Street. Streetcars and vehicles at the corner of Dundas West and Division Street along the new route to the 401 Highway as well as traffic coming west across the bridge. The side of the fire is only a few yards to the west of the town bridge on Dundas St. West. Airforce police were also on hand to help any way possible.

A sour note was added to the firemen's high praise yesterday when they found several sections of hose and some of the brass fittings taken during the night by curious motorists who still persist in diverting over the hose lines to get their cars closer to the fire.

15 Policemen Hit Jackpot In Soccer Pool

LONDON (AP) — Fifteen policemen have hit the jackpot with a world record football pool win expected to be worth nearly $700,000. And the take isn't taxable or raidable.

The police station syndicate has filled in its pool coupon according to the results of matches over seven years. This is their first win.

Each week the syndicate—15 policemen and three civilians working with three civilian pool staff vacation report of Margate — gambles 25 shillings on guessing the results of Britain's football matches. Bettors have to pick eight tie games for a top score.

Monday night a pool representative called on the happy group to tell them of their success. Their win would be in the region of £250,000, he said.

That beats the previous pool mark set by British coal miner Tom Riley, who picked up £209,079 last April.

Mysterious Death Of Partially Solved

OTTAWA (CP)—After a long investigation, RCAF medical authorities have been able to explain only partially the mysterious death of a pilot at 35,000 feet.

FO W. G. Smith, 25, of Blenheim, Ont., died March 20 in a T-33 jet trainer during a flight from Chatham, N.B., to Ottawa. He was riding in the forward seat while the pilot was being piloted by Flt. Lt. L. F. McGuire, 35, of Montreal, sitting in the rear seat.

McGuire lost contact with Smith over the plane's intercommunication system and landed at Sept-Iles, Que. Smith was found dead.

An RCAF spokesman Monday said medical autorities have determined that the immediate cause of death was asphyxiation; Smith, however, "while unconscious," vomited into his face mask and the oxygen inlet became clogged.

The spokesman said there had been no malfunctioning of the oxygen equipment up until it became clogged.

He said the medical officers had been unable to determine why Smith became unconscious. If he had, or why he had not ripped off the face mask, if he had not. There had been no evidence of a heart attack or other failure.

Accept Resignations of Volunteer Firemen, How Many Remain on Force Is Not Clear

TRENTON — The strength of the Trenton Fire Department's voluntary force has not been made public at press time today.

Last night at the regular council meeting the resignations of 11 firemen who had signed the petition to the town was accepted. It is believed 12 members of the volunteers had signed. This would leave only four on the voluntary force. The resignation would be effective this morning.

Following the council session last night Councillor Ross Powell asked if it meant the town had only the permanent firemen to fight any fires he said. "There are still six men who did not resign and another six will be selected today from the applications we have in. This gives us a force of 13 men and two permanent men would be needed Tuesday morning."

The volunteers claim all but two volunteers signed the petition.

The issue of the firemen was the highlight of last night's council meeting held in the board room of the municipal offices. At that time the council accepted the resignation of the volunteers as well as a petition signed by 1,000 asking for the hiring of future members to both the permanent and volunteer.

RECOMMENDATIONS MADE

Councillor Lloyd Worrall and his committee of Councillors Hilton and Fox, brought in the following recommendations, which were passed unanimously by councillors: that all volunteer firemen be given men and all future voluntary firemen must have a minimum of the following requirements: (a) two years' high school; (b) 20 years of age or under; (c) to be in good health.

It was also recommended that the resignation of volunteers who have resigned or their letter be regretfully accepted. "However," Mr. Worrall added, "any volunteer who has resigned and wishes to apply for re-instatement will be given every consideration."

Mr. Worrall added the following to the committee's recommendations:

"The committee has advertised for two permanent men based on qualifications previously discussed. We received 14 applications and those with the necessary qualifications and characteristic references were interviewed.

The two men will therefore be hired.

"The committee advertised for fire chief and received 21 applications. It then met with the Chief Fire Marshal of Training for Ontario, Mr. C. Ellis, and he recommended eight of the applicants. It is the intention to interview these men on Friday at 3 p.m. and we would ask that all members be in attendance if they concur with the recommendation.

"In replying to the pumper on the east side of the river it is the intention of the committee to purchase as much hose as soon as the two men are hired. In the interim the committee checked with the police department to ascertain if a warning signal could be given to clear the bridge. We were informed that it had already been done. Two trial runs have been made from the fire station to Glenwood Hill. These were done on Friday and Saturday of last week and the first one took was 3 minutes and 2½ minutes, respectively. The fire department was also instructed to notify the RCAF in the event an alarm was sounded and not to wait until the extent of any fire was known. We, therefore, feel that everything has been done to minimize the danger to the east side residents."

Mr. Sherwood will come to the Trenton area in company with Gordon Gordon, general manager of the Industrial Accidents Prevention Association who will speak at the dinner being arranged at the R.C.A.F. Station. Both will be guests of Sam Colterjohn and his executive Committee.

COUNCIL APPROVES

WINDSOR (CP)—City council Monday night unanimously accepted a new contract with Hydro office workers and public works employees, making the end of their strike effective today. Acceptance was the last official hurdle in settling strikes which began last Thursday for the public works employees and last Friday for the office workers.

SIMCOE CONTRACT

TORONTO (CP)—The United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America (Ind.), has announced Local 511 has ratified a 13½-cent-an-hour package increase with Industrial Wire and Cable Company of Simcoe, Ont. The one-year agreement included a 12-cent hourly wage increase and an equally-shared health and welfare plan.

None Could Have Done Better Job At Monday Fire Than Ellis -- Mayor

TRENTON — "There is no other fire chief in Ontario who could have done a better job than the fire this morning (Monday) than Chief Ellis did," Mayor Hinton Burst said last night at the regular council meeting as he congratulated the acting chief of detection to person and property committee in advertising for a fire chief to succeed Ellis.

"On Monday morning," he continued, "the fire was very well handled and the men and men are to be commended for their work."

Councillor McDonald also added that the council should look into the possibilities of passing a by-law to give the fire chief the authority to fine these buildings and examine them for fire hazards.

Councillors Charles Hilton and Joe Gould said they both agreed with Councillor McDonald's remarks and that the committee had done a lot of work along with the Fire Marshal on the whole issue.

Councillor Ray Fox said he was also in accord with this but that he felt Councillor Worrall was taking the butt of the criticism. He said he wanted it understood that the men standing beside him 100 percent and if any "pot-shots" were taken at Mr. Worrall they would be taken at them directed at him too.

Councillor Lloyd Gurney said a lot of new things had come up that he had not known about and he felt the committee should be given a good job. He said he also felt the volunteers did not give the committee enough time to consider their grievances. He said he would like to see the permanent men on the force come from the town. (Councillor Worrall implied that they would be.)

Councillor Ray Fox moved the adoption of the report. It was seconded by Councillor Charlie Hilton and approved by the council.

SOCIAL WELL-BEING

The other day we had the privilege and opportunity of listening to Lt.-Col. Robert J. Williams of the Health League of Canada. It was a privilege because this gentleman is an excellent speaker; it was an opportunity because he made us realize that there is more to health than just physical well-being. He defined good health as a state of physical, mental and social well-being. The first two we were well aware of, but the third, social well-being, is one which we had not fully considered as an attribute of good health. Yet when we think on it it assumes more and more importance.

Of what use is a healthy body and an active mind if they do not contribute to the well-being of those about us? The ancient Greeks believed most firmly in a sound mind within a sound body. They also believed, as expressed in the Athenian Code, that the individual should leave his city, or community, in a better place than he found it for having lived in it. These principles were the foundation for one of the greatest civilizations the world has ever known. Yet "the glory that was Greece" is no more.

When we look back it seems that the downfall of Greece, indeed the waning of any great civilization or country, has occurred within a relatively short time following that civilization's achievement of its greatest moment. Once the people had acquired cultural prestige, eminence and material wealth of a standard far above other races or cultures, a deterioration of the basic principles on which the salient culture had been built has occurred. More simply expressed the basis of that civilization had started to fail - and fall. People became more intrigued with their personal acquisitions and fortunes than with the strength of the community. And these people ignored those who would point out that their complacency and self-interest were leading the community on a downward path - - ignored or silenced these "disturbers."

After hearing and reflecting upon Lt.-Col. Williams' message concerning the present state of Canada's health, especially Canada's social well-being, we certainly felt disturbed. The fact that the per capita rate of juveniles appearing in the various courts of the land had been increasing was "most distressing. It seemed to mean that Canadians as a whole cannot form a decent environment and provide adequate leadership for the proper conduct of our young. And this before our country has yet entered into that great "moment" of our history which we look forward to in the not too distant future.

That the youth, not all but too many, of today are embracing some rather perverted patterns of emotional outlet is all too evident. Street brawls and wild parties in our resort towns, gang wars and hoodlumism in our larger cities, rock and roll sessions which sometimes turn into small riots are only too frequent. These can hardly be termed healthy. Fortunately these excesses do not occur too frequently in our own and other smaller communities. But we must look to the future. Our community is growing, as is our country. If we do not want to be faced by these problems or those which will supersede them we must prepare ourselves as individuals and as members of a community to offer that guidance and active interest to our own and our neighbors' children which will show them the way to good social well-being. Not only for their own but for our country's good health. This is certainly an endeavor wherein, we feel, the activity of all is better to be "too much than too little."

$2,800 FOR A PIKE

Want to win $2,800? It's simple. All you have to do is hook a 50-pound pike, between now and October 19, in Lake Ramsey, Ireland.

This, apparently, is a genuine offer, not a stunt dreamed up by a leprechaun but with the backing of the Irish Tourist Board. Niall Mooney, of the Board's Montreal office, has made the announcement of the contest to Canadians and explained that the competition is being held at Virginia, a beautiful-lake-side town in the County of Cavan, and that this is Virginia's second annual pike fishing contest. Even if you don't catch a 50-pound pike you can be a winner. A 40-pounder will be worth $1,400.

Apparently there are pike weighing 40 and 50 pounds in Lough Ramor. This may startle many a Quinte district fisherman, who have complained this season about this district being fished out and who, if they have thought about it, must have considered that this fate long ago overtook waters in the old Countries. The stress placed on pike may also seem strange. Many anglers here have little regard for this fish. For food it's pickerel and for fight it's muskie. We have a hunch, though, that a 50-pound pike might put up quite an argument. They just do not come that big around this part of Ontario.

The announcement of the Irish contest, however, recalls a rather humbling experience we had a couple of years ago, while visiting in Northern Ontario. We had the bed judgment to tell a fishing camp operator about the big muskies of the Moira. He listened entranced. They must, he agreed, be quite some fish, providing much more fun than hooking a 20-pound pike in half an hour, as he had that spring at his camp.

Had No Right To Say This

...Ottawa Journal

Major-General Jean Allard, vice-chief of the Army General Staff, called a press conference, told it among other things that Canada had ordered from the U.S., for the Canadian Army use, the American Lacrosse guided missile.

Later, General Allard telephoned a news agency to say that this was not so; he had let the impression that Canada had asked the U.S. for the Lacrosse missile. He apparently meant to say that the Army had "notified" the Government of its needs and wishes.

Now the trouble here is that General Allard's second statement, looked at in the light of the place of a public official, is as unacceptable as his first.

General Allard could have had no business telling a press conference, no right to say publicly anywhere at any time, what was taking place between the Government of the U.S. and the Government of Canada with respect to missiles or with respect to anything else.

But General Allard equally had no business telling a press conference, no right to say publicly anywhere at any time what advice the Canadian Army had given the Government in the matter of missiles.

General Allard's responsibility, his only responsibility, is to advise the Government confidentially through his Minister. Whether that advice is taken or not taken, it must remain confidential. Absolutely so.

There is no other way we know of to keep responsibility accessible — to have policy vested in ministers responsible to Parliament.

Departing from that, a rule as old as parliamentary government itself, would open wide at the point they have reached in the U.S. where heads of the armed services was publicly among the presidential hopefuls and often are in public controversy with Congress and the President.

It is being reported that "political storm is brewing about the head" of General Allard.

No political storm is called for, though, is that General Allard be told by his Minister, or perhaps by the Prime Minister, that he has no business telling the public what he or the Army has been advising the Government, or with respect to anything else — that his only responsibility is confidential advice, is to carry out whatever decisions the Government may come to.

General Allard, a man of fine intelligence and long experience as a soldier is very high — should have no trouble getting the point.

When State Dwarfs Men

Brantford Expositor

". . . A state which dwarfs its men will find its tasks increasingly difficult; its machines will be more docile instruments in its hands, even for beneficial purposes, but it will find itself with small men no great thing can be permanently established; and that the perfection of machinery, to which it has sacrificed everything, will break and avail it nothing, for want of the vital power which, in order that the machine might work more smoothly, it has preferred to banish.

Canadians who take the trouble to ponder these words will understand their truth. The striking thing is that they were written not today, nor even yesterday, but a century ago by one of the world's greatest philosophers and students of government, John Stuart Mill.

Today, as Mill accurately predicted, the state has become a machine. It is a giant which demands, in the interests of what it thinks to be the public good, that the individual who, by reason of ability and hard work, overshadows his fellows, must be brushed aside in the supposedly democratic interest of the collective, impersonal "Common Man." Such men are denied a set on a pedestal to be worshipped, no matter what the cost.

Time was when Canadians were proud of their achievements of their men of business, industry and finance. Success itself when individual ability was deemed a social good, and men of ability and vision were acknowledged to be among the nation's most precious of human resources.

Today, however, it is the collective dwarfs of the age of the "Common Man" that are governments, and their governments dwarf their wants, their desires, and how to meet them, have become the responsibility of the state. The fact that these people's wants and desires are being deliberately fostered by politicians, and fed at the expense of the nation's dwindling reservoir of real talent, is something which seems to cause little or no concern.

What is frightening is that Canadians at the time when men of talent, because thwarted and frustrated in their endeavors in their own creative fields, can no longer expect the rewards or give except as members of the mighty machine of bureaucracy which government threatens to become.

Glorious Time To Be Alive

Guelph Mercury

We are in the midst of a great swirling tide of change, a really glorious time to be alive. Not all of this change instead of being engulfed by it. It is not changing the good old days and promote the goodness that was there. International effort, possible.

We must not obscure the ideal. It must be always before us, leading us and energizing us. It is to be regretted that realism must force us so often to expedients. But a mental discipline can keep the spotlight on the ideal, enabling us to guide expedient in a way through change and chance.

LITTLE THINGS

So many are forever hoping that some big thing will come into their life to make them wealthy or famous. They might better pay attention to the little things of life, for they are what lead to the bigger and the permanent things.

We do not give proper appraisement to the little things. They are not only the important but it is the essential things, like the smallest brick, or stone, that gives solidity and stamina to the foundation of any structure.

All big things start as little things. I have been noting the great, towering office buildings in my town. Most of them have been given the name of the biggest renter, which has served to give prestige both to the owner of the building and to the renter. Some building may be world-wide. I look out of my office window and see the growth of these great buildings gives me inspiration as I work — and do a little dreaming myself! Little things are the foundation of the big things. Whenever you note the small things always with the thought that dreamers are still in the world and that we are in a changing world, nothing is static. I shall not live into the time of most of these great conveniences that are developing up like mush rooms, but I shall leave a world that is better because I was not to nothing about. The best and greatest is yet to be. And the little things are.

So very often the little things become the substantial things and the permanent things.

This has been the story of mankind in its climb to affluence and fame. There are better things which time will bring. The little kindnesses, courtesies, and humane considerations, plus love, the seasoner over all!

THE SAILOR'S WIFE — A LULLABY

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Hush now, my little one,
Slink to your rest,
Sleep now, my pretty one,
On mamma's breast.
Heed not the whistling wind,
Heed not the rain,
Heed not the creaking blind,
Rattle or pane.
By-low, my little one, sink to your rest;
God watches over us. God's way is best.

There! There! my little one,
Why do you cry?
Hush! Hush! my pretty one,
Storms will pass by.
Heed not the raging sea,
Try now to sleep;
Father will come to thee,
Safe from the deep.
By-low, my pretty one, father will ride
Safely through the raging storm. God is his guide.

Hush now, my baby dear,
Close your eyes tight;
Mamma is watching near,
All through the night.
Maybe she pin is fixed
When the winds blow;
Loved ones may now be lost,
Sailor's wives know.
Grief rides upon the storm,
Fear's in the sea;
Sleep on, my little one, sleep till the morn.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FOOT PAINS ARE A FREQUENT AFFLICTION

Dear Dr. Molner: I have excruciating pains around my three large toes, underneath, and at the ball of my foot. What causes this? Is it arthritis, or would the pain be caused by diabetes? My doctor says I have a light case of diabetes? — Mrs. M.S.

Change the details, and you can fit this letter to suit a lot of cases, because painful feet are a frequent affliction.

In this particular case, the mention of diabetes may be a clue to something else. Diabetes doesn't often make the feet hurt, but the term diabetes of "a light case of diabetes" stirs my medically suspicious nature. A light case of diabetes" so often implies that the patient is overweight. Overweight is obstinately common in being partly responsible for hurting feet. So how about your weight?

Frankly, most cases of painful feet come down to a matter of mechanics troubles. Weak arches. Poor support of the feet (wearing shoes that don't fit when they should.) Muscles that can't hold the feet in correct position. Gradual shifting of toe bones in the foot. In all of these, too much weight, over a period of years, makes everything worse. Starting with overtaxed muscles and joints with some minor defect, the heavy folk will develop troubles that the slim ones will go their way happily, it's as simple as that.

In general here are the commonest causes of burning feet: Weak muscles, flat-fitting shoes, arthritis in joints of the feet, bursitis, gout, bunions, corns, muscle spasm (this last is in the nature of a cramp, such as might develop from holding the foot tensely in a certain position for a long time).

GOUT ATTACKS BIG TOE

Gout usually attacks the joint of the big toe. It is a terribly sharp pain that comes for a spell, then goes, and returns again. Bunions and corns are visible. Flat feet or weak arches, though, may be deceptive, because sometimes you get along comfortably for years with such a condition, and when it starts to become painful, you look for some other cause. You forget that it can take time for the hurting to start.

Is there stiffness in the joints? Then suspect arthritis. Is there any ing off your feet for a time easing the pain? Suspect mechanic faults. Do you have corns or bunions? Attend to them, and see whether the foot does not come back into its normal and painless state.

Go through the list of causes above, and 99 times in 100 you'll track down the real reason for the pains.

A simple list of causes? Yes. But that's the attitude to take in most cases of painful feet.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Where can I get a chart of correct hours of sleep for children? One is 6 and the other 2. — G.F.E."

A reasonable minimum for those (and other ages) is: First year, 20 hours a day; second year, 14 to 16; up to 4 years, 12 to 14 hours; up to 6 years, 10 to 13 hours; up to 12, 10 hours; up to 16, nine hours; for the rest of us, 8 and as we get older many find that less will do. But don't try to cheat your children.

"Dear Dr. Molner: In cancer research is there any hope for a cure? All X-rays are negative. — B.L."

There is reasonable cause, no impaction is one thing; cancer is quite another. I am confident researching letters from people who (a) want me to support their pet theories, or (b) want me to tell them 'em is worse than the doctor said, or (b) want me to tell them that the trouble really is less than the doctor said it was.

What about constipation? Many can be relieved of it, both mentally and physically, by reading my booklet "Ten Ways To Stop Constipation." For a copy write to me in care of this newspaper, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25¢ coin to cover handling.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The inexhaustible energy of children is a matter of endless fascination to their parents. For the first few months, an infant is content to behave like a sack that is put in, it takes it easy. But no sooner does it make the exciting discovery that it is capable of action, than the fun begins. And it lasts more than twenty years.

Doctors tell me that this activity is a compulsive thing, developing from the very nature of child's nervous system. Children are compelled to act, in order that they may grow. When y o u watch the fantastic gymnastics of children at play, the positions they get into, the running, jumping, climbing, twisting, crawling, bending, cramping, so that every muscle in their bodies is being gratified and developed, that encourages it to develop, you can perceive the wisdom of the dictum that, but the doctors tell me something else. There is a type of man and woman, who is also gifted with inexhaustible energy. It is not so much physical as intellectual and mental. All through their lives they run o t s only capable of tireless activity: They appear to be driven by some inner compulsion. Psychologists, as children are, physically.

"The fact is" say the doctors, "that these people are still growing intellectually and mentally. Most of the rest of us have reached our limit. Our intellects have set, like plaster."

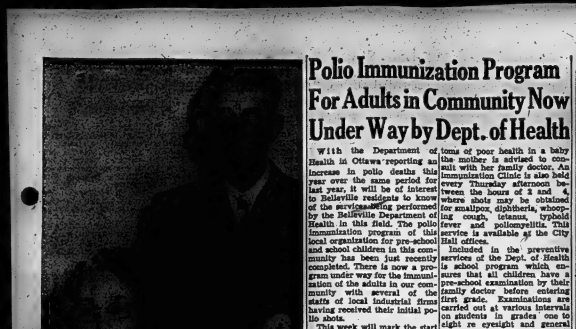
OUR ATTITUDE COUNTS



Again, Wren asked the third mason the same question. This man looked up and replied, "I'm helping to build Christopher Wren build this great cathedral, and a splendid job."

What a difference we make by our attitude toward the work! Most of us who are honestly engaged in reputable businesses or professions are helping to build a house for our families, are helping to society and country. We contribute — but think a small contribution — but for a moment what would happen if no one at all did the work you are doing.

There is the man who was just cutting a stone. Be the one who knew that the stone he was cutting was part of a great and beautiful cathedral.

Well-Known Editor

Mr., Mrs. Harry M. Moore Observe Golden Anniversary

Editor's note: One of Ontario's best known newspaper personalities recently celebrated his Golden Wedding anniversary in Pembroke, Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Moore are former residents of Trenton and Deseronto where Mr. Moore published weekly newspapers for a number of years. The report of his career and the picture appeared in the Pembroke Observer and are reprinted for the benefit of their many friends in this district.

Mr. and Mrs. "H. M. M." celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary yesterday, (September 23.) One of Ontario's best known newspaper teams, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moore observed the day quietly at their home on Isabella Street. In the evening, a family dinner marked the occasion at the home of a niece, Mrs. John Ford and Mr. Ford.

Those present were Mr. Moore's brothers, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Moore and Mrs. Moore of Pembroke; two sisters, Mrs. Charlotte Stitt of Ottawa, Miss Alma Cameron of Douglas; a nephew, Mr. John Stitt of Renfrew; a niece, Mrs. James Ritchie and Reverend Ritchie of Almonte; and a nephew Mr. D. Moore of Pembroke.

H. M. M. is undoubtedly the most familiar set of initials in the Ottawa Valley, the tag under which Mr. Moore has played a leading role in this district through his editorials in the Eganville Leader and not so long ago, the Pembroke Observer — editorials that were reprinted in all of Ontario's leading dailies.

Born in Renfrew, Mr. Moore has had a long and varied career as a printer, publisher and daily short story writer and novelist. He learned the printing trade in Douglas and Eganville and then worked with an Ottawa lumber company for a season in Quebec. But printer's ink was in his veins and he returned to the Valley as the Ingersoll Sun, writing at night for the Woodstock daily papers. For a decade he published in Eganville and Pembroke, and then went on to Trenton as foreman of the Courier. From there, he went to Cookstown to eventually take over that paper for back pay.

His next move was to Owen Sound as assistant editor of the Advertiser, a semi-weekly, but he was offered a better job as editor of the Smiths Falls News for the late James H. Ross. A short time there and he was off to the Canadian Soo to join C. C. Cliff in the job printing business.

COUPLE WED

In 1906 he married the former Mabel Coleman, of Cookstown, Simcoe County and they settled in West Lansdowne, south of Seeley's Bay, where they lived for seven years. Poor health necessitated the sale of his businesses and he returned east to rejoin the Courier at Trenton as foreman. During that time, he was advised to bring his plant to Eganville to revive the Enterprise which he did but only until he could find a better place for it — Deseronto — where he remained until May, 1922.

Mrs. Moore today looks back on a career in Deseronto that was a far cry from her millinery career—that of getting the paper out alone when the editor hung a sign on the door "Gone Fishing." Even the Compositor-Devil couldn't believe that one man and his wife could do all that was done in those days to deliver the home town paper on time but the investigator finally believed it when he saw it!

Getting out, the Moores took time off to spend the summer at Lake Dore and Douglas but he was back in business in Jasper as publisher of the Arnprior Chronicle. Again he returned to Trenton, this time to assume ownership of the business. In September, 1944, he sold the Trenton paper to Oshawa interests and shortly afterwards came to Pembroke, presumably to retire. But Mrs. Moore has patiently kept her head while all around her, a man of ideas was operating a daily newspaper. She had learned long 'ere this to take it all in stride and still find time to devote herself to the Women's League and the Women's Missionary Society of the First Presbyterian Church who honored her yesterday with a beautiful bouquet of yellow roses.

Mr. Moore's prolific talent was in demand at once in the new home writing for the Leader which had lost its editor, Dan Jones, and the Pembroke Observer when its editor was severely injured in a motor accident. Mr. Moore still writes under his familiar "H. M. M." line in the Eganville paper and for the new Pembroke weekly in Trenton. He can claim a record of having published no less than eight weekly newspapers across Ontario between the St. Clair and Ottawa Rivers, in addition, he has written news and features for the Belleville Ontario Intelligencer, the London Free Press, the Toronto Globe and Star and other publications and lived to see his "Memoirs" of Deseronto set up in the Trenton Courier.— Advocate reporter's annual survey in their day as "the most read local papers in Canada." Rhymes by "Uncle Jo" become familiar words through radio broadcasts of Andy Clark and Maurice Boddington.

A song writer, he was on the staff of a Toronto music publishing house. His "Sweet Nora Doon" which had its title from "Down on the Banks of Killarney" which had a long run on Broadway. Advancing years could not stem the tide of a man of words and song as "We're in the Front Line Now" "Dear Dad" and "Mister Hitler" appeared during the last war.

ANOTHER BOOK

But he didn't have enough to do. His colorful short stories have enlivened many a Canadian magazine — Rod and Gun, the Family Herald, the Canada Monthly, the Canadian Courier and a small magazine "Canadian Stores" which published an issue, recently, for Canadian writers. His fiction has also been published in Argosy, All Story and Adventure. Recently, he has moved further afield receiving a cheque from New Zealand for a story which appeared in Argosy 40 years ago. Too, he has written several novelettes and seven book length novels, six of which have been used as serials in newspapers across Canada.

Polio Immunization Program For Adults in Community Now Under Way by Dept. of Health

With the Department of Health in Ottawa reporting an increase in polio deaths this year over the same period for last year, it will be of interest to Belleville residents to know of the service being performed by the Belleville Department of Health in this field. The polio immunization program of this local organization for pre-school and school children in this community has been just recently completed. There is now a program under way for the immunization of the adults in our community with several of the staffs of local industrial firms having received their initial polio shots.

This week will mark the start of a more intensive program of immunizing people working in local industry and it is hoped that a public adult immunization scheme will be in operation within a short while. Besides the polio immunization program there are many other projects which our local Department of Health has to offer Belleville residents.

Working under the direction of the local Board of Health, whose members include Mr. H. R. Varcoe, president, Rev. Canon Bishop, Dr. R. W. Edwards, Dr. H. Forrester, and Mr. L. J. Buckley; the Dept. of Health is headed by Dr. McColl Metcalfe. He is assisted by a supervisor of nurse, Miss Olga Roman and five staff nurses. This staff whose duties are of an educational and preventive nature, work in close co-operation with local doctors and various other local health organizations such as: the Victorian Order of Nurses, the Children's Aid Society, the Crippled Children's Society, the Red Cross Homemakers' Society, and the Arthritis Society.

OPERATE BABY CLINICS

The department, whose headquarters are in the City Hall, operates two Well Baby Clinics, one in the Kiwanis hall on Dundas Street every Tuesday from 2 to 4 p.m., and one at Holloway Street United Church on Wednesday afternoons from 2 until 4 o'clock. At these clinics mothers can obtain advice on the proper methods of ensuring the good health of their children. A free attending nurse recognizes any illness or symptoms of poor health in a baby in the mother is advised to consult with her family doctor. An Immunization Clinic is also held every Thursday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 4, where shots may be obtained for smallpox, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus, typhoid fever and poliomyelitis. This service is available at the City Hall offices.

Included in the preventive services of the Dept. of Health is school program which ensures that all children have a pre-school examination by their family doctor before entering first grade. Examinations are carried out at various intervals on students in grades one to eight re eyesight and general health. If a student's health is found deficient he or his parents are advised to consult their family doctor. The department works in close co-operation with the teachers in this program and a teacher who notices any indication of poor health in a student may request the department to give him an examination.

PRE-NATAL COURSES

Home visitations by the nurses in the department form a part of the educational program of the health unit. Among these is the visit made to expectant mothers to give advice on how to care for the health of a new child. Pre-natal courses are also held for prospective mothers so that they will be ready for the child. It is hoped that more expectant mothers will take advantage of the pre-natal instruction offered by the department since attendance has not been too great in past weeks.

This Wednesday afternoon the first Child Health Centre featuring immunization along with the child health counsel will be put into operation at Holloway Street United Church under the direction of Dr. Metcalfe. A good attendance is expected, as the services are performed with no charge to the recipients.

The forgoing are but a part of the many services which the Department of Health offers to the community. Supported by community funds, the health unit serves as a co-ordinator and information centre for all health services in the area and is a vital conributor to the maintenance of the general good health of the community.

In what was possibly the shortest time interval in the history of school construction, the corner stone of the new Junior School at the Ontario School for the Deaf was laid and the building was officially opened Monday afternoon at special opening ceremonies attended by provincial dignitaries and local municipal and educational officials. Shown viewing corner stone laid by W. E. Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, are J. G. Demeza, school superintendent; Chester C. Woods, architect; Harvey McFarland, contractor; Dunlop, W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, and Mr. Sandercock.

Three first year teachers of the Ontario School for the Deaf view main entrance of the new Junior School which, with new students' residence, was officially opened Monday afternoon by Hon. William J. Big Program Being Laid Out For Fire Prevention Week

This week is Fire Prevention Week across North America, and the Belleville Volunteer Fire Department staff, headed by Chief Gerald Vance, is conducting an intensive fire prevention educational program in the local schools, commercial and industry, and Belleville General Hospital. In conjunction with the annual safety measures, an essay, poster and home inspection contest is being conducted among the pupils in the schools.

The illustrated twelve-page magazine is being given to each public school child. This magazine points out the fire prevention facts and includes a "home report" for each child to fill out on the conditions in his own home. This report is to be filled out by the child, signed by one of the parents and returned to his class teacher. The class in turn hands the reports in to the latest percentage of completed forms returned is awarded a handsomely engraved Fire Marshal Shield donated by Chief Vance. The younger children receive Fire Marshal hats, smaller red plastic fireman's helmets and older children are being given enamelled brass Junior Fire Marshal's rings. Fire prevention films are also being shown in each school at all schools along with safety lectures being delivered by various staff members from the fire department.

FIRE DRILLS PLANNED

Fire prevention demonstrations have been given to the staffs of several of local chain stores. How to behave in the fire break out and how to handle available fire extinguishers are the highlights of the demonstrations. Fire drills are also planned for the Belleville General Hospital. The fire department also has available for distribution an "Emergency Guide To The Baby Sitter". This guide is available to any parents in the community and includes some very good pointers for the baby sitter in case of fire in the home. Parents who might wish copies of this folder may obtain them by contacting the fire department.

HOLD 'OPEN HOUSE'

This week an open house is being held by our fire department and the public generally extended an invitation to the general public to visit either of the fire halls any afternoon or evening and be shown to the general public at that time. The open house is expected to be announced later this week.

Last year the fire department placed fourth in fire department throughout Canada for efficiency in their fire prevention education program. This can be attributed directly to the energy which Chief Vance has had in the past and this very important project. It is certainly to be hoped that this fine record will be maintained.

Lay Cornerstone of O.S.D. Buildings Then Declare Them Officially Opened

By DOUG. PRIPPEN

Monday afternoon afforded the opportunity for several hundred Belleville residents and their guests to witness a ceremony unique both to the community and to the Ontario Department of Public Works. The laying of the cornerstone and the official opening of the newly-completed Junior School and students' residence for the Ontario School for the Deaf were completed on the same day. Within minutes of W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP for Hastings West, declaring the cornerstone "well and truly laid," the Honorable W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, Ontario, completed the building was "duly, formally, and officially opened."

The highlights of the dual ceremony were the presentation of a silver trowel for the cornerstone laying to W. Elmer Sandercock, MPP, by Mr. Chester C. Woods, architect of the new building, and the presentation of a gold key for the opening of the building to the Hon. W. J. Dunlop, Minister of Education, by Mr. Ninamo Mikhail, Director of Publicity for the Ontario Department of Public Works who represented the Hon. J. N. Allan, Minister of Public Works, in the latter's absence.

Mr. Mitchell gave a short address concerning the advantages of the new structure which will allow the accommodation of 120 new students at the School. These students will be between the ages of three and ten years. He pointed out that several other buildings were being constructed by the Department of Public Works at the School. These include a new laundry building, a new power house and a new residential staff dormitory to accommodate forty-four staff members. These buildings are provided by Department of Public Works, which is the "landlord of the province," for the Department of Education.

OTHER PROJECTS NAMED

Mention was also made of other projects undertaken by the Department of Public Works for the Department of Education, including new teachers' college buildings in London, Hamilton and Toronto; a new Conservatory of Arts, Science and Technology for Port Arthur and Fort William, and the two new units in the new building group for the Ryerson Institute of Technology in Toronto.

The Hon. W. J. Dunlop also spoke briefly, dwelling on the reason for holding such ceremonies as being an opportunity for both thanking all the many persons involved in the erection of the building and for informing the public that the building was open and progressing as advanced another step. He noted that these improved educational facilities had been completed one month ahead of schedule by the contractor, Mr. J. Harvey Farland of Picton. Mr. Dunlop mentioned the new school for the deaf, which was being constructed in Milton as a residential school. He attributed the superior success of the residential system to a day school system as being due to the interest and co-operation of staff, students and parents and congratulated these three groups for their efforts. Commenting that this was "indeed a happy day," the minister then officially opened the doors to the new building.

Dedication of the building was performed by the Reverend R. W. T. Anderson, president of the Belleville Ministerial Association, who commented on the responsibility of the staff at the school in their service to the students and the social significance of the school's work.

Mr. J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the Ontario School for the Deaf, then expressed the school's appreciation to the province for the expanded facilities.

SPECIAL THANKS EXTENDED

Especial thanks were extended to Mr. Demeza, to the many individuals who were responsible for the inauguration, design, and completion of the new facilities. He declared that the school would be holding an open house later on when more of the area residents would be able to see first hand the facilities offered by the school. An invitation was then extended to those present to tour the new building and to have tea in the new dining hall.

The ceremony was chaired most ably by Mr. C. F. Cannon, Chief Director of Education for the province, who gave a brief history of the 88 year old school. He stated that the new additions would make the Belleville school one of the largest and most well-equipped schools for the deaf in North America.

Deputy Minister of Education, F. S. Rivers, placed a sealed box containing amongst other items, a copy of the school's publication, the "Canadian", copies of the speakers' addresses, a program of the ceremony, and a copy of October sixth's edition of The Ontario Intelligencer.

Also participating in the dual ceremony were the Very Reverend L. B. Garvin of St. Michael's Parish, who gave the invocation; and Dr. A. E. MacKenzie, Principal of Albert College, who pronounced the benediction. The arrangements for the ceremony were made by Mr. Ninmo Mitchell, Director of Publicity for the Department of Public Works, assisted by Mr. Thomas Montague, formerly of Belleville.

Distinctive Dress

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

Fabric, color and line are in good standing in this dressy afternoon model. The fabric is a sheer wool; the color a soft, delicate mauve; the line relaxed. The dress can be worn with the matching shield jacket for daytime street or luncheon wear, and without it to show the deep v neckline under the evening lights.

How Far Should Students Walk To School?

VANCOUVER (CP) — Experts can readily tell you how many calories and how much sugar a child should get each day. But few agree on just how far a student should walk to school.

The British Columbia School Act now says if children live more than three miles from a school they need not attend unless transportation is provided.

At a recent B.C. school trustees a n n u a l convention delegates sought to have the distance reduced to two miles.

Some delegates said this was not a good thing from the point of view of exercise.

Prof. Lorne Brown of the University of British Columbia's college of education said three exercise in schools to make up for the lost miles.

Vancouver elementary pupils walk no more than three-quarters of a mile to school and high school students about 1½ miles. But regular bus service is available to all and others are driven to school by parents.

Asked whether Vancouver students get enough walking, Dr. Reba Willetts, director of school health services, said: "It is quite an individual matter. What is enough for one is not for another.

"Perhaps children need more walking exercise. It is an attitude of the mind. Parents should encourage more exercise by example."

School Inspector Don Pritchard, sent by Vancouver school board to Europe to study physical fitness, said: "I don't know how far students should walk. It is quite evident the average child does not walk enough. Some parents don't want their children to walk more than two or three blocks. But how far they should walk, I don't know."

Most trustees said, however, reducing the mileage needed before a student is supplied with transportation is a good thing because of the weather, the traffic hazard on roads without sidewalks and the time saved.

Weddings

O'FLYNN — FREYSENG

At the wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Freyseng and Mr. John Dale O'Flynn in Rosedale United Church, Belleville, the church choir formed a choral background for the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. H. G. MacGregor Grant, assisted by Dr. Bruce Hunter. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Freyseng and the groom the son of Mr. and Mrs. John O'Flynn of Belleville.

Mr. Freyseng gave his daughter in marriage and for her wedding she had chosen a full-length white gown of faille, the bodice fashioned with a scoop neckline garnished with leafy motifs of Alencon lace long sheath sleeves, appliqued at the wrists with the lace, the bouffant skirt flaring in princess panels to a chapel train. Her long illusion veil was caught to a crown encrusted with pearls and she carried a cascade of white orchids, stephanotis and ivy leaves.

Miss Ann Denton, Miss Margaret Falconer and Miss Sue Anne Smith attended her, wearing frocks of parchment satin in emerald green, styled with square necklines and bell-shaped skirts. Bands of green velvet circled their heads and their bouquets of white carnations and ivy formed a pretty contrast.

Miss Priscilla Bradshaw was flower girl wearing a full-skirted dress of emerald-green velveteen with a small collar of lace. She, too, wore a velvet band in her hair and her bouquet was a miniature of those carried by the bridesmaids.

Attending the groom as best man was Mr. William C. Lawrence of Brampton, with Mr. David H. Byers, Mr. W. David Henderson, Mr. John Springer, Mr. William Foote, Mr. Fred Nichols, Mr. Basil Stevenson of Windsor and Mr. John Freyseng, the bride's brother, as ushers.

The reception was held at the Toronto Hunt Club and later the newly married couple left for a honeymoon in Bermuda and Nassau in New York. They will make their home in Belleville.

SKOUTAJIAN — DAVISON

FRANKFORD — Baskets of daffodil and palms decorated Frankford United Church for the recent wedding of Shirley Marlene Davison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick M. Davison, of Kensington and Rev. Hanns Felix Skoutajan, of Halifax, son of Mr. and Mrs. Felix Skoutjan of Frankford. Rev. L. M. Hunter performed the ceremony.

Mr. Paul Cudmore played the wedding music and the junior choir sang "O Lord Most High."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a traditional white floor-length gown of nylon taffeta with a fitted bodice, portrait neckline and bouffant skirt with chapel train. The side panels of the skirt were of re-embroidered French lace. Her shoulder-length veil of pure silk tulle illusion cascaded from a tiara and was appliqued with lace and studded with tiny pearls. She carried a cascade of white carnations and ivy.

Miss Ruth Currie of St John, N.B., was the maid of honor, wearing a ballerina-length gown of gold crystal charm with deeper gold cummerbund.

The bridesmaids, Mrs. P. Cudmore and Miss Eillean Mew, of Halifax, N.S., wore similar gowns in seafoam green of crystal design, accented by bunds and carried nosegays of bronze chrysanthemums.

The groom's man was Dr. Anthony Dalcor of Kingston, and the ushers were Mr. Malcolm of Kensington and Mr. Glendon George of Halifax.

For the mother receiving the guests at Mulberry Lodge, Mrs. Davison chose a floor-length white gown of beige lace with a hat trimmed with sequins, brown accessories and a corsage of orange-delight roses.

The groom's mother assisted, in an accordion pleated navy lace dress with pink feather hat, navy accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

Helping to receive the guests was Mrs. Charles Yeo, grandmother of the bride, wearing a brocaded gown of Capri turquoise with a pink hat and a corsage of white carnations.

Legion Aux. Enjoys Bus Trip to Ottawa

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Canadian Legion Branch 99 held their annual outing on Saturday with an enjoyable bus trip to Ottawa.

The ladies visited many buildings of interest, including the Government buildings, Peace Tower, and the Archives. The trip also included a bus tour of Hull, Quebec.

The Auxiliary left Belleville at 7 a.m. by chartered bus and returned that evening.

All the Auxiliary members were unanimous in their opinion this was one of the most enjoyable trips they have as yet taken.

HODGSON — McKERROW

A pretty wedding was solemnized on Saturday, September 27, in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, when Shirley Ann McKerrow, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Murrell McKerrow, of Belleville, 19 Hastings Drive, became the bride of Ronald H. Hodgson, of Morrisburg, Ont., son of Mr. H. Hodgson, and the late, Mrs. Hodgson, of Doncaster, Yorkshire, England. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Harry Pardy.

Tall standards of pink and white gladioli and candelabra with white candles decorated the altar, and satin bows with pink gladioli flowerings marked the pulpit pews.

Wedding music was played by the organist, Mr. Alec Gordon. The soloist, Mr. Alec Cunningham, of Belleville, sang "The Lord's Prayer," and "Wedding Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a full-length gown of white nylon chiffon over net and taffeta. The bodice featured panels of shirring and a sweetheart neckline edged with garlands of organdy flowers, and short sleeves. The bouffant skirt featured a wide centre back panel of shirring, falling into a petal-shaped sweep. Her fingertip veil of nylon illusion was held in place by a matching headdress, and she carried a decade bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis, and ivy.

The maid-of-honor, Miss Allison Geoffry, of Port Credit, wore a bouffant dress of fondant pink silk organza, styled on princess lines with square sleeves edged with self-covered cord. She carried a low bouquet of matching pink and white daisies, and they carried nosegays of Sweetheart roses and baby mums.

Miss Cheryl Casey, of Grimsby, Ont., and Miss Marilyn Wills, of Belleville, cousins of the bride, were junior bridesmaids. They were gowned alike in ankle-length white nylon over fondant pink taffeta, with gathered skirts and pink with pink velvet bows. Their headdresses were shirred bandeaux of pink taffeta and pink daisies, and they carried nosegays of Sweetheart roses and baby mums.

The groomsman was Mr. Walter Sneden, of Belleville, and the ushers were Mr. David Vice and Mr. Jack Howes, both of Belleville.

A reception was held at the Bridge Street United Church parlors. The bride's table, covered with a white damask cloth, was centred with a three-tiered cake topped with Sweetheart roses circled by white tulle and lily-of-the-valley, and flanked by candelabra with pink and white candles.

The bride's mother received the guests wearing a sheath dress of champagne lace over peach taffeta, featuring a scalloped neckline, sheet sleeves, shirred midriff, and floating side panel of cinnamon chiffon; with matching feather hat and accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses.

For a wedding trip to New England states and Vermont, the bride chose a sheath dress with matching lace jacket, accented by dark brown accessories, and a corsage of pink roses.

Guests were present from Sudbury; Grimsby; Maxville, Stirling; North Bay; Ottawa; Perth; Kingston; Port Credit; Peterborough, and Bancroft.

Upon their return Mr. and Mrs. Hodgson will reside in Morrisburg, Ont.

Prior to her marriage the bride was tendered a shower at the summer home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ruggle, at Oak Lake. A treasure hunt tea was held September 17 at the home of the bride's parents.

The groom is a Provincial Police officer at Morrisburg and they met while in Bermuda where the bride was nursing at the King Edward VII Memorial Hospital.

Edwin Steffe, Baritone, Opens Community Concerts' 25th Year

BY EUGENE LANG

Last evening the Belleville Community Concert Association embarked on its silver anniversary in its present form, with a regular auditorium, before a large audience made up of a fine contingent of twenty-five years' standing, hundreds of "recruits," and many first-nighters who were present to hear the local debut of Edwin Steffe, distinguished Canadian baritone. Mr. Steffe is a popular favorite throughout the U.S.A. and Canada and his annual tours, that average around sixty appearances with leading orchestras, oratorio societies and radio and television engagements, continually tend to increase the number of fans that come under his vocal spell. Noted for a large and varied repertoire, Mr. Steffe seems just as much at home whether singing Mozart opera, Bach oratorio or in the lighter vein of operetta and musical comedy, for the latter of which he has a undoubted flare.

Another asset which Mr. Steffe is endowed with is his delightful stage personality and charming introduction of his chosen intervals with informal remarks, not only dashes of scherzo-like wit and humor. For a baritone Mr. Steffe was not conventional to the point of impressing all of us. Mr. Steffe's attitude on the platform is affable personality, which warranted the confidence to his appealing mannerisms.

VARIED PROGRAM

The program selected by Mr. Steffe was one that could only be called pleasing to everyone's taste, displaying musical taste, and was so varied in its content that the two-hour recital seemed to speed by overly fast, even with the addition of the encores that the singer was indulgent in giving to the repeated insistence of appreciative listeners.

The warming of the audience to the singer was immediately noticeable in his opening number, an old English air "Come, and Be Merry" which he sang with the feeling of gusto, and pleasure in his musical art. Two early Italian Arias followed, each being effectively bowed to nuances of tone that ranged from tender plaintiveness to sparkling crisp staccatissimos, all emanating with a full richness and full bodied sonics.

Although the entire program seemed to be made up of one encore after another, the very few falling below the high perfection, special mention must be made of the four German Lieder from the pen of Karl Loewe, Richard Strauss and Josef Marx, and the two old Scottish airs, "Ca' the Yowes," one from Mozart and the other from Rossini. The Lieder for voice and piano, "Edward," by Loewe was given a performance by Mr. Steffe that would be hard to match by any of the contenders on the concert stage today. The intense ranges of passion which this song engulfs in its melodic maw were most impressively revealed by Mr. Steffe, so much so that at times a white heat glowed through the golden sounds of this highly dramatic performance given by the artist.

"Non piu Andrai" from "The Marriage of Figaro" and "Largo" as an "Entourloun" from "The Barber of Seville" were both given an excellent rendition in the English text that Mr. Steffe supplied in place of the usual Italian words. Towards the end of the Rossini tongue twister Mr. Steffe was third put for speed, as the translated version simply could not be accomplished with the ease of the original, nevertheless, he made the end without mishap that could entangle even the most prolific. These two arias always please.

SONGS OF FOUR LANDS

Four songs from a like number of hands were the first group following intermission, Italy, Brazil, France and Russia were represented by these numbers of varied types, with all being superbly projected by the artistry of the baritone. The Brazilian "Kangoo" was a kind of wild native chant that curdled one's blood with its ungodly sounds and unabated rhythmic pulse and was to include this in a recital program—it made the grade. The Rachmaninoff song "Floods of Spring" was another item that was fitted to the quality and timbre of Mr. Steffe's voice, with the Russian text added to it being done.

Selections in a more modern style took up the last part of the concert and all were models of fine detail in phrasing and thoughtful feeling in interpretation. Numbers which will be long remembered were "Ode to Us" (a New York love-letter) and "The Joy Flower."

Mr. Steffe's accompanist, Mr. Stanton Carter could be classified as a virtuoso accompanist, as his pianisms were wrought to a line of the "grand style" of playing, some a little heavy of hand, but all ingeniously weighted together to add to the profound voice of the singer. Four modern items were served up by Mr. Carter, two of them served so well that the other two were added as encores. Each musician was a complimentary complement to the other in their artistic endeavors which made last night's recital one of much worth and entertainment of the highest calibre.

Following the concert Mr. Steffe and Mr. Carter were entertained by the executive and committee members at the home

Should Expose Children to Good Music

WINNIPEG (CP) — A formula to persuade children to listen to classical music has been outlined by Victor Feldbrill, who came here from Toronto to take over this year as permanent conductor of the Winnipeg Symphony Orchestra.

He said in an interview that children are usually discriminating because their minds are not cluttered.

"But the conductor must be enthusiastic and convincing and programmes must be carefully selected to appeal to them emotionally," he said.

SHORT STRETCHES

Programs must be divided into four or five minute intervals to hold their attention.

"And you must be aware that there is an explosive interval after 39 or 35 minutes when they need a break. Take advantage of it to let them stand up, stretch to the music, talk to them; get them back at a certain instrument — the trumpet perhaps — it catches their attention.

"Then they go home and listen to records and soon they can pick the oboe or some other instrument."

Mr. Feldbrill said it is not fair to impose adult standards on children. "If you force them it's absolutely still they get bored and it becomes a pill they have to swallow.

"It's important to expose children to music—even if they don't understand it all," he said.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

TODAY'S COURTESY TIP... ON "CONSTANT MANNERS"

Grave dangers lurk in the phrase "company manners." Parents especially should never use this phrase, in connection with their children. It admits that they have failed to make their children's mannerliness a habit. And it dangerously implies that they expect their children to play a part.

SPECIAL INTRODUCTION-QUESTION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm a man, 30 years of age, and I'd like to ask you a special question about introductions. When I am introduced to an older woman — for example, a contemporary and friend of my mother — she calls me "Bob," as quite often happens, does this mean that she is giving me the right to call her by her first name? — Bob R.

No. Even if the older woman does begin to call you "Bob" after the introduction, this is her privilege and does not give you the privilege of calling her by her first name. Call her "Mrs." and if she definitely asks you to call her by her first name.

WHO ENDS TELEPHONE CALL?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Who is supposed to end a telephone call, the one who made the call or the one who was called?

— Enid T.

There's no real rule about this, but it does make sense that the one who makes the call should say "Good-by" first, as he or she would know best when the reason-for-the-call has been accomplished.

TODAY FLOWER GIRLS DON'T "SCATTER" FLOWERS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My pretty little niece and the bridegroom's pretty little niece, the same age, are to be flower girls at our wedding in December. They are to wear long pink dresses and with these I thought it would be just the right thing to have them carry rather small baskets of small pink flowers. I had planned to have these little flower girls scatter the flowers, but several people have told me this is "passe." Is it? — L.

Yes . . . today flower girls just carry the flowers, they don't scatter them. As a matter of act, nowadays little flower girls usually carry small, pert old-fashioned bouquets; a center flower or group of flowers (often two or three small pink rosebuds circled by rows of other small flowers), and with a "collar" of stiff white lace or a delicate lace paper doily. However, if you prefer, have your flower girls carry small baskets of flowers which also are charming and appropriate.

FOR THE BRIDE-TO-BE NO THANKS AT REHEARSAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I'm to have a large, formal church wedding in two months. We'll have a rehearsal, of course, and I've been told that it's "bad luck" for the bride-to-be to take her part in the rehearsal, that she should ask a relative or friend to be her stand-in. I'm not t h e slightest bit superstitious, and I think this idea is utterly ridiculous. Do you agree, Mrs. Beeckman? — The Bride-to-be.

Yes, I completely agree! And as a matter of fact most brides-to-be agree with your point of view, aren't at all superstitious, and take their own place in the rehearsal. Why not?

Women's Activities

MELROSE W.M.S.

The October meeting of Melrose was held October 1st at the home of Mrs. R. MacFarlane, with six members and one guest present.

The worship service which was on "Tribal Relationships", was taken by the president, Mrs. E. Bates, who gave a brief Thanksgiving message. Mrs. E. Embury read the Scripture lesson.

A short business session was held. Mrs. R. MacFarlane, literature secretary, gave a short report. Letters were read from Mrs. E. Badgley and from the Rehabilitation Society asking for a donation.

A tea and sale of work was planned to be held in Melrose town hall on Friday, Dec. 5th.

The Melrose ladies agreed to conduct the worship service at the rally to be held in Shannonville, October 26th.

The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. E. Embury, Mrs. W. Embury was asked to be leader of the Melrose Mission Band.

A thank offering was taken up, but as many envelopes were not yet sent in, the treasurer, Miss M. McLaren, did not give the amount as it is not known.

Mrs. Bates then turned the meeting over to the group leader, Mrs. Margaret Bailey.

Miss Bailey gave a brief outline of the new Study Book, "Concerns of a Continent" and then spoke on Mexico.

This is an ancient country but nothing is of Aztec and Maya-an civilization today. Mexico was almost totally illiterate but education has advanced and now the rate of illiteracy is about 43 percent she said.

While 96 percent of the population are Roman Catholic the Indians are still in the grip of their pagan beliefs. Though the Protestants are only about 3 percent of the population, their influence greatly exceeds their numbers. Miss Bailey stated. The government is striving to improve sanitation and health.

Mexico is largely an agricultural country. Before the revolution of 1910 to 1917, only 40 percent owned land but now 51 percent are working their own land, she informed her audience. Since the revolution of 1910, economic conditions have greatly improved but Mexico is still a somewhat backward country in many respects, she concluded.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. R. MacFarlane, assisted by her granddaughter.

Mrs. L. D. — She goes out with awful girls.

Marilyn D. — She has a right to choose her own friends.

* * *

Mrs. L. D. — My husband and I are very worried about our 16-year-old daughter, Marilyn, who has become boon pals with two awful girls at school.

These girls walk around the streets with cigarets dangling from their mouths. They are rough, loud and vulgar. Marilyn has always been so timid and quiet nobody can understand why she's suddenly taken up with such girls. She has been brought up to be a lady and she knows how to behave like one. But when she is with these girls she acts the way they do.

Everyone says these girls are very fast with boys. Marilyn has hardly ever been out on a date and I hate to think that she will be getting her first dating experiences with such girls. We've forbidden her to go with them but it does no good.

* * *

Marilyn D. — I am 16 and that is certainly old enough to choose my friends. My parents think that they can boss me all my life.

My mother always told me when I was a child to play or not to play with certain children. As a result I never had any fun. The kids I was supposed to play with never liked me. I was always the spare tire. Whenever they planned outings and things I was left out. So I pretty much just forget about me.

My new friends are not bad and do nothing wrong. It is true they smoke, but most of the kids in our school have been doing that since they were in nursery — only most of them do it on the sly. My friends have very prudish and old-fashioned ideas about what a "lady" is supposed to act like.

* * *

The Council: We are behind Marilyn in fighting for her right to choose her own friends. The child or adolescent who has not had this experience cannot develop a mature personality.

Parents cannot possibly shield their children from all the outside influences they may confider bad. The best they can do is instill good standards at home. If the children are reasonably happy at home and in school they will, on the whole, abide by those standards. Some may make brief experimental excursions into the boondoggling, but they will usually quickly find their way back.

Parents who are horrified or astounded at their children's selections do not always know what a particular friend means to the child. He may be lolling off a little rebellious steam through virile enjoyment of the friend's "different" mode of behavior or he may have found things others don't suspect in the "undesirable" child.

We are not suggesting that the L. D.'s bow out of the picture completely. Certainly they should know their daughter's friends and certainly they should gently steer her in the direction they consider desirable. They should also try to discover what Marilyn sees in her new friends. From both accounts, it would appear that she is fighting for more independence from her parents and trying to find a means for personal expression for herself.

If the L. D.'s were a little less rigid in this matter, it is very likely that Marilyn would seek and find pleasure with friends of her own sort.

What Shall We Have For Thanksgiving?

by Mary Moore

Always searching for something new, I nevertheless do not forget for one moment my budgeting friends. . . my brother's mother-in-law told me last night, "Mary, when I need to economize, my sheep dish is chicken. When there are chicken specials on at the per lb. I buy 3 or 4 and freeze them". She makes a rich pot of soup (8 people), has chicken to allow hot or cold for 1 meal; and chicken to use for sandwiches or salads another time.

Dinner Menus

TUESDAY

Italian Spaghetti with Meat Balls; Fine Cole Slaw with Tomato French Dressing or Boiled Dressing; Italian Bread Sticks (optional); Chilled Compote of Plums; Miniature Custard Tarts; Coffee.

I think a wonderful Thanksgiving chicken dish is Brunswick Stew. If the price of chicken does not rise overnight you could make this whole dish for $2.00 and serve six thankful people generously.

BRUNSWICK STEW:

One 4-lb. boiling fowl, 2 teaspoons salt, 4 potatoes, pared and cubed, 1 cup fresh lima beans, fresh or dried, 2 cups tomatoes, 1 cup diced salt pork or side bacon, 1 tablespoon each flour and butter and ¼ teaspoon pepper, Dijoint chicken. Put 8 cups water and the 2 teaspoons salt on to boil. Add chicken, potatoes, corn, onion, beans, tomatoes and salt pork or bacon. Cover and simmer for 3½ hours, stirring gently every ½ hour. Recalls Being Young Woman In Strange City

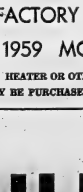
REGINA (CP) — A young woman in a strange city far from home can weep with loneliness, and that's the way it was when Mrs. Catherine Mitrik first came to Regina in 1906.

"I took one look at all that mud and barren prairie and put my head in a big towel in my sister's kitchen and cried for hours and hours," she says.

She had been driven from San Francisco by the 1906 earthquake there. Everything she owned was burned and she camped in a park with four other refugees before getting up enough nerve to start again.

"We had one toothbrush and a comb among five of us," Mrs. Mitrik recalls, "and I'll never forget how that beautiful city looked the day I left."



That was 52 years ago, and Mrs. Mitrik, who is 82, recalled it as she and her husband George, 86, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary here.

"We had one copper penny when she met me," smiled Mr. Mitrik, "and I vowed her to marry me instead of going to her parents in Ontario."

She didn't have to do much coaxing," Mrs. Mitrik said.

They started their marriage on a homestead at Wichard, Sask. In later years Mr. Mitrik was employed as chief license inspector for hotels.

Now Is the Time to Plant Bulbs For Spring Beauty

Tulips, daffodils, hyacinths, crocuses . . . the bulbs of spring . . . are plants in miniature, having within them the flowers, leaves etc., waiting only for warmth and moisture to start rapid growth toward a complete blooming plant.

WHERE TO PLANT BULBS

Bulbous flowers can be used in many places in the garden — on the lawn, at its edges, in various borders, in annual and perennial beds and borders, the rockery, in window boxes, and in formal gardens and plots. If you have a woodsy garden or garden corner, bulbs planted naturalistically will make it charming.

Bulbs are easy to grow, too, delightful both in the sun and partial shade, and asking for only a very little attention. If you have a large garden, you might set aside a plot for a cutting garden bulbs alone, or include them among annuals, perennials, and biennials you are growing apart for cut flowers.

SOIL PREPARATION

Most of these plants grow well in a sandy loam. Heavy clay soils should be loosened by adding sand and humus materials. Bulb beds should be spaded deep — some 12 to 18 inches. Heavy clay soils should be loosened by working sand and humus material into the soil. If the soil is of a wet nature, place small rocks, broken pots, or gravel in a layer some 10 to 18 inches deep. Extremely sandy soils will benefit from the addition of humus material. When spading up the bed, it is wise to mix in complete plant food with the soil. Here is a chance to get plant food deep in the soil and thoroughly mixed to increase the general fertility level.

WHERE TO PLANT DAFFODILS

Daffodils are adaptable. Put them in sun or shade, near water or rock ledge, clustered in rough grass or under trees — in all these situations daffodils thrive.

A sunny spot in a flower border is fine for daffodils, particulary strong growing trumpets, large and small cups, doubles and poetic varieties. But full sun all day is not at all necessary. If buildings, hedges, trees or shrubs cast shade on the ground part of the day, there is no harm. In fact, the clear bright colors of many varieties, such as those having pink or orange cups, last longer and stay fresher in the garden if the sun light is filtered through tree or shrub branches overhead.

Daffodils are particularly effective when the bulbs are planted in clusters. The number placed in one group will vary, depending upon the size of the garden and the way the bulbs are being used. One should try to place no less than five bulbs in a group, all of one variety.

COMBINATIONS WITH OTHER FLOWERS

Since varieties flower at different times, with the blooming season of the family extending for six to eight weeks in any one area, many colorful combinations with other garden flowers can be planned. Grape hyacinths colored bright lavender blue may be clustered in front of golden colored daffodils or sprinkled through an open mass of pure white daffodils. The sparkling colors of early flowering tulips, like Red Emperor, contrast sharply with soft yellows and whites of daffodils. All the colors of dutch hyacinths blend beautifully with tinted or white daffodils. English bluebells (scilla) in clear wedgwood blue are fine companions for daffodils in flower garden, or naturalized under trees. Many perennials and bedding plans which bloom at daffodil time blend well them beautifully including violets, forget-me-nots, pansies, prim-roses, bleeding-heart, and assorted rock garden plants.

DAFFODILS IN FOUNDATION PLANTINGS

Every foundation planting around the house offers ideal spots for clusters of daffodils. Even where deciduous shrubs are the major planting around the home, daffodils make ideal fillers between shrubs and in front of them, to provide early spring color before most shrubs come into bloom.

Conventional foundation plantings, composed of different evergreens including azaleas and broadleaved evergreens, provide for daffodil blooms a rich green background which is just made to order. Space in front of the evergreens, between them and the house, or between one evergreen and the next, can be dug over and planted to clusters of bulbs. Here the ground need not be disturbed from one year to the next.

Daffodils can make a carpet of bloom under choice flowering trees and shrubs situated in key spots in shrub and flower borders. The bulbs may be selected to bloom when there are flowers overhead or not, as one desires. For example, daffodils may supply much needed color under the bare, dark, grey branches of flowering dogwood or tree wisteria.

Top Place for Lowly Potato

CANADA

The humble potato is one of the most important crops in Canada's agricultural economy. Premier vegetable, it ranks fifth among field crops in gross farm value, and is cultivated from eastern Newfoundland to Vancouver Island, and even within the Arctic Circle.

An inspector for the Federal Department of Agriculture spot checks bags of table potatoes on a railway freight car at Grand Falls, N.B. Recently, inspection of potatoes at the retail level has begun. Potatoes rank second (after rice) as major food of the world's population.

For nearly half a century potato-growers in many parts of the world have looked to Canada for their seed. There are good reasons for this. Canadian seed potatoes are noted for their vigour and freedom from disease. The cool growing conditions in Canada's highly specialized potato growing areas such as the maritimes especially favour the crop. Frequently harvesting machines which pick and place the potatoes in containers are employed, but the gravelly soil in the New Denmark area of New Brunswick (above) does not lend itself to mechanical harvesting.

Beavers Took Three Cords Of Plywood

THESSALON, Ont. - (CP) A pulpwood cutter who turned detective after three cords of four-foot-long poplar logs disappeared, discovered he had been raided by beavers.

The strange case of the missing pulpwood is outlined in a report by J. W. Lockwood, a department of lands and forests official in the Sault Ste. Marie district.

He says a Thessalon resident was given permission to cut pulpwood in Kirkwood Township and for two or three days chopped two cords of spruce and balsam and three of poplar near a tributary of the Bridgeland River.

He took a holiday after he piled the wood but on his return the three cords of poplar were missing. The spruce and balsam were intact.

There was no road to the wood and no apparent route for its removal — except by river.

BUSY BEAVERS

The cutter solved the mystery when he discovered a beaver stole and sunk and stored them — probably in the space of three nights.

"What a bonanza for this family of beaver," says Mr. Lockwood. "Ordinarily they would have had to spend considerable time gnawing through the tree to fell it, then more time reducing it to lengths that they could conveniently handle to remove to the house and store away."

Mr. Lockwood says that if the cutter waits long enough, the logs will float to the surface after the bark has been eaten.

Blank Shots Fired at Trawler

LONDON (Reuters) — An Icelandic gunboat fired three blank shots at a British trawler fishing outside the 12-mile limit off Iceland, the admiralty announced Monday.

The gunboat closed to within 30 yards of the trawler Kingston Emerald with a boarding party ready. The trawler was ordered to stop.

The command was ignored and the trawler carried on "at best speed." The gunboat finally made off.

William Alexander McAdam, for 34 years agent-general for British Columbia in London, is shown with his wife in their London home shortly after his retirement. At 68, Mr. McAdam expects to wind up his affairs in leisurely fashion and spend another Christmas in Britain before he and his wife head for B.C. He first entered British Columbia House as secretary to the office of the agent-general 35 years ago. This record of continuous service is believed unique for any government. (CP Photo).

William A. McAdam, CMG, Agent-General at B.C. House In London for 35 Yrs., Retires

By KEN METHERAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON (CP) — For 24 years through peace and war the names of Bill McAdam and British Columbia House have been virtually inseparable.

But the link has finally been severed. At the age of 68, William Alexander McAdam, CMG, agent-general for British Columbia and dean of Commonwealth representatives in London, has retired.

It is 35 years since Mr. McAdam first entered the grey stone building on Lower Regent street in London's West End as secretary to the office of the agent - general. This record of continuous overseas service is believed unique.

When he handed over the keys of his office to his successor, Vancouver industrialist Mal-Gen. Bert Hoffmeister on Oct. 1, it was the first time they had changed hands in 24 years and nine months—also a record.

"It hasn't been a day too long," said the kindly, Manchester-born Scot, who in a lifetime devoted to strengthening the ties between his adopted province and Britain compiled a remarkable number of "firsts."

In 1936, two years after taking over as agent - general, he arranged a visit by the then Lord Mayor of London, Percy Vincent, to Vancouver's silver jubilee. It marked the first visit by a holder of the historic office to a Commonwealth country.

Two years later he organized a visit to British Columbia by a party of British timber importers—the forerunner of numerous Anglo - Canadian trade missions that now shuttle back and forth across the Atlantic.

When the Second World War broke out, the first canteen opened in London for Canadian servicemen was in the basement of B.C. House. When it closed some six years later, more than 2,000,000,000 meals had been served.

Mr. McAdam and his wife, Ina, stuck out the war years in their flat above the office. More than once, the agent - general clambered to the roof to deal with incendiary bombs.

Mr. B.C. is a tall, silver-haired man. He is an expert at the flagpoles of B.C. timber he has been instrumental in dotting around London. One is at the Tower of London—a gift of the Canadian Boy Scouts' Association—another in front of the Royal Festival Hall.

He emigrated to Canada in 1910, working in a Vancouver bank and later opening his own accountant's office at Duncan, B.C., where he met and married Inez Duncan, daughter of the founder of the Vancouver Island community. In 1919 he became Victoria publicity and industrial commissioner. He entered government service a year later, became assistant deputy minister of finance and in 1928 made the move to B. C. House.

The McAdams have a son, Ken, who is a lawyer in Duncan, and a married daughter, Mrs. Michael Walker, in England.

"Bill is one of the kindest and certainly the most selfless man I know," said a Canadian stationed at one of the other provincial houses. "He is always calm and good-natured, but he has a tremendous flair for getting things done."

B. C. House itself is the oldest establishment of its kind in London. The province joined confederation in 1871, opening a London office a year later—two years before Canada sent a representative. When Mr. McAdam took over, his house was the lone provincial office. Now all the provinces, except Quebec, are represented.

B. C. House pays for itself and contributes a "substantial" sum to the running of the establishment. The present building was built by B.C. and rental from 72 offices pays the bills.

The wood-panelled foyer of the first-floor B.C. offices makes a permanent showcase for the province's forest industry.

EVENTFUL PERIOD

"There have been many changes in my time," said Mr. McAdam, glancing around his office, girdled with pictorial mementos of a career under eight premiers. "One of the most striking has been the growth in the number of tourists from B.C. We expect to look after about 2,500 this year.

"I'm a great believer in catching them young. We operate an extentive film library with the emphasis on reaching the schools. Last year films about B.C. were shown to more than 100,000 schoolchildren."

Almost all trade, business deals, investments and immigration between the U.K. and B.C. has been touched off by his organization, which includes two Vancouverites, deputy agent-general Graeme Gibson and H. F. E. Smith, industrial and trade representative.

Mr. McAdam will remain at B.C. House until the end of October to assist his successor. The retiring agent-general will wind up his affairs in leisurely fashion and he and his wife expect to return to B.C. early next year.

CENTENARY

Thankoffering Service Held By WMS Aux.

CENTENARY — The Centenary W.M.S. Auxiliary held its fall Thankoffering service Thursday afternoon with many guests joining in the fellowship. Beautiful baskets of flowers decorated the church for the most impressive service.

Mrs. Byron Harder, the president welcomed the guests, after which Mrs. Harold Hancock led in a devotional period assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Pearson.

Mrs. Hancock referred to Thanksgiving being "a guest in the Christian home" "Vanity may linger longingly at the back door but when thankfulness rushes in the front, such a home soon overflows with appreciation of good folk and gratitude to God," she said.

Mrs. Hardner introduced the guest speakers, Rev. and Mrs. T. J. Riddall, of Frankford. Mr. Riddall and later Mrs. Riddall spoke to an appreciative audience on a subject very dear to their hearts, that of "the problems of the deaf and dumb people of the world."

"The deaf and dumb people are a lonely people for they are excluded from society, and very few of them are actually born deaf and dumb. In the majority of cases they have become so because of accidents — shock being a major cause. We could help these people in their loneliness if we would only learn the sign language," Rev. Riddall said.

Mrs. Riddall spoke briefly and told how cheerful the deaf and dumb people are, no matter what the weather might be. They take things in their stride. She asked that these people and their work be remembered in the Auxiliary's prayers.

Fulton Considers Proposal To Limit Paper Coverage of Preliminary Court Hearings

WOULD BOMB CHINA AT RIGHT MOMENT

President Chiang Kai-shek, now 71, tells newsmen on Formosa that he still reserves the right to bomb the Chinese mainland even against U. S. wishes. He emphasized his intent to retain Quemoy as a base and said that if the forces did not invade the mainland, he would not invade the troops of other nations.

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Fulton is considering a provincially-supported proposal for limiting newspaper coverage of preliminary court hearings.

The proposal, by a national law body with representation from all provinces and the federal government is that news reports should not include any reference to admissions, statements or confessions an accused person might make at a preliminary hearing of a criminal charge against him.

Backers of the proposal hope limitation of press coverage of preliminary hearings will go a long way towards eliminating any prejudice against an accused person and help ensure a fair trial.

Its implementation would require an amendment to the Criminal Code by Parliament, probably at its next session, if Mr. Fulton decides to accept the idea.

HE OFFERED

He offered no hint of what his decision might be in an interview with The Canadian Press.

The proposal was submitted to Mr. Fulton by the conference of Commissioners of Uniformity of Legislation, which represents all its membership - includes representatives of the attorneys-general of each province and of the federal justice department.

Its recommendation that "a report of a preliminary hearing should not include any admission, statement or confession made by the accused nor should it contain any reference to the fact that the accused had made an admission, statement or confession."

The commissioners recommended that the Criminal Code section of Canada's includes this provision in section 455, which covers preliminary hearings.

WIDE LEGAL BACKING

It is understood there is widespread support in legal circles for the proposed change.

As far as its effect on press coverage of preliminary hearings is concerned, one criminal law specialist said:

"Freedom of the press is not an issue. The rights of an accused to a fair trial."

A preliminary hearing is held when a magistrate or judge has to determine whether the evidence against the accused is good enough to a full trial.

Main idea behind the proposal is recommendation is that publicity of preliminary hearing has created unfair publicity for accused person's chances for a fair trial.

As, for example, an accused person confessed to some specific crime at a preliminary hearing, virtually every jury prospect in the area would be likely to learn of it.

There is also the possibility a confession might be made inadmissible a statement by the accused to police or others could occur during his preliminary hearing.

A committee under Lord Tucker considered two months ago came out unanimously for abolishing altogether from covering preliminary hearings.

Prime Minister Says Time Ripe To Expand Trade

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker says the time appears ripe for Canada to expand its world trade and called upon all Canadians especially labor and management to work toward that end.

The conference seems clear," he said, "that the time is ripe for the expansion of our world trade in both the old and many new commodities — if our products and prices are right."

In a national television speech Monday night, he said the recent Commonwealth trade and economic conference in Montreal was an outstanding success.

"It has set the stage for the recovery of many markets lost to us over the last decade."

An example was the sale of 238,000 tons of Canadian salt from to the United Kingdom.

"This tremendous opportunity" beckoned. But only the Canadian people could decide whether' advantage will be taken of this opportunity.

"We could grasp it by "making that extra effort to produce better-quality and better-price Canadian product to play its part in the recovery of these former markets and the development of new ones."

What it was especially "to labor and management that we shall all look for the development of the policies and practices which will enable us to enter and retain these markets."

The prime minister spoke on the 15-minute CBC television program The Nation's Business, a free-time political broadcast.

WORLD TRADE

The prime minister said the happiness and prosperity of every Canadian is in some way affected by the volume of Canada's world trade.

Canada's deficit in world trade had been declining and the opportunity now existed to re-establish a surplus in order to have a sound and profitable basis.

To business leaders, Mr. Diefenbaker said: "Profits are, of course, necessary if jobs are to be created but for the moment let us place the most emphasis on the human rights of an article price."

To labor leaders: "Let us be very sure that anything we do at this time which could increase product costs will be a price to run be in our own as well as the public interest."

Blimp Walking Replacement Item for the Fad Makers

NEW YORK (AP) When the hula hoop craze finally burns itself out in an epidemic of disillusioned hips, the fad makers might look into blimp walking as a replacement item.

Bizarre, time-consuming, dandy escapism for old and young, blimp walking could become bigger than bingo. Bird walking and girl watching aren't even in the same league.

I was introduced to this little-known sport when some agents to cover the recent flight of the United States Navy blimp Snow Goose to the North Pole region.

The first of several lessons took place on a gravel runway in the Arctic with potholes deep as oil drums, mud like an inch - thick layer of peanut butter and pickles colder than a muskox's metabolism.

This, I soon learned, is no walk for poets, philosophers and other moody products. There is nothing solitary about it, and little time for meditation. It's a group activity, like square dancing, only without the music.

It takes 50 men, 15 on each of the two forward mooring lines and 10 each on the lines astern, to keep the blimp's nose locking silver bag pulled up with the mooring mast and not cavorting in the bellicum.

Blimp walking is done in two basic directions: Toward the mooring mast or away from it, depending on which way the wind is blowing and where the wind wants to take you. Frequently these aims seem in conflict. Then you either drag the blimp or it drags you.

It's a little like trying to get an elephant through a subway turnstile with a bag of buns. The margin of error is somewhat larger than the path of operations.

Blimps have engines for taking off and landing, but their operational dimensions require some chaperoning. The technique is similar to that used to pilot a liner: Lines are cast off and grappled and everyone hopes for the best.

Snow Goose, for reasons best known to herself, always seemed to object to being led by the nose to the mast. The farther north she got, the more sullen she became. Up in the Arctic Circle, above Greenland, 500 miles north of the Arctic Circle, she threw a takeoff tantrum and veered off the run way into a ditch. Her right front landing gear held firm in the permafrost beneath the mud, and a distinguished ground handling crew, volunteers all carefully selected by the navy pronoun poll: "You, you and you", set about extricating her.

The party included, among others, a university geologist, a navy geographer and glaciologist, a commander from the Royal Canadian Navy, the commandant of the RCAF Station at Thule, Greenland, two cooks in crisp white uniforms, assorted commanders and lieutenant-commanders, and an Associated Press reporter, namely myself.

Some of the best brains north of the Arctic Circle were on that mooring line when the "pull" signal was given, and some of the broadest bottoms on either side of the circle were immersed in the mud when it broke.

Laugh? They'd hadn't laughed that hard that far north since Roald Amundsen taught the Eskimos how to twirl a boola boola inside their igloos. The boops never caught on, but blimp walking went big.

Everybody got in on it, mainly because there was nobody else.

General Manager Of Commission Resigns Post

OTTAWA (CP)—L. J. Macdonald, 56-year-old general manager of the Ottawa Transportation Commission, has resigned, charging "too much political interference" in the city-owned system.

His resignation from the $15,000-a-year post came within a few weeks of an Ontario municipal board decision giving the commission permission to raise $1,355,000 by a bond issue for converting the OTC to an all-bus system.

The board stipulated that it must be satisfied that changes would be made in policy, management and operations.

Reports Monday said Mr. Macdonald handed in his resignation Friday. OTC chairman David McMillan announced his successor Monday, George H. Brady, 47, director of the OTC claims and safety department.

End of Monopoly Would Cost It 30 Million -- TCA

VANCOUVER (CP) — Trans-Canada Air Lines says breaking the TCA monopoly would cost it more than $30,000,000 in the first three years of competition.

The report was voiced by Hugh Monday as the air transport board opened hearings on applications for cross-Canada air traffic franchises.

Two applications were expected, from Canadian Pacific Airlines and Pacific Western Airlines. At the start of the hearing, however, PWA counsel John Hamilton said PWA wished to withdraw its application in favor of CPA.

PWA was withdrawing because it was "in the interest of the country and the aircraft industry that CPA be permitted to expand its services," Mr. Hamilton said. Only one additional carrier could expect to be licensed.

No airline witnesses were called on Monday to appear at the final stage of the inquiry in Ottawa Oct. 20.

FINANCIAL ROUTE

TCA counsel J. G. Edison said the transcontinental route is the only profitable one operated by the airline in Canada. Profits from it and overseas routes made it possible for TCA to operate losing routes.

Whereas TCA had almost always enjoyed a modest profit evidence would be presented to show a loss of between $25,000,000 in the first three years of competition.

TCA was not opposed to competition in principle. It already faces competition over more than half its route mileage.

But counsel J. F. Clark said evidence will be presented to show TCA would be able to retain the very limited volume of competition proposed."

Nasser Tightens Control Over Syrian Province

CAIRO (AP) — President Nasser's hold on Syria tightened today with the elimination of a vice-president of the province and the appointment of two Egyptian rule of the province.

A sweeping reorganization of the U.A.R. government to centralize control in Cairo was announced. Cairo is expected to be announced soon.

Sabri Asaali, the last premier of Syria before it voluntarily joined Egypt in the United Arab February, said he had resigned the vice-presidency he got when the two countries formed the union. The government-controlled Middle East News Agency said he had dropped.

Asaali was removed to clear the way for a central government instead of the present system of dual ministries for Egypt and Syria, the news agency said.

CURBED NASSER

A representative of the old school of Syrian politicians, Asaali was a key figure in Egyptian plans to extend Egyptian control over the new province. A press campaign against him in Egypt indicated Asaali was on the way out.

But Asaali apparently was not playing up reports from Baghdad which accused Asaali of helping an Anglo-Syrian plot in 1956 in opposition to Nasser. The accusations were made in the trials of former royalist politicians by the Syrian government of Nasser.

Asaali charged that the reports had been distorted. He said he had been in Egypt at the time they threw Gen. Addb Shishekly, the Syrian strong man whose regime collapsed in 1954, Asaali then became premier.

Canada Can Play Important Role In Quemoy Crisis

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (CP) — Canada could play a significant role in assuaging the Quemoy crisis by helping to steer world course in relations with the Chinese Communist regime, says a leading American student of Far Eastern affairs.

Edwin O. Reischauer, professor of Far Eastern languages and director of the Harvard East Asian studies at Harvard University said that eventually the United States will have to come around to recognizing the Red Chinese government and that Canada could perhaps lead the way to exploring possibilities.

American recognition of the Communists, he suggested, would be the best way to bring a peaceful solution of hostilities in the long-settled Formosa straits. "In fact," Reischauer said, "the real problem is to get the Communists to accept recognition of the policies on Formosa to independence.

FORTUNATE POSITION

"Canada is in a fortunate position to contribute," he told a reporter. "If anything goes wrong in the world, the onus is always on the United States. But Canada, which enjoys nearness to the United States, has a position as an intermediary."

Reischauer said Britain may have acted too fast in recognizing the Peiping regime and the U.S. was being too slow, but that "Canada could set the tone of a middle course."

A statement by State Secretary Dulles Sept. 30 that a return by Formosa Nationalists to the mainland was "highly hypothetical" has encouraged hope and skills in American policy on Quemoy, Reischauer said.

Reischauer said out loud what he had been thinking a long time," Reischauer remarked.

MEANT TO ARBITRATE

Canada's Horn of Plenty Close to Brim as Provinces Report Heavy Crop Yields

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's horn of harvest plenty is close to the brim despite usual inroads by weather, disease and insect damage.

Ontario reports record grain production. The prairie wheat yield, while down in quantity, shows better quality than in 1957.

The apple crop is smaller, but peach and pear crops are larger.

Labor has been in good supply everywhere. For the first eastern workers went west, for the first time since harvest excursions began years ago.

PWA was withdrawing because it was "in the interest of the country and the aircraft industry that CPA be permitted to expand its services," Mr. Hamilton said. Only one additional carrier could expect to be licensed.

Mayor's Fiancee Takes Own Life At Midland

MIDLAND, Ont. (CP) — Dorothy Prescott, fiancee of Midland mayor Charles Parker of Midland, and Sunday night's victim of Dr. Churchill Swan said death was due to self - administered poison, a coroner's jury decided.

Miss Prescott was found in agony on the floor of her home by her mother and died shortly afterwards.

A bottle and a note, saying she wanted no longer to live, were found beside her. Mayor Parker, a spiritualist, said Monday "there is every possibility" he will be able to communicate with Miss Prescott "whenever she may be."

Friends said she wanted to leave this Georgian Bay town and live in California after her marriage, but her fiance bought a lot and planned to build a house here.

Chamber of Commerce Wants Federal Grants for Highways

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal appropriations for highways are suggested in a resolution adopted Monday by the policy committee of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

The resolution recommended that federal appropriations be made in keeping with the financial abilities of the provinces and that funds made available on an equitable basis to the various provinces.

The highways recommendation was one of a long list of resolutions and policy statements which occupied the committee's attention. Those approved will be presented Wednesday for adoption by the full chamber meeting.

The committee's recommendations on defence included one that Canadian armed forces, other than those with an immediate operational role, be used to assist the civilian population to survive a nuclear attack.

The committee also adopted an Attukoan, Ont., resolution urging the government through Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation to continue low - rate loans to approve loans on "really low-cost" houses.

But it adopted another Hamilton resolution urging the government to give secondary industry in Canada ever possible support, exclusive of subsidies, to encourage the export of finished products.

The committee recommended that advertising, promotion and sales expenses incurred on or by the annuities branch of the federal government be stopped and that the branch stop annuities by the annuity branch be discontinued.

Another resolution said that be the light of changing conditions the modern world it appeared appropriate to review the desirability of setting up further retirement of senators and budget. The chamber's executive council was asked to study the matter and, if deemed advisable, in make representations to the government.

Mrs. Judson of Stratford, supporting the resolution, said the Senate has "an important function in Canadian life."

Many resolutions and statements were rejected. The reasons varied. Some were turned down because the matter at issue committee felt they contravened some item of chamber policy.

Radar Screens Glow 24 Hrs A Day at Lonesome Station

SASKATOON MOUNTAIN, Alta. (CP)—Radar screens glow 24 hours a day, seven days a week at this lonesome station on the Pinetree radar line, 360 miles northwest of Edmonton.

The station, comprising three buildings, is one of 33 in the Air Force 819 aircraft control and warning squadron.

"We are mainly interested in aircraft approaching from the north," says Flight Lieut. Ken Bailey in charge of radar operations. "If an aircraft is coming up from the south, we presume it is friendly or else it wouldn't have got so far."

The post, part of the North American Air Defence Command, is directed by the RCAF but comes under the over-all command of NORAD.

QUIET SPOT

Life at the post is quiet. The nearest city, Grande Prairie, is 36 miles east. The area is terrific and hunting is good.

Occasionally the monotony of watching radar screens is broken when a blip turns out to be an aircraft that hasn't filed a flight plan.

Macmillan's Plan for Cyprus Gets Sickening Body Blow

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Prime Minister Macmillan's plan for an "adventure in partnership" in Cyprus received a sickening body blow in the murder of a British soldier's wife in the Mediterranean colony.

Feelings are rather that ever in Cyprus troubles that began 3½ years ago. Terrorist incidents have been occurring daily since the new partnership plan was introduced Oct. 1, but nothing has caused such outrage as the woman's slaying.

The British press reflects anger, exasperation and demands for a tougher policy. On the other side, an investigation has started into charges of wholesale beatings by British soldiers in a roundup of Greek Cypriots.

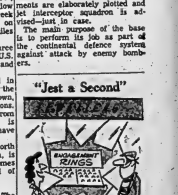
All this is bitter blow to Governor Sir Hugh Foot, who went to Cyprus 10 months ago to try a friendlier approach to the islanders. The method of Sir Hugh, former Socialist colonial minister in contrast with the iron rule of his predecessor, Marshal Sir John Harding.

Here Harding travelled in a bullet-proof armored car, protected by a company of armored cars, Foot walked, drove and rode with a minimum escort to meet the people.

One political observer said the Cypriot reaction to the new governor was similar to that of a sick man, bedridden for years, becoming painfully fond of a new doctor prescribed medicine that some slight improvement in his condition.

It would now appear that the patient, having regained his strength, has received a new physician, resulting in demands by the British press for a return to the Harding treatment.

Under the partnership plan, Foot was to govern Cyprus for seven years with the help of a consultative assembly composed of Greeks and Turkey. Some 90 per cent of the 500,000 islands are Greek-speaking and 18 per cent Turkish-speaking.



The Greek Cypriots, following the line taken by Makarios in Athens, refused to name a representative to the body, but they would give Turkey a foothold for partition. Britain Greece has already rejected.

Turkey named its man — Burhan Jalin, consul general in Nicosia. Greek-Cypriots stopped work in protest and the shooting of two Greeks and a Turk followed.

Into possible moves toward alternate solutions now remain open. One is a proposed conference of the Commonwealth prime minister of NATO, to which Britain would belong. Britain belong. Strategically, British defence installations on Cyprus are of great importance to NATO.

Another possibility is the recently announced plan of Makarios for a completely independent Cyprus tied to neither Greece nor Turkey. It's difficult to conceive of negotiations along this line under current conditions.

500-Pound Bear Becomes Pet Of Cook House

BEARDMORE, Ont. (CP) — A timid black bear cub was wandered into a pulp camp in this area two years ago has become the 500-pound pet of the crew.

Twice he has returned after hibernating through the winter. The crew has so far saved him from hunters by painting their camp number on his side and hiding him when parties came too close. Beardmore is 100 miles northeast of Port Arthur.

As one party of Americks beat the bush for bears this spring, the bear slept on the steps of the cookhouse.

His name is Nalli, Finnish for Dynamite Cap.

Nalli first appeared in 1956, and remained all summer. The crew was surprised when he re-appeared in 1957, but they fed him soft drinks and candy and he became fat and sleek before leaving again for a winter nap.

He was much larger and heavier when he came back again this spring but just as friendly and playful as ever and made friends with a mongrel pup.

Only once has the bear been in disgrace: He almost signed his own death warrant after a petulant swipe or two of his paw tore a few feet off the wall of the cookhouse.

This year his friends painted a large 6 on his side in an attempt to save him from hunters' guns.

Mosaics of Large Stones in Forest To Be Preserved

WINNIPEG (CP) — Mosaics of large stones, laid in the outlines of animals and geometric designs many years ago, will be preserved by the Manitoba government as a tourist attraction.

The stones, some weighing several hundred pounds, are in the Whiteshell Forest reserve east of Winnipeg. They cover an area of more than 20 acres.

It is not known who placed them there nor why. However, the Crow Indians of Montana sometimes made such figures in the form of a human to shame wives who had been unfaithful. Similar layouts have been found in Alberta.

POSSIBLY RELIGIOUS

Arrangement of the stones suggests that they might have been used in religious ceremonies by the Ojibway Indians.

The government decided to preserve the mosaics on the recommendation of the Manitoba historic sites board. Ramps will be built so they can easily be seen.

Plans have been made to protect the stones since someone already has taken some of them. The historic sites board has recommended a tight fence around the area.

The stones also may be guarded by fastening them to the ground with steel rods or embedding them in concrete.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) Two unidentified Negroes, a middle-aged woman and a boy, attended morning worship services at a white church here Sunday. The pair entered the Evergreen Presbyterian Church shortly after the service began and left during the closing benediction. BEAT THE CHAMPS!

What price glory? The McFarlands will find out before they sniff the salty breezes of the Atlantic from the starboard deck of a trans-Atlantic airliner next February.

As Allan Cup winners and representatives of Canada at the 1959 world hockey championships, they will be fair game for every club they meet between Hackensack and Hog's Toenail, Arkansas, this season.

The top dogs of last season's senior hockey will be the underpups in every arena they play in this winter, except their home town.

It's nothing personal, mind you. It's human nature. League and exhibitional foemen will have two reasons for tacking defeats on the Hildebranders. The first is natural, that of winning a hockey game. The second is more important, the honor of whipping last year's Allan Cup champions, and sprinkling the salt of defeat on the tails of Canada's representatives.

It happened here last winter. There wasn't a hockey fan in the city, with the exception of one that we know of, who wouldn't have given a week's wages to see the Macs humble the Whitby Dunlops. They would have given a month's stipend to see the haughty Dunnies fall before the Mac after the Blair crew had won the Allan Cup and been named Canada's world representatives.

This despite the fact that the Belleville Boosters and other fans wished the Dunnies Godspeed and good luck in their quest for the world title, and presented them with a floral horseshoe as a memento of the occasion.

* * *

The Dunlops did not get that sort of treatment in every arena they played in. Pembroke, Cornwall, Kingston, Ottawa-Hull went all out to whip the Leaf-studded Dunnies.

So did the Kitchener Dutchmen, the Windsor Bulldogs, Chatham Maroons, and clubs of the NOHA they met in exhibitional combat.

The same extra all-out efforts on the part of opposing teams can be expected by the McFarlands this winter.

The St. Catharines Teepees, the Peterborough Petes, Kitchener, Windsor, Whitby and other clubs the Hildebranders meet in pre-season games will put that extra foot forward to lower the boom on the champions.

The Clinton Comets, members of the American Eastern League, can gain a lot of prestige should they defeat the Macs in one or both of their exhibition affairs. An encouraging press agent can make a lot out of the fact that the American club whipped the bejabers out of the Canadian national senior champions. It makes good reading served up American style.

Nor will member clubs of the Eastern senior circuit show any mercy when they cross schedule rapiers with the champions. Kingston, Hull-Ottawa, Pembroke, Cornwall and Whitby are all of them with the exception perhaps of the Dunnies, a lot stronger than last year, won't be pulling any Alphonse-Gaston acts when they clash with the Macs.

* * *

The McFarlands, like the Whitby Dunlops last year, will be on the well-known spot. They will not be expected to win every game they play but a string of successive setbacks will bring down the wrath of the Monday morning referees, the rinkside coaches, and not a few of the so-called experts.

Let the Macs lose two or three games in a row and Manager Drury Denyes and Coach Ike Hildebrand will get more free advice than a potential bride with nine married sisters.

All of which should make the McFarlands one of the best, if not the best, drawing cards in the Eastern loop, and for that matter, in foreign fields where they play exhibition games.

In their home league the fact that the Macs are in town to do battle with the local heroes, should pull out a lot of fans who ordinarily beg the TV set or listen to the game on the air. They will have five chances to see their gallant Allan Cuppers humble the current holders, and as they have no advance information as to when it will happen, if it does, may take in all five to be in on the kill.

BOOSTER CLUB MEETING

Booster Club president Armand Duffy passes along word this morning that the Macs' Booster Club will hold a general meeting Wednesday night at eight o'clock at the Belleville Armouries.

One of the main items on the agenda will be the introduction of the new players. This is an opportunity for the fans to meet the boys they will be cheering on to victory in a very short time.

So let's get up to the Armouries tomorrow evening, all you loyal Booster members, meet the new players and rest assured of the latest club activities. The meeting will be held in the upstairs lecture room. See you there at 8 p.m.

McDougald Says Lew Fonseca Straightened Out His Hitting

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gil McDougald, batting star of Monday's 7-0 New York victory over Milwaukee, credited Lew Fonseca, new Yankee batting instructor, with helping him out of a long hitting slump.

The personable second baseman labeled Yankee nemesis Lew Burdette on his downfall with a third-inning single and drove in two runs with a base-loaded double in the six-run sixth that routed the Braves' redoubtable righthander.

"It sure feels good to finally start hitting again," said McDougald, carefully alive to the memory of miserable season I've had. They tell me the Braves' scouts had me figured as all washed up and I can't say that I blame them."

McDougald said a five-minute chat with Fonseca just before Monday's game was largely responsible for his robust hitting.

The 30-year-old Irishman said Fonseca pointed out a glaring fault in his batting stance.

"He told me that he had been watching me carefully every time I came to bat in the series and realized that I kept swaying my body and was lunging in with every pitch."

McDougald said he concentrated on keeping his body still and waiting until the ball reached the strike zone before he swung.

"It felt real good, too," he said. "I was much more comfortable at the plate than at any time since the all-star game."

Ditmar And Spahn Likely To Start Wednesday

Bullet Bob Turley Put Yanks Back Into World Series by 7-0 Shutout Over Milwaukee

BY JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Two-time Milwaukee winner Warren Spahn and New York's Art Ditmar appear to be the logical candidates to pitch Wednesday's sixth game of the 1958 world series between the defending champion Braves and the trailing Yankees.

The sixth game became necessary when Bob Turley shut out the Braves 7-0 Monday. That gave the Yankees their second victory in five games and tanned their faint hopes of becoming the first team in 23 years to overcome a three-games-to-one handicap.

Both managers — Fred Haney of the Braves and Casey Stengel of the Yankees—registered to keep their thoughts to themselves until after today's workout at County Stadium. They said enough, however, to indicate that Spahn and Ditmar would be the call over the other candidates.

STILL THINKING

"I have some thoughts regarding my pitching pitcher," said Haney, "but I'd like to sleep on it a little longer."

Asked whether he thought Spahn, who pitched a brilliant two-hitter in the opener Sunday, would be sufficiently rested by Wednesday, the little skipper replied:

"He's got all winter to rest."

Stengel said that's Spahn's thinking, too. Asked whether he thought two days rest would be sufficient for him, the great lefthander said:

"I'll be ready, but it's up to the manager. If he asks me, I'll try to do the job for him."

FOUR POSSIBILITIES

Stengel listed four possible pitching choices — Don Larsen, Ryne Duren, Johnny Kucks and Ditmar—and proceeded to explain in a few thousand well-chosen words why each could or could not be his sixth - game pitcher.

"Whether I decide on Larsen depends on the arm," he said, reminding reporters that the big righthander had been bothered by an inflamed elbow practically all season.

"Duren has been my big man in relief all year, but I would not be afraid to start him. After all, he used to be a starter until I made a relief pitcher out of him.

"Kucks has looked good in two relief appearances.

"But right now Ditmar would be the choice man that should pitch. He's better now than he was last year. I've had to use him in this series yet, but he's been my No. 1 early-inning relief man all the way through. I didn't use him because I had no spot for him."

Stengel was feeling a lot better about things after Monday's "must" victory.

SIX-RUN INNING

After touching Burdette for a run on Gil McDougald's third-inning home run, the Yankees routed him with four hits in the sixth inning. Then lefty Juan Pizarro put out the fire, the Yankees had scored six runs and the result was no longer in doubt.

It was the first time the Yankees had been able to beat Burdette in five fall meetings. After limiting them to two runs in 27 innings in 1957, the diminutive righthander stopped them 13-6 in the second game this year.

Burdette, who probably will start the seventh game should the Yankees even the series Wednesday, didn't appear depressed over his first defeat by the Yankees.

"They got only one good hit off me in that sixth inning," he said, referring to Yogi Berra's double.

"As for McDougald's homer, it was a freak," Burdette said. "The ball hit the screen alongside the foul pole. It would have been a foul ball in our park."

Burdette would have had to clinch a duel to match Turley's brilliant work. The strong-armed righthander doled out five hits, all singles, and fanned 10. He walked three and was in trouble only once.

HOWARD'S FINE CATCH

That was in the sixth when Bill Bruton led off with a single and Red Schoendienst followed with a soft liner to left center that had "base hit' labelled all over it. Elston Howard, playing left field in place of Norm Siebern, dashed in and made a spectacular sprawling catch in the outstanding defensive play of the series. Scrambling to his feet, he threw to Bill Skowron, doubling up Bruton. The Braves did not threaten after that.

After the double play, Eddie Mathews singled and Hank Aaron ended the inning by striking out.

But if Schoendienst had advanced Bruton to second on a sacrifice, Bruton would have scored on Mathews' single and the game would have taken a different complexion. Bruton would have given Burdette an inspiration to go on. Instead the rookie fell on new in the bottom of the sixth.

ROOF FEYLL IN

Hank Bauer opened with a single and after Jerry Lumpe struck out, Yogi Berra lined out to third baseman Felix Mantilla. Mantilla's throw to first baseman Frank Torre was purposely passed. Skowron came through with a two-run single to right that scored Mantle and left the bases loaded.

Next batter was pinch hitter Gerry Coleman who was greeted with a double which scored Berra and Howard.

Tony Kubek struck out, but Turley helped his own cause with a single to left that scored McDougald and Skowron. Bauer, up again, struck out—the third fanning-out of the inning. But six big runs were across the plate.

The game was marked by some fine defensive plays in addition to Howard's spectacular catch. Bruton made a running catch of Lumpe's drive to center in the first. Mathews started a triple double play in the third. Berra's grounder in the fourth with two men on base, stopped by Kubek who forced Lumpe and lost-ing to first to get Berra. Bobby Richardson made a fine stop of Mathews' grounder in the eighth and tossed him out.

Played It 'Cute'

Turley Used Sliders, Curves To Keep Braves Off Balance

By WILL GRIMSLEY

NEW YORK (AP) — New York Yankees are still alive in the 1958 world series because Bob Turley played it safe—he's "cute" that is—and pitched a masterful game of baseball.

The six-foot-two, 214 - pound righthander outsmarted Manager Casey Stengel's wrath and a niche in the doghouse by leading the Yankees to a 7-0 victory over Milwaukee Braves Monday.

He didn't do it with blinding fastballs, for which he is reputed. He did it with curves and sliders.

After Turley had been shelled from the mound in the first inning of the second game at Milwaukee, with the Yanks finally losing 13-5, Stengel was annoyed.

"The fool stuff, he does," Stengel said. "He is a fastball pitcher. He should stick to his fastballs."

Casey was right on that occasion. Turley's curves, sliders and sinkers were missing the plate, forcing him to come in with his hard one. This was all the Braves wanted. They waited and teed off.

SLITTED IN VAIN

They waited again Monday but without the same luck. Turley's teasers were clipping the corners and beating over the plate. The Braves' big guns — Bill Bruton, Hank Aaron, Eddie Mathews and Wes Covington—were mostly off balance.

Turley's breaking stuff, as they say in the trade, was so well controlled he was able to keep his fastball as a quick deceiver.

"I guess about three-quarters of my pitches were curves or sliders," Turley said. "I threw one sinker and overhead. I felt I was in control all the way."

Turley called the game the best he ever pitched, ruling it over the 1-0, 10-inning game he lost to Glenn Labine of Brooklyn in the 1956 series.

Question Boxers In Probe of TV Quiz Shows

NEW YORK (AP)—Two former boxing champions were questioned at the district attorney's office Monday in the probe of television quiz shows.

They are Tommy Loughran, onetime light heavyweight champion and Sixto Escobar, former bantamweight titleholder, who had appeared on The $64,000 Challenge.

They and other boxers were defeated in a competition with Dr. Joyce Brothers, a psychologist who makes boxing lore a hobby.

There was no announcement about the questions asked of Escobar and Loughran. Billy Graham, a former welterweight contender, was scheduled to appear but did not. A spokesman said he would be called again.

Sceptre May Try Again to Lift America Cup

SOUTHAMPTON, England (AP) — The chairman of the yachting group which built Sceptre, ill-fated contender for the America Cup, says the defeated challenger may try again, maybe in 1961.

Hugh Goodson, chairman of the Royal Yacht Squadron, said Monday the yachting standard of the notorious U.S. craft Columbia was vastly higher than that found in Britain. Royal Britain could match that standard, he said, she might as well play with international yacht racing.

"But we are not going to stay beaten," said Goodson on the arrival in England. "There is no doubt we shall have another crack at the America's Cup as soon as possible."

He added that the next British challenge could not be for two years and so, though 1961 was a likely date, but only after changes had been made in Sceptre's hull form.

REESE RETIRES

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Pee Wee Reese, longtime star infielder of Los Angeles Dodgers, says his baseball-playing days may be over. He added he probably would turn to coaching or scouting. "I don't think I'd like to manage at all," said Reese, often mentioned as a possible Dodger manager. "It's insecure." Reese, 39, played little this year.

Howard Finest Catcher Yanks Have in Outfield

By JACK CLARY

NEW YORK (AP)—Some folks say Elston Howard is a fine outfielder others say he is even a finer catcher. To New York Yankees he is first, second, catcher they have in the outfield.

His diving, twisting catch of Red Schoendienst's sinking line drive with Bill Bruton on first base and none out in the sixth inning of Monday's world series game is proof positive.

His throw doubled Bruton at first base, clipping a budding Milwaukee rally that could have tied the score 1-1 as Ed Mathews, the next batter, singled.

"That double play by Howard was the turning point for me," pitcher Righthander Bob Turley said after hanging up the 7-0 victory that cut the Braves' margin to 3-2 in the best-of-seven series.

TURNING POINT

Said Yankee manager Casey Stengel: That catch of his (Howard's) was a real boost to the morale of this club. It showed them we could get those other guys out, and you saw what he did when we came to bat that inning."

His boys scored six runs off Lew Burdette to clinch the game.

Howard, a tall, lanky built 28-year-old, shrugged off the catch.

"Aw, listen," he said, "my better catcher than I am an outfielder. But I'll tell you this. If they want me to play in the outfield then I'm a better outfielder than I am a catcher."

Howard's predecessor, Norm Siebern, had a horrible day in left field at Yankee Stadium in Sunday's 3-0 loss to the Braves. The wolves howled and Howard went into left field.

In three previous world series, Howard played the outfield twice. Last year he played first base when Bill Skowron was out of action with injuries.

Before going up to the Yankees he spent a year as a catcher-outfielder with Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League.

Isaac Logart Wins

NEW YORK (AP) — Isaac Logart evened a score and snapped a three-fight losing streak Monday night when he outpointed Rudell Stitch of Louisville, Ky., in the 10-round feature at St. Nicholas Arena.

It was a close battle all the way and a blazing finish by Logart enabled him to pull it out.

Stitch had won eight straight including a victory over Logart in Louisville on Aug. 27. He weighed 146, Logart 143½.

Lions Win One

Score 15-14 Squeaker Over Stamps; Bombers Win 14-13

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

They finally did it: British Columbia Lions won their first game in 11 starts in the Western Interprovincial Football Union with a 15-14 victory over Calgary Stampeders Monday night.

The man who took the limp out of the Lions was Al Dorow, a castoff Stampeder quarterback who scored both B.C. touchdowns. Stampeders cut Dorow when injured Frank Tripucka recovered.

In another game Monday night Winnipeg Blue Bombers edged Saskatchewan Roughriders 14-13 by checking a last - half Rider threat in Regina. Bombers took a seven-point lead in the league standings. Saskatchewan is second, two points ahead of Edmonton Eskimos and three in front of Stampeders.

SLIM PLAYOFF CHANCE

Lions, with the slimmest of mathematical hopes for one of three playoff spots, play Bombers at Winnipeg Saturday and the Roughriders at Regina Monday. Calgary and Edmonton play a home-and-home series the same dates.

In Vancouver Norm Fieldgate set up both Dorow touchdowns, first intercepting a Calgary pass and the recovering a Stampeder fumble. Ted Hunt kicked a convert.

After the fourth quarter Lions made it to the Calgary one-yard line when Ed Wyant was stopped. Calgary's punt was blocked and Fieldgate nailed Ted Duncan behind the line for a safety touch.

Counting the Calgary touchdowns were Veryl Switzer and Gene Filipski. Doug Brown converted one and scored a single when Mel Gillet was rouged.

CONTEST MERRED

In Regina the Bombers' margin of victory was a convert missed by Riders' Jack Hill.

Winnipeg quarterback Jim Van Pelt scored eight points on two converts, a single when another field goal was wide and a conversion on Leo Lewis' touchdown.

Hill and Bobby Mulgado scored for Saskatchewan on passes from Tripucka. Hill converted one touchdown.

Tommy Grant, Joel Wells Share Scoring Lead

TORONTO (CP) — Tommy Grant, young backfielder, playing his third season with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, and Joel Wells, an import from South Carolina playing his first season with Montreal Alouettes, are tied at the top of the Big Four football scoring race.

Statistics compiled by the Canadian Press show Grant, the league's outstanding rookie in 1956, and Wells sharing first place with 36 points each on six touchdowns. Grant has one point ahead of Gerry McDougal, Canadiens-bound Tiger-Cat back who joined Hamilton from the University of California at Los Angeles last year.

Three players share third place with 30 points each. They are Ron Howell, 28-year-old punt-return specialist with Tiger - Cats, Dave Mann and C. B. Roberts of Toronto Argonauts.

Gino Sciarra of the league-leading Sarnia Imperials led the Ontario Rugby Football Union scoring race with 60 points, four up on team-mate Gino Cappellett.

Council Votes To Strengthen Guelph Bilts

TORONTO (CP) — The second annual Ontario Junior A all-star game will be played Jan. 7, the OHA Junior A council decided Monday night.

The game will be played at the home arena of the team leading the league as of Jan. 4, with the leading team meeting an all-star collection from the other six clubs.

The council also voted approval of a bid to strengthen the Guelph Biltmores who finished last in 1957-58. Guelph's application for permission to make four branch-of-branch transfers will be sent on to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Arnold Scarfe of Guelph said the four transfers were being sought "in order to ice a better team than last year, which was quite disastrous."

President Harold Ballard of Toronto Marlboros and Syd Bibby of Hamilton Cubs suggested the last-place club each season be permitted to pick up additional transfer players. The suggestion wasn't voted on.

Bobby Lane Sent to Steelers For 3 Players

DETROIT (AP) — Quarterback Bobby Layne, given as much credit, as anybody for bringing championship football to Detroit, was sent to Pittsburgh Steelers Monday in a stunning National Football League trade.

To shocked fans Detroit Lions coach George Wilson said: "It's cruel, hard business. But I have a job to do and I can't let sentiment enter into it. If I do, I'm licked."

The deal shifts the 31-year-old Layne to Pittsburgh for quarterback Earl Morrall and two high draft choices, one next year and one in 1960.

The swashbuckling Layne was never a great passer, never a great runner. But he was a peerless leader and clutch performer.

However, his off-the-field activities over the years and his apparent lack of old-time zing on the field and in the clubhouse in the last few months have distressed his teammates, coaches and the club's official family.

DRAFT SITUATION

Having two front-line quarterbacks became an impossible situation for Lions, who won the NFL title last year.

Detroit gave up four players to get quarterback Tobin Rote from Green Bay Packers two years ago.

Wilson tried to alternate Layne and Rote.

"I just didn't work—not ever," said Wilson.

The Lions lost four of six preseason games. They lost to Baltimore Colts and tied Green Bay in the regular season so far.

Series Notes

By WHITNEY MARTIN

NEW YORK (AP)—Somebody remarked it would be a cold day when the Yankees beat Lew Burdette and it was — 52 degrees. The crowd came dressed for a polar expedition.

Three misguided souls dashed on the field in the fourth inning carrying a long banner, something about free Cuba. The police went after them in slow motion. In the ninth a kid dashed to the mound with a small banner. Wanted the right time, no doubt.

Before getting his homer, Gil McDougald asked plate umpire Al Barlick to look at the ball. Les Burdette, often accused of throwing spitballs, had pitched two balls. Barlick examined the ball and threw in a new one. McDougald rapped the next pitch for his tie-breaking homer.

Burdette and catcher Del Crandall did a "You first, my dear sir" act on Tony Kubek's swinging bunt in the fifth. By the time they had finished their formalities Kubek was on first.

When the Yankees do explode, they bust out all over. The only four nels in their sixth-inning outstring was Lumpe's three futile attempts to bunt. He was out on three the next inning.

Commissioner Likely to Set Argo President Back on Heels

WINNIPEG (CP) — Canadian football commissioner Sydney Halter has refused to give any hint of action against Bill Ross, Toronto Argonauts president, for his criticism of the officiating in Saturday's Big Four game here.

"The matter will come to my attention and be dealt with in the normal course," Halter told a reporter. "I have no comment to make at this time."

After Argos dropped a 14-10 decision to Montreal Alouettes, Ross described the work of the officials as "the worst I ever saw."

He admitted he was aware that his outburst could result in a fine but made his statement. "Maybe it does cell for a fine, but I'll tell you this: The commissioner should fine those officials. They're supposed to be competent and experienced. I bet there are youngsters working high school games who wouldn't let those pass-interference plays go uncalled."

EXPENSIVE FINES

Halter, who became commissioner this year after holding the post with the Western Interprovincial Football Union for five years, has authority to fine players and executives up to $1,000.

He has emphasized he doesn't want public criticism by club officials of the way games are handled.

At least three coaches in the West have been fined over the years by Halter for verbal attacks on officiating and similar action was taken against president Red Dutton of Calgary Stampeders for publicly criticizing an official.

Hap Shouldice, Halter's representative in the East, said in Ottawa he already has written the commissioner about the Toronto game, but he could not disclose the letter's contents. He also was sending him newspaper clippings concerning the game.

He said he has heard of no official protest being registered by Argonauts. He had not seen the game.

Halter also would receive reports from Harry McRice of Toronto, secretary of the Canadian Rugby Union who represented the commissioner watching the Toronto game, and from Seymour Wilson of Hamilton who refereed the game.

WOMAN, THREE CHILDREN HIDE IN BUSH FOUR DAYS

For four days, Mrs. Florence Carman, an Indian woman, shivered in the bush of Haliburton county, Ont., afraid to return home with her three children after a visit from the Children's Aid Society official. Found by searchers, she was taken along with the children to hospital by the society. All were suffering from cold, exposure and hunger. Here the children are being carried while Mrs. Carman, in background, has to be helped along a path.

TWO BROTHERS SHOT, THIRD CHARGED

On Hepworth, Ontario, one brother is dead, a second wounded and a third charged with murder. Theodore Cutting, left, is alleged to have spent a night of brooding following a family argument and in the morning he sought out his brother, Gregory, right, who died with a bullet through his heart. Elwood Cutting, centre, was shot as he ran to his mother's assistance and is in hospital in grave condition.

Attacks Fiscal Policy as Means Of Creating Economic Stability

MONTREAL (CP)—A former federal economist who helped frame $4 national budgets for the Liberal administration has attacked fiscal policy as a major means of creating economic stability in Canada.

Kenneth Eaton, 64, making his first public speech since resigning last July as assistant deputy minister of finance, cautioned Canada against leaning "drain-as it did, he said, in the immediate postwar era—on the "rather crutch of fiscal policy."

"Fiscal measures are largely taken out of the federal budget, using tax cuts or increases to feed or stem the amount of money available for spending.

And he warned that the country, relying on deficit financing in a period that is apt to turn inflationary, is facing a "serious potential conflict" between fiscal and monetary policies.

POLICIES CONFLICT

"Thus, it is quite possible that in Ottawa we will shortly hear of monetary policy from one side of the street being directed towards combatting inflation, while fiscal policy on the other side is still feeding the fires through deficit financing."

Monetary policy uses the bank interest rate to control the amount of money available for investment or capital expenditure.

Addressing the Canadian Club, Mr. Eaton, now a private tax consultant in Ottawa, said that control budgeting calls for wisdom and foresight far beyond that given to ordinary mortals.

"Timing is of the essence, and ideas that look good on paper do not always turn out right."

He said personal and sales taxes—most adaptable for use in affecting consumer purchasing power—offer "pitifully small levers" in influencing a gross national product of $31,000,000,000—

"the over-all size of the monster that is to be controlled."

OUTSIDE INFLUENCE

Effectiveness of purely Canadian fiscal policy is also "seriously" undermined by the dependence of the economy on world conditions, he said.

He said fiscal policy as an economic weapon reached its hey-day in the years 1946 after the Second World War.

"National planners with a gleam in their eye went completely overboard on the idea. Manipulation of national budgets was the answer."

But in operating on the flow of purchasing power, tax policy dealt merely with the results of inflation rather than the causes. "In this sense, tax policy can, in any case, be no more than a palliative and not a corrective of the fundamental problem."

BIG GIFT TO McGILL

MONTREAL (CP)—The J. W. McConnell Foundation today announced the entire cost of McGill University's new engineering building, a $2,500,000 gift to the university's building fund Monday. The foundation donated another $2,000,000 to set up a capital fund expected to provide an estimated $100,000 a year for scholarships.

SEEK GREATER SAFETY

TORONTO (CP) — Metropolitan Toronto roads and traffic committee has asked its technical committee to study the use of some type of overhead light for pedestrian crosswalks. Sam Cass, metro traffic engineer, was told Monday to give special consideration to an amber light with the word "passover" in red underneath. It was suggested the light be suspended over the centre of each crosswalk.

LOWEE TEMPERATURES

Most of Canada, from Montreal to the foothills of the Rockies, can expect temperatures throughout October to average lower than seasonal normals. This map, based on the 30-day outlook of the United States weather bureau, also shows that temperatures on both coasts are expected to be higher than the seasonal levels.

Precipitation is expected to be heavy from the Maritime Provinces to the Great Lakes. Rainfall is expected to be light in an area covering northwestern Ontario, Manitoba and most of Saskatchewan. Light rainfall is also predicted for most of British Columbia. (CP Newsmap.)

TO VOTE AGAIN

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — City council Monday night voted to hold a plebiscite Dec. 1 on the question of an $1,500,000 memorial centre at the Western Fair grounds. It would be the fourth such vote in recent years. Ratepayers twice voted overwhelmingly in favor the centre but construction was not started. In the third vote ratepayers rejected the plan.

Trial Is Halted As Woman Claims She Was Drugged

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—A woman's client's she was drugged into helping to get rid of hold-up loot has halted her trial.

Ordering a full investigation of statements made in city court, Magistrate Johnstone Roberts deferred to Oct. 17 sentence on Mary Burke Dinard, 31, of Montreal.

If Mrs. Dinard's story were true, he said, she might be acquitted of forgery, uttering forged documents, obtaining money by false pretences and having possession of stolen goods —offences to which she had earlier pleaded guilty.

The charges involve government bonds believed stolen in a recent series of robberies and bank hold-ups in Quebec.

Det. Sgt. Norman Chevers of the city police, called as a defence witness, said Mrs. Dinard told police she was given the bonds to cash by a woman she met in Toronto.

She also said she was given a drink, which she believed contained a drug, before entering a bank to cash them.

Her husband said she told him the same story. She left their home in September for a vacation by herself, he said. He first knew of the charges by reading them in a newspaper.

Magistrate Roberts ordered police check on the woman's story in Midland, Arnprior, Perth, Orillia, Smiths Falls and Renton, where the offences were alleged to have been committed.

FRANKFORD — The C.A's of Frankford Full Gospel Tabernacle met on Friday evening, with "The Pioneer Missionary Action Girls" in charge of the meeting.

Mrs. A. Fisher, president, welcomed all present.

Miss Helen Patrick led the song service opening with the P.M.A.G. theme chorus "Joy" followed by prayer by Mrs. Mary Patrick. The hymns "He Keeps Me Singing" and "Sunlight, Sunlight" were sung. Mrs. G. Pierce led in prayer.

Miss Gail Walker rendered a vocal solo, "I Will Pilot Thee." Miss Sandra Purvis read the Scripture reading, the 46th Psalm. Miss Lois Wright and Miss Ronda Payne rendered a vocal duet, "You Must Open The Door." Miss Mary Ella Grant conducted a sword drill.

The P.M.A.G. subverties Miss Gloria Reilly and Miss Linda Fisher received the evening offering. Mrs. A. Fisher led in the singing of choruses. Mrs. G. Pierce gave the announcements.

Negroes Turned Away From Baptist Church

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Four Negroes were turned away Sunday from an all-white Baptist church whose pastor has openly supported school integration.

Dr. Dale Cowling, the pastor, said the Negroes agreed not to enter the Second Baptist Church after deacons told them their presence would disrupt the service.

"They did not insist," Cowling said. "We would have admitted them if they had."

Look at the many features of these modern telephones...

- You can "hold" one call while you make a second call (inside or outside) over the same telephone — no need for "calling back";
- You can intercommunicate via a direct line between yourself and others without blocking important calls;
- You can use it for quick inter-office "telephone conferences" in place of a series of time-consuming separate calls;
- You can use it to signal your secretary : : : or to transfer calls to other personnel.

How the push buttons are used:

HOLDING. This holds any calls. You can then make a second call (inside or outside) on the same telephone.

OUTSIDE CONNECTIONS. These buttons connect your phone with outside lines to make or receive calls.

LOCAL. This connects your telephone with any other inside phone for direct intercommunication.

Plastic-push-buttons flash on and off for incoming call — burn steadily while line is used or held. Uses of buttons can be arranged in a variety of ways.

Wednesday, October 8

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Here is one of those rare days when you can make big headway in putting your ideas across to influential persons as well as have a fine time. Be active. Enjoy yourself in the lilt and exude charm, radiance.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Fortunately today you can get real estate problems and family relations worked out very artistely so that you realize greater harmony and pleasure than for some time past. Tonight is then fine for a gala evening at own fireside.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Be sure you write those letters you have been neglecting to answer so that you will be in good standing with vital persons. Also, give others assurance of your good feelings toward them, especially in business. Be efficient and smart.

Moon children (June 22 to July 21) — A fine day for going after big game, the biggest lump sums that rightfully can be gained by you. At any rate, start ball rolling in that direction, in case there should have to be a long waiting period. Think practically.

Leo (July 22 to Aug. 21) — A day for strutting in true Leo style — seeing important people, getting what you go after, being dynamic and specific. Get your health at its peak, be charming and most friendly. But be certain you know what you want when you start out.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) — A fine day for secretly following that huge ambition that is yours. Let nobody in on your private aims, or you will suffer a loss. Be sure to impress Big, wigs and authorities. Then help those in need, or who look to you for assistance.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — A good day to start new enterprises, get indebtedness out of the way, and clear off, the slate. Fine for any monitary affairs. Be sure to make collections. P.M. excellent for romance with loved ones. Be happy and carefree.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Come to meeting of minds and cement relations with vital persons today. But take care you state matters of policy and see that they are lived up to. Handle minutiae at later time. Think big and you grow big.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — A splendid day to delve right into all the work that awaits; you with real enthusiasm and efficiency, after you have studied exactly how to best get along with fellow workers so that there is harmony and real co-operation.

MADOC

WMS Holds Thankoffering Meeting

MADOC — The thank-offering meeting of St. Peter's W.M.S. was held in the Sunday School room of the church. The president read the call to worship after which the hymn, "We Plough the Fields and Scatter," was sung.

During the devotions Psalm 65 was read responsively. The president then led in the Thanksgiving Service of worship prayer.

An appropriate duet, "We Thank Thee O God," was sung by Mrs. Allan Franks and Mrs. Kenneth Nicol.

The guest speaker, Mrs. McMurray, chose as her theme, "The Night Cometh." Referring to three famous writers the speaker explained how they had been guided by God's Holy Word to do their work. "We, too must remember that Jesus calls us to do our work. Having engraved upon our hearts the messages He has given us, we too will be directed to do our duty and thus receive the peaceful rest at the close of life's journey," she said.

The offering was received and dedicated after which Mrs. Franks and Mrs. Nicol sang, "He Lifted Me."

The Thanksgiving creed was reported in unison. The hymn, "Now Thank we All our God" was sung and the meeting closed with prayer.

A social hour followed the conclusion of the meeting.

U.S. Hopes Reds Will Make Truce Permanent One

Would Make Possible Compromise on Formosa

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials expressed hope today that Communist China will convert her seven-day truce in the Formosa Strait into a permanent cease-fire.

That view probably will be expressed later this week in diplomatic talks under way at Warsaw, U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam is scheduled to meet the Chinese envoy, Wang Ping-nan, on Friday.

If the Chinese are willing to extend their cease-fire indefinitely, the way will be open for active U.S. - Chinese Communist negotiations for a compromise settlement of the Formosa dispute.

NO REAL OPTIMISM

But while there was hope, there was no real optimism here about a permanent cease - fire. Actually, the U.S. government does not know what the Communists aimed at in announcing Sunday that their shelling of Quemoy Island would be suspended for a full week.

State Secretary Dulles, returning from a four-day vacation, said Tuesday that the halt in shooting "assures worldwide condemnation of the Chinese Communists if they again resume the fighting."

One of the complications about taking advantage of the break in the conflict is that the Chinese so far have not shown any interest in firm negotiations with the United States.

ONLY PROSPECT

The only practical prospect for negotiations lies in Warsaw, which, provided the Reds will agree that they have something to negotiate with the United States.

So far they have demanded mainly that the U.S. government withdraw its forces from the whole Formosa area and abandon Nationalist China. The United States has no intention of yielding to this demand.

The United States has indicated it is prepared to do something else about the Nationalist-held offshore islands, however, if a condition that a dependable cease-fire can be arranged.

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Indications mounted today that U.S.-Red talks have stopped exciting cosys to Quemoy during the seven-day Communist cease-fire in the Formosa Strait.

An unescorted Chinese National Air Force C-46 took off with ammunition and 450 troop replacements for the garrison on Quemoy today, the third day of the ceasefire. The captain said his ship "came in under the supply run from the Pescadores. His crew told AP correspondent Gene Gibbons on Quemoy that they did not see any accompanying U.S. ships on the 95-mile voyage.

The Nationalists said large quantities of supplies are pouring into Quemoy. The Communists shelled the island and kept up their artillery attack for a week previous to the end of American escorting of convoys.

Warm Welcome Gives Recruit Wrong Idea

YORK, England (AP)—Alan Yansley joined the British Army Tuesday and figured they were going to make him a general right at the start.

A welcoming delegation of soldiers came to greet him:

Capt. Peter Fleming, leading the welcoming group, shook hands and escorted Yansley off to the nearby camp in an army car.

The commanding officer, Lt. Col. J. S. Wood, stepped forward, pumped Yansley's hand enthusiastically and presented the new soldier with a government savings bond as a welcoming gift.

Yansley was beginning to get the idea that the British Army must be in pretty bad shape for manpower. But there wasn't much of what it was all about till the commanding officer started his welcoming speech.

Yansley, said the happy mayor, was the regiment's 20th recruit of the month. The man who fulfilled the recruiting target.

Well, it was wonderful while it lasted. Today Yansley is on the roster for kitchen police.

Charge B.C. Man Who Found Body With Murder

PENTICTON, B.C. (CP) — An orchard owner who reported finding the nude body of an immigrant Polish girl and triggered a violent manhunt for another suspect has been charged with the woman's slaying.

The surprise arrest Tuesday of Olin LeeBrage, 53, came more than two months after Anita Budde, 28, was found in a blood - spattered cabin at nearby Kaleden. LeeBrage was chief witness at the inquest into the death.

LeeBrage was picked up in his orchard, a short distance from the where Miss Budde's body was found.

The discovery of Miss Budde's body started an intense manhunt throughout British Columbia's Okanagan Valley. Before it was over three policemen had died in a plane crash while looking for a suspect, another policeman was wounded and a man was killed questioning fell in a hail of police bullets in Washington State.

BODY IN CABIN

Miss Budde had gone to the Monagan to pick fruit. Her body was found in a cabin cot Aug. 4. She had been beaten about the head.

Sought for questioning at that time were Lloyd Lee Hamilton and Donald Stevens, alias John Morrison. He was charged in absentia with the attempted murder of Cpl. Ralph Brown of the RCMP. LeeBrage testified at the inquest later that he had warned away from Miss Budde's cabin a man who called himself John Morrison.

Stevens was arrested about two weeks later in Tonasket, Wash. He was shot and wounded by police as he attempted to flee.

PRESIDENT RULES PAKISTAN UNDER MARTIAL LAW

Makes Way Clear For New Constitution

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP) — President Iskander Mirza ruled Pakistan under martial law today after abolishing the government to clear the way for writing a new constitution.

Mirza pledged Pakistan to honor all international commitments. The nation belongs to both the Baghdad Pact and the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization.

Mirza, a 59-year-old former major-general, took over Tuesday with strong criticism of politicians who have led Pakistan. The president outlawed political parties.

He named Gen. Mohammed Ayub Khan, commander-in-chief of the Pakistani Army, as chief martial law administrator and placed all armed forces under him.

NO DISTURBANCES

No disturbances were reported as troops took station in government offices and at key installations. Crowds cheered the soldiers in some places.

"Some of our politicians have been lately talking of a bloody revolution," Mirza said in a proclamation. He continued:

"The mentality of political parties has become so low that I am unable any longer to believe that elections will improve the present chaotic internal situation. The same group of people who have brought Pakistan on the verge of ruination will rig elections for their own ends.

"General elections never have been held in Pakistan but had been scheduled for next Feb. 15. Mirza acted after six members of the Awami League political party resigned from Premier Firoz Khan Noon's revamped cabinet, saying they feared the voting would not be held as promised.

They said that after the bus came to a halt in a field Downing helped the able and urged passengers to file calmly out a window that had been propped open by a motorist.

Lands Plane in Built-up Area To Buy Dog but Lands in Jail

TORONTO (CP) — Bob English's plane was all in one piece when it made a spectacular landing on suburban Etobicoke field Tuesday but it won't be in one piece when he leaves.

"Definitely," the order from the department of transport which left it wouldn't be safe for the Piper Cub from Blind River to take off in the built-up area.

While Etobicoke residents might have been startled by what they thought was a forced landing, English was the most puzzled of all.

His trip from Blind River and intentional landing in a 300-yard-long field at Main Street and Magnificent Road was made for the love of a dog. He came here to buy a cocker spaniel puppy.

English crossed the street to buy the puppy from dog breeder Mrs. George Manchon and was climbing back into the plane when police arrived.

They said sorry for sure if such a landing was illegal, so English found himself unable to take off. Landing, this time in Etobicoke police station, minus his plane.

RCMP officers questioned the mine laboratory worker and decided not to lay any charge.

The department of transport decided not to lay any charge.

The department of transport decided the plane must be dismantled and taken to an airfield where it is to be assembled again for takeoff.

Russia Threatens to Match U.S. and U.K., Test for Test

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (CP) —A blitz arms debate loomed in the United Nations today as Russia threatened to match U.S. and British nuclear weapon tests blast for blast.

The assembly's political committee was expected to give priority to the disarmament question. Both Russia and India put in resolutions calling for an immediate stop to nuclear tests. The United States was working on a resolution of its own.

Gromyko said lack of Western agreement to halt nuclear weapon tests will compel the Soviet government to continue its explosions until it has reached the total touched off by the United States and Britain combined.

The Soviet delegation said later that Gromyko was referring to the Western tests that have taken place since Russia announced March 31 that it was suspending test explosions. The Russians resumed the tests Sept. 30. saying this was necessary because the United States and Britain had not stopped their testing.

Following Gromyko's statement, the U.S. state department queried whether Russia would accept the British and American invitation to join in a one-year suspension of nuclear weapon tests beginning Oct. 31. On that date the Big Three meet in Geneva to try to negotiate a permanent ban on the testing.

"It is up to the Soviet Union now as to whether tests will be suspended on Oct. 31 or whether they will continue," the state department said.

Gromyko said he wanted to point up the importance his government attaches to its resolution calling on the nuclear powers to stop tests at once.

He declined to tell questioners whether Russia would continue testing if the assembly adopted the Soviet resolution.

The United States has been consulting other delegations on a resolution that would throw the support of the assembly behind the Geneva talks.

Russia has proposed that the Geneva conference be raised to the foreign minister level, but the United States has made clear it is not interested in doing so at this stage.

Mayors Leave Federal Table With Promises, No Decisions

OTTAWA (CP) — The mayors went away from the federal table with empty hands. They got a lot of promises but no concrete decisions.

Thus ended the first federal-municipal conference in Canada's history, a two - day affair, in which the municipalities expressed concern over their growing capital needs and asked for a pool of proposals to open up to them new channels of financial resources.

But the federal government, while agreeing sympathetically with municipal views, emphasized that it also faces the heavy burden of finance growing demands on its purse. There was no hint in the federal government could do.

Yet the conference ended Tuesday, the mayors generally expressed satisfaction with the meeting. And Justice Minister Fulton, speaking for the central administration, pledged high-level consideration of a number of proposals including these:

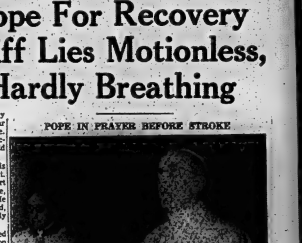
Little Hope For Recovery As Pontiff Lies Motionless, Wholly Breathing

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (CP)—Pope Pius XII, was near death today after a second stroke. His heart weakened and his doctors had little hope that he could survive.

The second stroke came this morning, two days after the first.

A members of the papal court said "the pontiff is still alive, although there is little hope." He is lying motionless on his bed, absolutely white and hardly breathing.



A high Vatican official admitted to the bedchamber about noon said the pontiff was unable to speak, but gestured feebly with his right hand.

At 2:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EDT), a Vatican radio speaker broke off casting from the Pope's summer palace reported there appeared to be a very slight improvement in his condition and a "slight increase in sensory perception." He did not elaborate.

All four specialists who have attended the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church since he was felled by a cerebral stroke kept watch at his bedside.

Declares Pope In Death Agony

CASTEL GANDOLFO (AP) —A medical bulletin late today said the pontiff was in extremis and "the Pope is suffering a grave cardiac pulmonary collapse."

His temperature was about 101 and his pulse rate had soared to 140.

One of the physicians, declining the use of his name, said the Pope "is in the death agony."

"The syndrome symptoms of this morning are progressively aggravated despite energetic treatment which failed to give hoped for results. Temperature is 38.5 (about 101 Fahrenheit); blood pressure 20 to 140. The pulse is fast, 140; respiration 38.

and all cardinals of the Vatican curia as well as some other prelates from Italy waited in an antechamber.

RUMORS SPREAD

Reporting the emotion tension were false reports that the Pope died this morning. Newspapers in agency Italia issued one such report. The Vatican official said it was a mistake and newspapers came out with extra editions.

The Vatican radio announced at 1:30 p.m. (8:30 a.m. EDT) in a special broadcast from the papal chamber that the Pope's condition remained unchanged.

The speaker added, however, that the Pope's pulse had increased to 140 from 132 Tuesday morning—and he had a slight fever.

It was learned unofficially at the Vatican press office that the Pope's heart weakened and became irregular following the second stroke at 5 a.m. He was given tranquillizers.

GIVEN RITES

For the second time in two days, the pontiff was administered last rites—unction, the last ceremonies of the Roman Catholic Church for the dying and those in danger of death. This is the usual procedure if a person is not out of danger after a first illness.

He was unable to receive holy communion today, but was given holy absolution.

The Vatican radio quoted the Pope's personal physician, Prof. Riccardo Galeazzi-Lisi, as saying that the Pope's breathing condition began to regulate and that there was a slight reassertion of his blood pressure at 140.

At noon (7 a.m. EDT) a Vatican radio broadcaster, speaking from the Pope's antechamber, said the Pope's temperature was 37 degrees centigrade (98.6 Fahrenheit), normal, but his pulse was 102, very high.

At 12:10 p.m. (7:10 a.m. EDT), the radio spokesman added that "at that moment" the pontiff was in a state of lethargy." Immediately under the effects of tranquillizers he had taken."

The second attack was of the same type as that which felled the pontiff on Monday, a cerebral circulatory attack that produced a coma and partial paralysis.

It came on him at 7:30 a.m. (1:30 a.m. EDT), just 47 hours after the first stroke.

A medical bulletin issued some two hours later said:

Tousled-Haired Five-Year-Old Neighborly With Governor-General

OTTAWA (CP) — There is something to being neighborly—even if you're a tousled five-year-old and the neighbor is Governor-General Massey.

That is the way Brian Tweedie of Kingston, figured it anyway.

Members of the vice-regal party recalled the incident this way:

Mr. Massey, in Kingston last Saturday for a visit to the Royal Military College, was in his rail-car parked on a siding not far from Brian's home.

And a late-afternoon visitor who eluded the porter—was the blue-eyed, brown-haired Brian, who stepped into a railway car sitting at room and asked to see "the general."

Mr. Massey's staff obliged. The Queen's representative and the little boy had a chat, and Brian left with a "thank you, it's nice to see you."

Much later in the evening the electrician at the Tweedie home, Arthur Allen, arrived to do some repairs. After a meeting by anyone interested in selling, installing or servicing anything electrical for the home. Admission free. Everyone welcome. Or as

Faubus Charges Move to Punish Him With Taxes

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Governor Orval E. Faubus has disclosed a letter from the Internal Revenue Service which he said had authorized tax audits of 6 persons with additional income taxes.

However, he also had a letter from the IRS in Washington admitting a procedural mistake. It said no further audits were under way until his retirement in January, 1959.

Faubus said Tuesday the delinquent tax notices originally intended to charge him taxes, in addition to those on his income, on the governor's mansion and its maintenance provided by the state and for servants at the official residence, also paid by the state.

The governor said when he received the notice 10 days ago he telegraphed the governors of 47 other states asking them if they had been charged income tax on such matters and maintenance expenses. Those who have replied say no.

IRS in Little Rock told Faubus that the form was issued prematurely and not in accordance with the usual procedure.

He told a press conference that the matter was an example of "pressure" being put on him by the federal government to try to make him change his views on integration of Negro students in Arkansas schools.

Curtis R. Mathis, district director of the Internal Revenue Service in Little Rock, said the Little Rock office caused the incident. He said "mistakes and clerical errors" had nothing to do with it.

Former Star of Alouettes Gives Talk on Football to Kiwanians

The members of the Kiwanis Club listened attentively as Juan Sheridan, a former star lineman with the Big Four's Montreal Alouettes, provided an interesting program at the club's weekly luncheon.

Mr. Sheridan spoke on the Canadian football game as a whole and discussed the American game as well as the English Rugby Union, which he is against.

Although he was a bit late arriving, Juan met a hearty welcome as he was introduced by the door. All the Kiwanians burst into song. The song? — you guessed it, "Alouette."

A native of Cuba he began his football career out west and has played with every club in the Big Four with the exception of the Ottawa Rough Riders.

He opened his speech with a brief history of Canadian football. He then proceeded to explain the differences between football executives handle each year, and said some very large sums are involved.

Then he launched himself into the pros and cons of the Canadian football. He compared our game against the U. S.'s professional game and said he doubt that in his mind the United States game was second.

He broke down the differences between the two games and answered them with his Kiwanian zeal. The four downs in the American game, he explained, was very boring. His reason for saying that, he continued, was that the quarterback was more apt to take a chance when he has three downs instead of four.

MAKES A DIFFERENCE

For instance if the QB has four downs he may just use a couple to make a first down. If only three downs then he would have to play a passing game thus making the action a bit more exciting.

He went on to say that American football players are no better than the Canadians. "The just that there are more of them," he asserted.

He said that football was of great importance to national identity.

The Grey Cup games were his prime example. He said people from all parts of Canada getting together.

He then went on the great amount of work the people associated with the Grey Cup do to get together.

People of all cities work very hard to get the Grey Cup to their city, he said.

He caught everyone unawares with an attack on the Canadian Rugby Union saying that they had "outlived their usefulness." He went on to say that the union had been making money out of the Grey Cup games for years and they haven't been putting any back in to the game.

As he arrived at the luncheon late Juan thought it appropriate that he tell an amusing story concerning punctuality. It is as follows: As everyone knows a couple of years ago the Alouettes, "Peahead" Walker, is a stickler for punctuality. Well, in the days before the Grey Cup game, back in 1951, "Peahead" seemed to be worried about getting there on time.

GREAT WRITTEN ANSWER

So upon spying a negro porter he asked him what time the train arrived in Toronto. The porter, who was standing by, was quick to grab the opportunity and he walked up to "Peahead" and said, "There two o'clock now you has it in black and white."

He was thanked by George Tripp. Other Kiwanis business was taken care of and the meeting was again administered to the Kiwanis Bulletin editor to the discomfort of the editor.

Freedom of Press for Publishers Not Newsmen Says Owner of Paper

MONTREAL (CP) — Gerard Filion, publisher of the Montreal daily newspaper Le Devoir, said freedom of the press is for the proprietors of newspapers and not for newspaper men.

Addressing a symposium on freedom of the press at the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Comerce, Mr. Filion added:

"The former are free because they have a product to sell and have nothing to say and are unable to write. But the newspaper man has a product to sell, namely what is dictated to him by the publisher and the one who employs his services.

"Owners of newspapers have a duty to their readers, and to please their readers, and to respect the general terms with the powers that be.

"What is the use of inserting in the constitution a paragraph on the freedom of the press if, in fact, those who would like to apply it do not have the means of doing so, whilst those in control of these means are not interested in making use of them."

Mr. Filion's comments on newspapers were made while he was dealing with "the availability in fact of means of expression."

The mass media had a strong tendency to assume the form of public utilities, he said, and radio and television networks, newspaper chains and chains of motion picture houses.

To sell pictures, news and ideas had become "big business," he said.

Polio Clinics Now Being Held At City Hall

It was known as infantile Paralysis, a children's disease, however, the picture now changed to adult being the most vulnerable group includes non-vaccinated persons between the ages of 30 and 50.

During the past few weeks throughout the country there have been cases in the above age group some fatal. Last week in Belleville was a person age 56 years.

The outbreak of Polio is no longer confined to August, September and October as it has been in the past, it can occur in any month.

The Belleville Health Department under the direction of the Hastings County Health, Dr. McCall Metcalfe, urges everyone older than three months to be vaccinated now. Clinics are held in the Department's office in the City Hall every Thursday afternoon from 2 to 4 o'clock. Salk Vaccine will be administered free of charge. An evening clinic will be held in the City Hall for the convenience of the public on Wednesday, October 15th from 7 to 9 p.m.

A further announcement will be made regarding evening clinics

New Bridge Span Placed Over Power Canal

VALLEYFIELD, Que. (CP)—A low-level span of the Valleyfield road and railway bridges across the Beauharnois power canal was floated and replaced Tuesday by 220-foot, 2,000-ton lift span in a complicated "grafting" operation.

It was the first step in the conversion of the Beauharnois power canal into a unit of the St. Lawrence Seaway.

The original span was floated away. The new span was towed down from a site downstream, floated into place, and installed.

Spokesmen for Dominion Structural Steel, builder of the new span, said the operation was carried out with a minimum loss of time.

The company had been given a 22-hour time limit for the job because the bridge is part of a main road and railway traffic artery. The entire job was carried out in less than nine hours.

The new span was needed to provide clearance in the canal for ocean ships sailing through the St. Lawrence Seaway to the Great Lakes and the international waterway opens next year.

A similar grafting job is necessary to complete conversion of the Beauharnois canal as part of the seaway. The second lift span will be added to the bridge next week by the same company on the St. Louis Bridge, near the Valleyfield Bridge.

Legion Asks Third Increase In War Disability Pensions

OTTAWA (CP) — The 350,000-member Canadian Legion today asked the government for a one-third, across-the-board increase in war disability pensions over the 1948 rates.

In a brief presented to the cabinet, the legion also recommended automatic registration of all youths entering high school and a "universal military training for our young people which will adequately fit them to defend this country should the need arise."

Legion President Dave Burgess of Ottawa said after the one-hour meeting with the cabinet that the government had been "very sympathetic to our proposals" and would consider them. However, there had been no discussion of individual amounts involved.

The Legion noted that the former Liberal government had increased war disability pensions in 1957 but said "rates in various categories differ widely" and in no case was the increase greater than 20 per cent.

A married pensioner with 100-per-cent disability now receives $200 a month compared to $165 before July 1 last year. The Legion recommended that this amount be raised to $227 a month.

There now are some 60,000 war veterans or their dependents receiving pensions.

The legion also recommended that married recipients of war veterans' allowances receive an increase to $140 from $130 a month. There are more than 50,000 recipients of these allowances.

The legion also said former members of the merchant navy should be granted parity for the allowances paid to veterans who have no disability attributable to war but who are unable to work steadily.

The 46-page legion brief did not go into any detail concerning the recommendations for universal military training for Canadian youth.

Cutter Stocks Will Last Only Four Months

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian fish trade will be able to produce enough dairy products to supply the needs of a rapidly growing population, says Dr. H. L. Patterson, head of the farm economics and statistics branch of Ontario department of agriculture.

He said the problem at present was not one of dairy product surpluses.

"We are supposed to have huge stocks of butter on cutters," Dr. Patterson said Tuesday in an interview. "Actually we have less than four months' supply and are going into the winter months when production won't be able to keep up with consumption.

"Last year we had less butter in storage but we actually imported butter oil from Denmark and other countries to make enough of having enough butter to get through the winter."

Dr. Patterson said there is four per cent more cheese in storage than a year ago and stocks of evaporated milk are about the same as a year go.

Monthly production of evaporated milk and cheese was substantially higher. Production of skim milk powder has increased three to 14.

No Councillors Attend Meet Called by Mayor to Confer With Fire Dept. Volunteers

TRENTON — "Without you men on the job Trenton has not got efficient fire protection," Mayor Tom Hurst told the former volunteer firemen at a meeting in the fire hall last night.

The meeting, which was called by the mayor, was to have had the members of the Protection to Persons and Property Committee and the mayor meet with the volunteers in an attempt to reach an agreement on their present dispute. The volunteers' resignation was accepted at Monday's council meeting.

However, none of the councillors turned up for the meeting. The mayor said he had contacted Councillor Lloyd Worrall, chairman of the committee, and Mr. Worrall had said he would be in attendance. He had also said he would bring the other members of his committee.

The mayor told the volunteers he had wanted this meeting so that the councillors and the volunteers could sit down together and talk things over "man to man." "I am a labor man at heart," said the mayor, "and have strong feelings towards the laboring man. I feel God gave us all brains and common sense and there is no reason why we could not have easily reached an agreement. As for your grievances, none of them has ever been presented to council until this time. I have chaired the meetings."

PLEADS FOR HELP

Mayor Hurst also issued a plea to the volunteers, asking that if a fire did break out before this matter was all settled, they turn out to the fire and give relief. He said he would also felt that they would be reinstated if they applied. He said: "I may be wrong about this, but I can't see why they would turn us down."

The mayor also reviewed the grievances of the men and the issues leading up to the present state of affairs.

"I was out of town when it first appeared in the paper," he said, "and as soon as I read it I got in touch with Acting Chief Ellis. He told me Councillor Worrall had ordered that no one call out the volunteers if a fire broke out in town but to call the Air Force and the Belleville fire department.

"I realize that the first five minutes of a fire is the most crucial time so I instructed with Chief Ellis that the volunteers out for any fire and not to call the others unless necessary.

"I then called one of the volunteers to get the reason for their actions.

"He told me the recommendations passed at the council meeting Monday night at the fire department service fore has been disbanded. It was because of this I called a meeting tonight so that the members of his committee to come to this meeting but they failed to do it and they told me they would be here."

OUTSTANDING GRIEVANCES

The mayor then went over the volunteers' grievances one at a time. The first was that of the age limit he said: "I think we should have the right to appoint the men to the force who are over 30 years of age. I'll be asked at Monday night's meeting."

"The two men the late fire chief had recommended out of the police department force were over this age limit, but a number of other men's things to be considered. At 65 I was working on the railroad and was up and down ladders on the boxcars."

The Mayor said he was fully aware of the times firemen got soaked while out at a fire and of the many hours they put in after a fire in cleaning up, hanging the hose, putting the hose on the trucks and many other smaller jobs that council take time. He told the volunteers: "I know, because I have done it for a good many years myself."

He said he doesn't know anything about the income tax ruling. "The volunteers requested that the income tax department be contacted and an agreement made for them to deduct their earnings as volunteer firemen to cover the expenses they encounter while fighting fires."

FIRE COMPENSATION ACT

On life insurance he said he was unfamiliar with this but he did know that it came all under the Workman's Compensation Act.

On the question of hiring more volunteers the mayor said: "I know they have hired some more men, but whether it is to increase the strength of the force or to cut the former one, I don't know."

Speaking on the two new permanent men who the committee had hired yesterday the mayor said he had no axe to grind with Frank Coleman. He said while he was an employee of the town he was a very good worker. Bob Haker was a neighbor of his and he thought both men would make good firemen when trained.

He told the men that as a fire brigade they now no longer existed but he would see his plea adding them to come out and help in case of another fire in Trenton.

He assured the men that in the five years he has been mayor of the town he has never been approached for a meeting because he he had heard they would have one. He said he had never fought with the firemen and always found them to be co-operative.

He also urged the meeting to give serious consideration to asking to be re-instated into the department.

GRIEVANCES NOT NEW

Charlie Potts, chairman of the meeting, thanked the mayor for coming to the meeting and for the support he has given them. Mr. Potts told the mayor the grievances had been brought up were not made on the "spur of the moment." Some of them had been brewing for some time. He explained what the volunteers wanted to do. Standards which have been set down and said most of the previous volunteers were in good health and "all of them have plenty of guts when it comes to fighting fires."

He said the 10 men at the meeting last night had between them 86 years of service on the fire department and that there are two men just over the age limit. The limit was would have liked to accept them but "I don't disobey orders but didn't because of their age.

He also explained to the mayor that just recently one of the volunteers had been hurt and had no pants at a fire and this would have to be personal loss. He also said the money he received for fighting the fire hardly made up for this.

He said on other occasions volunteers have spent money dollars in getting their civilian clothes dry-cleaned after getting them soaked at fires fighting fires.

During the question period it was brought out that the volunteers had been always led to believe that they would be given first chance to get on the permanent force if they stayed with the volunteers.

During the council meeting last Monday night, the resignations of the volunteers had been received before the meeting by Mr. Worrall. The councillor then covered each point of the volunteers' letter of resignation, each as follows:

"I would like now to discuss the letter point by point and give you the committee's comments and reasons for not acting on these points.

"Mr. Hilton did not set the age limit at 30 years, nor the schooling requirements of grade years' high school. The committee was faced with the many problems that have arisen the past few weeks felt very much like a man who was a sensible sick man we went to the doctor. In the office the doctor was the Ontario Fire Marshal. He immediately discovered one of the men was sick so and we discussed all phases of the case and made recommendations with him. We listed his recommendations which are based on the knowledge of experienced men and many years, and then decided to take this report to the doctor, we were going to listen to his advice.

"The recommendations for new applicants for both permanent and volunteers were made after two years' high school; no older than 30 years of age, and in perfect physical health.

"Let me outline why the committee felt that it was vital to start with these recommendations. Firstly, the matter of pensions comes to the forefront. A man who enters the service after the age limit will not receive a full pension by the time he retires at 60. Secondly, the present permanent men have stated that one would term children and as such are not responsible for terminating youth with maturity we will leave a situation open and not subject to trade on future planning.

"We realize that even men who will be on our department until they are 60 will not be too inclined to climb aerial ladders after they reach 50.

"We feel that the father that we are ignoring many years of practical experience and, in some cases, his children, is not true. However, we have learned from the past that only one volunteer has taken any of the courses offered for their advancement. We, therefore, think that if we can attract young, interested men who want to learn, that they will be of a much greater benefit to the town. In

Trenton Council Briefs

TRENTON — Three letters from different town citizens at the Mary Street issue were read at the last meeting of the council. All three ratepayers offered to buy the street allowance as they had heard the town planned to sell it. They stated it was the only way they had of getting in and out of their property and for this reason wanted to own it. The councillors had not heard anything of selling this street and the matter was handed over to Councillor Joe Gould, chairman of the Public Works Committee, to look into it and report back to council.

A second matter was turned over to the Public Works Committee following the reading of a letter from Mayor Hurst, after complaints of its condition were read. The letter said there was a cottage in the middle of the road and this was being used for a workshop. Trees, bushes and a fence were also a hindrance on the road. The culvert was plugged and water was not clearing away after rains. It was said. The mayor said the sewer on this street was put there in the days when he was chairman of the Sewage and Wastes Committee. He said this man may be done a favor in that the sewer had been there before he had built his house. Councillor Joe Gould said he had been up there and looked things over and the matter would be discussed at committee and then brought back to council.

A letter from the Campbellford Chamber of Commerce was received by the Trenton Chamber of Commerce after being read at the council meeting. The letter said that Trenton join with Campbellford in forming a Trent Valley Conservation Authority. The councillors also requested that the Trenton Chamber ask Campbellford Chamber to explain the matter more clearly and what motive is behind the proposal.

Three answers to the question box contained in Centennial Board, the Trenton Public Utilities Commission and the Community Centre. All three rejected the proposal.

The town council ordered the Trenton Memorial Hospital Memorial Hospital sent immediately. It also set aside October 13 as a holiday as tag days for the Quinte Association for Retarded Children and granted the Kinsmen Club its usual day for their tagging.

Clerk - treasurer O. W. Larry was given power to act on the industrial conference he attended in Belleville last week. He said he had been privileged to hear some very good discussions while there and felt it had also attended the conference and presented a brief report.

Letters from Laura Cummings and Angela Cummings concerning lots five, six and seven on Division Street were read and the matter was turned over to the town solicitor who is awaiting further information on the lots from the railway company concerned. The solicitor told the councillors the tracks have been there since 1909 and were apparently used by the Canadian Northern.

A formal request from the Trenton Public Utilities Commission was read to the council asking for $102,000 to make an addition to the filtration plant and increase the water supply to the town. The by-law covering borrowing this money on debentures was given first and second reading. The amount would be repaid by the town over a period of 20 years.

Councillor Joe Gould gave a verbal report on the Public Works Committee and told the council that December 19 has been the date set for finishing repairs to the town bridge. He also said that the water metering program is underway on Division Street and that Ellis, Marmora and Division Streets will also come under this program.

R. S. Campbell, town solicitor, who reported on the legal aspect of a word method for purchasing coal, said that the system was not possible. He told the council that he had been informed it of the steps it must take if it desired a staggered system by a two-term of office for the councillors.

The council approved a resolution to pay Leo Auger the sum of $50 for his services on the government docks during the water tender inquiry. It also gave first and second reading to the by-law which would increase the remuneration paid to the councillors and the mayor. The by-law was given third reading but requires that approval of the Municipal Board. The by-law will increase the councillors' salary to $1,000 per year, and the mayor's to $1,500.

First and second readings of the new zoning by-law were given after a meeting on a polled vote. Voting in favor of the by-law as it now stands were Councillors Ray Fox, Vague Lange, Lloyd Worrall and Jim Drummond. Voting against were Councillors Joe Gould and Clarence Hilton. The by-law will come up for the third reading at a later date.

A letter from the various municipalities and Board of Education No. 2 Highway, asked that signs saying "Slow Children" be placed at the entrance to all schools on the highway. It might mention that at present all the volunteers the day of the Chief's funeral I told him. I might that I would get in touch with the Workmen's Compensation Board, obtain any information available and let him know. He replied, I phoned the Compensation Board and was told that they have men who travel over the province and that the next time they are in this area they will receive a visit from him. I might mention that at present all the volunteers the day of the late Chief's funeral I told him that I would get in touch with the Board and have received further information I would let him know.

CANADA'S FIRE LOSSES HIGH

Coolish on Monday morning, wasn't it? Did you light the fire with a ten-buck bill?

If you did you were almost certainly the exception. Most Canadians grumble continually about their heating bill. Yet every one of them tossed an additional $8.18 onto the fire in 1957 - - and got nothing but grief in return.

The fires for which Canadians paid an extra $8.18 a head were not the fires that warm or the fires that cook, but the fires that kill and the fires that raze. That $8.18 was the per capita cost of our 1957 fire losses - - and everybody in Canada helped to pay for that loss, make no mistake about that, whether or not they had a fire on premises they owned or occupied. They paid for it in higher insurance rates, in higher costs for goods, in men made idle and families left hungry and cold.

Many of us have a strange attitude towards insurance. We think that, because we carry insurance on our cars, accidents do not cost us anything. A fender dented here or there does not worry us. From the way our fire losses have soared, one might almost think that Canadians have a similar attitude towards fire insurance - - and yet we cannot believe that anybody is really prepared to accept the occasional "little fire" as one of the normal hazards of living. Most people are terrified of fire. Why, then, are they so careless?

Carelessness is the only explanation for our disgracefully high fire losses. Compare our per capita loss of $8.18 in 1957 with the average of ten European countries, $2.40 in 1952. It is true that our per capita loss in that year was only $5.86, but is the fact that the loss has risen by almost 40 per cent in six brief years any cause for complacency? Can we really believe that "inflation" is an adequate explanation for all of this increase? It is true, too, that our climate is colder than that of some countries, but it is also true that our heating equipment is more modern and, properly used, should result in fewer fires. It is true that our homes are bigger than those in some lands, but are they more expensive than homes in the U.S., where the fire loss was only $4.56 per capita?

The cold truth is that each and every Canadian is paying $8.18 a year to buy poverty, pain and death. We cannot eliminate this loss entirely, but with a little effort, a very little effort, we could reduce it substantially. This is fire prevention week and fire departments throughout the country are staging a campaign aimed at reducing this loss. But really effective fire prevention is a full-time task which must be undertaken by every one of us.

Last year 640 Canadians died in fires and property worth $134,700,000 was destroyed. This year, too, the toll will be high, as anybody who reads his daily newspaper and the reports of fires is already aware. But we can reduce this toll during the remaining months of this year - - and get a good start towards a better record in 1959.

A JOB WELL DONE

The function of special committees of the House of Commons is to probe and investigate into matters concerning the government and the public in greater detail and more exhaustively than it would be possible were Parliament as a whole to serve as the exclusive watchdog of the activities of departments and agencies of the Government.

If this be the proper function of parliamentary committees, then the House estimates committee is to be commended for having done a wholly admirable job. Rather than trying to sweep its more disagreeable findings under the rug, it speaks out clearly and forcefully in its report on the kind of thinking about which MPs, as representatives of the public, should be most concerned. It urges upon the armed services the desirability of unifying such branches as the provost, chaplain and medical services; it calls for better reporting of expenditures; it says that a good, hard look should be taken at the accounting methods of Crown Corporations.

When the estimates committee began its work early in the session, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said that if members of the committee performed their duty, they would "have endless hours and days of fruitless effort." The fact that the committee, in its report, finds so many matters of concern, so much needing to be done to eliminate the waste and extravagance that comes of duplicating of effort, of poor administrative and bookkeeping methods, and so on, indicates that there is still a lot of room for improvement in the way departments and agencies of government discharge their functions.

ALL HE'S WORTH

By EDGAR A. GUEST

He was afraid he'd not be paid
To fell the wheat he did,
He'd do no more than bargained for Precisely to a quid.

He drew a thing correctly fine,
About his little spot.

"I'm paid to stay right here," he'd say.
"Do more? Well, I guess not!"

Of all mistakes man sometimes makes
This is the worst on earth:
To set the pay he gets today
The standard of his worth.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article first contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society).

OUR FOREMOST HISTORIAN

Not only did it boast Dunbar and Susanna Moodie, but it also could claim William Canniff, M.D., who has justly been called the historian of the Bay of Quinte district".

Born in Thurlow Township in 1830, William Canniff was educated at Victoria College (Cobourg), and served in the Army Medical Department in the Crimean War (1854 - 56), before practising at Belleville in the 1860's.

Dr. Canniff was a pioneer in many things. He took a part in organizing the Canadian Medical Association, was an early editor of the Canadian Medical Journal, and published "The Medical Profession in Upper Canada", a detailed history of medicine in the early days of this province.

But in addition he compiled the United Empire Loyalist Centennial Celebration held in Toronto in 1884, and was one of the organizers in 1888 of the Ontario Historical Society.

He is best remembered socially for his book, "The History of the Settlement of Upper Canada (Ontario), with Special Reference to the Bay of Quinte", first published in 1869.

The preface for this monumental work was largely done while Canniff practised medicine in Belleville and district.

Although it was intended originally to be only a short paper upon settlement on the Bay of Quinte, it soon grew to the point where he was advised to write a history of this area for publication.

Canniff then found that to write such an account of settlement on the Bay of Quinte "was to pen a history of the settlement of the Province". Accordingly the completed work dealt with the entire province, with special emphasis on the Bay of Quinte.

This book has many merits. It is clear, concise and extraordinarily readable. More important, it makes use of source materials—both human and material—that no longer exist. Most of Canniff's conclusions have stood the test of time, and his work has been a source of information and inspiration for many succeeding historians.

In fact, so highly in this book regarded today, that copies in good condition bring as much as twenty-five dollars on the open market.

The book's chief fault lies in the absence of a comprehensive index. Perhaps in time this fault can be overcome, and the vast quantity of information contained in Dr. Canniff's "History of Upper Canada" will be more readily accessible.

Editor's note: Articles thirty to fifty in this series have been prepared by Gerald E. Boyce, B.A., teacher of history at Quinte Secondary School. Belleville. Material and suggestions for future articles may be forwarded to be addressed to the society's office, 236 George Street, Belleville.

Medicine's War on Quacks

BBC London Letter

"The history of English medicine, which is the history of it in the world, is a story of a war of four and a half centuries of war — with quacks and with human credulity," said Lord Moran, president of the Royal College of Physicians from 1941 to 1950, speaking in a series of talks about "The Scientific Mind" broadcast recently in the BBC's General Overseas Service. It was in 1518, Lord Moran, pointed out, that Henry VIII had given the College of Physicians a charter so that no one could practise medicine within seven miles of the City of London without permission of the College. "This assured that the doctor had some sort of professional training, but it was only a beginning of a war against the quacks, a war that is still going on. For when we wage war with a new weapon we are up against human nature."

"Why do people go to quacks? Lord Moran asked. Partially, because they must feel safer with them: the prestige of the quack is the size of his victims is greater than that of the doctor." The remedy, he said, was to lower the prestige of the quack, or, "more hopefully, to build up the fame of the doctor by arming him so that he can deal effectively with disease and need no longer resort to humbug to impress his patients." Half a century ago, when the physician has been so armed, when I was a student, pneumonia was dealt in a surgical rather than in a medical way. Pneumonia, as I said, was the physician could do nothing for his patients except to diet them and to watch their pain. Now with antibiotics, with insulin, with liver extract, with penicillin, the physician can do as much for his patients as any surgeon can do. Medicine has become quite a cheerful place. Infectious diseases have been conquered, and I have devoted to them have been behaved; pneumonia has lost half its terrors."

To thwart the doctor himself by his pursuit of gain has been a personality to gain the confidence of patients to a scientific mind. Lord Moran said. As late as 1912, Royal Commission had found that some specialists were so by in the pursuit of gain that they had no time for the pursuit of knowledge. It had recommended that professions of medicine and surgery should be appointed who would give all their time to teaching and research. Such professors as Sir George Pickering, Regius Professor of Medicine at Oxford, and Robert Platt, president of the Royal College of Physicians, had set out to make their students more intimately and precisely familiar with the experimental method, by which controlled trials were carried out to discover whether the drugs given to patients were more than just a process of suggestion. No worker in a physiological laboratory would dream of leaving the laboratory without seeking the result of his experiment. Lord Moran said, but that was precisely what physicians had been doing for centuries. "For anaemia we used to give a few grains of iron. Perhaps the patient felt better, but there was no change in the blood. Tens of iron were given in this manner, and the experimental method tells us why it was all labour wasted. The dose we gave was, for one thing, far too small, and, besides, there is only a certain type of anaemia that is helped by iron."

Pickering had pointed out that this was not an isolated instance, Lord Moran said, and would like all the drugs in the pharmacopoeia to be reviewed by carefully controlled therapeutic trials, he was done with the discovery of a new drug such as streptomycin. "First rate" and "sound" experiments determine what it is effective and that it is not; choose at random a hundred cases of pulmonary tuberculosis and treat fifty of them by streptomycin and the other fifty by rest plus streptomycin, and at months we measure the results; we don't ask the patients how they feel, we ask for objective measurements such as the effect on the temperature, on a sound of tubercle bacilli in the sputum and on the X-ray."

The scientific life was a long drawn out struggle to practise medicine without reliance on the credulity of his patients, Lord Moran said, and he should try to understand the quack. A man's work is sceptical and to demand proof of everything. In a word, he is through life with a scientific habit of mind." He was, however, very conscious of the limitations of science, and agreed with L o r d Balfour that the survival of civilization must ultimately depend not on the advance of science, but on the spread of morality and on the growth of altruism.

Now Catsup Pours Freely

Stratford Beacon-Herald

A Cape Bruton editor laments that it is too easy to start a fire with a match made mid-antropic by the idiotic behavior of the human race. After reading the morning's news he feels that the world is a mess.

However, there is a brighter side, thanks to our scientists, who have given us the answer to the greatest mess-eliminating discoveries of all times. The old-fashioned bottle with a mind-made mistake being replaced by catsup in a can, plastic lid, pouring spout, push button and the catsup flows smoothly where desired. There'll be no more catsup disasters at the dining table, no more ruined dresses, shirts, frocks and tablecloths. An enthusiastic newsman, who has tried the new container, did break-through in the food business almost comparable to the discovery of the wheel.

We would hardly go that far, but, at least, it does mark an advance in the current of toothpaste in pressurized tubes which has banished the mess caused by people who insist on squeezing a toothpaste tube in the middle. Why, if some genius will only perfect an olive bottle from which olives will pop singly at a time, under pressure, we will have gone a long way toward making the world a less messy place than it has been for a long while back.

Afghans Like Own Bread

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

Bread is the staff of life in Afghanistan as it is in many other countries. So the Russians, to prove their "friendship," built a big bakery in Kabul, the nation's capital, a year or so ago.

The bakery has been turning out bread in large quantities. Newcomers who have visited Afghanistan and tasted this new bread, say it's good.

But the Afghans don't like it. They prefer their own style of bread, which is a flat, crusty product that looks like a cartwheel.

To make the new Russian-built bakery produce to capacity a big share of Afghan flour goes to it. Smaller native bakeries can't get flour. Many are being driven out of business. And the crowds of boys who used to run errands for Kabul bakers, each of "nan" for sale now find little to sell.

Worse than that, reports the Wall Street Journal, which has been looking at aid programs in Afghanistan, many Afghans forced to eat the Russian type bread instead of "nan" are wasting it. They tear off and eat the crust and throw the soft middle section to the birds. The birds like it, but it's a drain on the valuable and costly supplies of flour.

This aid program is yielding dividends in good will for the Russians. It goes to show that an aid program can backfire whenever it conflicts with local customs and tastes.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS AND THE MAN

"Labor is life," said Carlyle. He would equip a man with tools and then set him to work. He said further: "Pray for a sound heart and a stout stomach."

Modern science gives his God-given force, the sacred, celestial essence breathed into him by Almighty God."

Mere labor, contribute nothing to the world, but thinkers to a purpose, do. Work may well be said to be a religious duty. The one who adapts it, and an inspiration to the one who makes it a serious part of his entire life purpose. Carlyle was right. "Labor is life."

Tools and the man work together. They are as one. I believe there is a spiritual urge in as all — our better nature appealing to us to make practical calculations and ideals. All tools fascinate me. Since early youth I have loved to see men work. Carpenters are creative. How that creative affinity has evidenced itself in the world is illustrated in the endless things that tools and the man have created.

The story of the ages, as shown in that man and his tools have wrought, is to be found, in the Metropolitan City Museum of Art. We seem very small to ourselves as we look upon the great achievements of other days. Let us hope that a gray that they shall not be disturbed by man's brutality in war.

What a blessed thing is this work that we do! What masterpieces of weaving are shown in the beautiful oriental rugs in our museums. And what exquisite tapestries. These are the things live forever. If not in themselves, then in the memory of those whose souls created them.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

FFORBBEA CAUSES TEETH TO LOOSEN AND DECAY

Once I knew a man who was quite decidedly successful, and one evening he expounded his theory of being an "aggressive leader." "Never," he advised, "just say 'yes' or 'no.' I always say, absolutely! That's just what I mean when I mean yes. And if I mean no I say, '. . . no!' or even 'Never!'"

His theory worked well enough to give him the reputation of being a man who could make instant decisions, and he was greatly admired by people who couldn't make up their own minds, and therefore thought he was wonderful.

It is perhaps also beside the point that at a fairly early age he began to go to pieces emotionally, and presently died of a combination of ailments which, as far as I know, had nothing to do with his emotions or his flamboyant style of being an "executive."

The point, if any, is that in my profession there are times to use the word yes, no, but, perhaps, and even maybe. Most things are not black and some are white and some are gray and some are tattle tale mauve.

So here's letter that starts out, "Dear Dr. Molner, I have a cold and me I have pyorrhea but by having my teeth cleaned every three months I have had a long time yet. Is pyorrhea contagious? And will it harm my partner if I don't have my teeth pulled soon? At times I feel very bad, really no pain, just sick. I have started to get some arthritis, especially in my shoulder. I also am troubled with hemorrhoids, both internal and external. In fact, the doctor tells me they are ulcerated. Should I have them taken care of? My doctor wanted to put them in my womt your opinion. — Mrs. J.A."

POCKETS OF INFECTION

So here's my answer, Mrs. J.A. Pyorrhea is a disease of the gums — pockets of infection. The bacteria from these pockets to some one else, they may get a foothold. Not like TB, measles, or scarlet fever, but to safe I'd be careful about washing my hands after touching my mouth, and be careful to keep my dishes and silverware before anyone else used it.

Then to use your fork to pass a taste of food to someone's else's plate. Be reasonably careful, in short, against giving the germ.

But as for the dentist's bill, keeping the teeth and keeping them, that's what I'd do.

Will the germs affect you elsewhere? Maybe. But so long as the process remains in a moderate stage (meaning that your system is fighting the germs with moderate success in the gums) I wouldn't worry too much. If your doctor can't treat down a general infection — then is time enough to worry about the teeth. I favor saving the teeth, within reason.

The arthritis in the shoulder is pretty obscure. Likely incidental and not connected, I could be wrong, but I don't think so for most cases. And the hemorrhoids: To borrow a phrase from the vernacular "Are they agitating you?" You've described a situation that I'd have them taken care of. Better, have that matter corrected now.

Mrs. J.L.: A man who weighs 275 and puts away seven or eight beers, a quart each, is fat? Of course he sweats as a result of it! There's no question, either, that he is shortening his life. But since he gets angry, leave the matter to him. He's your husband.

Mrs. H.P.: These "fatty tumors" or lipomas, are not cancer, of course, they are benign. Because they are lumps, many people wonder if they are cancer. But they're not. Incidentally, they are quite common.

Leg cramps and foot pains? Both can be stopped! To learn how, send for a copy of this newspaper, requesting my pamphlet, "Leg Cramps and Foot Pains," and enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5c in coin to cover cost.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

Just as no girl really knows what she looks like from behind, so no man really knows what he looks like from in front. If he did, he would be more careful about his expression and his bearing. Girls, in their dressing rooms, themselves in mirrors and in store windows as they walk along the streets, are thoroughly conscious of how they look, and seem to have no trouble keeping constantly in mind the business of wearing an attractive expression and a graceful carriage. But if you observe the girls on the street, you cannot help but note the mask-like expressions they wear.

But the men have a thousand expressions. As they pass by, you see everything from misery to joy of life. The only time a man wears a poker face is when he is playing poker.

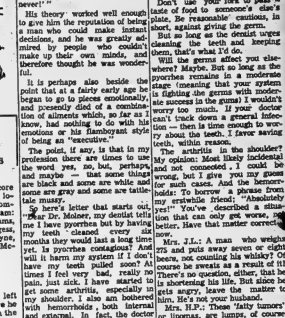
Some time ago I was on a committee which had to be introduced a man we were about to select for a highly paid and important job. had his poker face on when he entered the room. But in ten minutes he had revealed so much of arrogance, impatience and prejudice that he was passed up for a far less aggressive but much more agreeable man. We few men know what they look like in front. Which is a very fortunate thing for us all.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

REMEMBERING AND FORGETTING

Some psychologists believe the capacity of the human brain to be so great that all the experiences of life are stored in it. Few if any of us can tap a very large percentage of this supposed total capacity. But we could develop our mental powers sufficiently, as by training, like wax tablet machines, would deliver any desired piece of information for which we pressed the right combination of buttons, so to speak.



As things are, however, most of us forget more than we remember. But what a blessing most of this forgetting really is! Suppose we had to go around perfumed with the recollections of all the trivial and dull experiences which we have filled most of the days of our past life. Or suppose we had to carry in our mind's important fact we needed to recall from the bulging files of memories of years of intercourse with other people.

We are better off as we are. Forgetting is one of the useless things, and remembering only the useful and important seems a wonderfully selective. We need this selectivity to escape being buried in our past. Fortunately we are able to recall the significant events of the past and to profit by them in building a better future.

Our yesterdays should not hold countenances of the past, but foundation stones for the future.

LITTLE HOPE

"The holy father, after having spent a quiet night without incidents, today at 7:30 (3:30 a.m. EDT) showed a new disturbance of the cerebral circulation, similar to that reported last Monday.

NEW TREATMENT

"Immediately, a new treatment required by the grave situation, has been adopted. At 0600 (4:30 a.m. EDT) the syndrome shows a slight improvement. Prognosis has been reserved."

It was learned unofficially at the Vatican press office that the Pope's heart was weakening and had become irregular following the second attack.

The Vatican radio said the pontiff had regained consciousness for a time and requested holy communion but was unable to swallow the host. He was then given absolution and apparently became unconscious again soon after.

LAST RITES

On Monday, while still in the coma following his first stroke, the Pope was administered extreme unction, the last rites of the church for the dying and those in danger of death.

Prelates of the pontifical court were rallied to Castel Gandolfo, presumably, to make initial arrangements in connection with the funeral, to have the pontiff's condition and its possible consequences.

Three of the four specialists who had been keeping constant vigil at the pontiff's bedside were with him when the second stroke came.

The Vatican Radio announced the second coma-like illness in a special broadcast direct from his summer palace at Castel Gandolfo.

It was the second time in the 82-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church and spiritual leader of some 500,000,000 Catholics has been near death.

SECOND ILLNESS

Four years ago a serious illness struck the pontiff but he rallied.

Last week he suffered a recurrence of the hiccups and gastritis with which his illness began four years ago.

Monsignor before he was struck down on Monday he had said mass at his private chapel and received communion. He was preparing to resume work in his private library when the attack hit him.

"My God! I cannot see! I cannot see" he was quoted as saying.

A

As he had four years ago, the pontiff showed great powers of will and physical endurance. Again he rallied and for a time it was hoped he was once more on the way to recovery.

Tuesday night came word that his condition had worsened.

RELATIVES PRESENT

The Vatican radio said all the Pope's close relatives were in the antechamber of the sickroom. The broadcast concluded with the cardinals in the palace all over the world to intensify their prayers for his recovery.

From all parts of the world messages of condolence and the hope that he would recover into the secretary of state's office in the Vatican.

The cardinals of the church were being kept informed. They would elect a successor if the Pope died.

In a courtyard adjacent to the papal summer palace a throng gathered and prayed in loud voices for the Pope. But police cleared the square in front of the great gray stone building, saying, "it is not seemly to have people crowding here."

Various Rome afternoon newspapers came out with extra editions reporting the Pope was dead but the Vatican continued to deny it flatly. Reporters at the Vatican press office were told the Rome police headquarters had ordered seizure of all newspapers reporting the Pope dead.

Greyhound Bus Hits Road Roller, 39 Are Injured

SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — A double - decker Greyhound bus struck the rear of a slow-moving 14-ton pavement roller on the State Thruway Tuesday, filling nine persons—a number of them Canadians—reported injuries.

Twenty-eight were taken to hospital and 13 still were being held today for treatment. Two were reported in serious condition.

State police said the New York-to-Toronto Scenicruiser, carrying 41 passengers, was attempting to pass the roller when it struck the machine's left rear. The bus reared across a grass mall to the opposite lane and down an embankment. It did not upset.

DOOR JAMMED

The passengers worked their way to freedom through a window. The front end of the bus was damaged severely and the door was jammed.

The injured included Mrs. Hilda Hopkins, 50, and Mrs. Ivy Hopkins, 74, both of Ashburn, Ont.; Mary Healon, 42, Bertha Sheridan, 46, Mrs. Ann Leonardi, 19, and Miss Brigid Rashoie, 41, of Toronto.

AVOID PANIC

Most severely injured were Miss Leach, 45, a Thruway authority employee who was driving the roller, and Mr. Dominick Jasinuk, 39, a physiotherapist who lives in Syracuse. Jasinuk is a physician at the Syracuse State School.

The crash occurred at the 35-mile east of Interchange 35. The bus was to have stopped in Syracuse.

AVOID PANIC

Passenger Sydney A. Downing, 67, of Kingston, Ont., was credited with helping to avoid a panic.

When the bus came to a halt, Downing stood in the aisle and urged the passengers to move calmly out the window, which had been dropped open.

The bus driver, George Batalias, was injured slightly. No charges were placed against him.

Montgomery's Memoirs Open With Report of First Order To Eighth Army -- No Retreat

NEW YORK (CP) — Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery in the first instalment of his memoirs published Tuesday in Life magazine says he first thing he did on assuming command of the 8th Army was to cancel previous orders for withdrawal.

The British war-leader's story is being serialized simultaneously in Canada in Weekend Magazine.

Monty says that when he arrived to take over command in August, 1942, during the German Afrika Corps march toward Cairo, "the sight that met me was enough to lower anyone's morale."

"There was an air of uncertainty about everything."

The Middle East commander-in-chief, General Sir Claude Auchinleck, had ordered that the 8th Army "must not be destroyed in battle."

DEAD OR ALIVE

Montgomery says he decided immediately there would be no retreat. "We would fight on the ground we now held and if we couldn't stay there alive we would stay there dead."

Field Marshal Rommel's forces were routed at El Alamein and then pursued across 2,000 miles of desert. Three months later Montgomery's troops entered Tripoli.

In accordance with decisions at the Casablanca Conference the 8th Army came under General Eisenhower for the fighting in Tunisia. General Alexander, who had succeeded Auchinleck, was made deputy commander-in-chief and was to command the land forces. In his memoirs Montgomery describes the first reactions of the British high commanders to American forces.

"Alexander told me he found things in a terrible mess when he went over to join General Eisenhower. The 1st Army was being heavily attacked on the southern part of its front and everything looked like sliding there. Generally he found stagnation: too high a policy, no plan, the front all mixed up, no reserves, no training anywhere, no building up for the future, and so on.

"He found the American troops disappointing. They were mentally and physically soft and very green. It was the old story: Lack of proper training allied to no experience of war, and linked with too high a standard of living. They were going through their early days; just as we had to go through ours. We had been at war a long time and our mistakes lay mostly behind us.

Municipal spokesman reported that they had suggested a fact-reaching review of the tax structure.

Mr. Fulton told reporters later the royal commission idea was raised "in a completely informal way" with no discussion on it and no decision.

Mayor William Hawrelak of Edmonton, federation of mayors spokesman, said the municipalities also asked for a federal-provincial-municipal tax conference. Mr. Diefenbaker was reported as having said such a conference could not be held without provincial agreement.

Reporters asked Mr. Fulton why no concrete decisions were reached and he replied the meeting was "not designed to go away with a list of decisions." It was designed to clarify municipal problems for consideration later.

Exports Provide Bright Spot in Economic Picture

By FORREST RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

MONTREAL (CP) — A mixed bag of opportunities and difficulties in the foreign trade field was presented today to the annual meeting of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce.

John H. English, deputy minister of trade and commerce, said Canada's exports so far this year have been one of the brightest spots in the economic picture—remaining at about last year's level in dollar value and slightly up in volume, while most countries have shown substantial decline.

F. T. Sherk, president of H. J. Heinz and Company of Canada Ltd. Leamington, Ont. declared however:

"Everywhere we exporters look we can find factors which make export markets harder to find and more difficult to service."

COMMONWEALTH SALES UP

Here are some of the points made by Mr. English:

Geographically, the most noticeable change in the pattern of Canadian exports this year has been a great increase in sales to the Commonwealth, the most spectacular increase coming in agricultural products from India.

Exports to the United States have declined three per cent so far this year compared to 1957.

Progress has been made in Canadian exports of manufactured goods as distinct from bulk food, minerals and forest products.

On the import side, imports have declined 12 per cent in the first eight months reflecting the country's business downturn.

Canada's trade deficit with the United States to date is $825,000,000 as compared to $985,000,000 a year ago.

DEBT SHRINKING

Taking into account non - merchandise elements of the balance of payments, Canada's deficit in the first half of the year was $900,000,000, down from $965,000,000 in last year's same period.

DEATH BY DROWNING

'Plow Jockeys' Mark Reunion With Handing Over of Color

Canada's fighting "plow jockeys" of World War II will roll back the years over the holiday weekend.

The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, whose proud blazing pages in Canadian history in Sicily and Europe, is holding its annual reunion in the city.

It is expected that some 400 of the 5000 personnel who passed through the regiment, will be here to relive old times, refight old battles and renew wartime friendships.

The reunion will be unique in that the wartime color of the regiment complete with battle honors, will be turned over to the proud militia unit that bears its name.

This will mark the first time in history that former members of a wartime unit will march in review over the color and battle honors to its peacetime militia counterpart.

Lieut.-Colonel Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the militia regiment and himself a veteran of the "plow jockeys," said, "it will be a great day for all the Old Timers. It will be a day of inspiration long to be remembered by the present and future members of the regiment."

The handing-over ceremony will take place at 2.30 Sunday afternoon, October 12, at the Drill St. playgrounds. The officiating chaplain will be Major Rev. Col. Goforth, M.C., chaplain who served with the regiment in Italy.

The veterans will be led by some of their famous wartime commanders. The Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment (militia) will be commanded by Lt.-Col. Duffy.

Preparatory to the presentation, the regiment will hold a rehearsal parade in the armouries at 11 a.m. Sunday.

At 1.45 the regiment and veterans will parade in the armouries and then march to the square where will be made to individual members.

The entire parade will leave the armouries at 2.15 for the Bridge St. playground, where the battle honor ceremonies and a memorial service will take place.

Following the ceremony and service, the parade will move off. A march-past will be held with the salute being taken at a base at the corner of Bleecker and Bridge Sts.

For local and visiting veterans registration will take place in the armouries at 2.00 p.m. Saturday afternoon. From eight o'clock on there will be a get-together in the various messes.

The regimental association will hold its annual meeting in the lecture room at ten o'clock Sunday morning, and at noon the annual association dinner will take place in the ANAF auditorium, 187 Front St.

Then follows the battle honors ceremonies and memorial service and from six to eight o'clock a supper and get-together will be held in the officers', sergeants' and men's messes. Ladies are invited.

Veterans of the "plow jockeys" will be here from all parts of the district and country.

Outstanding among the visiting Hasty Pees is former company sergeant-major George Rowland, who flew here with his bride from Durban, South Africa. Former CSM Rowland, MM, MBE, was not only famous for his fighting qualities but the fact that he never wore socks. He was and is known as "Sockless George."

Sub-units of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment will be here from Bellhaven, Port Hope, Norwood, Madoc, Picton and Trenton.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

Miss Mandy McCune has returned to her home in Toronto, after attending the Blatherwick-Belshaw wedding.

Mrs. Elda Boyd, 25 E. Moire St., was honored Tuesday, Sept. 30, on the occasion of her 84th birthday. A number of friends arrived at her home and presented her with gifts, cards, flowers, and a beautiful corsage. After the gifts were opened and Mrs. Boyd had graciously thanked everyone, a delicious lunch was served, the highlight of which was the cutting of a birthday cake. A pleasant time was spent and all joined in wishing Mrs. Boyd many more "happy birthdays".

At the national convention of the Catholic Women's League of Canada being held in Vancouver, Oct. 10 to 16th., Mrs. B. E. Burley, of Belleville, president of the Kingston Archdiocesan Council, of the CWL, will represent the oldest diocese in Upper Canada. One of the social highlights of the convention will be a tea given by Mrs. Frank Ross, wife of the premier of British Columbia.

Wedding

KOPONGH — RUPPENTHAL

STIRLING — A pretty wedding ceremony was solemnized in Bethel United Church on Saturday, September 27th, with the pastor, Rev. W. G. Fletcher, B.A., of Rawdon circuit, officiating.

The church was decorated with baskets of late summer flowers for the wedding of Miss Ingeborg Ruppenthal, who came to Canada from Germany last year to Mr. Wasyl Koponogh, a Canadian citizen, who came to Canada several years ago and has resided in the Stirling area.

The bride wore a floor-length bridal gown of net over taffeta, with a long veil of tulle illusion fashioned in the effect at the back and caught to a headdress of matching net and lace. She carried a bouquet of red roses.

She was preceded down the aisle by two small girls who carried flowers while two other little tots walked behind and held her veil.

Her attendant was Miss Marilina Yarabek, of Frankford, who was gowned in a ballerina length dress of coral net with matching headdress and floral nosegay.

Mr. Alex Schadeo, Belleville, attended the groom.

Mrs. Robert Williams, Mill Street, Stirling, provided traditional wedding music.

Mrs. O. L. Clapper, Stirling, was soloist and rendered "The Lord's Prayer" before the ceremony and "Because" during the signing of the register.

Following the ceremony, a reception for 50 guests was held in Stirling Community Hall. Two friends acted as proxy for the mothers of the bride and groom and graciously received the guests.

Friends of the young couple catered for the reception and the many attended special food dele-cacies of the Ukranian, German and Canadian varieties.

Following the luncheon, Mr. and Mrs. Koponogh unwrapped the various bowl gifts and expressed their thanks.

The group then took part in a delightful evening on the international theme after which folk dancing was enjoyed. The music was supplied by a record player and a friend provided accordion.

Guests included Rev. and Mrs. W. G. Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. O. L. Clapper, Mrs. Robert Williams, Mrs. Percy McGee, and Mrs. Ann Ashers.

The happy couple will reside in Stirling, where both are employed at the Kaiser Shoe Plant.

Wives Fight Harder to Save Marriage

HAMILTON (CP)—Wives fight harder than their husbands to save their marriage when difficulties arise says Mary Burnham, director of the Hamilton Family Service Bureau which has helped hundreds of families.

She says wives usually make the first approach to the bureau.

A series of problems rather than a single burden brings a marriage to the edge of tragedy, she says.

The majority of calls come from families in the $4,000 to $6,000 income bracket. They are husbands and wives who have not learned to live together; parents confused and unable to understand their children; lonely people, scared people and angry people."

The bureau can call on doctors, psychiatrists, homemakers, nurses and lawyers to help families.

"But we provide counselling rather than money or goods," said Miss Burnham.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Samuel Wilson are shown signing the register following their recent marriage in Bridge Street United Church, Belleville. The bride is the former Maxine Ethel Wadsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth of Belleville, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, of Calabogie, Ontario. The bride and groom are both graduates of the Ontario School for the Deaf.

WILSON — WADSWORTH

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the scene of a wedding candle - light wedding on Saturday, September 6, when Maxine Ethla Wadsworth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wadsworth, of Belleville, was united in marriage to Joseph Samuel Wilson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. William Wilson, of Calabogie. Rev. Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, performed the double ring ceremony.

Both the bride and the bridegroom are graduates of the Ontario School for the Deaf. The ceremony was interpreted to them by sign language by Mr. Arthur Clare, of Belleville.

Fern and baskets of pink and white gladioli adorned the altar and white satin bows designated the guest pews.

Mr. Alex Gordon, church organist, provided traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. Ann Davidson, who sang "The Lord's Prayer," before the ceremony, and "O Perfect Love," during the signing of the register.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a floor - length bridal gown of white nylon tulle and hand - clipped imported French lace. Clusters of seed pearls and iridescent sequins illumined the embroidered and lightly scalloped lace neckline which was enriched by clusters of pearl beads. These were repeated again on the full, billowy skirt of lace over nylon tulle cascading gracefully into a chapel train, underscored by a net slip and full satin slip. The long sleeves ended in lily points over the hands. Her fingertip scallo-ped veil of tulle illusion appliqued with lace, was held by a coronet of lace encrusted with iridescent and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of garnet sweetheart roses and snowdrift roses with trailing ivy. A single strand of pearls, the gift of her bridegroom, completed her ensemble.

Miss Brenda Briscoe, of Belleville, was the maid-of-honor, and she wore a gown of blue silk organza, featuring a long bows bodice, scalloped embroidered neckline, and cap sleeves, and a full ballerina length skirt over net and taffeta. She wore matching mittens, a feather hat and shoes, and carried a crescent bouquet of yellow daisy 'mums.

Miss Christina MacDonald, of Wellington, cousin of the bride, and Miss Bernice Spencer, of Trenton, were bridesmaids, dressed in similar gowns of pink silk organza, with matching mittens, pink feather hats and shoes. They carried crescent bouquets of white and pink tinted 'mums.

The two little flower girls, Debra Lee Robinson and Bonnie Lee Spencer, of Montreal, cousins of the bride, were demurely dressed in identical floor-length gowns of white nylon net and lace with matching mittens. The crowns were fashioned with tiny fitted bodices, oval shaped neck-lines, fitted with ruffled lace-trimmed collars extending over the shoulders. The full, tiered skirts were trimmed with lace, featured hoop underskirts of taffeta. They wore pearl encrusted tiaras, and carried nosegays of garnet Sweetheart roses and white snowdrift 'mums.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Jack Remington, of Wellington, a cousin of the bride. The ushers were Messrs. Kevin Wilson, of Prescott, brother of the bridegroom, and Arlen Wadsworth, of Belleville, brother of the bride.

A reception was held in the Masonic Temple, Belleville, where the guests were received by the bride's mother, wearing a floor-length shade English broadcloth sheath - style dress, with aqua feather hat, brown accessories, and a corsage of pink pinocchio sweetheart roses.

The groom's mother assisted, wearing a dress of pale blue lace over taffeta, with navy accessories, and a corsage of pink pinocchio sweetheart roses.

The bride's table was centred with a three - tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and bridegroom underneath an arch of pink roses and lily-of-the-valley, and encircled with white tulle and clusters of pink pinocchio roses. The cake was flanked by tall white candles in tri - branched silver candelabra, and bouquets of pink snapdragons and white baby 'mums. Bouquets of pink and white gladioli decorated the guests' tables.

An uncle of the bride, Mr. Harry Macdonald, of Wellington, proposed the toast to the bride to which the bridegroom ably responded. Mr. Arthur Clare was master of ceremonies and interpreter of the toasts.

For a wedding trip to Montreal, Quebec City, and points east, the bride chose a turquoise sheath dress under a honey shade chemise duster, with black feather hat and matching accessories. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Guests were present from Fort William, Kitchener, Toronto, Oshawa, Kingston, Ottawa, Calabogie, Bancroft, and Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson will reside in Oshawa, where Mr. Wilson is on the staff of the Times Gazette.

Prior to her marriage the bride was presented with a steam iron from the "Bee Dee" Club of Deacon Brothers where she was employed and was tendered two showers, one held at the home of Miss Betty Briscoe and the other at the home of Mrs. Gerald Robertson.

Dream House Not Far Away Says Designer

WASHINGTON (AP)—A dream house—dust free, air conditioned, with kitchens and baths that clean themselves—was pictured Tuesday by a New York industrial designer, Henry Dreyfuss.

It will be here "sooner than you think," he told 1,000 women delegates to a congress on better living.

All homemakers have to do to get dream-quality homes is to think seriously about their needs and let businessmen and industry know what they want, he said.

Dreyfuss, 54, who got his start designing in the theatre, had some pretty theatrical offerings for the future.

He told of walls that glow, in natural light, automatically dimming or brightening to balance the sunlight, and changing color with your mood.

MOVABLE WALLS

And like stage sets, the walls would be movable, so you can change the shape and size of rooms, adding a nursery when babies comes.

There'll be less work in this home of luxury to begin with. The foyer electronically removes dirt and mud from feet and clothing.

Moulded plastic bathrooms and kitchens, with no dust-collecting crevices, have self-cleaning features. Press a button and a mixture of detergent and water swishes over the floor, dissolves the dirt and disappears down a concealed drain.

Then there's year-round air conditioning that keeps the air in self dust free and pollen free.

Clothes hung in the closets are electronically cleaned and pressed.

Bedsheets and towels will be made of soft cellulose that you can throw away after use.

There's lots of emphasis on food—with spring-loaded kitchen racks that keep canned goods popping forward from the shelves, special refrigerator drawers to fit the food, and dispensers that squirt out a glass of milk or a pat of butter at a time.

Test-away foil pots are featured, also for packages you can just plug into an electric outlet to heat.

"No full course push - button meals, though. Dreyfuss maintains—that probably get a lot of backing—"a meal will always taste better when made by a woman's hands."

This - - - and That

BY HARRIET STEVENS

This is Business Women's Week across Canada and by proclamation our Mayor has requested Belleville to pay its respects to the business women of the Dominion by acknowledging our indebtedness to their contribution locally. The Business and Professional Women's Clubs throughout the nation have an intimate and vital part to play in the country's life and significance mentioned these clubs represent business from two different aspects of society. They have become an integral part of business itself by their active participation in all facets of society. Whether it is the girl at the machine, or the girl who manages a retail business, or the girl who-dies, or the woman who sits at the director's table, or the town councillor or mayoress or cabinet minister—each play her role and her part. On the other side of the ledger, it is difficult to segregate the business lady from the home. For in the homemaker is found the greatest single business factor in the business life of the land. After all she buys better than eighty per cent of the nation's total purchases. She is beyond question the number one purchasing agent fin business. It is no wonder that most of the millions upon millions spent annually are directly spent- to add appeal to purchases for the home.

Whether we have reached the point of acceptance or not is not the purpose of this column to discuss. It is difficult to quibble about the factual realities and it is a reality that women are playing an ever greater part in the life of nations around the world and by honoring the Business and Professional Women's Clubs during this week we simply acknowledge the contribution women are making. Your local club, by its membership in a strong provincial and national organization, makes its contribution and plays its part at all levels of government, business and social life. Recognition of the rights to which worthy community and national partnership entitles them is the concern and the objective of this growing group of responsible women leaders. There is no militant femininity about them.

How could there be! They are interested in the cold hard facts of life, the cold hard facts of the household budget, the firm's budget, the council's budget and the cabinet's budget or, in brief, the nation's spending right down the line. T & T wishes to pay its modest tribute to the worth of the nation's housewives all the time and particularly during Business Women's Week to the Business and Professional Women's Clubs of Canada.

GOING SHOPPING!

And what could be more natural or appropriate, since we have been talking of woman's capacity to spend and purchase, than to devote a few lines about some shopping hints, or trends that will influence your shopping.

Believe it or not, boots will be seen in the best feminine circles this fall. This will be not only for sport, country hikes and football games, but for dress-up occasions and formal wear. They are a far cry from the French and Italian needle heel and pointed toe, but the boots come in rich colors of the rainbow with high heel and fancy trimmings. Even shoe fittings are coming in for glamorizing. It seems that the fashion for tucking-off the shoe has prompted the shoe manufacturer to make the insersoles and linings pretty.

The relaxed look of the newer fall line in women's fashions has extended to handbags. At first look they seem rather formless, but we are told that their abstract shapes are in keeping with new arm movements. They are moderate in size but many have no apparent clasps.

Many of the new fall suits come equipped with their own blouses. They appear with smart low-necked matching under-bodices that allow the casual, unbuttoned jackets to fly wide open.

Shopping for fall clothes can be as exciting as spring shopping, so make it good shopping!

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

PROPER FOR BRIDE TO PROPOSE TOAST TO GROOM

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

At most of the wedding receptions I've attended, the best man proposes the first toast to the newly wed bride and groom. And the groom usually proposes a toast to the bride. But I've never heard of or seen the bride propose a toast to the groom. Isn't this proper? At our wedding reception I'd like to do this, if you say it's proper. — Bride-to-Be

Indeed this is a proper and loving gesture for the bride to make to her bridegroom! I hope you carry out your plan.

UNGRATEFUL GIRL NOW IGNORES THOSE WHO GAVE HER GIFTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

We are a group of 6 girls who have worked together for quite a few years, and we have a problem about which we hope you can help us. About a year and a half ago one of the girls who had worked with us, for 3 years announced to us that she was to be married. As is the custom here, she was given a bridal shower at the home of one of the officers of the company, a delightful occasion with its elaborate buffet. Everyone liked her and so she received many very lovely shower gifts. There we, along with the officers of the company, were invited to her wedding and reception, and again the couple received many beautiful and expensive gifts. A few months ago, before she left her position here to have her baby, we all gave her presents for the baby and again sent presents when the baby was born. So you see we have all spent quite a few hundreds of dollars on gifts!

However, although this couple have a very beautiful and large home, they have never invited us to their home. We all feel that we should have been invited, if only for a short visit and to see the baby. They certainly have the means and equipment (many the items we gave them) to entertain at least once the officers and co-workers of the company — even if only to serve a glass of lemonade. Are we wrong in expecting an invitation? Since her marriage, this girl has ignored all her friends. We all wish you would print this question and your answer in your columns and we hope she will see it.

— 5 Confused Girls

This gift-happy character is obviously such a calculating "gimme girl" that I seriously doubt if she would now have any inclination whatever to change her firmly-established habit of being the receiving-line, or any interest in becoming a person of decent appreciation. She had a very successful career in collecting as many presents as possible from as many people as possible, for as many occasions as possible. You were all shindigs kind and thoughtful gifts, but time for it to get greener pastures, and I doubt very much indeed that you will ever receive an invitation to come to their beautiful new home so you say, for a glass of lemonade.

I doubt that you'll ever be given the opportunity to see how charming all your lovely gifts look in that proud new house! Let's pray that some day she'll come to her senses and learn to appreciate the quality of g o o d friendship and good will. In the meantime, don't hold your breath until you receive that invitation to this ingrate.

SPELLING accidents occur with maddening frequency when children are small. Whether it's a cup or a glass makes very little difference, although a cup with a handle is less likely to slip from young fingers. The best precaution to take is to pour only small amounts of liquid, and be ready with seconds.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Editor's Note: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Isabel A. — I would be happy to have only a few months with him.

Ralph G. — She should find a man who can give her security.

* * *

Isabel A. — I am 33 and have never been married. For the past 10 years I have been in love with a man who does not want to marry. He has a physical ailment and his doctors do not expect him to live until 40. They are surprised that he has lived as long as he has.

I have tried breaking off with him several times, but find it impossible. I always go back to him. I feel that all this is so foolish. If we had married 10 years ago we could have had so much happiness.

I have tried hard to interest myself in other men, but it just doesn't seem to work. I only care for Ralph. Things have gotten to the point where I would be happy if we had only a few months together as man and wife.

* * *

Ralph G. — Isabel is still young enough to marry someone else and have a family. It would be crazy for us to do anything like that. I cannot get insurance and if we had a child, it would be disastrous.

I love Isabel, but I would be happy to see her married to a man who can give her the security that I can't. I agree that it is crazy to go on this way. Isabel is throwing away the best years of her life.

Up to this point I have always tried to pull Isabel back into our relationship every time she has tried to break away. I realize that this is terrible and I am now ready to make a clean break. As soon as I told her I wanted to do that, she said she can't give me up and won't try.

The Council: Many couples have been known to marry under the shadow that overhanged Isabel and Ralph. The fact that illness two have not done so indicates that there is a great strong pull against it on both their parts.

Ralph undoubtedly has a security moral problem. If he really loved he does not want to inflict the harshness of his fate upon her. In spite of that he has been instrumental in causing her to "throw away the best years of her life."

Isabel undoubtedly wants some happiness and fulfillment in marriage. Yet her desire has not been strong enough to force the issue with Ralph or to forsake him and take up a life with another man.

It appears to us that Ralph's physical ailment is just a small part of this problem. Both Ralph and Isabel also have a strong desire to make marriages or they would not have picked the partner most likely to aid them in this respect.

Nobody can tell this couple what to do or which course would make them happiest. It is unlikely that they would be happy with any decision they make unless they right it with a full heart and mind. Marrying in doubt would be as bad as not marrying in doubt.

It may help both of these individuals to get some psychiatric help with their problems.

"Now, dear, can't we talk this over like wife and mouse?"

Cook in boiling salted water, stem end down, until barely tender. Remove carefully and let drain. Spread head with softened butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper and then with grated cheese. Place under broiler or in hot oven, 450 deg. Fahr. until the cheese browns. Carefully lift to serving plate or platter and serve hot.

Life-Elected 15-Member Council for Blood Indians Most Modern and Informal

CARDSTON, Alta. (CP)—What is it like to sit in on an Indian powwow? How do the Indians of Canada's richest tribe, the Bloods, carry on the business of their 305,000 - acre reserve in southern Alberta?

The life - elected 15 - member council of nearly 2,700 Blood Indians is surprisingly modern and informal. The buckskin costumes, painted faces and teepees are gone.

Instead, the old powwow now reflects something of a typical city or town council meeting. Blood leaders gather in a drab, tiny room behind the offices of the department of Indian affairs in the Cardston post office building. Their dress is the usual suit and open-collared shirt.

CIGARETS, "POP"

And a form of the white man's "coffee break" has penetrated the ancient ritual of the once-nomadic council assembly. At most monthly Blood meetings, councillors collect a pool of nickels and dimes and a case of soft drinks is brought in. The traditional peace pipe, too, has given way to cigarets.

A visitor must get permission to attend a council discussion. After that it's a matter of relaxing and listening to debates in both English and the Blood language.

Informality is encouraged by Vancouver-born Alex Brown, 79, superintendent of the large reserve stretching across the foothills between here and Lethbridge, 45 miles northeast.

He attends every council meeting, writing minutes and seldom interfering in Indian business. Shy and hesitant, he addresses councillors as "fellas" and "you lemens." Sometimes he interrupts with: "Well boys, now I suggest that."

Tanned and husky, Blood chief Shot-On-Both-Sides is on his left and other councillors ring the room. A chairman, changed at each meeting, sits at the head. Wearin' Fan, a tall sharp-boned Indian, was picked at one meeting.

ADMINISTER BIG FUND

During the two - day session, with two members absent, the council considered disposition of the band's collective fund which at times has gone over the $1,000,000 mark.

One difference between the Indian and a city council is the members' knowledge of the personal affairs of almost every Indian on the reserve.

"I don't know how they do it, but the members seem to know about everybody doing around the reserve," says Mr. Brown.

Mrs. Ronald Day Chief sipped on lavitation and appealed for repairs to her house which she complained was very cold. Council agreed the family should move into a better vacant cabin on the reserve.

Members, however, turned down a request by Pete Bruised Head for a loan of $7,500 from band funds for the purchase of farm equipment. They told him to come back later.

In other business, council agreed to pay $1,000 for fire insurance premiums on reserve homes; said it would assist Mrs. Dorothy Bullshields to buy a rearing aid if she first deposited one-third of the cost; offered to lend funds for the purchase of Rider $40 a month relief since he became permanently paralyzed.

FARMING FUNDS

The council has its housing, disability and repair funds. Whether more loans can be made depends on how previous loans are being repaid.

Chief Shot-On-Both-Sides had little to say during the meeting. He took detailed notes in a green book. His father, is generally regarded as the one responsible for the wealth of today's Bloods.

The band council also distributes collective funds periodically on a per capita basis. Last Christmas, all the tribe's braves, squaws and papooses received a $25 payment in addition to regular monthly $10 payments during the winter.

The $25 fund gift was the highest cash payment since the per capita scheme went into operation seven years ago so that all the members could share in the collective prosperity. For Chief Shot-On-Both-Sides, who celebrated his 25th wedding anniversary at Christmas, his wife and 10 unmarried children meant a total of $350.

FROWN ON LIQUOR

The council can withhold a $10 monthly payment if a woman complains her husband is spending it on liquor. Otherwise, all Indians receive their regular slice of the fund, a $5 federal treaty money allotment and when possible interest - free loans for homes, cattle raising and farming.

In the summer and fall, the per capita payments are suspended and Indians usually find outside work or sell the reserve's hay for $10-$14 a ton.

The band fund is fed mostly from agricultural and petroleum leases. Farm leases bring in as much as $500,000 annually while revenue from oil and natural gas leases at $1 an acre is $350,000.

More than 42,500 acres of the reserve are cultivated with the band getting one - third of the crop share, plus a bonus of a percentage of the land put out for lease to white farmers. The band's cattle herd is being doubled to 2,000 head and 4,000 cattle are owned by individual Indians. In addition there are 4,000 acres of timber land near Waterton National Park.

PICTON Wants Council Elected for Two-Year Term

PICTON — Electors at Picton will be asked to express their opinion, through a referendum, as to whether members of the town council will be elected annually or for a two-year term. The referendum is to be held in December but will not affect the length of term until the 1959 council is elected.

Electors will also be asked if they favor granting the franchise to all those 21 and over who are not at present on the voters' list. They will not have a vote on money matters.

Councillors Randolph Clapp and Barney Hepburn presented the motion that a by-law be prepared to authorize the taking of a vote for their opinion regarding biennial elections. The solicitor, R. E. Nourse, was authorized to prepare this by-law for passage Friday night.

It was felt that a two-year term would reduce election costs and permit a long range planning program.

Representing the Professional and Business Women's Club, Mrs. Mervin Haight last night gave council reasons why the franchise should be extended to those 21 and over. She pointed out that many sons and daughters are responsible for the maintenance of the homes occupied by their parents but have no vote. In rural areas, members of the owners' family have the right to vote but this is not so in urban areas, she said.

Council made preparations for holding nominations on November 20, and officials were appointed.

U.S. in Diplomatic Dither Over Action of Red China

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Sta Writer

The state department frankly doesn't know what to make of Red China's unheralded ceasefire in the Formosa area, Washington is in a diplomatic dither.

The state department's discomfiture is apparent in the sparse official American comment thus far on Peiping's one-week moratorium in its bombardment of the Nationalist island outposts of Quemoy and Matsu.

The United States has done about all it can do for the moment—offer the cease-fire move a cautious welcome and then begin looking between the lines of the Peiping proclamation.

REDS FLEXIBLE?

For this is, after all, a cease-fire however inadequate, and a cease-fire has been the primary aim of U.S. policy in the Formosa crisis. In that sense, it represents an easing of the deadlock over Quemoy and a sign, however small, of some flexibility in the Chinese position.

What the state department now has to decide is whether this represents a genuine move by the Red China in the direction of a permanent cease - fire and possibly a settlement of the dispute over the offshore islands. This it unquestionably will try to determine when U.S. Ambassador Jacob Beam and Red Chinese Envoy Wang Ping-nan resume their diplomatic talks in Warsaw next Friday.

There is some speculation that the temporary cease-fire represents a Communist response to the Sino - State Secretary Dulles dropped at his press conference last week that the United States might modify its position if there were some sign of "give" by Red China.

GUESS GAME

One curious—and militarily unrealistic—fact isn't overlooked by some Washington observers. That is that the Red Chinese, by halting their fire, are permitting the Nationalists to replenish their stocks of ammunition and other supplies. The net result of this can only be to reduce the effectiveness of the war of attrition they have waged on Matsu and Quemoy since they began bombarding the islands late in August.

They bring up two questions: If Red China really means to conquer the islands, why give the Nationalists a breathing spell and a chance to rally their defence forces? If they intend to start banging away at the islands again next week, why permit the nationalists to bring in fresh shells to fire away at Red guns?

Any number of possible answers are being guessed at in Washington.

One is that the Communists intend to turn this into a permanent cease-fire. This theory is that the Red Chinese, having taken the first step in halting their fire, now will find it easy to leave things that way and continue warfare on the propagandist level.

SWITCH TO AIRPOWER

Another is that the Reds intend to adopt new military tactics. To date, they have made little use of their air force as a method of harassing the islands. Nor have they employed their naval forces to any significant extent. They now may plan to lean more heavily on naval and air weapons. Communist air fights over Quemoy Tuesday may portend a shift in that direction.

But use of air and naval power, since it would carry the Communist forces beyond the confines of their own mainland, would increase the possibility of direct involvement with the United States, which has heavy air and naval forces in the area.

A third theory is that the Communists may have over-emphasized, in their own minds, the fruit that appeared to have developed last week between Washington and Chiang Kai-shek over Dulles' press conference statements. The text of the cease-fire proclamation, with its warning to the Nationalists that the American plan to demarcate a line indicated the Communists may have felt the time was ripe for an attempt to win the Nationalists over to their side.

"TWO CHINA" POLICY

One line of speculation is that Peiping has begun to worry that Dulles may be moving toward a "two China" or "independent Formosa" policy—and that he may succeed. Peiping always has refused to accept such a policy, claiming that Formosa is part of mainland China.

This theory is supported by the stress placed in the cease-fire proclamation on the argument that the bombardment of the offshore islands was part of the continuing Chinese civil war. Peiping declared that "there is only one China, not two, in the world."

Noting that the Nationalists also take that position, the Red Chinese now may be moving into the diplomatic field, this reasoning goes, to prevent Dulles from rallying other nations behind a "two China" policy, which has considerable support outside the United States.
